Makarios Wants U. S. To Stay Out Of Cyprus Tangle

Offer of Top Adviser To Mediator Opposed

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

NICOSIA (AP) — President Makarios opposes the participation of an American adviser in the United Nations effort to mediate the Cyprus dispute.

Makarios said Wednesday the appointment of an American to help UN mediator Sakari Tuomioja of Finland would "include the danger of involvement of the issue in other circles outside the United Nations." He apparently meant the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The United States still fears a war between NATO members Greece and Turkey over Cyprus. It offered UN Secretary-General U Thant the services of a distinguished American—some informants said former State Secretary Dean Acheson—to help the mediation effort.

Tuomioja has been unable to bring the two sides together.

Greek - Cypriot newspapers warned that an American adviser would involve NATO. After the fighting erupted between Greek and Turkish - Cypriots last December, the United States and Britain unsuccessfully tried to get the quarrel settled through the alliance.

REJECTS INTERVENTION

Makarios rejected any kind of NATO intervention, including the Atlantic Alliance peace force, anticipating a settlement favorable to the Turkish-Cypriots.

The Greek-Cypriots consider the 1960 Cyprus independence agreements dead. But Turkey has warned repeatedly it may land troops on the island to protect the Turkish-Cypriot minority. Both Greece and Turkey have limited garrisons on the island under the 1960 treaties.

The Greek government denied Wednesday that it had sent any officers or soldiers to Cyprus to serve than replacements for the 950-man Greek garrison.

A UN spokesman said, however, "certain movements and suspicious activities" by Greek and Turkish nationals indicated that weapons were being smuggled to the island. The Turks were doing most of the arms trafficking, he said.

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Thursday in the Commons that he hopes as a result of current discussions that Turkey won't carry out its ultimatum to invade Cyprus.

Although Mr. Martin's reply to a question was mild, informed sources said outside the Commons that Canada has used very strong language with both Greece and Turkey concerning the possibility of conflict between the two countries.

Mr. Martin talked with Premier Inonu of Turkey in New York and with Premier Papandreou of Greece in Washington last week.

It is understood that the minister told the premiers in forceful terms that conflict between the two NATO countries simply must not happen.

Informed sources said they believe that Mr. Martin's strong words hit home and that there is reason to believe that Turkey won't attempt an invasion of Cyprus.

Red Sniper Kills Pilot on Mercy Flight

SAIGON (AP) — A Co mmunist sniper killed the U.S. pilot of a medical evacuation helicopter Wednesday as he landed to pick up a wounded American serviceman.

Three other Americans aboard the helicopter were injured when the craft veered out of control and overturned after the pilot was hit.

A U.S. spokesman said the mercy flight had been flown to Vinh Long province in the southern Mekong Delta, 53 miles southwest of Saigon.

Eight other Americans have been killed in the last six days in Communist attacks. Four of those speculative things" a reporter's question as to whether he would accept a vice-presidential nomination on a Goldwater ticket.

In reply to a question, Dirksen said he has no reason to believe that Goldwater, as the Republican presidential candidate, "can't do as well or better" than anyone else to help Republican Senate and House of Representatives candidates win election.

Dirksen Backs Barry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Barry Goldwater's name will be placed in nomination at the Republican national convention two weeks hence by Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Dirksen said Wednesday.

"The request has been made, and I have agreed to it," Dirksen told a reporter.

The Illinois Senator, Republican Senate leader, came out publicly for Goldwater at a caucus of the Illinois convention delegation in Chicago Tuesday.

Dirksen said later at a press conference he was first approached with the suggestion he place Goldwater in nomination by a member of Goldwater's staff whom he did not identify.

MADE APPROACH

The staffer, Dirksen related, made the approach "within the last few days," telling Dirksen "Barry is a little shy about asking for himself."

Later, Dirksen said, he told Goldwater he would "give it good consideration."

Dirksen described as "one of those speculative things" a reporter's question as to whether he would accept a vice-presidential nomination on a Goldwater ticket.

In reply to a question, Dirksen said he has no reason to believe that Goldwater, as the Republican presidential candidate, "can't do as well or better" than anyone else to help Republican Senate and House of Representatives candidates win election.

3 Federated Colleges Become Ontario's 16th University

GUELPH (CP) — Three federated colleges here Wednesday become Ontario's 16th university, preparing for the greatest period of expansion in their history.

There was no fanfare as the University of Guelph came into being 90 years after a humble start that has resulted in a complete education-scientific institution.

Instead of attending celebrations, the 1,800 students enrolled at the Ontario Agricultural College, the Ontario Veterinary College and the Macdonald Institute for Home Economics were busy at work that, in the past, was revolutionized agricultural production and marketing techniques.

Outside, workers were busy constructing the latest additions —a $1,500,000 building housing poultry pathology and virus laboratories and a $3,500,000 chemistry and microbiology department—to the 50 or so buildings that will form the nucleus of the university.

But, already, master plans are being drawn up for a campus expansion, including an arts and sciences college, to accommodate 6,000 students by 1970 and a secondary target of 15,000 by 1980.

The foundations were laid in 1874 when land here was chosen as the site for the Ontario Agricultural College. It started with a year-long course designed to teach good farming practices, but graduates grew into a great educational and scientific complex that is the largest of its kind in the British Commonwealth.

A co-educational influence was introduced in 1903 with the establishment of Macdonald Institute for Home Economics and research into home economics sciences.

The Ontario Veterinary College, established at Toronto in 1862 and the oldest Veterinary college in continuous operation in North America, was moved here in 1922, enabling it to direct its research and instruction in co-operation with the OAC.

Scientific research, carried out in the laboratories and on the 600 acres of farm plots surrounding the college, is financed by the Ontario department of agriculture which regards the colleges as one of the province's most lucrative investments.

Previously, degrees granted by the colleges have been granted by the University of Toronto, but only to the master level in various fields. Now the university will grant its own degrees to the doctorate level, greatly increasing its research potential.

Families To Get More Aid

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons today gets a look at the government's youth allowances bill and then returns to the flag debate for the rest of the holiday-abbreviated week.

The bill will provide payment of $10 monthly family allowances on behalf of 16- and 17-year olds who remain in school. There is an all-party agreement to pass up an early-stage debate on it and get back to the flag.

But next Monday the flag issue is expected to be interrupted again for a couple of weeks so the Commons can deal with urgent legislation.

Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday night gave the Commons this order of priorities:

1. The bill creating a single chief of the armed forces in place of three service chiefs.

2. The youth allowances bill.

3. Fiscal arrangements with the provinces.

4. The bill setting up a 12-mile territorial limit and fishing zone.

5. A bill to provide loans for needy university students.

Then a fateful fall.

Don't Worry About Split Canada Gordon Tells British Businessmen

LONDON (CP)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon told British businessmen Wednesday not to worry about a possible split in Canada.

"The great majority of the French - speaking Canadians want to remain a part of Canada," Gordon told guests at a Canada Club dinner on the 97th anniversary of Confederation.

He said Quebec is going through a period of rapid change in which "some extreme and outspoken statements are being made and not only by crackpots and extremists, but sometimes as well by men of influence and power."

Gordon ran afoul of a slip of the tongue midway through his speech when he referred to the proposed new Canadian flag, white and blue flag as being red, white and gold. Several in the audience called, "blue, blue," and Gordon, apparently thinking they were saying "boo, boo," smiled and remarked: "I was afraid of that."

He then passed on to another subject but later in a good laughingly that he did not realise he had made a mistake until after his speech when a number of his head-table colleagues pointed it out.

Referring to repeated British complaints of imbalance in trade with Canada, Gordon said a recent study showed that Canada's anti-dumping and valuation laws in themselves do not constitute a significant obstacle to British exports to Canada.

However, there are technical problems that give rise to unintended difficulties and the Canadian government will give careful thought to ways of meeting these difficulties without creating new obstacles to Canadian trade.

These are problems and "we intend to deal with them."

Referring again to Quebec, he said: "I venture to predict that in the long run when we get through the present period Canada will be a stronger and more firmly united country."

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, June 30, 1964

PRIME Minister Pearson said a federal study of the links between provinces will show the assembly they are mistaken.

Privy Council President Merlin Rifalth announced that seaway tolls will remain unchanged until July 1, 1965.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) renewed the Conservative call for a national plebiscite on the flag issue.

Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra) said MPs have a responsibility to decide the flag issue themselves.

Mr. Pearson said the flag issue must be cleared before Parliament takes a summer holiday recess.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) protested the prime minister was holding a club over the heads of the opposition.

Lodge, Rusk Seek To Keep War Out Of Campaigning

Statements Seen Bid To Silence Goldwater

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Former U.S. ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge says both the United Nations and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization have shown signs of being ineffectual powerless to act effectively to thwart the Communists in South Viet Nam.

But in separate press conferences Wednesday, Lodge and State Secretary Dean Rusk emphasized there is no reason to despair over the South Vietnam situation. Both agreed there is a possibility of preserving the integrity of South Viet Nam without expanding the whole of Southeast Asia in war.

Both also emphasized the importance of placing large United Nations force on the Cambodian border to prevent the Communists from further using border points in their attacks on the South Vietnamese.

Lodge noted that the UN intends to send a three-man diplomatic mission to inspect the border situation. But three diplomats do not constitute an effective control commission, he said. About 1,200 troops may be needed.

So far SEATO, this institution also has become utterly powerless to act because of French opposition to U.S. policies in Saigon. Lodge suggested that while he could not discuss secret strategy, there are a variety of effective measures the U.S. still has up its sleeve "short of war."

Lodge, who returned from Saigon to assist Pennsylvania Governor. William Scranton in the Republican movement, described as "very significant" reports he received that for the first time some rural residents of South Viet Nam are refusing to feed the Viet Cong despite continuing threats of death and injury.

The tone of the Lodge Rusk statements seemed to indicate an administration attempt to play down the South Vietnamese situation which Senator Barry Goldwater has threatened to turn into a full presidential campaign issue this fall.

Urge More Action On Water Level

By CY FOX

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 150 business and government leaders concerned about water levels on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, gave daylong consideration to the problem Tuesday and wound up calling for more vigorous international action.

The meeting took the form of a seminar sponsored by the Montreal Port Council, a private promotional group which believes the water levels have reached a point low enough to threaten the port's prosperity.

The seminar's conclusions, summed up by Council Chairman Andre Gagnon, served to reiterate the recommendations that resulted from a meeting of state and provincial leaders in Toronto Monday.

Those attending the seminar heard E. C. Jones, from the national council, the extension of the las "comprehensive studies" by the federal government, that would serve as a basis for the initial step most often mentioned, the extension of the powers of the international Joint Commission to include regulation of water levels on all five lakes.

Joining in support for this policy was John Turner, parliamentary secretary to the minister of northern affairs and natural resources, who also issued a call for what he termed "a national water management policy."

ARE CONTROLLED

Only lakes Superior and Ontario are "completely controlled" at present, Mr. Turner said, and control would involve the construction of more locks docks at various points for purposes of water storage.

Blistering Heat Drives Canadians To Beaches, Resorts on Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Blistering heat drove many of Canadians to beaches, swimming pools and summer resorts during the one-day Dominion Holiday.

They attended a variety of events as Canada marked the 97th anniversary of Confederation.

The one-day holiday resulted in a traffic slowdown as at least 10 persons died in traffic accidents and four drowned.

Over-the-top heat was responsible for cutting attendance at Parliament Hill ceremonies, although thousands did turn out.

Spectators sat through 80-degree temperatures during the morning and afternoon but were cooled by a slight breeze during the evening's military ceremonies.

Three young marchers from the Evolutionary Movement of Canada paraded on Parliament Hill after midnight Tuesday carrying the proposed maple leaf flag, a replica of the official display of 66 Red Ensigns on buildings. RCMP ordered them off Parliament Hill early Wednesday morning.

The maple leaf flag also made an appearance in Toronto during a motorcade through downtown streets. One car carried a placard saying: "Native Son" "ominous" delay.

Bystanders at Toronto Assembly No. 107, visited Canada on her 97th birthday."

Temperatures in Toronto soared to the 90s.

About 5,000 persons crowded a township park near Ajax, while resorts and conservation areas reported mid - week records for attendance.

Other Toronto events included track meet; an antique car display; baseball games and a blood-donor clinic.

At Embro, Ont., about 8,500 persons from Canada and points in the United States attended annual highland games in heavy weather. The event is a continuation of gatherings of the clans which originated there 129 years ago.

It was homecoming day for some Canadians. Fifty-eight Canadian citizens out of about 1,800 who were attached to Canadian units in The Congo, arrived at Trenton, Ont., RCAF station.

The men,part of No. 57 Signals Unit of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, were greeted by wives and friends.

Drought, Lice Plague Peas As Harvest in Full Swing

The pics of the pea in parched Prince Edward is "Give us rain — or we perish."

Harvesting of the early varieties swung into heavy action across the length of the hilly county.

In some parts the early crop is lower literally. Yesterday lice-killing aircraft swooped low over several fields blanketing them with lethal loose powder.

Two viners placed a strategic points in the county summer with activity some of them into the late evening.

In the fields where the drought in some places has cracked the earth, modern harvesting machinery cut and hoisted the yield into waiting trucks.

On the George Bailey farm a mile northeast of Wellington large transports waited at viners to take the shelled crop to Trenton where it is "dryed."

Donald Bailey said the early pea crop will be fair but he expressed grave doubts over the yield of late peas unless rain comes but quickly.

"Other parts of the district have had some rain" he said "but in this area the rainmakers have passed us by almost completely."

"Unless the rain comes very soon," he predicted, "the crop of late peas will be almost a complete failure."

Because the lack of rain and a plentitude of lice, pea-growers of this district have had their problems.

The lice problem is being remedied but there's little the pea-grower can do about the rain except pray for it.

STRAWBERRIES HIT

The local strawberry crop also felt the effects of the drought.

The raspberry crop will also feel the effect of continued dry weather — even the loss of few farmers who have irrigation, are beginning to worry somewhat.

On the Bailey farm where several acres of raspberries underwent irrigation, a noticeable drop in the water level of the source of supply, a pond, will not affect the two irrigationists who obtain their water from Lake Ontario.

Algae Growth Evident in Moira Waters

Fully four weeks earlier than in the normal season, the growth of algae is already evident in the Moira River watershed.

River Authority officials are at loss to explain the early development of the algae and different reasons are being set forth.

One of the most likely reasons advanced is thought to have been the lack of snow cover on the lakes and rivers last year, thus allowing the sun's rays to start an earlier growth.

Algae in the lakes and rivers of the Moira system could be a problem and if continued could affect the tourist industry, according to Graham Bell Authority official.

Water Level

The water level in Lingham Lake, upstream reservoir in Elzivir, recently operated by the Moira River Conservation Authority, has dropped two feet in the past two months.

Graham Bell, chairman of the Authority's water advisory committee said this week that the discharge rate from the lake has been cut from 45 cubic feet per second to 26 feet per second, as a means of conserving water to support downstream flow during the late summer.

He felt the reduced rate of discharge would still provide sufficient water for users on the Black Creek on which Lingham Lake is situated.

Many Old Actors Still Performing in the Congo

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As the United Nations pulls out of the Congo, it is amazing to realize how many of the old actors are still performing in that bloody African drama.

There they are: Joseph Kasavubu, still president; Joseph Mobutu, still commander-in-chief, and Moise Tshombe—still the question mark.

Premier Cyrille Adoula has resigned and Kasavubu was reported to have asked Tshombe to begin consultations with other political leaders with the aim of forming a new government.

The biggest game missing, of course, is Patrice Lumumba, but it is supremely ironic that the scene still boasts the presence of Godefroid Munongo who as Tshombe's right-hand man was suspected in Lumumba's murder.

LUMUMBA'S HEIR

And Lumumba's political heir Antoine Gisenge, is apparently standing back into position after being held prisoner for three years, not to mention Albert Kalonji, the self-styled "king" of South Kasai diamond fields.

It is fascinating to speculate on what these unusual political figures will do next and how they got around to a ball session.

Some sort of a record for durability can be claimed by Kasavubu, who has been chief of state since the Congo broke four years ago. A commentator once wrote that Kasavubu lived peacefully in the middle of the Congo River and watched "the bodies of his enemies float past."

A UN commission investigating Lumumba's death released testimony of the badly beaten leftist premier grovelled on the floor of a shack and begged for water before Tshombe's mercenaries finished the job.

Tshombe, a state of Katanga—where Lumumba's killing took place—no longer exists as such but generally the political leaders find conditions much as they were in the not-so-good old days, in near-chaos.

One group of left-wing rebels holds a section of Kwilu province, the capital Leopoldville, the Congo capital, and another has seized Albertville to the east. There are many reports of subversion by Communist China.

Among the many ironies of the situation is the new hope placed in Tshombe, a subtle and equivocal figure if ever there was one, who is accused as the tool of European financial interests. Tshombe spent a year in exile in Spain but has also made contacts with far - left Latin forces, even visiting Mali, considered one of the most leftist of African countries.

Mobutu, whose rise from sergeant to general was one of the fastest promotions in military history, is regarded as a firm source of stability in The Congo, although he has an enormous job.

With an army of 35,000, he is trying—now that the UN has gone—to keep order in an area of 1,000,000 square miles, about the size of Western Europe.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Trip To Ottawa

Seventy-two members of the Belleville Senior Citizens' Club travelled in two buses to Ottawa on Tuesday last for the first of their summer outings. They were greeted inside the House of Parliament by Robert Temple M.P. (Hastings South.) Mr. Temple arranged for the group to sit in the public gallery for an hour and observe the proceedings.

They were then taken on a tour of the Capital City with various stop-overs. Points of interest visited included Rockcliffe Park, the RCMP headquarters where they saw recruits in training. While there the group saw the Mounted Police Musical Drive, and the Crime Laboratory. Next they went via the Ottawa Parliamentary Buildings and then to the Federal Experimental Farms. Here they toured on foot the experimental gardens including the Japanese Sunken Garden.

Finally they visited a large shopping plaza for shopping and supper and from there back to Parliament Hill and home.

It made a long day for some of the club, leaving Bellevilla at 8 a.m. and returning at 11 p.m.

Young Partridge More Numerous Than Usual

And the number of young partridge accompanying each mother bird is also higher than usual.

4-H Members Tour Areas in North Hastings

One hundred and seventy-five 4-H Agricultural and Homemaking club members and club leaders spent Monday touring and visiting points of interest in North Hastings. Each year the 4-H members in Hastings County take an annual bus tour to points of interest in Hastings and neighboring counties.

Five buses transported the members travelling into Coe Hill and down the lower Parkway Road to Lavallee Tent and Trailer Park, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Russell Deacon. Here everyone enjoyed lemonade and were taken on a guided tour of the park by Dr. Scott. From here the group proceeded to the Highway Park at Bancroft, where they ate lunch at the picnic tables. Moving along they drove to Baptiste Lake and on to the County Reforestation project at Bird's Creek.

The buses then went north to Maynooth and on to Maple Leaf. Here, they left Highway No. 62 and turned down through New Carlow, Bolter, Fort Stewart, with a stop at McArthur Mills. Travelling on to Detlor and then a stop at L'Amable Public School where a delicious supper was provided by the Detlor and L'Amable Women's Institute.

Mr. Clarke T. Rollins, M.P.P. for North Hastings accompanied the afternoon tour and addressed the members after supper. Following this the buses departed for home with the 4-H members having a better appreciation of the size of Hastings County and the beauty and scenery to be found in North Hastings.

Students Visit City on Way To New York

Bubbling over with anticipation regarding their two-weeks' trip to New York, 21 young high school students from Western Ontario and the state of Michigan stopped off in Belleville for 15 minutes this morning.

The bus load was part of the Oddfellows' 15th annual "United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth" which during July will see buses from all over Canada and the United States converge on New York for educational sightseeing trips.

Hosts for today's busload which stopped in Belleville were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox of Stirling, and Raymond Kent, of Midland, Michigan.

Today's party which stopped in Belleville for coffee, are enroute to New York by way of Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal. Saturday they will go to New York for six days in the big city, including trips to the United Nations and the World's Fair.

Next week they will go on to Washington for sightseeing before arriving back in Canada July 15th, via Niagara Falls.

A Stirling boy has been chosen as the lake the Oddfellows' sponsored trip later in July.

Two Sea Scouts Dumped in Bay, Escape Injury

It was "boom" and they were in the bay.

That was the report of two Park Dale sea scouts on Tuesday evening were dumped into the Bay of Quinte as they were sailing off the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Larry Lewis, 12, of Lemoine Street, and John Kilpatrick, 14, of Maple Drive, were enjoying a sail when as they came about the the lifejacket of one of the lads got caught in the boom. The result — the craft upset and the two boys were dumped into the water.

Fortunately their mishap was seen from shore and a boat was put out to rescue them. City firemen were called and assisted in towing the upset craft ashore.

You're not forgotten father dear,
Nor shall you be,
As long as life and memory last,
We shall remember you.
Ever remembered by wife, daughter, sons and children.

MORRIS — In loving memory of John Morris, who passed away July 2, 1962.

Not just today, but everyday,
In silence we remember,
A token of love and remembrance.

Of the days we will never forget,
Ever lovingly remembered by wife Kathy, Wayne and Terry.

BOOTH — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Lance Sgt. Ruth who passed away July 2, 1962.

The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the loss of one we loved so well.

While she sleeps a peaceful sleep,
Her memory we will always keep.

Ever remembered by husband Vera and family.

BOOTH — In loving memory of my dear mother and grandmother, Ruth Booth who passed away one year ago today, July 2, 1962.

When evening shades are falling,
And twilight draws near,
To one dear heart there comes a thought of you.

If we only could turn back time,
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile,
But they know in their hearts,
We smile,
Our smiles hide all the while.
—Always remembered by Father, sister Mary, brother-in-law and children Linda, Vicky and Joe.

CARDS OF THANKS

I would like to express my sincere thanks to all those who sent flowers, cards, visits and personal calls while I was in Belleville General Hospital. Also to all those who showed so many kindnesses during my stay and so many in fact I would not care to mention them for fear I would forget anyone. Also to all those in nursing homes. Thank you all kindly. Dr. Beattie, Dr. Totten, Dr. Proctor and Dr. Morgan McFarlane. A most sincere thank you. Mrs. Ethel Bishop. 1-p

Major Shuffle In N. S. Cabinet Over Holiday

HALIFAX (CP) — A major shuffle in the Nova Scotia cabinet involving the retirement of Trade and Industry and Fisheries Minister Edward A. Manson and the addition of five new ministers was announced Tuesday night by Premier Stanfield.

The additions enlarge the Progressive Conservative government's cabinet from 10 to 14 ministers, and also involves a change for three present cabinet ministers.

The trade and industry post will be filled by W. S. Kennedy Jones, who gives up the portfolios of public welfare and provincial secretary.

E. D. Haliburton will as agriculture minister resign to take on the portfolio of fisheries, and will continue as lands and forests minister.

N. Layton Ferguson will give up the municipal affairs portfolio while retaining the portfolio of labor.

New ministers are Dr. Thomas J. McKeough, municipal affairs; James E. Harding, public welfare; I. W. Akerley, agriculture and marketing; Donald R. Macdonald, minister without portfolio, and Gerald J. Doucet, provincial secretary.

Opposition House Leader Peter M. Nicholson said he was "rather startled" by the cabinet shuffle.

He said in an interview it was an increase of 40 per cent in the size of the cabinet, which "means 32 per cent" of the legislature are members of the executive.

"Perhaps the government has created so many problems for itself that it needs an army to man the executive."

Luebke Given Five-Year Term As President

BERLIN (Reuters) — President Heinrich Luebke of West Germany was re-elected Wednesday with a comfortable margin to a second five-year term here.

The 69 - year - old president drew 710 votes, far exceeding the necessary 630 needed for re-election. A total of 1,004 votes were cast.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union and East Germany protested the holding of the election in West Berlin was illegal.

But the Western Allies agreed to the two previous presidential elections here and have not objected to this one.

French-Speaking Canadians Set on Winning Economic And Political Independence

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)— French-speaking Canadians are determined to win their economic and political independence from both the United States and Canada, a Quebec separatist told the annual Geneva Park conference Wednesday.

Pierre Bourgeault, president of the Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, said French - speaking Canadians form 83 per cent of Quebec's population but control only 13 per cent of its economy.

He said the Quebec living standard is 28 per cent lower than that of Ontario, and the Quebec annual average income is $1,500 compared to $7,000 in some western provinces.

The reason for this is that the federal government in Ottawa does not serve our interests. It sells wheat to Russia to help the western farmers, then buys Polish textiles in return. In Montreal where we make 57 per cent of Canada's textiles our factories have to slow down.

Mr. Bourgeault said in '57 high school students at the week-long conference sponsored by the Canadian Youth Association of Canada in this Orillia area community.

CAN'T BE BILINGUAL

He said his followers do not believe Canada can be bilingual.

"We are not going to ask for rights or privileges or responsibilities any more," he said. "We are now going to take what we need whether you like it or not.

"We have fought and fought for nothing, nothing but a bilingual cheque. Now we will fight for ourselves.

"You cannot feel what it means to be a French - Canadian in Canada, an inferior being with a valueless culture.

"Independence, he said, would be the best instrument toward internationalism and would not solve all economic problems.

"Quebec must have the right to make its own mistakes.

"Confederation is a complete failure because Canadians have no identification with their country. You Canadians need a revolution too, and I wish you had the guts to do it."

Supreme Court Calls on Judge To Resign Post

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A stunned Oklahoma Supreme Court called on M. S. Corn Wednesday to resign as supernumerary judge after he was sentenced and fined for evading federal income taxes.

The U.S. district attorney said in court the government also had a witness and documents proving that corn accepted a $150,000 bribe. Corn had told a grand jury his undeclared income was gambling winnings.

Corn, 80, and a member of the high court for 25 years, showed no emotion as he was sentenced in federal court to 18 months in prison and fined $15,250.

The judge served on the Supreme Court from 1934 until 1959, when he became a supernumerary judge—one who assists the court part time.

Rifle Pointed At Police Officer Knocked Upward

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — A man was threatened to shoot a police officer with a 22-calibre rifle was subdued Wednesday night after another man knocked the rifle barrel upward.

The rifle was pointed at Constable Thomas Holmes of the Pickering Township police force when John Grimbergen slipped up behind the man and grabbed the muzzle of the gun.

Constable Holmes then grabbed the rifle and subdued the man after what police said was a violent struggle.

Antoon Obdam, 32, of this Toronto-area community, was charged with assault and pointing a firearm.

David Jenkins, a former Edmonton newspaperman, is director and past-president of the Canadian Union of Students. He is a member of the Canadian delegation attending the International Student Conference during their visit to this southern New Zealand city.

The rock 'n' roll singing group from Liverpool were in the same hotel as many of the 250 delegates attending the 11th biennial meeting of the ISC, now in the last of its two weeks of sessions. And the bonanza of shrieking New Zealand girls, noisily adoring their heroes outside, made getting meals in the hotel an ordeal.

As well, the Beatles pushed the ISC off the front pages of the newspapers for a day or two, when they passed through here on a tour of New Zealand and Australia that ended Wednesday.

But patiently edging through the crowds of Beatle worshippers were the heroes of the ISC. These heroes are the delegates from South Africa, both black and white, who dare to fight their government's apartheid policy, and the Angolan students driven into exile because they oppose their Portuguese masters.

HEROES ARE MANY

The heroes are many, including Americans who have taken part in demonstrations for integration. But no girls squeal and faint when they leave or enter a hotel.

The role of Canada's students in this 60-nation organization is to provide financial and technical assistance. Students in Africa, Asia and Latin America are the kinds of Canadian's students.

In a dramatic all-night session delegates hammered out the most important piece of legislation by the history of the organization.

To loud and prolonged applause, they almost unanimously adopted a new charter pledging member students' unions to strive for the ideal of the free university in a free society.

The charter has teeth. Any union that fails to apply the tenets of non - partisan principles of the charter can be excluded from full participation in events of the organization or demoted to less than full status.

Pleads Guilty To Damaging 15 Used Cars

TRENTON — In magistrate's court at Trenton on Tuesday, Harold Casement, 23, of Frankford, pleaded guilty to a charge of committing unlawful damage and was placed on a two-year suspended sentence by Magistrate T. V. Wills.

The court was told that on June 6, Casement was picked up by Constable Roger Camp, after he had damaged 15 used cars in the Herrington and Kidd lot. Windshields were broken by stones, mirrors and aerials damaged. Total damage was set at $600.00 for which Casement has made restitution.

Casement, represented by Trenton solicitor, Wm. G. Weston, testified that he had a "personality" change following an accident two years ago in which he suffered head injuries. He said that he wasn't the same when he was drinking, and was agreeable to being placed on the interdicted list.

In passing the suspended sentence, the magistrate said he would make it a condition that Casement refrain from drinking and that he also make he must report to the probation officer once monthly. Casement was also ordered to pay court costs of $13.50.

Bata Squadron Holds Inspection

TRENTON — Batawa was the scene for the first annual inspection of 732, Bata Air Cadet Squadron, brought to a close their first complete year together. Sq/L. J. McKay ACLO of RCAF Station Trenton was the reviewing officer for the day along with other members of RCAF, and Mr. Doug Wilkie, Provincial Vice-President of the Air Cadet League of Canada.

Members of the sponsoring committee were Father Dunphy, Arthur Duncan, Holt Madill and Joe McPeake. After inspection of cadet headquarters and the squadron the officials picked the best cadet on parade and this award went to Sgt. Blair Elder.

F/L Rowe C.O. from 173 Trenton Squadron and F/S Raymond Bale presented the Intersquadron hockey shield to F/S Paul Duncan of the Bata Squadron. The Batawa boys won this trophy in competition with 173 Trenton-Kingston and Trenton Sea Cadets.

The best first-year cadet trophy was donated by Ames Coach Lines and presented to LAC John Duncan by Mr. Cecil Whitley. This award will be up for annual competition each year.

Branch 100 Royal Canadian Legion Branch donated a trophy for the highest proficiency in the squadron and this will also be an annual award. Mr. C. Hewton, president of Brighton Legion, presented this trophy to Sgt. Blair Elder.

A special thanks to the Trenton Sea Cadets for supplying music for the parade. The Sea Cadets and the Air Cadets also served refreshments after dismissal.

The special guests, officers, group committee members and their ladies journeyed to the Batawa United Church where they were served tea by Mrs. Arthur Duncan, Mrs. Joe McDonald, Miss McDonald and Mrs. Gordon Elder.

Capital Budget Program May Be Delayed

TRENTON — The acceptance of Trenton's projected five-year capital spending program by the Ontario Municipal Board may be delayed by the implications arising out of the rejection of the City of Ottawa's proposal to collect sewer service rates from Ottawa water users by the Ontario Court of Appeal. Trenton's five - year capital expenditures were predicated on the collection of sewer service rates from water users by having the Trenton utilities collect a 50 per cent surcharge on bi - monthly water bills.

Town council had anticipated early approval of the five-year expenditure plans and such projects as the building of an addition to North Trenton school and the 1964 public utilities program hinged on the acceptance of the plan by the OMB.

START SUMMER COURSE

On Monday, July 6, around 40 high school students from Trenton, will start a six-weeks summer course at Queen's University, and, following the course, will write examinations for one or two subjects during this June. Students from Grades Nine to 12 will attend the summer school.

Buses will leave the terminal daily, Monday through Friday, at 7.30 a.m., returning to Trenton each afternoon. Transportation costs are being paid by the Trenton school board.

85 Houses Planned for New Division

TRENTON — Burtidale Heights, in the North Byron (Reid) Street area, should begin to take shape next year, with eighty-five houses planned for the initial stage of the 257-home development. These first homes will be located between Reid Street and Sidney Street Service, water and sewer mains will be installed in this area this autumn, from Sidney Street. Allowances have been made in the initial staging for a parks' area, neighborhood stores and the new public school will be located here.

The provincial-federal government land assembly project is as the description implies, to be financed by senior and Ontario government agencies, which will act in the role of developers, installing services, laying streets, etc., at no cost to the town. Eventually, the development will be handed over to the town.

The project will cost an estimated $625,000, of which the federal government will pay 75 per cent and the province, 25. The sub-division plan has been approved by town council, the streets named and the development officially set to honor Councillor Ross Burtt.

TO BE IN CHARGE

TRENTON — The Trenton Police Commission has appointed Inspector R. J. Rutherford to be Inspector in charge of the Trenton Police Department when Chief F. J. Taylor's resignation is received.

The commission has not received Chief Taylor's resignation but it is expected it will come within a few days.

Last of Military Personnel In the Congo Back Home

TRENTON — A Yukon aircraft of 437 Transport Squadron RCAF landed here late Wednesday afternoon with the last group of Canadian military men out of Leopoldville.

Canadian Army and Air Force personnel left Kamina in the Congo for the past four years. In July 1960 the United Nations asked Canada to provide air support for the UN contingent in The Congo and for communications within the Republic for United Nations civil and military agencies.

Aircraft of Air Transport Command left Trenton on July 28th with powdered milk and canned pork for distribution by UN authorities in the Central African nation.

Canada was requested by the UN to provide an air operations staff and to set up and supervise air movement within The Congo.

North Star aircraft completed the initial airlift of Army signals personnel and their equipment by the end of August.

Regular military transport flights were carried out by 426 Squadron flying North Star aircraft until the end of August 1962 when Yukon aircraft of 437 Squadron began their long non-stop flights from Trenton routing from Trenton via Marville, France and Pisa, Italy.

The Canadian Communications Unit in the Congo was designated No. 57 Canadian Signal Unit and then have served with the unit.

Brigadier Dextraze was commended earlier this year by UN Secretary General U Thant and U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson for his leadership in the successful evacuation of missionaries and their families in the fall rebel resistance in Kwilu Province.

Returning troops were welcomed to Canada by Air Commodore R. J. Lane, Air Officer Commanding Air Transport Command.

Donald G. Green, CD, 50, of Swift Current, Sask., commander of 57 Canadian Signal Unit in the Congo.

Right Objective, Wrong Method

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker wants this study stopped. We think he is right, but the reasons he gives for his objection are wrong.

Prime Minister Lester Pearson says he hopes the study will show that separation would be disastrous.

He is almost certainly right, and if this is true it is advisable the country should know this, that Canadians be in the possession of the facts before they permit this talk of separation to go any further.

For this reason we do not think much of Mr. Diefenbaker's contention the investigation gives the prestige of recognition to "a proposal that by its nature is anti-constitutional."

Things will have come to a pretty pass when a government is forbidden to consider the advisability of any measure which is contrary to the existing constitution. Such a stand bars any possibility of orderly change in the constitution.

Still, Mr. Diefenbaker is right. The inquiry which Mr. Pearson has instituted should be stopped—for the very good reason it can do nothing to improve the situation. If a person is convinced Quebec has been getting unfair treatment from the federal government, is he going to accept the findings of a group of civil servants appointed by that government?

A study by the Quebec Government, or by an independent commission appointed by that government, would be much more useful. Its findings might be believed by separatists, and would certainly be accepted by a great majority of those Quebec citizens who have not yet formed firm opinions on the question of separation.

If the facts are as Mr. Pearson believes . . . if "no close together are we, so interdependent, so inextricably related to each other in the activities that make for a good life with security and prosperity, that it would be utter disaster if the separation of English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians were even contemplated" . . . this would be revealed just as certainly by a provincial inquiry as by a federal one.

The provincial report would have much greater chances of being accepted as true in the circles where, at present, this acceptance is important —in Quebec.

If the time ever comes when English-speaking Canada is trying to push Quebec out of the confederation, then a federal investigation might be helpful, although one by an English-speaking province, say Ontario, would be even more so.

Two Tourist Brochures

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce has issued two new brochures.

We have received copies from the Chamber, with the suggestion that we comment.

We shall be pleased to so.

One brochure is entitled "Information Guide for Visitors to Belleville". It contains a map, always one of the most helpful features of any such pamphlet. This map, however, shows only the downtown area and the main highway outlets. The traffic flow on one-way streets is shown, a most helpful detail. There is, however, no indication of the location of parking lots, a serious omission. The fact that "Bay of Quinte" is apparently an island at the mouth of the Moira River is unlikely to cause any real confusion amongst visitors, even if they arrive by boat. On the other hand showing Station Street, Church Street and Camelion Road to have a common intersection may result in some mix-ups.

The second brochure is called "Belleville Shops and Services Directory." Since it lists only one dealer under automobiles, we presume that businesses were asked to pay a fee for listing and only those which did so are mentioned. Even under these circumstances, though, it seems strange that Ontario Intelligencer Ltd. and Thomas Cigar Store should appear under a common head, "newspapers." Their interests in this field are slightly different, as any local resident knows but visitors may not. It is also confusing to find "Hotels" listed between Men's Clothing and Newspapers. None of the six hotels listed is downtown and when another "Hotels" heading is discovered in the orthodox alphabetical position, the first-mentioned "Hotels" appears a typographical error for "Motels." But it is rather strange to find the downtown hotels listed (two) do not include the one hotel, the Quinte, which has taken a display advertisement in the brochure.

All in all, we think the Chamber could be expected to do better than this!

Ottawa Offbeat

Ol' Alvin Prairie Maverick Frustrated in Opposition

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — . . . notes off the Parliamentary cuff . . .

"Ol' Alvin," as the Conservatives affectionately call their former Agriculture Minister who recently was tossed out of the Commons for defying Prime Minister Pearson and Mr. Speaker Alan Macnaughton, is truly one of the "characters" of Parliament.

He's one among that yearly half dozen or so who make this current crop Session the greatest show on earth since Barnum and Bailey went on the Big Top.

This colorful Prairie politician's maverick look it years to get started, then to come and about 21 minutes to get the old beer-wheel.

Except for time out for World War II in which he had a truly distinguished and well-decorated career as an RCAF Flight Lieutenant, navigating with the Bomber Command, this somewhat eccentric 58-year-old perfume has been longer and harder and with less success than any other politically ambitious Canadian to make it to Parliament.

He began working at it as a poll captain, party organizer, principal of Mitchell's Federal candidate way back in 1926.

And undeterred by a glorious 4-to-1 defeat at the hands of Liberal Jack Hees, he kept pounding away until 1957 when he made it by an eyelash into Parliament.

WIRED FOR SOUND

Making up for lost time, he was in the thick of things in two months, and building him self a showpiece home on a view-lot beside the Mitchell beauty spa — boating, horseback riding, rural commuting neighbor of that well-heeled society belle.

WIRED FOR SOUND

Making up for lost time, he was in the thick of things in two months, and building him self a showpiece home on a view-lot beside the Mitchell beauty spa — boating, horseback riding, rural commuting neighbor of that well-heeled society belle.

Of Al it might be said the only living Parliamentarian in captivity who has wired his house for Muzak. Indeed, it is said Alvin saves his dire for Trade Minister Gordon Churchill as he considers "big-time" enough to warrant his attention.

Truth to tell, Alvin just isn't a farmer — never was one — and at heart is a red hot salesman. That is the root of his acute attack of frustration.

He made most of his sales pitch on wheat to the Soviet, and it makes him a little crotchety to see Minister Harry Hays, the gifted sell grad in the same magnificent multi-million-dollar style.

That's very possibly what could have been sticking in his craw when he told the Chair and Mr. Speaker to go hide some hay when they wanted an apology from him for impugning Mr. Pearson's particular personal brand of truth in the uproar over the blackout of television's version of a "Day in the Life of the Prime Minister."

MONEY FOR—?

Now that the Capital's summertime "show season" has officially started — they're Changing of the Guard Parliament Hill and Paul Martin's hung up his swim trunks at the Rideau River Canoe Club — it's time for another tale about the External Affairs Minister, the only politician in the Commons who makes like a fish.

Com Paul long has been the pin-up politico of mothers in this part of Eastern Ontario.

Almost since the day he arrived on Parliament Hill, Mr. M. has had a membership in the Brantwood Park Children's favorite South Ottawa playground.

There was the year not so long ago, just before Salk vaccine, that one of the recurrent 'scare outs' chased the kids from the use of the water. Rumor had it the river was polluted by the infection of the dread paralysis plague.

Of course it wasn't. But who wanted to take a chance on the word of the local Medical Officer?

So there were the kids and their Moms, sitting on the hot beach and not daring to go near the water.

When down to Brantwood wheeled the Hon. Paul, then Minister of Health and Welfare, and slipped first into his trunks, then into the waters.

With a few strokes he was in the beachful of kids took a collective plunge into the cooling river, and by Wednesday had been posting a sort of guard patrol to keep them out of the water at least knee deep.

If it was safe enough in the eyes of the Minister of National Health, it was safe for "My Johnny."

In South Ottawa they still bless Com Paul and include him in their prayers of thanks, especially the Moms.

How to Be a Success

New York Times

When account arrives it is followed two weeks later by a secretary. The secretary sits at a desk outside the door looking efficient, forbidding and protective.

Almost at once, she turns success into a problem. It would be the kind of problem that is baffling her halls. She must be given work to do so that everyone can see how much work she has of roses. It must also be impressed upon her that she is working for a man who counts for something.

American business culture has evolved methods of dealing with these problems. One way is to give the secretary plenty of dictating. A standard practice is to call her in and dictate a dozen letters before breakfast. It was reminded of something Richelieu once said when confronted with a similar situation during the . .

Or "Take a letter to John Steinbeck, Dear John, Just a note to tell you that I have been re-reading Tortilla Flat with much pleasure." Where and John may resent a total strangers addressing them by their first names, but being gentlemen, they are unlikely to reply unsparingly. Moreover, the letter will make work for their secretaries, and thus, lighten the drain on their own creative energies.

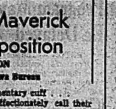
Once a success has impressed his secretary with his importance, she will be on guard against common nuisances who want to waste her employer's valuable time. The problem here is to persuade these common nuisances to come to the office so the secretary can throw them out. Encyclopedia salesmen are very useful for this purpose.

The problem about making an appointment for someone to come in so he can be turned away is that the secretary will insist on making the first appointment. A success who makes his own telephone call rarely makes it all the way to the board room.

In fact, one of the first duties of success is to waste other people's time by personally hanging on a dead telephone receiver. Everyone knows how this works. Dialing the right's feminine voice says, "Mr. Sterling!" "This is Sterling speaking." "Mr. Sterling, this is Jones for Mr. Success!" The line goes dead while Sterling holds on.

Nine times out of ten, Sterling has never heard of Mr. Success, but he is anxious to find out who he is. It is unthinkable for a man with a secretary to call Sterling directly. For anything, Sterling himself must have a secretary, in which case she will humiliate him by saying that her man is in conference. Secretaries have little respect for people who make their own phone calls.



The common practice is to have the secretary place four or five calls, asking each party to hold on, and then go to the waiter counter for a chat with the office boy. This lets all the people holding dead receivers understand how busy and in the cosmic order.

It is not clear why success must have everyone wait on it at the telephone. A man who can afford a secretary should tell her to take a flying leap at the switchboard.

Some people, of course, have no phone manners at all. When asked, "Will you hold on, please for Mr. Success?" they say,

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JULY 2nd, 1938

Emulation of the spirit of George Williams, founder of the Y.M.C.A., to start where he started by exerting the Christian influence in the sphere of daily living, and to pioneer in present day life as he pioneered in his, would be the finest memorial we can say to him, on this the 100th birthday of the Association," the Rev. Dr. A. E. W. Meyer, United Church United Church minister declared here Thursday night in a Y.M.C.A. centenary address.

Speaking to an outstanding representative gathering of city and district civic and municipal business, industrial, religious, and professional heads and their ladies at a banquet marking the 100th milestone of Y.M.C.A. activities, Dr. Meyer urged his listeners to be pioneers in racial tolerance, city planning, the rehabilitation of the armed forces, sensitiveness to every boy and girl who has not had a chance, and the installation of well - equipped playgrounds, schools and dry canteens in all camps.

He deplored the fact that a well-known Toronto club had refused admission to Marion Anderson, famous negress contralto, also to the fact that on every side there is a feeling against 'our friends the Jews.' We want, he said, no racial intolerance or Christianity, else or the names of Y.M.C.A. members from Canada.

A feature of the banquet was the unveiling of an impressive Honor Roll with cenotaph the now in the armed services or who have given their lives for their country. The Roll was erected out by the Rev. Bert Howard who in his pre-unveiling remarks expressed the hope that "our children and children's children may be interested in the arts of peace and not the arts of war."

30 YEARS AGO

JULY 2nd, 1928

Mr. R. H. Bird has left for Red Deer, Alta., where he will visit his brother, Mr. J. H. Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinnear are home from Toronto to spend the weekend holiday with his mother, Mrs. Alfred J. W. Kinnear, Charles Street.

Mr. John Russell and his brother, Mr. Donald Russell of this city, are camping at Moira Lake.

Mrs. Joseph McEwan and daughter, Clare, of Strahan Avenue, are visiting relatives after spending the past two weeks in Toronto and Buffalo.

Mrs. R. Fenwick and little son Alan of Vancouver, B.C., are visiting her parents, the Rev. E. Farnsworth and Mrs. Farnsworth, Bleecker Avenue.

Mr. Norman E. Edwards is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Kells are spending this month in Toronto.

Mr. J. A. McFee is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Johns and Mr. Richard Parm spent a few days camping at Roblin's Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. George Morton of Kingston spent the weekend holiday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Salisbury of West Belleville.

Mr. Frank Harman of London, Eng., is visiting his brother, Sergt. Arthur Harman. Sergt. Harman met his brother upon his arrival in Montreal.

"No" and hang up. Fortunately for the man with a secretary to hang up, these are a small minority.

It is apparent from all this why so few successes ever go on to do great things in life. The job of making work for their secretaries takes every ounce of energy and concentration. Whichever kind of plant gave up the will to operate our millions of cars and other machines, is

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 3, 1944 . . .

The British North American Act came into force to establish the Dominion of Canada on this day in 1867. Under the act, the independent provinces of Canada East and Canada West —which became Quebec and Ontario — and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were united. Sir John A. Macdonald became the first prime minister and remained in office until November, 1873. While the act is frequently referred to as the "Canadian Constitution," it does not provide for all the machinery of government.

Says Oil Made 7 Miles Down

St. Thomas Times-Journal

It's all rot, says a professor, about the world's oil deposits having been formed by rotting vegetation millions of years ago. Oil, he contends in a revolutionary new theory, comes not from plant but from a natural chemical plant seven to nine miles down in the earth's crust.

The man who has dared to challenge the long held belief that our oil came from decaying vegetation under pressure is Dr. Paul C. Marx, a California chemist. To prove who has wondered if it were possible for all the vegetation of ages ago to produce the vast reservoirs of oil known to be in the earth, there is an attractive practical. Dr. Marx has carried on research for many years, especially at the University of Southern California, to prove that oil is produced by chemical action deep in the earth.

He has found that certain minerals, when subjected to great heat and pressure, will produce hydrocarbons, the principal ingredients of petroleum. Dr. Marx has also found that the pressure and heat necessary to produce oil exist at depths of seven to nine miles.

Plastic Contact Lenses Okay for Some People

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Recently I read an article which said that plastic contact lenses are harmful to the eyes, and that there were eight cases of blindness from using them. We are concerned because our son wears them. The optometrist who fitted him said there was no danger. What is your opinion? — Mrs. O.

Dear Doctor: I have been reading about contact lenses causing blindness. My daughter and granddaughter wear them and I am worried. — Mrs. S. S.

Let's everybody relax. I read several of those articles, too, and also some others which followed them. There's no reason to be alarmed, although I do think people should know what to expect if they adopt contact lenses.

The articles mentioned above concerned plastic lenses. There is an obvious reason for using plastic in these lenses: they're light.

Now I am not an unqualified proponent of contact lenses, glass or plastic. Like Dr. Ralph Walther of Los Angeles, I think they are excellent for some people and for some eyes. As an opponent of them, I should like to point out that:

(a) they produce a certain irritation at first;

(b) coquetry, (c) any other reason, except the fact that she doesn't find him appealing.

Most people are so easily swayed (except where their immediate self-interest is at stake) that whoever speaks last in a symposium sounds most plausible to them.

Therefore, it is more embarrassing than profound sincerity coupled with absence of guile.

A confiding alcoholic will giving up smoking and taking up gum as a case of "eschewing tobacco"?

The prevalence of blindness is nowhere more revealed than in a letter written by Henry Adams to a friend nearly two hundred years ago, when the industrial and scientific revolution was only in its infancy: "Some day science may have the existence of mankind. It is only a question of time. It will commit suicide by blowing up the world."

In writing of science, the worst intellectual sin of Marxism is pretending to be a "science." Any school of thought admitting it is a religion; for its scientific pretensions are only millions who think they are thus escaping from religious confines, when they are only embracing a new idiotcy.

In the arithmetic of the stomach, half a loaf is better than none; but in the calculus of the heart, half a love is incomparably worse than none.

Most men are welded together by a common error, not by a common truth. It is truth that liberates the person, but error that consolidates the mass.

Men Welded Together by Common Error

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: Women are more realistic, and less vain, about themselves than men are about themselves. Most a man unresponsive assumes that he is simply not attracted to her; but a man who meets a woman's resistance egotistically attributes it to (a) prudery, (b) coquetry, (c) any other reason, except the fact that she doesn't find him appealing.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market action featured slightly higher industrial prices and little or no speculative activity during moderate morning trading today.

Although most gains were fractional, two issues posted hefty rises. Algoma Central advanced 1⅝ to 35, while Pruehauf rose 1⅛ to 10.

Brazilian Traction was a heavy trader (13,271 shares) and gained 60 cents to $3.95.

Consolidated Paper and Dominion Tar rose as much as ¼ among papers.

Speculative activity saw Marchant gain five cents to $2.40, Northcal five cents to 84 cents and Genex one cent to 41½ cents.

In senior base metals, International Nickel rose ⅛ and Hudson Bay ¼. In golds, Hollinger rose ¼.

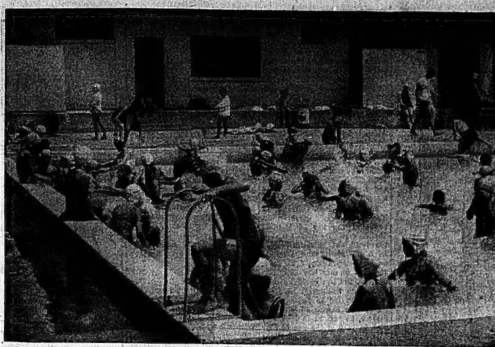
Home A paced oils higher with a gain of ¾ to 20 with Home B ahead ⅛ to 20¼.

Industrials were led higher by a surging banks group, Montreal gained 1 to $65, Royal ⅞ to 74⅝, Toronto-Dominion and Imperial Bank of Commerce ½ each, to 63¼ and 65½, respectively.

Speculative mining issues had a dull day, Genex was traded heavily, but it eased ¼ cent to 41¼. Tombill gave up seven cents to $1.37 and Marchant five cents to $2.35.



Senior base metals were lowér. Noranda dipped ⅛ to 45¾ and, among juniors, Granduc slipped 60 cents to $6. Leitch was unchanged at $5 after selling as high as $5.60 at one point.

Golds edged higher on the strength of a ⅛ rise to Dome at 28.

On index, industrials were ahead .24 to 106.63, golds .17 to 132.02, western oils 1.04 to 99.37 and the exchange index .24 to 146.25. Base metals were down .10 to 63.96. Volume Tuesday was 3,659,900 shares compared with 3,658,000 shares traded Monday.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar, in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.08⅛.

FULL HOUSE — This was the scene at the Kinsmen Memorial Swimming Pool Tuesday as hundreds of city kiddies crowded in to escape the sweltering heat. Pool has been popular spot since its official opening Monday.

AND STILL THEY COME — The Kinsmen pool was incapable of handling all the would-be swimmers at one time. With the pool already full, still more youngsters had to wait their turn to enjoy a cooling dip.

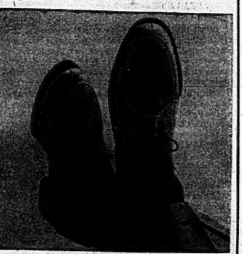
states and the two provinces involved in the welfare of the lakes came from Governor Otto Kerner of Illinois.

R. Levesque, Quebec natural resources minister, and J. W. Spooner, Ontario municipal affairs minister, pledged the cooperation of their governments in action to extend the power of the International Joint Commission.

Also discussed at the session was a project for diverting to the Great Lakes waters from rivers that now flow into James Bay.

Albert Maseyoy, chairman of the Great Lakes Commission, told the conference that informal discussions between the commission's eight member states and the provinces have been going on for 2½ years.



"But we have made more progress in the last two days than in all of these 2½ years," he said.

WANTS DEFENCE TREATY

BOMBAY (AP) — C. Sajagopalachari, former governor-general of India and founder of the Freedom party, advocated Wednesday a defence treaty between India and the United States and the Commonwealth countries. In a speech on "the future of our subcontinent," he argued that such a treaty plus friendship with Pakistan was essential for the defence of India against China.

Parent of Unwed Mother Praises Social Workers

DEAR DORIS — To your correspondent "All-in the Family": We did not adopt our daughter's baby and, heartbreaking though it was to give her away, we now know that she has a wonderful home and will never have the pain of neighbors gossiping about her; because that they will do wherever you live and whatever the circumstances.

DORIS CLARK

Our daughter went back to school and has learned to be a useful citizen instead of another "untrained worker." We have been lucky in that she did not continue to fret about the baby and would certainly commend the social workers in the good work they do, especially in showing young girls how to think out the problems for themselves and not depend on their parents' decision. — ONE WHO HAS BEEN THROUGH IT.

DEAR ONE — So glad of your point of view. I know your letter will help others who face this decision. (If readers would like my article on the subject, write in for "Unwed Mothers and Their Babies," enclosing ten cents and a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

DEAR DORIS — The following may be of interest to you regarding your recent items on nursing:

My eldest sister and I are both trained nurses. Qualifications: State Registered Nurse (R.N.); Registered Fever Nurse (R.F.N.); State Certified Midwife (S.C.M.)

We passed examinations, practical, oral and written, for each certificate, after an education equal to Grade 8 or Grade 9. Our training years were some of the happiest of our lives.

You are not completely wrong about this. Many potential nurses are "passed by" due to the high grades required. I'm proud to have trained "in the Old School." — ONE FOR YOU.

DEAR ONE — Thank you.

DEAR DORIS — Helen has an odd personality. She is not very intelligent but is under the impression that she knows everything. She embarrasses us by her loud talking, which is incoherent, and her giggling. She is ridiculed by her classmates because of her funny color combinations and the old-fashioned way in which she wears her hair.

Helen is very troubled and hurt. She asks us for advice, but when we give her some she ignores it. We would like to give her some good advice for next year we are entering high school. — THREE CLASSMATES.

DEAR WOULD-BE REFORMERS — The colors, the hair-do, I might blame on an old-fashioned mother; but the incoherency suggests a backward child.

She may ignore your advice because she is not hitting on all six cylinders—maybe just three and a half. Remodelling an odd ball takes an expert. Your cue is to offer friendship and an attractive example.

ARRANGE LIONS' MEET

TORONTO (CP) — Lions International President Aubrey D. Green of York, Ala., and three vice-presidents arrived here by plane Monday to supervise final arrangements for the service club's annual convention here July 5-11. Convention speakers include Governor George Wallace of Alabama.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

CARMEL W. I.

The June meeting of the Carmel Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Brintnell with a good attendance.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. Gowthorpe. Mrs. Russell Ritts was appointed assistant district director. It was decided to give a donation to the ball team to purchase sweaters. The July meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Trevorton. Mrs. Harold Pound and Mrs. Percy Reynolds gave a report of the area convention.

Mrs. G. Graham convener of historical research gave an account of the life of William Shakespeare. He was born in the town of Stratford upon Avon in Warwickshire, England on St. George's Day, April 23rd, 1564 his mother was Mary Arden. At the age of 18 he married Anne Hathaway. He lived in London for 25 years where he became associated with the theatre, he retired in 1611 and died in 1616 at the age of 52.

Mrs. Diana Martin convener of education gave a reading on Canadian education 30 years ago.

Mrs. Clayton Sullivan convener for agriculture gave an interesting talk on a bee meeting recently held at the Guelph Agricultural College. She mentioned that the college is becoming bigger with many new buildings mostly for B.A. but are still able to continue with their agriculture knowledge on what they can do with bees. They showed an experiment on the "leaf cutter bee". They have the hives placed near a field of alfalfa hay. They are trying to find if the leaf cutter bee will pollenize the alfalfa hay.

Mrs. Allan Gowthorpe and Mrs. Percy Reynolds were in charge of the program using as their theme "Father's Day". Father's Day is celebrated the 3rd Sunday in June and is becoming as popular as Mother's Day.

Readings were given by Mrs. Harold Elliott, Mrs. Diana Martin, Mrs. Gowthorpe and Mrs. R. Nitz. Mrs. Percy Reynolds and Mrs. Gowthorpe put on a humorous dialogue. Miss Ruth Brintnell conducted a contest and Mrs. John Clarke was the lucky winner and Mrs. Arthur Trevorton and Mrs. J. Lucas were second.

Refreshments were prepared and served by the hostess and her assistants.

Women's Institutes

MELROSE W.I.

The June meeting of Melrose W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. E. Pascoe with president, Mrs. G. Stratton presiding. She welcomed the many members and several visitors who were present and thanked the hostess for her gracious hospitality. The business included several thank-you notes and farewell messages from Mr. S. McDonald and Miss E. Spouse, Department representatives who have been transferred to other districts. Miss Janet Monroe will replace the latter as home economist with headquarters at Napanee.

Copper-tooling was chosen as the short-course to be undertaken by this Institute in the near future. Mrs. C. Bates, Jr. and Mrs. K. McMechan who are on the committee in charge of the swimming lessons for the young folks in the community explained the arrangements made which are to begin on July 1st and continue for two weeks. There was great difficulty in securing qualified instructors and these ladies are to be highly commended for their endeavours in making this worthwhile project a reality.

Mrs C. Hagerman gave a detailed report of the District annual held at Foxboro. Many ideas were mentioned in which the Institute could play important roles.

GUEST SPEAKER

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Buckley, a teacher at R.C.I. who spoke on a popular subject, "County Public Library". Emphasizing the importance of gaining knowledge through reading books he urged us to encourage everybody to read more. This is an era of rapid communication and it is only through the progressive organizations such as the W.I. that a library can be established. He outlined how the Public Libraries Act permitted the creation of a County Public Library if requested came from 50 per cent of the municipalities with a combined population of 25,000. A film depicting the Bookmobile which carries books for all ages with a professional librarian in charge who loans, marks and identifies the various books, was greatly enjoyed especially after the various hindrances encountered in regulating the projector and since the amplifier failed to register we were privileged to hear the commentary. He cited various counties which have recently acquired a County Library, mentioning Middlesex which was formed in 1962 and has made rapid expansion since. He urged us to consider the need for it as the most precious commodity we have is the future generation.

Mrs. Don McLaren thanked the speaker for his most informative talk. Mrs. M. McAvoy dealt most capably with the motto, "Every home is a school, every mother is a teacher." Mrs. H. McMechan followed with a poem and the meeting closed after which refreshments were served.

ADAMS — MOORE

In an all-white candlelight setting in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, wedding vows were exchanged by Jacqueline Ann Moore and Harold Eugene Adams, on June 27th.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Moore of 8 Sunset Drive, Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elwood Adams of Brighton, Ont.

The bride chose a formal gown of white pure silk organza over taffeta with appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace. The slender lines of the skirt in front were offset by billowing fullness in the back which extended into a chapel train. Her double-tiered bouffant veil of pure silk illusion was held by one large rose made of matching organza and she carried a bouquet of arrangement of white gardenias, baby carnations and ivy.

The bride's attendants were: Mrs. John Horton of Kingston, Mrs. Keith McKinley, Osage, Iowa and Miss Ruth Martin, of Toronto, a sorority sister of the bride. They were gowned alike in Copen blue organza floor length gowns, feautring back panels and carried blue daisies.

Groomsman was Mr. Garth Allen of Scarborough, and the ushers were Mr. Donald Phillips of Toronto, and Mr. Francis DeCarrol of Campbellford.

The reception was held in the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte where the bride's mother received wearing a full length gown of Old Country pink lace with small hat of twin silk flowers in blending tones and a corsage of carnations.

For travelling the bride chose a blue pure silk sheath jacket dress with matching hat and a corsage of white roses.

The bride and groom, who are both members of the teaching staff of Moira Secondary School, are recent graduates of the University of Western Ontario. The bride is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

I like David — David the king, the shepherd, the warrior, the sweet singer.

Sometimes, David was bad — but this was because he was a man. Sometimes, David was good, and this, too because he was a man.

DAVID A SAINT

David was no saint — but he could dream. He cavorted and schemed and plotted — but he also dreamed. He dreamed of building a Temple unto his Lord. Perhaps because of his many mistakes and his passionate sorrows, he wanted to live on in history as the man who built for the spirit. But his Lord said no. He would not have it.

But a Temple would be built — built by another, by Solomon, the son of the dreamer. And so it was. David dreamed of building the Temple, but another exceeded him.

And yet, Solomon's Temple is also the House of David. David did not live to see the Temple, but his spirit is enshrined in it. Solomon dedicated what David had dreamed. But without the dream, no dedication.

Few of us reach the lands of promise, and we are often forgotten long before the Temple of our hopes is dedicated by others. But David had a son to whom he gave his vision. In a profound sense, then, the tragedy of David was also his glory. If he had not so nurse his dream fulfilled, his spirit had, at least, made its fulfillment possible.

GREAT TRAGEDY

The great tragedy of death is not our physical departure from the scene. This is inevitable. What pains most is our total absence, and annihilation — a name and a face that are no more completely. This is the greatest tragedy because it is not inevitable. It takes some dreaming while we live, some hoping and scheming, some singing and wishing. Above all, it takes a will-to-live in the hearts of those we will leave behind. Thus, the time to prepare for immortality is while we still live — by the way in which we live.

NO SOLOMONS

No child can be a carbon-copy of his parents. Each must be himself, true to the uniqueness of his own image. But some fathers live on, in the dreams they have communicated to the hearts of their children. Others may build on what they have hoped, but what of it? They are children of a spirit that has not died.

Without Davids, there can be no Solomons.

St. John's Anglican Church Holds Family Service

POINT ANNE — On Sunday, June 28, a Family Service was held in St. John's Anglican Church, Point Anne. During the service the children of the Sunday School were presented with their annual certificates and awards and were as follows:

Nursery class (teacher, Miss Linda Vesper) — Randy Cox, Bobby Grindrod, Teddy Hart, Kathy Spafford, Susan Smith and Mark Smith.

Beginners' class (teacher, Allen Colden)—Nancy Givins, Allen Horwood, Billy King, Gordon Spafford and Dorothy Sword.

Primary class (teacher, Mrs. Doris Mollins)—Dianne Akey, Tommy Givins, Suzanne Horwood, Jill Smith.

Junior class (teacher, William Juby)—Patricia Akey, Debbie Ellis, Hunter Fournier, John Grindrod, Margaret Green, Betty Hart.

Intermediate class (teacher, Mrs. Florence Juby) — Dana Akey, Bonny Branigan, Peter Givins, Cheryl Givins, Janna Hill, Carolyn Mollins, George Smith and Debra Green.

Senior class (teacher, Mrs. Norma Hart)—Dale Akey, Nancy Branigan, Debbie Branigan, Brenda Colden, Philip Fournier, Bonnie Green, Bonnie Hart, Debra Mollins, Cathy Smith and Bill Smith.

Following the service the members of the congregation and friends gathered at Tweed Park for the annual Sunday school picnic. After lunch there were races, scrambles, a ball game and swimming.

After supper the Reverend Everett Smith conducted an evening service on the grounds. The members of the choir assisted with the hymns. The weather was beautiful and everyone had an enjoyable day.

St. John Ambulance Honors Three Local Brigade Members

Three Belleville ladies, each working in a different area of St. John Ambulance Brigade work have been honored for their services. Two of these ladies are sisters.

Mrs. C. D. (Lillian) Ashley, Provincial Cadet Officer has been elevated to Officer Sister of the Order of St. John (O. St. J.) Mrs. Ashley may be credited with leading the high standards and growth of the Cadet work across the province.

Mrs. H. W. (Molly) Reid, Superintendent of No. 150 C Belleville Cadet Nursing Division has been doubly honored in receiving both the Priory Vote of Thanks and being named a Serving Sister of the Order (S. St. J.) Mrs. Reid is a sister of Mrs. Ashley.

Mrs. J. M. (Elizabeth) Porter, Reg. N. Corps Nursing Officer of Quinte Corps and former member of the Nursing Division of the Ottawa Valley Corps has been named a Serving Sister of the Order.

To give some idea of the service behind a St. John Ambulance award we note that Mrs. Reid joined the Nursing Division in 1941 and became Cadet Superintendent in 1957. During her superintendency at a group of 50 to 60 girls, over one third have shown need to professional nursing training; her Division has won the following awards:

Leonard Trophy 1958, 1959, 1960; runner-up Dominion First Aid Competition, 1957; runner-up Provincial Nursing Competition 1958; won the R. H. Back Provincial Efficiency Trophy 1958, 1959, 1960 and runner-up 1961.

Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, Sovereign Head of the Order of St. John has graciously approved honors to five Belleville St. John Ambulance members this year.

Fruit Cake Can Be Frozen

by Mary Moore

You urge me on to greater and more varied efforts all the time and I am grateful to you. On May 26th of this year I gave here a recipe for a light fruit cake that would freeze. This successful test was sparked by our readers. Now I have a dark fruit cake recipe for you which I froze and subsequently sliced and it is perfect. Actually it is the recipe for the 1961 Dark Fruit Cake given here 3½ years ago, which was very popular.

about 3 times with boiling water. Remove from pans to cool but do not peel off wax paper. When cold carefully wrap and store in cool place for 3 or 4 weeks, OR wrap in foil and freeze — wrap and freeze in home freezer. Slices perfectly.

PREFER SDARK

The black fly, the vacationer's pest, prefers dark clothing —there is less chance of being bitten if you wear light colored clothes.

TRUDY

"If I waited until we could afford anything, I'd still be wearing my wedding gown!"

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

Broiled Shoulder Lamb Chops; Mint Sauce; Creamed New Potatoes; Sliced Carrots Cole Slaw; Grapefruit Halves with Maraschino Juice; Tea.

SUNDAY

(Guests)

RICH DARK FRUIT CAKE — (which will freeze — repeated from Nov. 15, '61.

Wet Ingredients: (including sugar).

¼ lb. butter
1 cup white sugar
1 cup old-fashioned dark brown sugar, well packed.
5 large eggs
1 teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup molasses
¼ cup orange juice

Dry Ingredients

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon powdered cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt

Fruits and Nuts:

¼ lb. whole pecans
¼ lb. walnuts whole or broken (OR, use all walnuts and no pecans—½ lb. broken walnuts measures 1 cup)
¼ lb. (2/3 cup) whole blanched almonds
½ lb. (3 cups lightly packed) seeded Valencia raisins OR Muscats
¾ lb. (scant 2½ cups) unbleached Sultana raisins
½ lb. (1½ cups) clean currants
½ lb. (1 ½ cups) mixed green and red glace cherries, whole
½ lb. (1½ cups) mixed orange and lemon peel, chopped
¼ lb. (two 2½" rings) cut yellow candied pineapple
½ lb. (½ cup) chopped stoned dates

In very large mixing bowl or clean dishpan cream the butter well (using electric beater if desired) and cream the sugars into it until very light. Beat in the eggs one at a time. In a cup mix together the almond extract, vanilla, molasses and orange juice. Sift together the dry ingredients which are the sifted flour and spices and soda and salt. Remove 1 cup and mix thoroughly into fruits and nuts. Add remainder of the dry ingredients alternately with the wet ingredients in the cup to the butter mixture until batter is smooth. Add all of the floured fruits and nuts and mix very well indeed. Line 2 average loaf pans with 3 thicknesses of wax paper and butter the surface which the batter touches and fill with batter, pressing it down with back of wooden spoon so it fills corners and is well packed. Bake at 275 degs. Fahr. for 3 to 3¼ hours with waterpan below it during entire baking period. Water pan will need refilling

Premature Baby Wanted For Father's Tax Return

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My doctor told me our baby will be born in July between the 24th and the 31st.

Last week my husband asked if the doctor could be wrong and if the baby might come after July 31st. That seemed like an odd question so I asked what he had in mind. He replied, "July 31st is the end of the fiscal year of my business and I hope the baby isn't late or I will lose the deduction. I felt badly about that remark.

This morning I had a few pains and my husband said, "Wouldn't it be wonderful if the baby was premature?" This really burned me up. He then said most women love premature births so they can avoid those last miserable weeks of pregnancy. He added, "You should be so lucky."

Please set this ignoramus straight on the workings of nature. — MRS. P.G.

DEAR P.G. — The ignoramus may not know much about the workings of nature but I presume he knows his own business.

The normal tax year ends December 31st, but apparently he has received special permission from the Internal Revenue Service to end his tax year July 31.

Now about the workings of nature: A full term baby is best — unless nature or the physician decided otherwise.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Three months ago my husband came home from work and told me he was going to join the Army because he hated his job. Ollie said his happiest days were in the service (before we were married) and he wanted to make the Army his career. He suggested I take the baby and live with my mother until he could send for us. Knowing how bull-headed Ollie is I didn't try to talk him out of it.

For the last month I've been getting letters from Ollie saying he falls in bed dead every night and he isn't as young as he used to be. He hates his sergeant and his feet are killing him. I wrote him cheerful letters in return saying we are all well and happy, hoping to perk him up.

Yesterday Ollie wrote back saying, "Don't tell me how well and happy you are. Tell me you are having a nervous breakdown and that you need me home. I want to get out of here." What shall I do? — MRS. C.

DEAR MRS. C. — Continue to tell Ollie how well and happy you are — plus all the other cheery tidbits you can think of. You might also tell him that since he's going to have to serve his hitch he'd jolly well better make the best of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I are in our middle 50's. Our two daughters 23 and 25, are supporting themselves — one teaches school, the other is a stenographer.

Both girls live in boarding houses, about 30 miles from here — in opposite directions. They come home every Friday, bringing their dresses to be ironed and their soiled laundry for me to wash. They leave late Sunday.

My husband and I worked hard to educate our daughters. He is a laborer and I am a seamstress. Our income is sufficient for us, but nothing is left over for extras or saving.

My question: How much are parents expected to do for their children — and for how long? These girls have many friends over and they consume more food during the weekend than we do in two weeks. Never once have they brought so much as a spool of thread or a box of soap for their laundry.

My husband says this is their home and they are entitled to come here as guests whenever they want to. What do you think? — WEARY MOM.

DEAR WEARY — Girls who come home every weekend with soiled laundry and dresses to be hemmed could hardly be considered guests. Your daughters are living home about one-third of the time whether they realize it or not.

If they wish to continue they should agree to buy all the weekend groceries and do their own laundry.

Woman Earns Partnership In Brokerage House Business By Starting at the Bottom

By GORDON GRANT

TORONTO (CP)—Violet Cook is doing nicely in a man's world, thanks somewhat to the fact that there's no sex discrimination about money.

"You're dealing in dollar bills in this business," says Canada's first full feminine partner in a brokerage house. "If a client loses dollars he gets mad without thought of whether you're a man or a woman."

Petite, grey-haired Mrs. Cook is, in the language of the financial district, a customer's man. There aren't enough women at it to warrant feminizing the term.

As a customer's man, she advises clients and buys and sells securities for them. It calls for market savvy, and her's earned her a partnership in 1961 in the firm of Doherty, Roadhouse and McClaig Brothers.

But breaking into the almost exclusively male circle of 'Bay Street' was a long struggle. She started off 27 years ag. after a divorce, by addressing envelopes in a brokerage house.

HANDLED BOND SALE

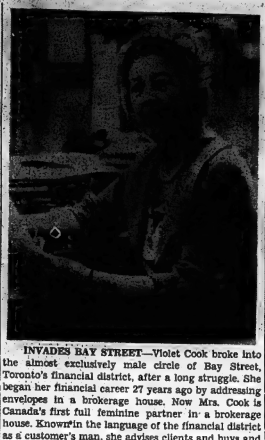
She began lending a hand to anyone who was busy after doing her own work, and eventually got around to all phases of the business. Meanwhile, she took night school courses five nights a week.

By 1949 the firm decided to try her as a salesman, and she succeeded fully handled its Canada Savings Bond campaig of that year. She has been selling ever since.

"I'm having a ball," she says. One thing she enjoys is the fact that a native of London reached her position among Canadian business women.

But she's not all career. "I love cooking and fussing around the house," she says, and she also likes good clothes, sports cars and bridge. She works at public speaking and has appeared several times on television.

About her career, she says: "It took a long time to break down the barriers which confront a woman in a man's world. But generally men do not treat me any differently because I am a woman."



START AFTER 35

She does not suggest that all women go into business.

"I don't think a woman is worth much to business until she is 25 years old or more. A firm can sink thousands of dollars into a woman's training and she have her leave to get married or have childre, and that's money down the drain. By 35 a woman is probably married, if she will ever marry, and if she is married her children will not take up all her time."

She also feels that uncertainty of earning power keeps many women out of the brokerage business, where salesmen—including Mrs. Cook—are paid on a commission basis.

Her own clientele has been built mainly on recommendation. If she makes money for a client, he tells his friends. As to how men accept her advice: "You have to talk to a man on his level. If you can convince him that you know what you are talking about, why wouldn't he do business with you?"

INVADES BAY STREET—Violet Cook broke into the almost exclusively male circle of Bay Street, Toronto's financial district, after a long struggle. She began her financial career 27 years ago by addressing envelopes in a brokerage house. Now Mrs. Cook is Canada's first full feminine partner in a brokerage house. Known in the language of the financial district as a customer's man, she advises clients and buys and sells securities for them. (CP Photo)

U.C.W. Meeting

THOMASBURG—The regular meeting of the Afternoon Group of Thomasburg U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. Dora Morton last Wednesday afternoon with nine present.

Mrs. E. E. Carter acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. R. Vance and the president, Mrs. K. Prindle opened the meeting by reading a poem. Mrs. Marion Morton was in charge of the devotional period assisted by Mrs. Henry Morton who gave a reading. A question and answer period was conducted on the theme of the devotional.

Mrs. G.Boldrick was in charge of the program at which time a poem was read by Mrs. H. A. Morton and a reading by Mrs. Dora Morton.

During the business session it was noted that a contribution had been received from Mrs. N. Reavie for which a note of thanks is to be sent by the secretary; also a thank-you note is to be sent to Mrs. J. Seeking's mother for the hand knit articles which she had contributed to the bazaar. The president asked that every member endeavor to save a "penny-a-day" during the summer months. A meeting of the executive is planned for June 29 at the home of the president. It was decided that six dozen of hangers for the church pictorial plates are to be ordered.

Mr. G. Dyson and daughter, Mrs. T. Boldre were thanked for their kind donation of books with proceeds for sale of these to be used for U.C.W. work; also a floor polisher for the church will be purchased from Mr. Dyson. The president also expressed best wishes to Mr. Dyson who is retiring from the ministry and Mrs. H. A. Morton presented him with one of the church plates. Thanks was also expressed to Mrs. R. Wilson for the gift of tablecloths. It was decided that material for bazaar items would be bought from Mrs. Dora Morton at cost. During the summer Canada Packers labels can be left with the president or with Mrs. Grace Thompson.

The meeting closed and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, after which a social half hour was enjoyed.

The evening group of Thomasburg U.C.W. held the last meeting until September at the Fourth Line School on Wednesday evening in the form of a barbecue with 33 persons in attendance.

Mr. G. Dyson opened the meeting with prayer and the leader, Mrs. Ruth Seekings welcomed those present.

A short business meeting took place after which Mrs. Mildred Preston read a short address and presented Mr. Dyson with a gift from the group.

Recreation was in charge of Mrs. Lorna Coulson and Mrs. Royna Fraser.

The refreshments were served barbecue style by the committee in charge and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Bringing Up Baby

BIRTH COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

The debut of a baby is a happy event, indeed. Smiles reign all around. You feel relaxed and rested. Once home from the hospital, however, try to use your strength sparingly.

- Offers of help are worth their weight in "brothers" for you.
- Simple, easy-to-prepare meals, with things like frozen casseroles, are energy-saving.
- A few minutes' rest before you're tired do more for you than an hour when you're exhausted.
- A change of shoes, at least once a day, is a foot "a" body perker-upper.

Today's babies advance at such a fast pace they're ready for solid food almost before you can believe it. (Usually cereal at first.) Gerber Baby Cereals are specifically designed with your baby's early nutritional needs in mind. All five have added iron and the important B-vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. All five are excellent dietary sources of these important nutrients.

Gerber Baby Cereals are designed to pamper inexperienced palates. Flavours are delicate, the texture is ever so smooth and mix-to-thin. Gerber Rice Cereal is suggested as an excellent "starter."

Chin chat. First-time parents are sometimes a bit dismayed to find that baby has almost no chin. All babies have receding chins. It's Mother Nature's way of making it easier for baby to feed from bottle or breast, and feeding itself develops baby's lower jaw into a good strong chin.

Bottle-fed or breast-fed babies soon need vitamin C for sound gums and other body tissues; the development of strong bones and teeth. Gerber Strained Orange or Apple Juice provide two excellent ways to start your baby on this important vitamin. Both are delightfully mild to these little ones. Carefully strained for easy bottle feeding. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: I was driving to visit friends in the country last weekend and took a wrong turn somewhere. In trying to get back on the correct road, I stopped several times to ask directions. I was amazed at how discourteous the average passerby could be.

One man, who happened to be standing at the curb, was most annoyed when I stopped the car and asked for directions. He said he wasn't a traffic cop and turned squarely on his heel and walked away.

I finally found a signpost which solved my problem, but I was flabbergasted at the response I received when asking directions of nearby pedestrians. I'm writing to you in the hope you might ask the public to be more considerate when strangers ask directions. — G. K., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Answer: Unfortunately, some people just won't take time to show even a minimum of courtesy in even a small situation like this. When a person is obviously lost and stops to ask for help, the least a passerby can do is listen courteously and then, if he cannot be of assistance, direct the questioner to a nearby store or police station where he can receive aid. To be on the safe side, though, it's always wise to have a map handy when travelling in an unfamiliar area.

If one gets lost, it's also a good idea to pull in to the nearest gas station or some other well - trafficked spot, such as a diner or snack place, where the help is used to being asked directions and are schooled to respond courteously and with full detail.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

BY pegg rogers

FROM THE MAIL BOX

Dear Pegg Rogers: How can I become a fashion buyer or a fashion co-ordinator without having to go through the boredom of being a salesgirl? I feel that I am too shy to be any good at selling. But I know that I have good taste and that I would be a good buyer.

I often go to fashion shows and am sure that I could be a good fashion co-ordinator. I know instinctively, what accessories should be worn with certain clothes. I have a lot of ideas for staging good fashion shows, which would be much more interesting than some of the shows I have seen.

I would also like to get to Europe on buying trips. I speak French, German and some Italian, so I would be able to get along very well in Europe. My best subjects in school were languages, art and physical education. I was poor in mathematics and the sciences. I think that I am naturally suited to the fashion business. — Signed E. T.

Dear E. T.: I am sorry, but I cannot agree with you about your natural aptitude for fashion buying. Anyone who is poor in mathematics will not succeed as a fashion buyer. The whole business of buying and selling is based on the science of controlled mark-up. In order to control mark-up and profit ratio, you must have more than a working knowledge of mathematics.

When you say that you are too shy to sell anything, you are further limiting your self because any good buyer spends a certain amount of time on the selling floor in direct contact with her customers. By doing this, she learns what her customers are asking for, where her stock needs additions, what colors are in demand, etc. Good records from high - speed computers will supply this information, but most buyers like to back up these records with actual customer contact.

Your ideas for staging fashion shows are, I am sure, novel, but could you interpret them within the narrow confines of a tight budget? There is only so much money available for fashion promotion and most staging and production ideas can be very expensive.

When a buyer representing a big store goes into the European market, she must work through a buying office. Admittedly, a knowledge of several languages helps, but as these buying offices have translators on staff the ability to speak the language is not all that important.

I suggest that you talk over your ideas with the personnel office of a large store.

Oldest Church Marks 141st Anniversary

PICTON (Staff)—The Church of St. Mary Magdalene, oldest parish in Picton, celebrated its 141st anniversary on Sunday, at 8 a.m. and 11 a.m. services.

In attendance were some three hundred persons who enjoyed an outstanding sermon preached by an earlier rector, Reverend W. G. Hope Swayne. In introducing Mr. Swayne, Canon Wright paid tribute to a man who had given over twelve years of faithful service to the parish. At such a service as this, one remembers all those both clergy and laity who had served God in their generation and have passed to their reward, he said.

After the services many visited the old stones which mark the gravesides of friends and relatives.

This Sunday at 11 a.m. the monthly choral communion service will take place. Boys who have been trained as servers will be commissioned in the Servers' Guild. Those that will be present to assist in the commissioning of the new boys will be the Senior Acolytes Donald Drew, Larry Lenhor, Peter Thompson, George Swaffer, Timothy Arnaud, John Heffer, Eric Wark, T. Shannon, S. Orford, R. Wright, B. Pearsoll, J. Walmsley, S. Schweer, W. Coward, J. Newton, D. Wright, A. Rolston, G. Alford, D. Blower. Also invited are the associate Acolytes, boys who have moved away or have married but carry on associate membership from this parish and who serve at the altar when they return to the parish. They include Neil Purcell, Alan Edgar, John Clarke, Thomas Walmsley, Michael Foreman, William Boland, Michael Boland, Michael Dolan, Daniel Wakelin, and John Newton.

In Olympic Trials

PICTON (Staff) — Sgt. R. A. D. Parker, 23 Wm. Cr., Picton Heights, has returned from Brampton where he attended the Regional Olympic Trials in rifle shooting. Four matches each consisting of 600 points were held. Sgt. Parker placed second with an average of 97.5 per cent. This qualifies him for the Olympic finals in Ottawa, August 3rd and 4th. Placing first was the present Canadian champion, Geo. Marsh of Rexdale, with 98.5 per cent. Both men will compete with other shooters from across Canada and the top two contestants will represent Canada at the Olympics in Tokyo in October.

Sings at Festival

PICTON (Staff) — Mrs. Patricia Taylor, accompanied by Picton Jeweller X. F. Mayhew, performed a number of songs on opening night of Madoc Art Centre's annual Community Art Festival, held Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

In addition to the evening concert a number of exhibits were opened to the public, including Mrs. D. R. Taylor's collection of handcrafted stone jewellery.

Walk at Prescott

PICTON (Staff) — On Sunday July 5th. Boulter Loyal Orange Lodge will make their annual church parade to St. Andrews' Presbyterian Church, Prescott. Joining the Lodge for the march will be members of Lodge 487, Juvenile Lodge 298 and members of various county and district lodges.

On July 11th the county lodges will participate in the Orange Commemoration Day parade at Prescott.

Grant Received

PICTON (Staff) — On Thursday Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital received notice of approval of a Government contribution of $69,879 to aid in financing extensive renovations and new construction work at the hospital. The contribution is made under the terms of the National Health Grants Act.

Lodge

tive source had emphasized in private talks that the U.S. was adopting a tougher attitude and that the Western Allies would miscalculate U.S. intentions if they concluded that the U.S. would not risk a major Pacific war to preserve the independence of South Viet Nam.

Lodge was asked at his National Press Club appearance whether the administration had "gagged" him from being critical about the South Vietnamese situation. He said he had never been gagged by anyone. CAN'T DO IT

As for making the South Vietnamese situation a campaign issue, Lodge, who was Richard M. Nixon's running mate in 1960, said he had "fiddled around" with many issues in his time trying to turn them into campaign material but he didn't believe Goldwater could do it this time with Viet Nam.

Rusk said he shared Lodge's optimism about the South Vietnamese situation. He believed the subject was proper for political discussion since the U.S. had a major commitment in Southeast Asia, under Republican and Democratic administrations.

But he agreed with Lodge that the subject did not lend itself to partisan debate "since we all are stockholders in this project . . . all have a stake in the outcome."

Govt. Plans Comprehensive Study of Economic Ties That Bind Quebec to Other Parts

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday that the government should not ignore Quebec separatists, but instead gather information on Canada's economic ties to show how wrong the separatists are.

He said his office is planning a comprehensive study of the economic interrelations binding Quebec and Canada's other regions.

"It (the study) will show, I hope and believe, how the parts of Canada need each other," the prime minister said at the opening of Tuesday's sitting. He elaborated on it later with a press statement on Dominion Day.

In an apparent swipe at Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, he said it would be dishonest and irresponsible for the government to close its eyes to "the noisy activities of those few who would divide us."

Mr. Diefenbaker charged during the weekend that the government was giving official recognition to a few separatists who did not deserve it and carrying out an "unconstitutional" study of Quebec secession.

STARK COMMENTS

Former justice minister Michael Starr commented that Mr. Pearson "was again forced" to clarify one of his "careless statements."

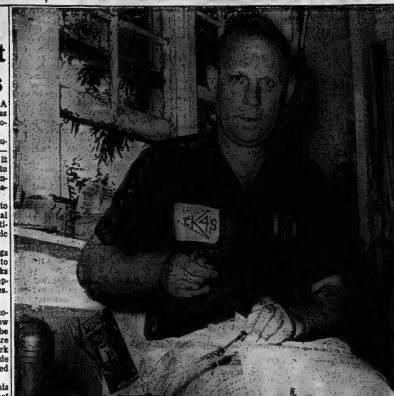
Spokesmen for the three smaller parties endorsed the new study, but disagreed on what it should lead to.

NDP leader Douglas said Canada is in great danger of bec o m i n g "regionalized." A strong central government was needed to apply national economic planning.

Creditiste Leader Real Caouette and Guy Marcoux (SC—Quebec - Montmorency) said it was rash for the government to predict already that Quebec independence would prove unfeasible economically.

Both said Quebec will turn to separatism unless the provincial government is given wider latitude in formulating economic and fiscal policies.

Mr. Pearson said the findings of the study will be valuable to the federal government in talks with the provinces and in shaping national economic policies.



ASK FOR ADVICE

He had asked government economists for their advice on how such a study could best be made. The economists now were engaged in preliminary work and the cabinet would decide later on the formal steps needed to carry out the inquiry.

The prime minister said in his Dominion Day statement that the government is properly concerned about internal tensions.

"Shutting our eyes to the existence of separatist designs and ambitions — even though they are held by a few—would be irresponsible.

"Recognizing them is the first step towards mobilizing our most effective counterforce: informed nationalism, persuaded by facts and reason that even on material grounds alone, the consequences of any separation in Canada make it unthinkable."

SAILMAKER Charles Keeble works swiftly to meet deadline for World Fair

Keeping Canadian Soldiers' Morale up on Cyprus One Of the Biggest Problems

NICOSIA (CP) — The commanding officer of the Canadian contingent serving with the United Nations force on Cyprus said Wednesday he wouldn't like to see 'professional Canadian soldiers left indefinitely on years - keeping operations such as Cyprus.

"It would sort of dilute their ability to wage war," said Banten sized Col. Edward A. C. Amy, 46, of Kentville, N.S., and Ottawa, much - decorated veteran of the Second World War and Korea. He was director of armor at Canadian Army headquarters in Ottawa before being named head of the 1,100-man Cyprus contingent.

In a Dominion Day interview, Col. Amy reviewed the first three months of the Canadian participation on Cyprus and some of the difficulties faced by men trained for battle who must instead use restraint, patience and diplomacy, even under fire.

"I don't know what would happen to a soldier left too long in this environment — or longer than for that matter. If the United Nations 'commitment were different, we might get a training program going to keep the men up to snuff. But because of the nature of the job and the need for alertness, it hasn't been possible up to now."

GET R&R LEAVE

Most Canadian troops have been given regular 48 - hour leaves to visit the seashore resort city of Famagusta and Canadian headquarters on Cyprus now is seeking alternative arrangements for week - long leaves in Beirut.

Col. Amy described the business of keeping Canadian morale up as "a problem, but not a serious problem," and indicated that a recent Canadian government decision to rotate troops after six months has helped to eliminate the major morale factor, uncertainty about the length of stay on Cyprus.

If he was concerned about particular problems facing Canadian troops on Cyprus, Col. Amy also saw advantages.

After United Nations experience on Cyprus, The Congo, Gaza and elsewhere, Canada "will be as well prepared as any other country for future contingencies," the colonel added.

Among specific benefits for the men is bringing them face to face with personal responsibility of a special sort, Col. Amy said.

A senior man in some Canadian outpost here may be a corporal or a sergeant. He must frequently step into delicate situations—in some cases when life or death of Greek- or Turkish-Cypriots hang in the balance—and make decisions without reference to his senior officer.

"It's wonderful training for junior leaders, the junior officers and NCOs, to exercise their own initiative more than in Canada."

The July 1 holiday was celebrated by Canadian troops on Cyprus with issues of free beer, elaborate buffet suppers, special light duties wherever possible, and entertainment and movies during the evening.

Canadian officers joined with the Canadian high commissioner's staff to arrange an international party for hundreds of guests at the Canadian administrative support camp just outside Nicosia. Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots seemed to co-operate by continuing the long spell of quiet which has prevailed in Canadian-manned areas during the last few weeks.

The only disturbance reported during the day was 12 shots fired in an almost routine engagement between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot fighters in the mountains above the Canadian garrisoned village of Krini on the southern slopes of the Kyrenia Mountains 12 miles northwest of Nicosia.

As usual, there were no casualties.

Not Allowed To Telephone Says Official

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP) — A union official said Tuesday that a striker arrested Monday was not allowed to telephone a lawyer while he was held six hours by Metropolitan Toronto police.

George Stevens, national representative for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (ind.), said the union is filing a formal complaint to the Metropolitan Toronto police commission and Attorney-General A. A. Wishart.

John Frederick Carlin, 22, of nearby Mount Albert, was arrested on the picket line at the Amalgamated Electric Corporation Limited plant at about 10 a.m. Monday and charged with malicious damage. He was released about 4:15 p.m. on his own bail.

He appeared in nearby Scarborough magistrate's court Tuesday and was remanded to Aug. 4.

The charge arose from a complaint by Carl Salter of Scarborough, a Toronto suburb, who said he saw two men pulling sugar in his car's gasoline tank June 24.

The union is striking for higher wages and job and union security in its first contract with the plant since it moved from Toronto.

No Change In Tolls Until 1966

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States have agreed to a two-year postponement in any change to the tolls levied on ships and cargoes moving through the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The two countries agreed to wait until July 1, 1966, to decide whether tolls should be raised, lowered or left unchanged to meet the 50-year program for paying off the $475,000,000 capital cost of building the international waterway.

Privy Council President George McIlraith informed the Commons Tuesday that tolls will be left unchanged during the next two years while the toll level is reviewed in relation to seaway traffic.

"At the conclusion of this two-year extension," tolls proposals will be related as realistically as possible to the financial requirements of the seaway entities," he said.

This statement was interpreted here as indicating that Canada will take a hard line in setting tolls in 1966 to cover the costs of building the seaway—as required by both Canadian and U.S. law.

IS NEAR DEADLINE

Mr. McIlraith's statement comes within a month of the July 1 deadline for a toll report to their respective governments by the Canadian St. Lawrence seaway authority and by the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

The two agencies have been negotiating for seveyral months on a common proposal for a new toll structure—with the Canadians urging a 10-per-cent increase and the Americans trying to maintain the present level.

The Canadian plan for a 10-per-cent increase in seaway tolls is understood to have been worked out in detail, based on studies of seaway traffic over its first five years of operation. The Canadians argued that tolls could be increased without affecting the current rising flow of traffic.

However, the tolls will remain at the present level—40 cents a ton for bulk cargo such as wheat and iron ore, 80 cents a ton for general cargo, plus four cents for each gross registered ton of a ship.

TOLLS DROPPED

Tolls on the Welland Canal were dropped in 1962.

Mr. McIlraith told the Commons that U.S.-Canada agreement was put into effect by an exchange of notes between the two governments. The notes approved a supplemental agreement to a 1959 pact between the two seaway agencies on a toll tariff. This original agreement called for a review of tolls in 1964, with a report by July 1.

The minister said the effect of the new agreement is to extend the development period of the seaway for two years. This period now will be deemed to end when navigation ceases in 1966.

Plan Massive Direct Action If Civil Rights Ignored

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Negro organizations will take "massive direct action" in some southern cities which fail to comply with terms of the civil rights bill, says Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King, who has been directing segregation demonstrations at St. Augustine, Fla., stopped briefly at his home in Atlanta before continuing to New York for conferences with other civil rights leaders.

He said his Southern Christian Leadership Conference will urge businesses to comply with the provisions of the bill voluntarily If they do not, he declared, court action will be taken.

King said the Alabama cities of Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Cadiz on, Birmingham and Selma are being considered at present for demonstrations similar to those in St. Augustine.

In other racial developments, civil rights leaders turned their attention to the national political conventions.

The head of the Congress of Racial Equality said a Kansas City that his group would demonstrate at both conventions an attempt to unseat the Mississippi delegation to the Democratic convention.

OUTLINES PROGRAM

James Farmer, national director of C.O.R.E., outlined the group's summer program as the organization's annual convention got under way.

He said the program would include a voter registration drive in Mississippi, Louisiana and north Florida; and a step-up of C.O.R.E. community centres in Mississippi, especially in central Mississippi where three civil rights workers disappeared recently.

Malcom X, leader of a new civil rights group-he calls Afro-American Unity, said the organization has telegraphed King that it is ready to send help to St. Augustine if the federal government does not provide aid.

At a press conference in Omaha, Neb., Malcolm X said his people "are ready to give the Ku Klux Klan a dose of its own medicine in St. Augustine and Mississippi.

"It's time to start swinging. The only thing that stops a man with a shotgun is another man with a shotgun. . . .

At St. Augustine, a group of the city's leading businessmen met and pledged anew to abide by the civil rights bill when it becomes law. They were backed by a resolution from the Chamber of Commerce.

3,600 Civil Servants Get Wage Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Main beneficiaries of salary increase averaging more than $1,000 a week for 7,600 Ontario civil servants announced Tuesday by civil service commissioner D. J. Collins, are laboratory technicians and trade classes, which number 2,500.

The increased salaries—totalling $1,009,000 a year—are the result of reclassification of jobs in all departments. Another series of increases involving the trade classes is expected within a month.

Incidentally, the project also reveals that "sailing under canvas" anymore is just a traditional term.

Brigantine to Carry Sails Made by City Sailmaker

Over the Dominion Day holiday sailmaker Charles Keeble worked overtime to complete one of his biggest - - and more glamorous orders.

The order was to outfit the Kingston brigantine "St. Lawrence II" with sail that will carry her to participation in one of the fair's more colorful features.

Tilled "Operation Sail" it brings together the cadet training ships of 20 nations for an international goodwill rendezvous in the Port of New York, July 14th.

The event follows on the heels of a transatlantic Lisbon-Bermuda race and was endorsed by the late president Kennedy and Prince Philip.

The invitation also meant much work for Mr. Keeble's company, one of the few sailmakers and riggers left in Ontario. For weeks, he and his small staff of specialist craftsmen have been fashioning the St. Lawrence's sails at his Water Street plant.

Over the holiday they had to hire a hall to put finishing touches to the brigantine's massive mainsail - - so large it couldn't be accommodated at the workshops.

Incidentally, the project also

MASSIVE MAINSAIL for brigantine was so big special premises had to be hired where Mr. Keeble could direct workers on finishing touches.

Calgary Man Heads Jaycees

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Bill Rowe of Calgary Wednesday was elected national president of the Canadian Junior Chambers of Commerce by acclamation, succeeding Fred West of New Westminster, B.C.

The acclamation was given Mr. Rowe at the Jaycees national convention after another candidate for the presidency, Val Swain of Kingston, withdrew.

Three Ontario communities—Aurora, Oshawa and Ottawa—received the Alfred Campbell Memorial Award for traffic safety measures.

Second prize went to Jaycee branches in Victoria, Kingsville, Ont., and Brantford.

Railway Chiefs To Meet Pearson And MacEachen

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and Labor Minister MacEachen meet the presidents of Canada's two major railways today to discuss federal railway legislation against a backdrop of a possible transcontinental railway strike.

CNR President Donald Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump are expected to indicate their positions in the current wage dispute involving 100,000 railway workers in Canada.

At the same time, Mr. Pearson likely will assure the railway chiefs of the government's intention to proceed early in the fall with legislation to streamline railway operation and freight rate structure.

Facing the railways is an extra $50,000,000 wage bill over the next two years if they agree to a 13.1 cent hourly increase for their non-operating employees—as proposed about a month ago in a majority report of a federal conciliation report.

The 15 unions, representing railway workers who actually do not operate trains, have accepted the conciliation board report. They also decided to hold a strike ballot if and when the railways rejected the report.

So far the railways have kept their silence.

Delegation Critical of Lack Of Police Patrol in Town

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Municipal Council held its monthly meeting on Monday, all members being present with the exception of Councillor H. K. Thompson, who because of teaching has moved to the Toronto Metroplitan Area.

Several deputations were present to address council, one concerning noise and disturbance, particularly Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. The disturbance caused not only by excessive speed and screeching tires, but also fighting, screaming and swearing. The deputation criticized very strongly the lack of police patrol, also the difficulty in getting in touch with police by phone, or even of seeing a policeman on the street, although Campbellford has four local police and a cruiser. Mayor Tanner acknowledged he had had several complaints recently concerning the police.

Council voted a grant of $600 to Campbellford Recreation Committee to be channelled to Campbellford and Seymour Association to help construct a baseball diamond on the Seymour township fair grounds. The total cost is estimated at $6,000, with the grant from Campbellford council and an equal amount from Seymour council and an estimated $600 from service clubs, leaving a balance of $4,500, 25 percent of which is refendable if land is owned by the municipal body, the Campbell Kinsmen Club plan to do the rest. Seymour fair board has agreed to deed three acres to Seymour council. It is hoped to have the diamond ready for July 1965.

REPORT BY COUNCIL

Mr. Don Barker, engineering consultant of the British Columbia Engineering firm reported to council concerning survey in regard to sewage disposal, sewers and matters pertaining. Mr. Barker had prepared a large scale map of existing sewers. The sewage disposal plant will be such that should the population of the town increase over a period of years to 5,000, the plant would still be adequate. The population now is 3463, somewhat less than in 1962. The cost of such a plant projected is estimated at $378,000, with pumping stations to make a total of $460,000. It was decided that two-thirds of the money could be borrowed from Central Housing and Mortgages at 5% percent; one-sixth of total cost by Federal government, leaving a long term debt of $408,000; annual operating cost $14,500, including payroll, and chlorine, etc.

Some discussions took place concerning the extra cost of sludge disposal which being liquid would have to be trucked away in tanks and probably used as agriculture fertilizer. To dry the sludge the cost would be prohibitive. Council asked for individual copies of the report and also that a copy be sent to the Ontario Water Resources.

Mayor Tanner thanked Mr. Barker and asked him to "keep a needle in those boys up there" presumably the Ontario Water Resources.

In order to raise money for purchase of land for new public school it was disclosed that projected capital expenditure should be handled as echelon, not by raising of money in subsequent years.

Mr. Howard Wilson addressed council in regard to building of Campbellford and Seymour Community Centre. As head of this committee Mr. Wilson outlined cost, site and erection. The site chosen has been on Seymour Fair Grounds, at a cost of between $75,000 and $85,000. The size a split level design 105 x 221, the ice surface 85 x 185, an auditorium 90 x 105. Two service clubs, the Campbellford Lions Club and the Campbellford Legion Branch have already purchased needed ice equipment for artificial ice at a cost of $8,700, and have assumed responsibility for further expenditure.

Lengthy discussion followed as to where the rest of the money would come from. There is a fund from sale of land and old arena of approximately $20,000, on hand. The Centennial grant was discussed as well as Municipal Works Assistance Program.

The committee stressed strongly a fund raising campaign but said the arena should have some construction started to show the actual possibility of the project. On a polled vote council turned down a debenture issue of $50,000. Six nays and two yeas. Councillor J. Torrance the sponsor of the motion angrily retorted, "the high school board gets the money it asks for, other organizations like O.W.R., the same, but when we want anything for the town it is turned down, we are only a collection agency for other organizations".

Dania Pace, committee member, said campaign for funds was already started, captains have been chosen, canvassers would be chosen next and the committee does not intend to stop. A motion was passed that council endorse plans of the committee as to site, tentative building plans, artificial ice and fully endorse plan for fund raising activities.

Mayor Tanner reported he and Mr. D. Maybee of L.O.D.A. had arranged through Royal Bank in Toronto to see two industries in Chicago, the Kempsons of going to Toronto $72.25 added to pay sheet as industrial expense.

Councillor B. Grills reported that on June 9th the town fire truck had been out 5½ hours filling a swimming pool. He also reported finding fire hall dirty, automotive mechanical work having been carried on there, a motion was recorded that the fire truck be not taken out except for legitimate fire purposes except on approval of municipal committee and no person be allowed to do car repair work in fire hall. The fire chief to be notified by letter.

Mayor Tanner's expense to the Mayors and Reeves convention in Sudbury was $136.05. There was no report of the convention given to council.

The question was asked, was Mr. R.R. Thompson still remaining as a member of council. It is understood Mr. Thompson has now moved away from Campbellford. According to section 34, chapter 249 of the municipal act one "must be a householder or a person who occupies and is assessed as owner or tenant and must reside in or within five miles of the municipality. The question arises how can Mr. Thompson return and attend council meetings as councillor when it seems apparent he does not qualify under any of these terms. Mr. Thompson is chairman of the highly criticized police staff.

ACCUSES NEWSPAPERS

ATHENS (AP)—Greece's public prosecutor accused three Athens newspapers Thursday of offending public decency by publishing pictures of women in topless bathing suits. No trial date was set.

Drivers Failed To Stop at Intersection

CAMPBELLFORD — Two cars were involved in a collision one mile north of Patterick's Corners at the intersection of Crowe Bridge Road and tenth concession of Seymour.

Malcolm William Hutcheon, 51, of Hagerwille was driving north and Larry Bert Spry, 20, R.R. 2, Norwood was driving west on concession 10. There is no stop sign on either road and the driver of each car did not stop resulting in the Spry car, running into the side of the Hutcheon vehicle.

Two occupants of the Hutcheon car were injured and taken to Campbellford Memorial Hospital by Bennett's ambulance.

Jean Parker, age 16 was held in hospital over night, Diane Hutcheon was given hospital care and later released.

Damage to the Hutcheon car was estimated at $600 and to the Spry car $250.

Brighton Rink Wins Trophy

CAMPBELLFORD —Twenty-two pairs competed in the Canada Packers Men's Doubles Lawn Bowling Tournament at the Campbellford Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday.

The trophy was won by a Brighton team, Art McConnell and Ben Brown. This is the fourth time this team has won this trophy since it was first put up for competition. Morley Daly of Kingston was high for two wins, Austin Pytnam of Campbellford high for one win.

Lawyer Takes on Bureaucracy

Fighting With 'The Short End of the Stick'

By JOHN LeBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — For a young lawyer whose first client was a shaving lotion addict last year, Allan Mintz is pretty careless of the size of the adversaries he shoves around.

His current zest for excavating prisoners buried under red tape in Toronto's 95-year-old Don Jail is helping warm the federal immigration minister's seat uncomfortably under Hon. Rene Tremblay. It has brought sharp attack in Parliament and the promise of changes in detention methods.

So far, the 28-year-old counsel for Legal Aid, a lawyers' organization for providing free service to those who can't afford to pay, is out front in a series of skirmishes with officialdom big and small.

But he observes cautiously:

"We'll see if I get run out of town on a rail or not. You never know."

Mr. Mintz, a large man who works in shirtsleeves in an office overlooking financial Bay Street, comes by his legal aggressiveness naturally. Before being admitted to the bar in April of 1963, he was articled to the Ontario attorney-general's department under Hon. A. Kelso Roberts, a feuding man who revels in legal or political scrapping.

HELD 96 DAYS

"No one believes this now, but I wanted to become a Crown attorney," he said. But he couldn't find an opening as an assistant prosecutor anywhere.

"Now I've learned to fight with the short end of the stick and I'm enjoying it."

His present concern is with a group of about 20 illegal entrants to Canada whose presence in the Don Jail became known piecemeal after he raised a storm on the discovery of one. Some had been held up to 96 days while awaiting deportation or other action by the immigration department.

Partly as the result of a chain reaction of publicity, they have been getting out one by one, but Mr. Mintz expresses shock at the idea that they can be legally detained for weeks, in an administrative process over which the courts have no jurisdiction, while the minister decides whether they are to face court charges as well as be deported.

"It's strange that a country that consists primarily of immigrants and their children should have such an oppressive immigration law," he says.

"It's tragic that its enforcement should be based on such a complete reversal of all the democratic principles of our law."

Mr. Mintz, a native of Saint John, N.B., whose family moved here when he was six months old, fell into the role of the Darrow of the Don by accident shortly after he had hung out his shingle.

HAD NO CLIENTS

"I had nothing going for me, no clients, and took to hanging around, the magistrates' courts to see how they worked," he said. One night he ran into the man who had been on the shaving lotion binge and got him acquitted on a technicality.

"It was the trial of the century for me and I was hooked," he recalls. From then on he started taking Legal Aid cases and never had a day without one for months. Last November the Law Society of Upper Canada has been paying him as a part-time lawyer for its free service.

Early this year Deputy Governor Robert J. Frost of the Don Jail asked him if he would drop around Saturdays to see prisoners with unusual problems. This informal clinic quickly turned up a man who did indeed have such a problem.

Gerard Bigras, an unemployed Sudbury laborer, had been sentenced by a magistrate to seven days in jail for breaking two windows but was already on his 67th day because he couldn't raise $610 to pay for the damage and post a behavior bond. Mr. Mintz pried him out by getting the terms eased by a higher court.

DEPORTED TO U.S.

Then in May Legal Aid ran across the case of Eric Hooper of Buffalo, N.Y., an illegal entrant who had been held in the Don 96 days without a court appearance after refusing to answer immigration officials' questions. He was turned loose, in the United States, after an even 100 days.

The Don soon started yielding up more prospective deportees. One was calypso singer Harold Nurse from Trinidad, married and with a family in Toronto, who had been held 87 days for lack of $3,000 bail pending an appeal from a deportation order. His bail was reduced to $500 and he was freed.

Six Greek ship-jumping sailors, whose Canadian wives had become pregnant, were given one-year deferments on their deportation orders with indications they would be allowed to stay in Canada. They had been given court trials before receiving short sentences for illegal entry. Appeals were under way for several others, who had had access to legal counsel.

In the Commons, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker called for a royal commission inquiry into prolonged detentions of deportees, but Mr. Tremblay rejected the idea.

CHECK FILES DAILY

Mr. Tremblay told the House that from now on information on all detained persons is to be sent promptly to Ottawa and the file checked daily by senior officials.

"About as useful as trying to stop a typhoid epidemic by publishing the details," commented Mr. Mintz, who said the minister has been insulting the people of Canada.

When Mr. Tremblay reversed himself and announced that a formal inquiry will be held by an independent appointee, Mr. Mintz said he was gratified but added:

"It's too bad they had to wait until the department was under fire before doing it."

Meanwhile, the outcry led the Ontario reform institutions department to hold June to take the unusual action of instructing its 46 jail governors to notify it as soon as they receive an immigration prisoner and advise further if a detainee is being held unnecessarily long.

Mr. Mintz says he feels the trouble is that administrative bodies such as deportation tribunals are "getting more power than the courts ever had, in the name of expediency."

"And," he added, "we cannot afford to compromise the liberty of one ship-jumping Greek for the expediency of 100 civil servants, or 1,000."

He suggests one or another or all of these measures: Judicial rather than departmental proceedings in deportation matters; appointment of an ombudsman, or official watchdog against government - imposed grievances; an airing of immigration procedures before a parliamentary committee.

In any case, he says, if illegal entrants are to be detained it should not be in common jails but in their own quarters. "All these Greeks are guilty of smuggling into Canada is hard work."

Meanwhile, young Mr. Mintz says he's permanently converted to the role of defence counsel, enjoys jostling officialdom—"they have tender feet"—and has no time to take up suggestions that he get into politics while he's in the headlines.

On his 28th birthday, he called up his wife to hold dinner until 6 p.m. A man with his arm in a sling was waiting at the office. He looked like the loser of the first round and a natural for a Mintz client.

ENJOYS LEGAL BATTLES — Allan Mintz, 28-year-old Toronto lawyer, says officialdom has "tender feet" and he enjoys stepping on them. His present concern is with a group of illegal entrants to Canada who have been held for varying periods of time in Toronto's Don Jail.

TWEED

New Chamber Of Commerce Organized

TWEED — An organizational meeting was held at the Municipal Building on Monday night which resulted in the forming of a Chamber of Commerce. Between 35 and 40 men and women representing the business interests of Tweed attended the meeting.

The new slate of officers will be president, Cliff Colton; vice-president, Bill Buckley; secretary — Cartha Cassidy; treasurer, Robert Bush; directors, Heath Jones; Robert Thompson; Robert Hanna; Gil Cordy; Jim Lesage; Clarence Woods; Dick Simon and Tony Quinn.

Proper signs to mark the approaches to the village and a booth for the distribution of tourist information were two projects suggested for immediate consideration. It was suggested that the Chamber of Commerce assist the members of the council in their efforts to have a dentist locate in the village.

Ted Cournyea was named chairman of the tourist information committee along with Gil Cordy and Bob Hanna. Jay Woolfrey will be chairman of the sign committee with Terrance Rashotte and Don Chisholm completing the membership.

Reports presented at the meeting showed that Mrs. Whitfield, secretary of the Lands O' Lake Tourist Association had received some 600 letters requesting information regarding tourist facilities in the area.

Persons and organizations wishing to join the Chamber of Commerce are asked to contact the treasurer Robert Bush.

Kidd Back In Stride, Crothers Wins

TORONTO (CP) — Bruce Kidd, the 23-year-old Toronto distance runner, picked up some confidence in the Invitation Dominion Day track meet here.

In doing so he increased Canada's chances for a gold medal in the October Olympics in Tokyo.

Kidd, who says a mental block has been responsible for his recent poor performances, apparently wiped out that block with his 7th-yard victory over Dublin's Tom O'Riordan in the 5,000-metre event Wednesday. The Toronto runner covered the mile distance in 14 minutes, 7.5 seconds—32 seconds slower than his best time and 1.5 seconds off the Canadian record.

The time wasn't really the important thing. The revenge victory over the slender Irishman was so narrow that both men were given identical times of 1:46.5 seconds.

Only one Canadian record was broken during the meet, run for the most part in sultry 85-degree temperatures and ended amid heavy thundershowers.

Hyiks was der Wal of Hamilton, who recently had a suspension lifted by the southwestern Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union, broke his own Canadian open and native record for the 3,000 - metre steeplechase with a clocking of 9:06.2. He lapped all his competitors in beating his old mark of 10:12.

Jenny Wingerson of Toronto tied the Canadian open and native record of 10.8 seconds in winning the 100-yard event. The record is held by Yvonne Breeman of Vancouver.

Earlier in the day, Miss Wingerson equalled the Canadian open record of 11.0 seconds for the 80-metre hurdles at a meet in Oshawa. In that race she finished second to Marian Bridge of Toronto in a photo finish but both girls recorded the same times, a Canadian native record. The previous Canadian mark was 11.2.

The invitational mile was won by Britain's John Anderson in a slow time of 4:06.8. Toronto's Dave Bailey finished second in 4:09 to edge Bill Dotson of Kansas.

The pole vault, expected to produce at least one vault over the 16-foot mark, was won by John Cramer of Fresno, Calif., with a height of 15½ feet.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

Betty Ingram, three-time woman's club champion of the Bay of Quinte Country Club is having an off-beat battle.

Betty's irons are agreeable and co-operating. But her woods developed a stubborn streak that has thrown her slightly off her game.

"The first part of the season I played well," she told me. "When the three wood started to cut up and the first thing I knew I was coming up with more hooks than a fishing buff."

BETTY INGRAM

The diminutive champion says she can be just as stubborn as the woods.

"Some people under similar circumstances would use something else — but not me I'm too stubborn to play anything else. They are not going to beat me and I'll get over this slump in the next two weeks — or bust."

But Betty's golf is not as bad as she thinks it is. In the Eastern International Tournament held in Kingston last weekend she finished Number 13 in the qualifying sixteen, carding an 85 with a plus seven.

She played with top golfers Sandra Post and the Australian champion Margaret Masters who turned in a 78 and 78 respectively, with plus "ones."

In tournament play she carded an 83 (39-44), playwith Nancy Stoddard of Toronto who turned in an 86 (43-43).

At that she was only one down at the turn and was penalized a hole when she hit "a real flukey shot." The ball struck a tree, bounded back and in turn struck Betty.

She narrowly missed winning the Kingston District championship for the second time in a row, going down before the Kingston entry, Cookie Cartwright, in the final. Betty turned in an 85, two strokes behind the new champion.

Betty already has some notches on her golf gun for 1964.

She won the Cobourg Open with an 83, carding a 44-39. She won the Glen Lawrence Women's championship with a large 90 which included an eight on a par-four hole.

Perhaps the proudest notch on the figurative Golf 45 is the 77 she and hubby Alex turned in at the Trenton Golf Club's "Mr. and Mrs." tournament. This is one of the best—if not the best—score ever carded in a district tournament of this nature.

If Betty and her woods ever get back on speaking terms, she will shoot for a better seasonal record than she had last year.

"That was the year that was" for Betty... Her best feat came in winning the new Women's Invitational, when she defeated a large field of International golfers with a neat 78. It is her best score thus far.

She capped this with her third Bay of Quinte Club championship, although they were not won consecutively. She took home the Business Girls' crown and won the Bay of Quinte Field Day championship, being the first Quinte golfer to win the handsome Mead-Johnson Trophy. She finished a fine second effort with the Trenton Open championship, and the Peterborough Golf Club title with a 78 that defeated Toronto's Mary Gay.

Betty has an impressive itinerary lined up for the next few weeks.

She will seek her second Peterborough title in a row on July 9th. On July 14 she goes to Smith's Falls and two days later plays in the Whitevale Golf Club's ladies' open.

She will play in the Napanee Golf Club's ladies' field day on July 18th and later will quest her second Watertown crown.

On July 22-24th Betty with four other Bay of Quinte golfers will test the tough Scarboro course in the ladies' International tournament. With her goes Enz Cocks, Irene Belanger, Ana Ryan and Billie Trepanier. It is the first time Quinte ladies have played in the Scarboro tournament.

If Betty can win that argument with her woods, she bids fair to top the fine individual record she compiled last year.

RUSS JACKSON SIGN — Wednesday. The club also came to terms with four other members of their 1963 squad. Signing one-year pacts were tackles Kaye Vaughan, Jim Cain, and Roger Kramer and linebacker Jack Nichols.

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Russ Jackson signed a one-year contract with Ottawa Rough Riders, the Eastern Football Conference club announced

Juniors Stop Trudeaus Twice, Tweed Wins

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Ellis Juniors and Tweed Lombanks closed in on the first place Trenton team in three Belleville and District Softball League games played over the holiday. The Juniors swept a pair of games from the slump-ridden Trudeaus Motors team 8-3 on Tuesday night and 6-5 last evening. Meanwhile Tweed stopped the Commercial Printers 4-1 in Trenton last night.

Tweed and Ellis' are now just two points back of Trenton and the Juniors meet the league-leaders in a key game at the CNRA Park tonight, at 6.45. Trudeaus' twin defeats left them in the cellar after six consecutive losses.

ELLIS JRS. 6, TRUDEAUS 5

Wednesday's game was a seesaw affair with the lead changing hands several times before the Juniors won it on two runs in the bottom of the seventh.

A pair of walks put the tying and winning runs on base with Trudeaus ahead 5-4. After two were out, Boyle singled to centre for one run and when the ball was bobbled, the second man also raced home to win it.

Gardiner's infield hit, a walk and wild pitches got the Juniors' first run off Chatland and Malloy also hit safely to make it 2-0 in the first. Trudeaus got one back on hits by Keller and Murray but the Juniors made it 3-1 when Ethier singled, advanced when the ball was bobbled and scored on Gardiner's ground out.

Locke's single, a walk and Plane's double got one back in the third and Kellar's short pop fly also fell for a two-run double and a 4-3 Trudeau lead. Chatland doubled and scored later as Malloy grounded out to make it 4-4 in the fifth. Trudeaus took the lead again in the seventh. They loaded the bases on hits by Plane and Keller, a walk, with McGuire's fly ball chasing in the run. Then came the Juniors' final pair and a homer-robbing catch by Muirhead of Faulkner with one aboard in the eighth.

Bob Boyle pitched nine-hit ball over the first eight innings to get the victory. He fanned three, and passed four. Bob Ethier hurled the ninth, fanning two.

Doug Ellis was the loser, allowing eight hits, whiffing five and walking five.

Mike Chatland doubled and singled and Bob Ethier singled twice for the winners. Sim Malloy doubled, Don Gardiner, Bob Boyle and Larry Soule also hitting safely.

"Pug" Kellar hit a double and two singles and Ralph Plane had one of each. Rick Locke, Bert Faulkner, "Shiner" Murray and Billy McGuire got the other hits.

TWEED 4 TRENTON 1

TRENTON — Lombanks climbed into a tie for last during the first three innings and Blaine Healey pitched no-hit ball until the seventh in a fast game where Trenton's largest crowd of the season.

Healey and Trenton's Pat Maracle, who took over after Orbovs had handed starter Roberts Cole his loss, hooked up in a tight pitching duel. Maracle gave up just one hit in 6 2-3 innings of relief, fanning nine and walking none. Cole had given up only two hits, fanned two and walked four.

Healey allowed three hits in all, two scratch safeties in the seventh and a solid single in the ninth. He struck out 10 and walked one. He lost his shutout and no-hitter in the seventh on a one-out error, Wannamaker's double and Maracle's single-bouncing infield single.

Carleton's infield single, a walk and Gorr's ground out put Tweed one up in the first. Outfielder Carleton made it 2-0 in the second when a walk and another bobble left the sacks loaded. A pair of errors let in a run in Sage's hit, chased Cole and filled the bases in the third. One run scored on Healey's fly and another on an error on the same play. Then came Maracle and the only legal safety off him that was a triple in the eighth. Healey, with one of his best games of the season, fanned in early lead stand up.

Lennox and Addington baseball and singled for Trenton while Al Beaugrand got the other safety.

Giants defeated the Colts 19-15 as only one of five Pewee softball league games was completed on Tuesday night.

All of the other contests ended in forfeited victories. The Phillies and Mets did start their game but Mets forfeited 9-0 in the Phillies in the fourth inning.

Lack of players forced Indianettes to default to the Redlegs, Whitecaps to the Braves and Pirates to the Tigers.

Leafs Win Pair Over Holiday

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs proved Dominion Day...is strictly a Canadian holiday Wednesday as they swept a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs to take over third place in the International League.

The twin victories halted a five game losing streak for the Leafs, but might leave manager Sparky Anderson wondering about his fate when the shoe is on the other foot Saturday, for July 4.

Dave Brostad and Ron Nischwitz combined for a 3-0 shutout in the opener, while Eli Grba went the route for an 8-1 night cap triumph.

Meanwhile, the pace - setting Jacksonville Suns used home runs by Ron Cox, Neil Chrisley and Jack Damasks to whip Columbus Jets 9-6.

Cox's first game Wednesday, Pumpsie Green's grand-slam homer led Buffalo Bisons to an 11-7 victory over Rochester Red Wings, and Richmond Virginians clung to an early lead to edge Atlanta Crackers 5-4.

Tuesday, Lexis dropped a 1-0 decision to Syracuse as Paul Foytack pitched a two hitter, while Jacksonville edged Columbus 4-3. Rochester nipped Buffalo by the same score and Richmond belted Atlanta 7-1.

Sugar Jim To Coach Wheat Kings

BRANDON (CP) — Brandon Wheat Kings have announced former National Hockey League goaltender Sugar Jim Henry will coach the club next season in the new Canadian Hockey League for the first time.

Henry, 46, will spend two or three players to the junior Fort Frances Royals this fall in return for centre Jimmy Johnson and winger Bob O'Leary.

WILL TRY BOTH

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP).— New Zealand's Peter Snell, Olympic 800 - metre champion and holder of the world records for 800 metres and the mile, indicated Wednesday he will compete in both the 800 and 1,500 metres in the Tokyo Olympics. He said he considers Canadians Bill Crothers and Manfred Matuschewski of East Germany his biggest threats in the 800.

Koufax, Marichal Tied In Win Race

Each Has 11

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax just can't shake Juan Marichal.

Or is it the other way around?

Koufax had his greatest season in 1963, winning 25 games. And so did Marichal.

Now Koufax, with seven straight victories, has brought his victory total for this season to 11. And so has Marichal.

Marichal, the righthanded ace of the National League leading San Francisco Giants, got in a little earlier this time, becoming the majors' first 11-game winner in a 2-1 day game victory over Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday.

Koufax, the lefthanded ace of the eighth - place Los Angeles Dodgers, followed suit in a 3-2 night game triumph over Philadelphia that dropped the second-place Phillies 1½ games behind the Giants.

Neither had an easy time of it. Marichal, 11-3 on the season, was touched for eight hits. Koufax, 11-4, allowed five, including a two-run homer by John Callison that provided the Phillies with an early lead.

Downing the Phillies for the eighth straight time, including last month's no - hitter, Koufax struck out 10 batters—the fifth time this season he has accomplished that feat and the 86th time in his career.

Besides Koufax and Marichal, two other pitchers who will be on the National League All-Star team—Chicago's Dick Ellsworth and Houston's Dick Farrell—went after victory No. 11. Neither got it.

Pete Rose's homer in the 10th inning made Ellsworth a loser as Cincinnati edged the Cubs 6-5. Farrell was tagged hard, but escaped without a defeat as New York Mets pounded out 10 hits and whipped the Colts 8-6.

In the other NL game, Curt Simmons won his ninth as St. Louis Cardinals belted Milwaukee Braves 6-1.

In Tuesday's action, Chicago shut out Cincinnati 1-0, Milwaukee edged St. Louis 5-4, San Francisco blanked New York 5-0 and Philadelphia defeated Houston 8-2.

Marichal got all the support he needed in the first two innings as Willie Mays cracked his 22rd homer in the first inning and the Giants scored again in the second against Bob Veale on consecutive doubles by Del Crandall and Jose Pagan.

Callison's homer in the fourth inning, following a triple by Cookie Rojas, gave the Phillies and Dennis Bennett a 2-0 lead. But Bennett, 8-6, couldn't hold it.

SCORE IN FIFTH

The Dodgers scored in the fifth, on a walk, John Roseboro's single and a ground out, then pulled ahead with two runs in the sixth on singles by Maury Wills, Willie Davis and Ron Fairly.

Ron Santo hit his 14th and 15th homers and Billy Williams collected his 19th as the Cubs built a 5-1 lead going into the ninth against the Reds.

Errors by Andre Rodgers and Ellsworth led to four unearned runs in the ninth, two scoring on Deron Johnson's triple, before Rose came up with two out in the 10th and tagged Ellsworth with his seventh loss.

Farrell, 10-2, was trying for his first victory since June 14 but gave up nine hits and had to leave in the third inning.

Ed Kranepool slapped a single, double and triple for the Mets, Larry Elliot collected a homer and two singles and John Stephenson stroked three singles. Walt Bond hit two homers for the Colts and Bob Aspromonte one.

Simmons, 9-6, got all the support he needed from Julian Javier, who singled in the first run in the Cardinals' three-run second inning and hit a three-run homer in the third inning.

The Braves spoiled Simmons' shutout bid in the ninth when Hank Aaron doubled and came around on a fly ball and an infield out.

After Four Games

City Hotel Still On Top

City Hotel blanked Barrage Landscapers 5-0 to hang on to first place in the Commercial Softball League at four games were played on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, in other games, Barrages slipped Black Diamond Cheese 7-6, Ter-Haar Daubers edged Belvedere Hotel 5-3 and Lightfoot Construction shutout Point Anne Cementmen 4-0.

Lightfoots got a great pitching chore from George Young, who stopped Point Anne on one hit, a single by Harry Powell in the seventh inning. The only other Point Anne base runner came on a walk in the sixth. Young blew third strikes past nine in the season's best-pitched game.

The winners scored two runs in the second and singletons in the sixth and seventh innings. Don Smith and Doug Rose hit bases-empty homers, both in the second frame, while Smith also had a double and single. Other Lightfoot hits went to Jim Sheridan, Don Dolan, Jack Whiting, Jack Caddick and John Hazard.

Morris Kimet hurled nine-hit ball for the losers, fanning ones and walking two.

Batteries — G. Young and J. Sheridan; M. Kimet and E. Maher, D. Akey (6).

Barrages used Genereaux, Harvey and Coolen on the mound while nipping Black Diamond on Tuesday. They gave up eight hits, fanned one and walked five.

Mill Haas was tagged for 11 hits on the Cheesemen's hilltop, whiffing two and walking none.

Bill Cooney, Joe Harvey, Gordie Duff and Rod Turner each had two Landscaper hits, Jim Sopha, Tom Coolen and Gerry Genereaux getting the others.

Doug Archer slammed a home run and two singles for Black Diamond. Crutchshank had two hits, Douglas, Gilby and T. Kelly one apiece.

In Wednesday's battle for top spot, City Hotel scored all their runs in the final three frames to blank Barrages.

Joe Harvey allowed eight hits in defeat, whiffing three and walking none.

Moe Hawkins hit a home run and a single, Doug Holl a double and triple and Smith two singles to spark the City Hotel hitters. Doug Morsan and J. Martin got the other base knocks.

Jeffrey, pitched five-hit ball, fanning one and walking three, for the winners. Hughes gave up six hits, whiffed four and walked four in defeat.

Jeffrey led his own attack with a home run and single. R. Lucas also homered, D. Moore had two singles and Little a triple.

J. Clapp hit safely twice for Belvedere, McLeod doubled, Ryan and Perry got the other safeties.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Wednesday launched Cosmos 34, an earth satellite carrying scientific instruments "to continue space explorations," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

All-Australian Final

McKinley Eliminated By Stolle

WIMBLEDON (CP) — Much to the embarrassment of Australian lawn tennis officials, there will be an all-Australian final in the men's singles at Wimbledon.

Odd? Not really. The finalists, top-seeded Roy Emerson and No. 6 seed Fred Stolle, are on the Aussie tennis blacklist and have been banned from playing on Australia's 1964 Davis Cup team.

The Australian Lawn Tennis Association barred them from the Davis Cup because they were among the "rebels" who ignored an LTA rule that players should not compete abroad before March 1.

In Sydney, Australia, the sports editor of The Sun said the outcome in the men's singles was "the last straw" for the Aussie tennis bigwigs and that the council members of the LTA were the "unhappiest 15 men" in Australia.

15 GIANT-KILLER

In a two-hour and 20-minute thriller, Stolle proved to be the giant-killer of the tournament by eliminating defending champion Chuck McKinley of the United States in the semi-finals Wednesday 4-6, 10-8, 9-7, 6-4. McKinley had defeated Stolle in the final last year.

Emerson, playing the finest tennis of the tournament, reached the final for the first time in 11 tries by overcoming William Bungert of West Germany 6-3, 15-13, 6-0. Bungert up-set Emerson in the quarter-finals a year ago.

Today there could be another all-Australian final in the women's singles outcome.

CANADA SECOND

BISLEY, England (Reuters) — Australia scored 1,108 out of a possible 1,200 points and won a practice match Wednesday for Commonwealth and other teams taking part in next week's National Rifle Shooting Association meeting here. Canada was second with 1,104 points.

TEBBETTS COMING BACK

CLEVELAND (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland Indians manager who suffered a heart attack in spring training April 1, said Wednesday he plans to rejoin the team in Chicago Friday and "gradually ease myself into full responsibility of club."

Twins Bomb Bosox 14-3

Birds Clip Angels Wings; A's Nip Yanks

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mark Sept. 20 down on your calendar, Hank Aguirre.

If you maintain your present pace, that's the day you'll win your next game.

Aguirre recorded his second victory of the season Wednesday night, pitching a three-hitter as Detroit Tigers stopped Cleveland Indians 5-1.

The 33-year-old lefty hadn't won for 45 days, since he beat the Indians 3-1 May 17. And it took him 25 days after his first start this year to earn that triumph.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore Orioles defeated Los Angeles Angels 4-3, Kansas City Athletics edged New York Yankees 5-4 in 11 innings, Chicago White Sox nipped Washington Senators 8-6 and 2-1 and Minnesota Twins bombed Boston Red Sox 14-3.

In Tuesday's action, the Yankees swept a doubleheader from Los Angeles 4-0 and 3-2, Minnesota defeated Baltimore 3-1, Chicago clubbed Cleveland 13-3, Kansas City edged Boston 2-1 and Washington downed Detroit 6-5.

Smith — homer tied the game 1-1 but Bubba Phillips stroked a homer in the fifth inning for the deciding run. Phillips singled in the eighth and dashed home from first base on Jerry Lumpe's single.

DRIVES IN WINNER

Baltimore erupted for three runs in the eighth for their 11th victory in 13 games. Jackie Brandt singled home the tying and winning run with a single after Willie Kirkland and Jerry Adair singled and were sacrificed along. The Angels had taken a 2-1 lead in the eighth on Bob Perry's run - scoring double.

Bill Bryan's 11th - inning homer off Ralph Terry carried the Athletics past the Yankees. Kansas City had grabbed a 4-3 lead in the ninth on run-producing singles by Wayne Causey and George Williams. But Joe Pepitone's single, a double by Johnny Blanchard and Tony Kubek's sacrifice fly sent the game into the 10th.

Joel Horlen hurled a five-hitter for the White Sox in the second game of their doubleheader. Three of the Senators' hits never left the field. Chicago scored in the sixth on a double by Jim Landis and Pete Ward's single and in the seventh when Tom McCraw tripled and Gerry McNertney hit a sacrifice fly.

Singles by Joe Cunningham and Ron Hansen drove in two seventh-inning runs that erased Washington's 7-6 lead in the opener. The Senators had jumped in front in their seventh as Jim King clouted a two-run homer and pinch hitter Don Lock connected with two on.

Bob Allison drove in five runs with two doubles in the Twins' seven-run fourth inning and got a two-run homer in the ninth. The outburst in the fourth was Minnesota's biggest of the season.

Jim Grant won his fourth game against five defeats.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Success Jean was untroubled by a tough post position and muddy track in trying to a four-length win in the Long Branch Stakes Pace Wednesday at Greenwood Raceway.

With 24-year-old owner Herve Filion in the sulky, Success Jean was driven amid the field of 12 horses in the seven - furlong event worth $5,220 on the hollway card before 6,316 fans.

A daily double of $25.10 came up when Riddelworth owned by Verne Hicks of Greenwood won the first race, and 8 Perennial won in the second race.

Minor Baseball Results

In regular minor baseball games on Tuesday and Wednesday, Jaycees defeated Fountain Park 8-4 in a Peewee tilt while in Tyke action Jaycees lopped the Yankees 10-7 and Boller's Little Giants nipped the CNR Firemen 8-3.

Daryl Demers hurled the Jaycees' Peewee win, giving up seven hits, striking out nine and walking four. Paul Hall was his catcher. Jim Wood lost for Fountain Park, combed for 14 hits while fanning six and pasing two. Ed Christopher was his catcher.

D. Demers hit three Jaycee singles, P. Hall a triple and Eagle, Terry Maugher, R. Wark and Carl Yates two one - baggers each. Pete Middleton, A. Smith and Dick Pobert got the other safeties.

Ron LaJoie had a double and two singles for the losers while E. Christopher got one of each. Bart Loveless and Mike Goegan also had base knocks.

The Tyke Jaycees got a three - hit pitching job from Robert Baker and in the five-inning contest he struck out 16 and got the other putout on a popup. Tim Morgan was his receiver.

Dean Lang lost and he was relieved by Robin Guest. They allowed six hits and whiffed ten.

Tim Morgan had a home run and single, Donnie Welch a double and two singles and Brian Duffy a single for the winners. J. Fraser got two Yankee hits and J. Clayeson one.

In the other Tyke game, Bollery had only one hit off the combined slants of C. Barrett and Danny Lapenette but won it with the help of a number of walks.

Larry Hughes singled for the only Little Giant hit.

SECOND LARGEST LAKE

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trout lake to be created by the Grand Rapids power development in northern Manitoba will be the second largest in the province, having an area of 2,400 square miles. Lake Winnipeg has an area of 9,465 square miles, Lake Winnipegosis has 2,103 and Lake Manitoba 1,817.

CATHEDRAL CLEANING

LONDON (CP)—The second stage of "the biggest spring-clean in architectural history" has begun on St. Paul's Cathedral. The £110,000 project is being tackled with water and "elbow grease" because detergents might damage the stone. Cleaning of the cathedral's impressive west front already has been completed.

Eastern Qualifying

City Minors Win Pair

Belleville teams won two of three games played against Kingston yesterday in special minor baseball "qualifying round" games for the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association.

Bantam, Belleville Ellis Platers downed Kingston 15-6 while Belleville Merchants copped the Peewee contest against Kingston's "Little Leaguers" 9-4. Kingston won the tight Tyke game 4-2.

The teams will play four times against each other during July.

BANTAM

Ted Shaw turned in a brilliant relief chore to get the Ellis Pruner win. He took over from Howard Wark in the third with the score tied 3-3 and struck out 13 batters over the remainder. He allowed three hits and walked as many in seven full innings. Wark allowed three hits and five walks.

Kingston used four pitchers, Cord Potter, Ron Lawson, David Smith and Wayne Franklin. They were racked for 12 hits, fanning nine and walking five.

For Belleville, Brooks Windsor had three singles, Gary Brunetta two doubles, Barry Burnetta a triple and single, Steven Ling and H. Wark two singles each and Clifford Scott a bases-loaded triple.

Clyde Harris was best for Kingston with a three-run homer.

PEEWEE

Wayne Farrell turned in a seven-hit, route-going effort for Belleville, striking out 10 and bearing down with Kingston men on base.

Terry Maher led the nine-hit Belleville attack against four Kingston pitchers. Meagher hit a triple and single while Eddie Christopher and Brian Coughlin had two singles apiece. Stephen Moore tripled, Ron Jury and Wayne Farrell adding singles.

TYKE

This game was a tight pitching duel between Kingston's Craig Gavel and Belleville's Ron McTaggart. Each gave up only four hits. McTaggart struck out eleven and walked one, Gavel whiffing ten and walking six.

Homer Ties Latta-Concrete Game at 5-5

Wayne Gow hit a solo home run in the bottom of the eighth inning to earn Latta a 5-5 South Hastings Baseball League tie with Plane's Concrete of Cannifton last night.

Latta had led 4-0 in the first but Plane's bagged pairs in the second and fifth plus one in the seventh for a 5-5 lead.

Howard Meeks and Lorne Cronkright combined for a five-hitter on the Latta mound. They fanned six and walked three.

Datoe went the route for Cannifton, allowing nine hits, striking out four and passing just one.

Doug Rollins hit a home run and single and Wayne Gow his key homer for Latta while Lorne Cronkright also crashed a home run. Gary Ray had two singles, Howard Meeks, Bob Smith and Gene Yorke one each.

Ron Urch got two Plane's Concrete singles, the others going to Ross Parks, Don Forsythe and Ken Forsythe.

Records Go At Holiday Track Meet

OSHAWA (CP)—Marion Snider of Toronto set a Canadian native 80-metre hurdle record and tied the open record of 11.0 seconds at a Dominion Day track meet Wednesday. The previous native record was 11.2 seconds.

Jenny Wingerson of Toronto placed second, and Tammy Davis of Frederick, Md., holder of the American women's 80-metre hurdle record, ran third.

International flavor was added to the meet by Miss Doris and Debbie Thompson, also of Frederick, who holds the unofficial world record for the 100-yard sprint with times of 10.2 seconds.

Miss Thompson won the juvenile 100-yard dash in 10.9 seconds.

The Maryland runners also participated unofficially in the juvenile women's 440-yard relay each running 220 yards to beat a four-girl Hamilton spartan team by a healthy margin.

Other results included:

Juvenile women's 80 - metre hurdles: 1. Mary Ballow, Toronto; 2. Nancy Simmonds, London; 3. Astrid Verduyn, Peterborough; Time 13.3. 880-yards: 1. Serena Doucette, Oakville; 2. Marg Robinson, Toronto 3. Janet Anteil, Toronto; Time 2:30.6.

Juvenile men's high jump: 1. Jerry Mays, Coburg; 2. John Kilpatrick, Bowmanville; 3. Jim Dodd, Toronto Height 6 ft.

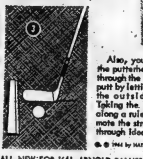
THE Arnold Palmer METHOD
Four-Time Winner of the Masters



A PROPER PATH FOR YOUR PUTTER

On all golf shots it is important that your clubhead move along a proper path. This is especially true when putting. Your putter should go back and through the ball low to the ground (*1) to strike the ball squarely. Abruptly lifting the blade on the back or through stroke (*2) may cause you to stub or top the putt.

It may also cause the ball to skid, rather than to roll, off the putter-face. This makes it difficult to get a true roll on the putt.

Also, you should try to move the putterhead straight back and through the ball. Never allow the putt by letting the blade move to the outside on the backstroke. Taking the blade back and forth along a ruler (*2) will help promote the straight-back, straight-through idea in your mind.

One More 'National' At Aintree

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) — The Grand National Steeplechase, recognized as one of the world's most arduous tests for horse and rider in racing will be run at Aintree near here for the last time in 1965.

It has been held at the Aintree course since 1839.

Mrs. Mirabel Topham, chairman of Tophams Limited, which owns the Aintree course, said Wednesday night the company had made the decision "with the deepest regret."

Her statement said the race course was in an area where land was badly needed.

It was proposed to apply for permission to develop the land for "purposes which will make a substantial contribution toward the social needs of Liverpool and its neighborhood."

Mrs. Topham said Topham's was determined the Grand National should not become second-rate.

Efforts were being made through the racing authorities to arrange for it to be transferred to a new locality, she said.

Qualifies For Gold Cup

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Schumacher, a 21-year-old University of Washington student, became the youngest driver ever to qualify a boat for the Gold Cup race when he piloted 9 Bill to a three-lap average of 103.846 miles an hour Wednesday. Seven other boats were expected to try to qualify today.

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (AP)—The first Soviet charge d'affaires to the former French Congo has arrived from Paris accompanied by his interpreters.

All-Star Openers

Bunning, Pascual Hill Choices

NEW YOR K(AP)—Jim Bunning of Philadelphia Phillies and Camilo Pascual of Minnesota Twins are the early choices to oppose each other in the major league All Star game at Shea Stadium next Tuesday.

The two star right-handers were among the 17 pitchers selected by rival All-Star managers Walter Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers and Al Lopez of Chicago White Sox. Alston picked seven pitchers, Lopez eight.

Alston selected four right-handers and three left-banders. The southpaws included Dodger Sandy Koufax, whose 10 victories include a no-hitter against Philadelphia; Dick Ellsworth, who has won 10 games for the Chicago Cubs and Chris Short of the Phillies, who owns a 6-6 record.

The right - banders, besides Bunning, are the Dodgers' Don Drysdale (10-7), Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants (11-3), and still another 10-game winner, Dick Farrell of Houston Colts.

EVEN SPLIT

Lopez picked four right-handers and four left-banders. In addition to Pascual, other right-handers are Dean Chance of Los Angeles, Dick Radatz of Boston and John Wyatt of Kansas City. Radatz and Wyatt are bullpen specialists who own 11 victories and 28 saves between them.

Whitey Ford, dean of New York Yankee's pitching staff, headed the southpaws, with Jack Kralick of Cleveland and Gary Peters and Juan Pizarro of Chicago White Sox. Ford has won his last 10 decisions after an opening day loss. Pizarro has won 10, Kralick eight and Peters seven.

Although Koufax and Ford rate among the most glamorous names in baseball the starting choices are likely to be right-handers because of the preponderance of right - handed hitters in the starting line-ups of both squads.

North York Track Meet

Minor Sets Four Records

TORONTO (CP) — Cameron Crosby, 15-year-old member of the Don Mills Track Club of Toronto, set three Canadian records and an unofficial world record at the North York track and field meet Wednesday.

In the midget boys shot put, he made a throw of 56 feet, four inches to break the old mark of 55 feet, 7½ inches held by Michael Haugh of Windsor, Ont.

In the midget boys' discus, Crosby had a throw of 158 feet, 11 inches to break the old mark of 146 feet, 6½ inches, established by Bill Watts of Toronto at the Ontario midget and ban tam track and field meet in Oshawa last Saturday.

Crosby's throw in the discus event also topped the world junior record of 158 feet, 10¼ inches held by Robert Dillis of England. Crosby was competing in the midget age group, for youths under 16 years of age.

Nancy McCreadie of Don Mills broke her own Canadian outdoor record in the women's open shot put with a throw of 33 feet, 3½ inches. Her previous record was 31 feet, 11¼ inches.

Miss McCreadie, competing in her first track meet since undergoing a knee operation seven weeks ago, threw the discus 168 feet, six inches to surpass her oh Canadian mark of 164 feet, eight inches set in 1962.

Well, Wasn't It Always This Way?

TORONTO (CP) — A physical fitness jamboree in suburban North York on Dominion Day showed that the girls are in better shape than men.

Only three of about 100 persons, ranging in age from eight to 56, failed to achieve the minimum standards in the tests. All three were boys.

Besides that, the girls in the under 11 group and in the under 20 group turned in better times in the 440-yard run than the boys.

SUCCESSFUL DROP-OUT — Wayne Harris, 16, apprentice jockey, is given instructions by horse owner Andy Smithers of Chilliwack, B.C., at Toronto's New Woodbine racetrack. Harris, a high school dropout, earns as much as $300 a week and is the youngest jockey in Canada. He has already ridden 17 winners this season, more than many experienced jockeys. (CP Photo)

TORONTO (CP)—A 16-year-old school dropout is proving to be more successful than many businessmen twice his age.

But before anyone gets the idea that education is for the birds, it would be a good idea to examine Wayne Harris's qualifications.

He stands five-foot-one and weighs about 100 pounds.

Harris is a jockey who has ridden more than a dozen winners at Toronto's Woodbine racetrack this season, more than some experienced riders, and has been making as much as $300 a week.

A native of Vancouver, Wayne dropped out of school after Grade 9. He had always been crazy about horses and left home last year to work as an exercise boy for Andy Smithers, a horse owner in Chilliwack, B.C.

When Smithers came east to race his horses at Ontario tracks, he brought Wayne with him. His "galloy boy" showed promise as a rider and Smithers offered to sponsor him as an apprentice jockey, putting him under a five-year contract.

Harris earns $60 a month as Smithers' apprentice but he also has also an agent who arranges mounts with other owners. He makes $35 for each of these outside rides or $50 if the horse wins. His agent takes 10 a say cent.

Wayne, who doesn't shave yet, finds that some veteran riders try to make things especially rough for newcomers but he doesn't show any signs of fear, even though he has been in a spill or two.

A jockey's day begins and ends early. He leaves his boarding house at 5:30 a.m. and gallops four or five of Smithers' horses as the sun is coming up. During the day he sits around jockey quarters playing a little pool or cards while waiting out the time between races.

When the races are over he goes back to his boarding house for dinner and is in bed as early as 7:30 p.m.

He doesn't know many girls, rarely has a chance to meet any, and so doesn't date much. "Sometimes I feel real lonely for home," he says.

Occasionally when he has a night out he goes to a public riding stable where he rents a slow, placid horse and goes for a ride.

Movie Column

Peter Sellers Seems Unable To Make Anything But Hits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The new movies—

A Shot in the Dark is another film starring Peter Sellers, who seems unable to make anything but hits. In this one he continues his "pink panther" portrayal of Inspector Jacques Clouseau, the greatest boat to crime since the introduction of the tommy-gun.

There are dark hints that somebody up there in the French hierarchy is protecting Clouseau; indeed, on his office wall is an unexplained photograph of him shaking hands with President de Gaulle. How else could one explain why Clouseau is allowed to remain in charge of a murder investigation while freeing the sexy suspect and incurring several more corpses.

Never has so much been stolen from so many. This is not intended as any slight toward director and co-writer Blake Edwards. Even Shakespeare could borrow from Plutarch and Holinshed, why shouldn't Edwards borrow from Lloyd, Langdon and Laurel and Hardy? Plus a pool table scene directly from W. C. Fields.

A Shot in the Dark is not bellylaughs all the way. Clouseau's mustache is almost reaches repetition now and then, and the zaniest camp sequences is curiously less funny than others.

IS AT PEAK

Sellers is at the peak of his powers. Elke Sommer and George Sanders offer a high degree of sex and suavity, respectively. Herbert Lom is an absolute gem as Clouseau's bedevilled superior.

The Saab-Spinnaess offers another vehicle for Hayley Mills, and for a great number of moviegoers that is all that is necessary to know. The beguiling blonde, now 18 but still ingenuous and unaffected, remains a joy to behold.

This time she becomes involved in a lot of stealth about stolen jewels and murderous gangs on the Isle of Crete. It is all connected of several parts scenary, a dash of romance, large supply of menace and a leavening of comedy. Nobody really comes to any harm—after all, this is Walt Disney—and even the finale is played for laughs, not thrills.

AT THE PARK — Ron Randell, as a Roman Centurion, threatens Jeffrey Hunter in this scene from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's adventure-spectacle in Technicolor, "Gold for the Caesars," opening tonight at the Air Conditioned Park Theatre. Randell and Hunter previously scored together in the epic "King of Kings". On the same program "Flipper's New Adventure", in color. Both features are first showings tonight and Friday. Complete shows 7.00 and 8.50 p.m. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Robert Fuller Advises Little Son to Go Into Westerns

Television westerns, eternally popular, also are eternally the favorite targets of the "sex and violence" critics. Hollywood actor Robert Fuller, star of NBC's Wagon Train and once a movie stuntman, defends his favorite form of entertainment and area of show business—in "an open letter to my son." Bat Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation.

Written for
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
By ROBERT FULLER

Dear Bob,

You've got a shotgun, a .30-.30 rifle, a .22 rifle, fishing rod and reel, two complete cowboy outfits from hat to spurs, a quail call, a duck call, and a pair of boxing gloves. These are presents from some of your older friends. They want to make sure your life is full of hunting and fishing and riding, I do, too.

Someday you might want to make your living by acting, so I still get in plenty of the outdoor life. In that case, here's some advice for you. I'm giving it to you now, when you're still too young to argue.

Son, don't hang around actors. You'll find yourself acting all day and talking about it all night. That makes for dull talk and a dull life.

If you can, start your career in westerns. Then do everything you can to stay in westerns. There's a good reason for this: You'll have more fun.

WORK WITH STUNTMEN

You'll be working with stuntmen, and wranglers, and the fellows who spring into action when the sheriff calls for a posse. Salty, down-to-earth guys who think The Method has something to do with the right way to get on a horse. These fellows get around to the best picnic; they know where the quail are hiding and the fish are biting. If you don't act like an actor, they might take you along. Deserts, forests, mountains will work on you, helping prevent such afflictions as swollen ego and the shortsightedness that mistakes a sound stage for the world.

And son, if you're an actor, remember what you're working for. Not the front office, or the critics, or other actors, or your "art." Always the vague, but meaningless thing called "the public."

You're working for the individual human being—the mechanic in Wichita, the farm woman in Georgia, the kind in Tallahassee. The boy who plunks down money at the box office or gets the TV dial to see a good show.

They're not only your real bosses, they're your best friends. Treat them that way. If they want you to stand in the hot sun all afternoon shaking hands and signing autographs, you do it—and be grateful. If I ever hear of you mumbling about "invasion of privacy" or refusing to sign an autograph, I'll come down out of the mountains, or out of the old actor's home, and whale the tar out of you. For your own good, you understand.

Now, I realize all this advice may be a little premature. After all, you're only nine weeks old.

Maybe the person I'm really sounding off to is me.

MAKES SUGGESTION

OTTAWA (CP) — Marcel Lessard (SC — Lac-St. Jean) suggested in the Commons Thursday that the CBC turn its controversial film, Mr. Pearson, over to Crown Assets Disposal Corporation. He said the Crown agency might be able to sell the film and recover part of the $35,000 cost. Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) asked whether the CBC would reconsider its decision not to sell the film to the Independent Television Organization (ITO), which offered $30,000 for it.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Vindent de Paul, a handsome looking chestnut gelding, made believers out of 17,106 racing fans at Woodbine Wednesday, winning easily the $50,400 Dominion Day Stakes Handicap.

Owned by John Smallman, of London, Ont., Vindent de Paul was winning his fourth stakes race of the season and collected $17,900 for his effort.

Lord Quillo, and Half Breed, the only invader in this year's running of the Dominion Day, were sent off as the first and second choices, respectively.

Coming through the stretch Vindent de Paul was striding beautifully and was never in danger of losing. His backers were returned $10.25, $5.40 and $3.30.

The daily double of Whirling Rich and King Rip returned $118.90 while the quinella of General John and Rose Tudor, in the fifth, paid $52.30.

The Furies, a play by Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission on bicultural-ism and bilingualism, will be shown on CBC-TV.

Academically Worth While But Life in Moscow Not Impressive to Students

MOSCOW (CP) — "Academically it was very worth while," said a Canadian student of the year he had just completed at the big Moscow State University.

Adrian Toffolo, 21, is one of three Russian - literature students from the University of Toronto who came here as trailblazers in an exchange program between the U. of T.'s Institute of Russian and East European Studies and Soviet state universities.

The others are Liubo Majhanovich, 26, and Donald Aman, also 26. On the other side of the program, two Russian students spent a year at Toronto and one attended the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph. All suggest a fair exchange, expected to continue next year, are graduate students.

Majhanovich, Toffolo and Toffolo's pretty wife Carol who accompanied them to Moscow talked about their impressions in a joint interview. Aman had already left on the trip across Canada, hoping the Russian wife he married while here will soon be able to follow.

The Canadians, all of whom are fluent in Russian, enjoyed the best possible accommodation in the huge Lenin library.

SPECIAL FAVOR

At their disposal was the most secluded of all study rooms, Room No. 1, noted as the haunt of academicians and university department heads. Ordinary lecturers see it only from the outside; they have to be content with the less exalted Room No. 3.

On the other hand the Canadians missed being able to browse through stacks, a privilege that as grad students they had become used to in Toronto. Here scholars are not permitted to enter the stacks. They must place an order for the book they want. It normally takes 24 hours to fill although the request may be made in advance.

The Canadians stayed at the main university building a 32-storey monstrosity which looks out over Moscow from the Lenin Hills. Adrian and his wife lived in two rooms on the seventh floor of a 17-storey "all accounted for." It was not known if anyone aboard the fishing vessel was injured.

An RCAF Argus aircraft from Greenwood, N.S., and a navy Tracker plane from nearby Shearwater naval air station were first to reach the collision scene and reported the crew appeared ready to abandon ship.

Battle Over Civil Rights Nearing End

WASHINGTON (AP) — The long congressional fight over civil rights legislation comes to an end today as the House of Representatives votes on the far - reaching measure already passed by the Senate.

Overwhelming approval is a foregone conclusion, the House having passed last February, 290 to 130, a bill that was revised in only minor ways by the Senate during its three-month debate.

Without waiting until July 4—U.S. Independence Day — as some sources had indicated, President Johnson is expected to sign the bill into law speedily in hopes it can ease racial tensions. Many of its provisions settle, however, predict it will only inflame the situation.

For more than a year the bill was the subject of intense wrangling in both the House and Senate before it finally emerged as a compromise package supported by Democratic and Republican leaders in Congress.

The bill would, in one big bundle a number of measures designed to help Negroes achieve equality in nearly all phases of national life into which the federal government can reach.

BARS DISCRIMINATION

It bars discrimination in employment practices — by both unions and employers — and in hotels, motels, restaurants, movies, and other places serving the public. It arms the government with powers to cut off federal funds for programs in which discrimination occurs.

It also grants new powers to the attorney-general to speed desegregation of public schools and other public facilities, such as parks, playgrounds and libraries.

It tightens provisions contained in the first civil rights law passed this century—in 1957 —aimed at protecting Negro voting rights.

It also creates a community relations service designed to provide machinery for voluntary settlement of racial disputes through mediation and conciliation. And it extends for four years the life of the civil rights commission, with added powers.

All but one of the provisions —that dealing with discrimination in employment—take effect as soon as the bill is signed by the president. But many others have built-in delays intended to give state and local authorities a chance to settle complaints arising under the new law.

Russian Trawler Will Wait for 'Mother' Ship

HALIFAX (CP) — A Russian trawler that pitched part of her cargo overboard to stay afloat after being in collision with a Liberian freighter, decided late Wednesday to wait 10 hours for the arrival of a Russian "mother" factory ship.

The two vessels collided in heavy fog Wednesday afternoon about 180 miles southwest of Halifax. The trawler was heavily damaged with what appeared to be a large gash in her starboard bow.

However, United States Coast Guard officials said the trawler could proceed under her own power to Halifax.

Garden Notes

Tips for Summer Gardening

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

This summer watch for the many ways gardening can aid its dog allies. They combine well with tall spiky plants such as delphinium, lupins, lathyrus; physostegia and the veronicas. Evergreens both the low and middle sized ones are at home with these plants too. They live happily with the Irish the Siberian Dutch; Spanish, German (bearded) and the Japanese.

From the palest canary yellow through orange, pink, brownie deep and bright reds to a new purple they certainly are a fine addition to the garden pictures. The light colors show up best in the border but the dark ones are fine for cutting. Their bloom season extends from early June to late August. They are content in almost any kind of garden soil and bloom readily in full sun or partial shade. Then too, their fountain of grass-like leaves looks attractive all summer and plays host to few pests.

Many nurseries issue a summer catalogue of day lilies. Look for cool water, lark song, pink dream, hyperion, heavenly lustre, dawn light, and lime Stella. Some bloom at night and others will stay open for a late evening arrangement.

CUT FLOWER GROWTH

Cut back rampant growth of perennials that threaten to crowd out the less aggressive ones. Among these bold ones we find the sprygrass, lemon lillies and physostegia. Cut back annuals that have spent their first round of bloom. Feed and water them and they will send out another crop of flowers.

Keep seed pods and seed heads picked off petunias, sweet peas, marigolds, zinnias, snaps also faded blooms and they will keep blooming longer. Use a light feeding of 20-20-20 chemical food or a foliar food. Water well during dry spells and early and blooming. The same applies for annual and perennial vines which keep them growing too.

This cut clematis, wisteria, morning glories, climbing roses, honey suckle and trumpet vine. Train vines by frequent ties to supports. Eliminate weak growth. A wild tangle of half dead vines is not an asset to any garden or home.

When lettuce, peas and radishes are finished replant the space with carrots, beets and beans for storing, pickling or freezing. Late planted carrots often escape the striped beetles that attack the early crops.

WITHSTAND DROUGHT

Oakleaf, butter crunch and Simpson's resist drought and summer heat well and continue to grow without bolting. Now is the time to plant Chinese cabbage. It supplies large leaves for delicate salads or may be cooked like cabbage. The flavor is very mild.

Buy a bunch of water cress and plant them in a pail of moist supply of green garnish. Place the stems in a clear glass jar so the roots will grow. Roots will soon form and droop down into the water. Place roots at stem in an empty flower pot. Sift garden soil to fill pot firm soil down lightly. Set pot in pan or bowl of water and set in sun indoors or out. Keep the bottom pan filled with water at all times. Every two weeks feed lightly with liquid fertilizer or hypoxex fertilizer. You can grow it this way all winter indoors.

MAILS HANSARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative MP Ed Nasserden is waiting a couple of days Friday's Hansard report back to the voters in his home riding of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, after finding him $642.50 plus hours addressing envelopes. He said: "I think the Hansard report best shows the people what is going on in the Parliament and we're causing it all."

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR
For July 3

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get details in order. Realize that many are quietly observing your actions. Rely heavily on charm at social affair tonight. Your personal appearance, personal statements count for much.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Group activity favored. Money question best resolved through versatile actions. Do some checking . . . make numerous contacts. Heed constructive suggestions. Then make up your own mind!

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): One who is member of your family due to bring glad tidings. Could be occasion for celebration or party. Realize that encouragement given is more valuable than material reward.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Ideas are numerous. Key is being selective. Many offer advice. But talk is as far as they go. Be self-reliant. Many due to make bosom friends. Love are determined to carry them out.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): One who apparently lost interest may suddenly reappear. Your pride, ego to shoot skyward. Day to enjoy achievements. Stress charm, personal magnetism. Key is having confidence — and fun!

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Dig beyond surface indications. Applies especially in connection with members of opposite sex. Don't fool yourself. By facing facts — you avoid disillusionment. Be perceptive!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Spotlight on partners, agreements, chance to gain public attention. Stress originality, fresh approach. Avoid one who constantly sings the blues. Optimism rules the day!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): The more effort you put forth . . . the greater the reward. Day when you are appreciated. But you must be willing to share knowledge. Older individual opens door of opportunity. Enter!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Pleasure indicated through activities of children. Day when you should relax, pursue hobbies. Put aside cares. Solution to problem forthcoming. You can't rush it!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Indulging yourself may give temporary pleasure . . . but proves costly in long run. There are certain duties to be carried out. Important to maintain long-range outlook — stick to plans.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Day for change, vacation, travel. Break out of habit pattern. You can show member of opposite sex that you are exciting individual. Engage in creative activity. Give of yourself.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Add to household possessions. Wonderful day for bargain. Discussion group can provide stimulation, inspiration. Be aware, alert. Time to create your own opportunities.

If today is your birthday . . . you are torn between desire to be loyal and sense of adventure. Intelligent combination of the two can solve dilemma.

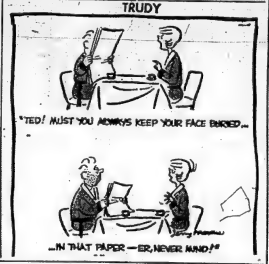
Our Architectural Heritage

By LENNY WILLIAMSON

In the second quarter of the nineteenth century, Canadians began to accept the heavy, monumental Greek Revival style popular in the United States. Americans were so fond of pillars and pediments that they made them their national architectural style. Canadians, with their inherent distrust of the U.S.A., were suspicious of anything smacking so thoroughly of republicanism as the columns of the public buildings of Washington. But by the 1830's and 40's, Greek Revival buildings began to appear in Ontario Communities having a large number of American settlers and a brisk trade with the United States. Although Belleville qualifies on both counts, it is surprising that we have only two significant Greek Temples. One now stands desecrated and defaced behind the new County Buildings on Pinnacle Street. The other hides almost unnoticed, on James Street. It deserves to be better known, for McRea and Adamson, authors of the first definitive book on early Ontario architecture, considered it the only Belleville house important enough to be included in "The Ancestral Roof."

To be correct, a Greek Revival building had to have a pediment, portico and pillars in its construction. These are not difficult to acheive in mansions and large buildings of public assembly but it is another matter to include them all in a small modest-priced town house. A clever solution is seen in the Wellbanks house. The house is oriented on its lot with its gable end toward the street. The extended roof is supported by pillars to form a portico. The cornice returns on the gable suggest the triangular shape of a Greek pediment. Two of the four evenly-spaced pillars recommended by builder's handbooks for the front of a house with two windows and a door were shortened to support a second floor gallery. One of the short pillars rotted thirty years ago, and the Wellbanks moved the remaining one to the centre of the facade. The diamond-patterned trellisge on the gallery is original, but the railing around the ground-level verandah is a more recent addition.

Designers of Greek Revival houses were the first to depart from the central - hall plan so dear to the Georgians. When they turned the narrow end of a house to the street there was space for only one room and a hall across its width. The front door had to be shifted to one side, resulting in an asymmetrical arrangement of the three openings in the wall. Builders of modest columnless houses who placed the gable ends of their houses to the street aid followed this arrangement of one door and two windows were copying, quite unknowingly, the Greek Revival.



Although Canadians thought the pillared Greek Temple too grandiose to be adopted extensively for domestic architecture they enthusiastically added Greek details from houses like the Wellbanks' to their more conventional structures. The Greek cornice, wide, almost flat in profile, with long returns at the ends, the deep panelling of the woodwork, the heavy square transomed doors, and the high baseboards were applied with abandon to every new house of the period.

Our Greek Temple on James Street has been fortunate in its owners. It has belonged to people wise enough to value it and sensible enough to leave it alone. Few Belleville houses have been so gently treated or so carefully preserved for succeeding generations to enjoy.

TRUDY

Will Return Next Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Transport Minister Pickersgill probably will return to his office next Monday after a fortnight's illness, an official of his department said Tuesday.

After running a high temperature caused by a virus infection, Mr. Pickersgill now is conducting some departmental business at his home.

Guilty Of Racial Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board today found a union guilty of racial discrimination and stripped it of its certificate.

In a broad opinion with possible national impact, the majority decision said whenever a union causes discrimination based on race it has committed an unfair labor practice.

The action—the first of its kind by the NLRB—was against the Independent Metal Workers Union which maintained separate locals for white and Negro members at Hughes Tool Company in Houston, Tex.

The case involved the complaint of a member of the Negro local whose application for an apprenticeship available only to white members was rejected by the union.

The five-member board's decision to revoke certification on grounds of illegal coercion was unanimous, although two members gave more limited reasons for their finding.

Trade Surplus Much Higher Than Year Ago

Imports at All-Time High in April Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Imports shot up to an all-time monthly high in April but Canada still had a greater trade surplus for the first four months of this year than in the corresponding 1963 period, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

This year's four-month trade surplus—excess of exports over imports—was $86,100,000 against $45,200,000 in the January-April period of 1963.

But in April there was a trade deficit of $39,400,000, compared with one of $26,900,000 in April last year, as Canada's purchases from other countries reached a one-month record of $709,400,000.

This was an increase of 27.9 per cent from the 1963 April total of $554,500,000 and up 9.1 per cent from the previous record for a month of $650,300,000 in May, 1962.

This brought the value of imports in the January-April period to $2,367,600,000, up 20.3 per cent from $1,968,700,000 in 1963.

Meanwhile, exports attained a record high of $953,100,000 up 27 per cent from that month's former peak of $577,-700,000. This is an increase in exports for the first four months of th year to $2,453,-800,000, an increase of 21.8 per cent over the January - April figure last year of $2,013,900,000.

Peaceful Settlement In Sight

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — A peaceful settlement of a multi-million-dollar wage dispute between Canada's major railways and 100,000 rail workers was in sight today following a series of high-level meetings here Thursday.

The meetings involved Prime Minister Pearson, several of his key cabinet ministers and the presidents of the two national railways — Donald Gordon of the publicly - owned CNR and N. R. Crump of the privately-owned CPR.

All signs pointed to early acceptance by the railways of a 10.1-cent hourly pay increase for their non-operating work force —adding an estimated extra $37,000,000 to their wage bill over the next two years.

The government is expected to pick up part of the cost of this wage settlement in recognition of the fact that the railways are forbidden by government edict from raising their freight rates to raise extra revenue to meet the higher labor costs.

Shorn of Russian Backing, Chinese Dragon Reluctant

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Communist China appears to be reworking its strategy in Asia. This could mean a radical change, perhaps before this year is out.

Peking is cut off from insurance of Soviet military protection. It is denied economic cooperation by most of the Communist bloc. Now it seems to be getting ready for a retreat to prepared diplomatic positions.

It would be no surprise if Red China soon talks with the United States looking toward at least temporary removal of the Taiwan Strait as an Asian bomb.

Straws in the wind hint that a careful, gradual Red Chinese about-face is coming, despite all the recent talk from Peking about insurgency at war in the Laos and Viet Nam situations.

If victory for communism in Laos and Viet Nam had looked easy, if there had been a definite vacuum to be occupied, the Red Chinese could have been expected to act aggressively.

But it was another matter when the Chinese found their toughness countered with American toughness, when President Johnson warned that the United States was willing to risk war to protect Southeast Asia.

It is doubtful that many in Washington believed Wan Tze-tung's regime wanted to go to war with the United States over Indochinese real estate, or that Mao really wanted to provoke a military confrontation with Americans, particularly with no guarantee of automatic Russian support.

The Russians seem to sniff something new from Peking, and the thought be of easy running diplomatically all by itself, stealing the Kremlin's thunder and alienating the Asian bloc in the Russian face.

Foreign Minister Chen Yi, a man reputed to detest all foreigners, including Russians, told a Japanese group that Peking was ready to improve relations with any nation, and "the United States is no, exception."

Goldwater Fears Civil Rights Issue Could Incite Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Barry Goldwater fears the presidential campaign could build into a civil rights explosion —perhaps triggered by fringe elements in his own following.

The concern of the Arizona conservative was revealed Thursday, and he was said to be calling on clergymen and other leaders, some of them Negroes, seeking counsel on methods of averting trouble.

Goldwater, the leading contender for the Republican presidential nomination, voted against the civil rights bill after saying he questioned the constitutionality of its accommodations and employment provisions.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a chief architect of the bill, has agreed to place Goldwater's name in nomination at the Republican national convention in San Francisco. Goldwater hopes this will take some steam out of the civil rights issue. Also, he has said that as president he would enforce the bill "vigorously and impartially."

Goldwater is known to feel that the first avenues of enforcement should be moral persuasion and the community relations conciliation service created by the new law.

Only after trying them, it was said, would he turn to the punitive measures provided by the accommodation and employment sections.

Goldwater is said to fear that some people who support him on his presidential campaign for support based on the so-called white backlash — northern resentment toward Negro demonstrations and resistance to the movement of Negroes into white neighborhoods and schools.

Goldwater is known to be determined not to touch that issue in his campaign because he thinks it carries the danger of violence.

Marcotte Given Reprieve

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — A surprise federal intervention, reported to have originated with Governor-General Vanier, gave condemned slayer Georges Marcotte a one - week reprieve Thursday night just five hours before he was to have mounted the gallows.

Marcotte was scheduled for execution in Montreal's Bordeaux jail minutes after midnight for shooting down a policeman in the "Santa Claus gang" bank holdup at Montreal 11 days before Christmas, 1962.

One of the three bandits in the $142,000 robbery wore a Santa Claus costume. Two policemen were shot to death.

Yves Mayrand, 28-year-old lawyer for Marcotte, said he would appeal to Montreal Superior Court Monday for a new trial on the basis of fresh evidence.

About 9 p.m. EDT Thursday a federal cabinet announced that it had rejected a second appeal to commute Marcotte's death sentence. It thus appeared that the 27-year-old carpenter's last hope for escaping the noose had vanished.

Then came these developments:

Shortly after the Commons sitting at 10 p.m., Jeremi Paul, Conservative MP for Berthier - Maskinonge - Delanaudiere, rose on a question of privilege to ask that the government postpone Marcotte's execution until all the facts of the case had been thoroughly investigated.

SEWETNESS IN DOUBT

Mr. Paul referred to a sworn deposition by Mrs. Ilona Dallos of Hamilton, only eyewitness to the slayings, who said she saw three men in the bank doorway but could not say who did the shooting.

Solicitor - General J. Watson MacNaughton said all the facts from the woman's statement were considered by the cabinet earlier in the day before a decision was reached not to interfere with the execution.

Gilles Gregoire, Creditiste MP for Lapointe, then asked the government to make a complete inquiry into the new facts.

Speaker Alan Macnaughton then led a discussion out of order. Clemency was a matter for the government, not Parliament.

It is doubtful that many in Washington believed Mao Tze-tung's regime wanted to go to war with the United States over Indochinese real estate, or that Mao really wanted to provoke a military confrontation with Americans, particularly with no guarantee of automatic Russian support.

The Russians seem to sniff something new from Peking, and the thought be of easy running diplomatically all by itself, stealing the Kremlin's thunder and alienating the Asian bloc in the Russian face.

In Day of Topless Bikinis Male Knee Held Improper

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's shining boat wave has brought Teamsters out in kneepants, stranded sightseers on an aerial ride at the world's fair and sparked a rent-strike threat at the Empire State Building.

"Distinguished lawyers" are working in their undershirts at the law firm partner whose offices are in the 30-floor east belt of the Empire State Building. The floors have been without air conditioning since 10.

On four working days of this week the temperature touched into the 90s. On two days it hit 99. Pavements buckled. Motorists' radiators, and tempers, boiled. In a few sections, the electricity went off temporarily, the result of heat tripping automatic switches.

The bare knees of five Teamsters Union members—and management's stern disapproval — led to a walkout Thursday of 75 drivers at a railway express agency terminal in Brooklyn.

It would not be proper, said a company spokesman, for housevines to see the knees of the company representatives.

The drivers, who had the support of their local, said Bermuda shorts were just the thing for the oven-hot cabs of the trucks. A shop steward said he made a private survey of housewife reaction and got no complaints.

At the world's fair a dozen sightseers in two goodolas on the aerial tower ride were trapped in the air for hours when the electrical brakes locked. Officials blamed it on the hot weather.

Seven of the 12, including five children, spent 3½ hours aloft before sweating firemen lowered them from 100 feet up in the night air to the ground early today by hand-cranking the winch.

The "tropic zone" tenants of the Empire State Building met in the law offices of Levine and Broder and 30 agreed to sign a notice they would withhold July rents until business losses could be determined.

A spokesman for the building's management said service would be restored as fast as possible — "sometime next week."

Year's Work to Contribute To Final Grade 13 Marks

TORONTO (C) — Education Minister William Davis announced Thursday that in next year's school term the content of Grade 13 courses in Ontario high schools will be made lighter and a student's term mark will be evaluated in the final standing.

The minister said the changes are recommended in a 50-page report prepared for him by a special Grade 13 study committee.

He said his department was also implementing for next year a recommendation that most examination papers be shortened to two from 2½ hours by the use of fewer questions and more options.

The committee, headed by Frederick Hamilton, director of education of the Guelph board of education, included these urgent recommendations among sweeping proposals to "relieve some of the pressure" on Grade 13 students:

It says Grade 13 has degenerated "its reputation as a year of undue emotional strain and of unreasonably heavy study load" with the main emphasis on memory of factual material.

Complete stress on the final mark in a heavy load of nine departmental examinations in most cases made it a two-week "cram year" with everything depending on success in the June examinations, it says.

The report favors a gradual elimination of the importance of final examinations and their eventual displacement by term work standings. It says such a change will undoubtedly do a great deal to remove one of the most serious weaknesses of the present system."

Mr. Davis reserved decision on a long-term aspect of the report — eventual elimination of Grade 13 and establishment of a system of community colleges across the province.

The two-year community colleges, in addition to providing a new channel of advanced education, would offer an additional chance to high school graduates who failed to qualify for university or polytechnical studies.

The minister said the recommendation would have far-reaching effects on Ontario's entire system of education and not comment on the attitude of the government except to say a decision will have to be made soon.

Mr. Davis said a committee would be established this summer to take steps to remove from each Grade 13 subject topics which at present take up

Members Divided On Flag

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons backbenchers played to a packed public gallery again Thursday as they gave their fifth performance of the current summer stock hit, The Flag Fight.

As with every sitting spent on the government resolution for a maple leaf flag, a completely new cast was featured but the dialogue remained basically the same.

A matinee performance was scheduled for today as the Commons sat from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. EDT without a break. The new hours for Fridays form part of the MPs' extended schedule.

After the adjournment today, MPs will put their flags away temporarily and turn to six high-priority items of legislation. When they return to the flag debate, an extended run is predicted by the critics.

So far, 36 speakers have been heard.

Thirteen Liberals and two Creditistes have come out for the flag design with three red maple leaves and against a national referendum on the flag issue.

FOR ENSIGN

Sixteen Conservatives have spoken, all favoring retention of the Red Ensign, a postponement of the debate and a referendum, usually in that order of preference.

Three Social Credit and two New Democratic MPs have expressed dissenting views.

Tornado Strikes Children's Camp, Kills Counsellor

Boy Has Neck Broken When Hit by Debris

VARNEY, Ont. (CP)—A tornado cut a narrow path of destruction through a children's ranching camp near here Thursday, killing one Newmarket youth and injuring two other persons.

James Raymond Fysh, 17, a counsellor at the exclusive camp for boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 17, died from a broken neck received when he was struck by flying debris as he tried to close shutters on the outside of a cabin.

Another counsellor, David Locke, 17, was taken to hospital in Owen Sound, 35 miles north of here, but his condition was not serious. A young boy, Ronald Smith, in the same cabin was treated for minor injuries at the scene.

Locke was on his bunk in the cabin when the tornado struck. Both he and the bunk were thrown through the wall when the cabin burst apart.

TORE OFF ROOF

The twister also tore the roof off a barn where the staff of the camp, Wayne Brush of Varney, had taken about 20 children for safety when he saw the dark cloud approaching.

P. D. Curzon, program director at the Rodeheaver camp, said the camp, which has been in operation about 10 years, was continuing as usual Thursday night and would remain open.

There were about 120 children on the farm when the storm struck.

Debris from the two demolished cabins was scattered as far as ¼ of a mile away.

Nyasaland Will Become Independent Republic

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Nyasaland becomes the independent republic of Malawi at midnight Sunday night and the lights go on for the last act of Britain's imperial role in Africa.

So far the drama has been a cliff-hanger. It could still end in tragedy.

After Malawi, Northern Rhodesia becomes independent Oct. 24. Then comes the final curtain. What the stage will be like when the curtain comes down depends largely on the performance, now or later, of the third member — Southern Rhodesia — the most central African federation of Northern and land.

Despite intermittent threats from Prime Minister Ian Smith of an illateral declaration of independence by Southern Rhodesia, some well - informed observers in Britain still believe that time and events will dissuade Smith and his colleagues from taking such a drastic step in Africa. Only four years ago, for instance, the obstacles to an independent Nyasaland seemed insurmountable, but now things have changed.

Prejudices have subtly slipped. White Rhodesians horrified at the idea of negotiating with Dr. Hastings Banda in 1960 now are prepared to welcome the black man as Malawi prime minister.

Whether the same process will take place in white-ruled Southern Rhodesia is hard to say. But there is little prospect of getting against it is the absence of a co-ordinated opposition, while black, for the present government.

Without an individual leader or political party to provide a polar attraction to Smith, there is little chance that a compromise can be reached that provide the foundation for peace as it has with other new Commonwealth countries.

A unilateral declaration of independence would be an overt act of rebellion against the Crown and would forfeit all the goodwill and sympathy for South ern Rhodesia's position that still exists among both old and new Commonwealth countries.

One Agency Would Plan Aid Projects

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Further details of Sir Alec Douglas-Home's plans for jabbing new economic life into the Commonwealth became clear today in advance of the 13th Commonwealth prime minister's conference.

The British prime minister's plans on a dramatic formula of aid and self-help among the flagging nations are being presented as an answer to charges that the Commonwealth has become a gigantic farce with its future behind it.

Douglas-Home apparently envisages the gathering-together of all Commonwealth aid programs—from financial aid to educational—under a single umbrella, involving a central agency or Commonwealth foundation.

This does not mean the 18 prime ministers and presidents will be called upon to make new agreements at their weeklong meeting opening Wednesday.

The first step would be discussions aimed at expanding present Commonwealth aid plans before embarking on new projects.

The British formula is seen as

Johnson Signs Civil Rights Bill, Tests of Law Commence Immediately

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights bill is the law of the United States today and civil rights groups immediately began testing its sweeping rulings in southern and northern states.

Three hours after the House of Reresentatives sent the legislation to the White House Thursday, President Johnson signed it with an appeal to all Americans to "join this effort to bring justice and hope to all our people."

From the South came indications the new law's constitutionality will be quickly challenged. Mississippi Governor Paul Johnson cautioned that he expects "some real trouble" when Negroes seek to desegregate public accommodations in that Deep South state.

Barely was the president's signature dry before civil rights organizations revealed plans to see if the law opens to Negroes the doors of motels, restaurants, theatres that had been closed to them.

"He ready to make a start—even though a modest one—by July 4," said the Congress of Racial Equality in instructing its southern chapters for probing racial policies in places of public accommodation.

The swiftest test came in the north—in Kansas City. One minute after the legislation became law a CORE sit-in was launched when a young Negro couldn't get a haircut in a hotel barber shop.

In the south, a spokesman for the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee said integrated groups were served for the first time in at least seven in Albany, Ga., establishments Thursday night.

Officials charged with enforcing the law are hoping for widespread voluntary compliance. But the government is preparing for courtroom battles and the justice department soon will ask Congress for more money to add more lawyers to its civil rights division.

In his address on signing the bill, broadcast by radio and television, the president stressed that the law first relies on voluntary compliance to achieve its goal of striking down racial barriers in employment, schools, voting, public accommodations and federally-aided programs.

Bethany School Plans Party To Observe Its Centennial

Residents of the No. 7 Bethany public school section in the 3rd concession of Thurlow township are going to have a party this coming weekend.

On Saturday and Sunday, July 9th and 10th, they will observe the 100th birthday of their small country school in which classes have been held regularly for the past century.

Saturday morning the old school bell will ring again for pupils of yesteryear, some of whom are coming from as far away as California for the event.

Saturday afternoon there will be a parade; there will be attendance prizes and a program of sports events.

On Sunday there will be a special church service in Bethany United Church, which was built back in 1866.

The Bethany District Centennial Committee members have gone to a great deal of work in planning an interesting program and in publishing a centennial booklet.

A historical background of the Bethany district and Thurlow township appears in the booklet, along with pictures of the old school and church, as well as class pictures dating back to before the turn of the century.

Says Woman Was Using Rigged Marker

TORONTO (CP) — Dora Billozir, 57, of Hamilton, charged with cheating at play, was using a rigged marker in a $1,000 charity bingo game May 25, two B'nai B'rith Lodge members claimed in court Thursday.

Marvin Friedly of Toronto, acting as caller at a lodge bingo game, said Mrs. Billozir was refused a $100 prize when it was claimed she was using a transparent marker on her card that had a number pasted to it.

Police found that four days later they found a slotted wallet in Mrs. Billozir's car which held several similarly marked discs and another wallet holding more discs in her purse.

Mrs. Billozir, Allan Belogan, said she had accidentally put the marked disc on her card after finding them in a bag in the women's washroom during an intermission.

James Cooper, in charge of the bingo game, said she won an earlier game on a number that was never called and that another disc was recovered from a plastic bag on her lap. The case continues today.

1961 when the government—at that time headed by Conservative prime minister Diefenbaker —put up a temporary $50,000,000 subsidy to offset the cost of a wage settlement that year with the non - operating work force.

ANTS LIMIT

The Liberal government is understood to have insisted that any new subsidy should also be temporary. It should be based on an impartial appraisal of the actual cost of raising the wages of the rail workers in freight sheds, shops and offices of the railways.

The railway presidents promised a definite reply to the government proposal within a few days.

"We will be in communication with the minister of labor in the course of the next few days," said CNR President Gordon, as he emerged smiling from his second meeting in six hours with Mr. Pearson.

"We have had full and extensive discussions with the government," he said, with CPR President Crump standing at his side.

A few hours later, Labor Minister MacEachen, a key figure in the Ottawa talks, boarded a plane to Cry to Geneva to attend next week's sessions of the International Labor Organization.

A source said his departure could be interpreted as a firm indication of the government's hopes of a settlement without any transcontinental strike.

DISPOSED BY BOARD

The wage increase was proposed by a federal conciliation board headed by Mr. Justice Lionel Monroe of Vancouver and supported by David Lewis, Toronto lawyer nominated to the board by the unions.

A minority report submitted by Halifax lawyer Gordon Cooper proposed a wage increase amounting to 12 cents an hour over the two-year contract period, Dec. 31, 1967.

Thus, the difference between the two proposals amounted to about seven cents an hour—the area in which the federal government's interest was said to be concentrated.

The wage award affects most of the railway work force except those who run trains. In past settlements, however, these running trades have benefitted from the non-op settlement.

BUILDING PERMITS RISE

Canadian municipalities issued building permits in June to cover construction estimated at $286,500,000, down by 1.3 per cent from $290,075,000 in April, 1965. The bureau of statistics said the total for the January-April period was up by 5 per cent to $777,481,000 from $720,788,000 in the corresponding 1965 period.

BANK STATEMENT

Government of Canada deposits increased by $23,150,000 to $56,239,000 in the week ended July 1, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday in its weekly financial statement. Chartered bank deposits decreased by $10,973,000 to $6,836,433,000 and notes in circulation increased by $25,675,000 to $2,836,160,000.

TREASURY BILLS

Government 91-day treasury bills sold this week: $105,000,000 at an average price and yield of $99.134 and 3.32 per cent, last week $99.112 and 3.39 per cent). 182-day bills: $30,000,000, average price and yield $98.326 and 3.73 per cent (last week 98.175 and 3.75 per cent).

Canoe Safety Being Taught In Y Pool

Something new has been added in the list of available courses at the YMCA.

It's a canoe instruction course aimed at the promotion of safety and the proper handling of this type of watercraft. Classes are being held at the new "Y" with practice sessions in the swimming pool.

The course got underway last night with 11 students joining the rundown on how to handle the proper type paddle and with trial runs of the canoe to check on stability and loading levels.

The various canoeing strokes were demonstrated, along with proper launching techniques and the right way to enter and leave a canoe.

Emphasis is always on safety, but just in case, one of the requirements of the canoe instructors is to be able to swim.

The course will be held every Thursday night during July and "Y" officials say there is room for a few more students in the first canoeing class in this area.

73 Boys, Girls Enjoying Camp At Oak Lake

Day camping for 1966 opened at St. Mary's Rifle Club, Oak Lake on Monday. 48 boys and 25 girls are enjoying a well-organized day camp program. Main feature of this first or three two-week camping periods is swimming, under the Lafferty and Eleanor Boyd are handling groups of boys.

Al Cumsford, crafts director, has put together a crafts program to challenge and satisfy the "artsy-craftsy" that visit him twice daily. The crafts director also doubles as guitar-playing, song-singing, lunch-time impresario.

Mrs. Jan Wilson, co-director, has guided and motivated the eight counsellors into their instructive, thinking team. Outdoor cooking, firemaking, suitable means for open-fire cooking, safety with hatchet and campfire, all have been taught by demonstration. In addition, all campers cook their noon-hour lunches on an open fire twice weekly. In this way, what has been "preached" is "practised".

WATER QUITE LOW

The level of water in the swimming area is considerably lower than in previous summers. The camp staff decided against swimming in this area at a recent organization meeting. The YMCA camp is a rescue and made available the new pool in the new building. Buses bring campers back to the YMCA for swimming on a rota basis.

Once again the Audubon Society's Juniper program is being used to supplement the work done by counsellors. This year the topic under consideration is "Birds."

On Thursday, the day the rains came, a special program was put into effect. The camp-arts brought their Hallowe'en costumes to camp. Buildings were suitably decorated, "spook house" was created. Skits and songs contributed to the Hallowe'en atmosphere.

Thus far, campers and staff alike are having fun and enjoying a well-rounded camp program.

Duncan Ivison Bid Farewell By Association

Fellow employees honored Duncan Ivison of the Belleville Income Tax office with a farewell presentation at a recent gathering.

Dunc was educated in Ottawa and at Carleton University. He articled with Geo. A. Welch and Co. chartered accountants, Ottawa and later transferred to their Belleville office receiving his C.A. designation in 1964.

In leaving Belleville for Gananoque to return to public accounting, with Watkins, Gentry, chartered accountants, Duncan, his wife, the former Mary Ellis of this city and their two children take with them not only the best wishes of the Belleville Income Tax Staff Association but those of the many friends and business acquaintances they have made during their residence in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivison's new address will be 85 James Street, Gananoque.

umberland) said a plebiscite would settle the matter and point up cultural divisions. A large majority of French - Canadians, proud people of all languages and cultures, and immigrants wanted a distinctive flag.

He set against this feeling would be a split. Our nation would be "torn asunder," she said. "The important thing is to pursue that policy that will divide us least."

Miss Jewett appealed to fellow MPs to disregard their own personal preferences for a flag, overlook sentiment and their constituency feelings and vote for the flag that will begg serve Canada.

"What will least divide us?" that is by far the most important question," she said.

Adoption of the maple leaf flag would not alienate any part of the country, but if it is to be preserved spiritually it must be taken in dealing with matters such as flags.

Miss Jewett said letters from her constituency reveal sharp opinions on the flag issue, but a great many of the supporters of the Red Ensign had anti-French sentiments.

What we like it or not, she said, the French-speaking people have lived in Canada a long time and have lived amicably with English - speaking Canadians. "The French - speaking Canadians, like the rest of us, know that a distinctive new flag was necessary to the cause of national unity.

Miss Jewett said she didn't think that particular maple leaf design was good, but she was happy with the proposed three-leaf flag. She thought one with 10 leaves would be "downright good."

Such a design would offer greater scope for "artistic expression" and additional leaves could be added if more provinces were brought into Canada.

John A. Irving (C — London) said he was pleased to spend the summer in Ottawa to prevent the government from "shoving that flag down our throats in a dictatorial fashion."

WANTS COMMITMENT

He said Mr. Pearson should demand from the Quebec government a written commitment that Quebec will not break away from Canada during the 1967 centennial.

If Premier Jean Lesage refused to give such a commitment, the federal government should move the 1967 Montreal world's fair to another part of the country.

Joseph O'Keefe (L — St. John's East) said he is sure the Union Jack and the Red Ensign will continue to be flown unofficially in Canada, but the maple leaf flag would have a great national symbol within 50 years.

Gordon Fairweather (C—Royal) said October might accept the maple leaf flag in the short term but in a few years it would be ridiculed because it contained nothing to show the French cultural heritage.

Wallace Nesbitt (C — Oxford) said many Liberals and Conservatives in their parties would vote for the new flag only because they don't want an election. The government had failed to explain its "inherent haste" in pressing for a new flag.

RETURNS TO ARROGANCE

Marvin Howe (C—Wellington — Dufferin) said the government's determination to have the flag issue decided before a summer recess was a return to the arrogance of other Liberal governments.

The government was saying "who's going to stop us?"

Mr. Howe felt it was his duty to oppose the new flag. Judging from letters and petitions he had received, he was reflecting the opinion of his riding.

Lucien J. Godin (L — Nickel Belt) said he was very certain" that the maple leaf flag will unite Canada in a permanent way.

There was sentiment for the Red Ensign, but the new flag was offering an emblem that treated all Canadians equally.

He couldn't understand why opposition members complained about the resolution being introduced without debate. The issue of a distinctive flag was on the platform of every political party in the country, and the Liberal party announced its intentions through two election campaigns.

Must Make Satisfactory Arrangement

MONTREAL (CP)—Historian Claude Bruchesi said Thursday French Canada must make every effort to work out a satisfactory arrangement with English Canada if it wants to benefit from Confederation if faced with disappearance as a community.

The history professor at Montreal's Jean de Brebeuf Classical College spoke following a French-language service club.

"Six million human beings cannot sign their own death warrant," Mr. Bruchesi said. "If it is proved beyond reasonable doubt that we would be condemned to disappear by remaining within Confederation, it will be the duty of French-Canadians to try another path, to form our own state."

He said the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism has aggravated the situation.

"It has allowed the English-speaking people to harden their positions on the French-Canadians too."

Mr. Bruchesi also called on French-speaking Canadians to admit they had themselves to blame for not taking advantage of what the constitution gave them.

"English - speaking Canadians have made the most of the constitution — which they accepted rather reluctantly to the terms imposed by the French- and made a e barrowloads of money," he said.

"They took over the spheres of commerce, industry and finance while French - Canadians were making lawyers, notaries and notaries by the ton, pulling back into their Quebec reserve, ghetto."

Marcotte

son had spent some time discussing the Marcotte case. He said the Governor-General had suggested an examination of the case and Mr. Pearson had agreed.

This order arrived at the jail shortly after 7 p.m. where it was received by Sheriff J. P. Caisse. He sent his deputy to advise Marcotte.

Sheriff Caisse said he was told that Marcotte received the news calmly. The prisoner would remain in the death cell pending the new execution date, July 10.

An hour after news of the postponement broke, Justice Minister Favreau called a press conference here to make it official. He read this statement:

"I wish to confirm that the prime minister has spoken to the Governor - General today about the Marcotte case.

"After the prime minister discussed the matter with Mr. Michener-Governor-General Wardbaugh and other members of the cabinet, it was felt advisable that a reprieve of one month should be granted to allow the provincial attorney-general and all other authorities concerned time to consider once more additional evidence brought forward by the defence counsel in this matter. It is one of the Governor-General's prerogatives to accord such a reprieve."

Under questioning, Mr. Favreau said the governor-general can only act on the advice of the cabinet.

APPEAL TO QUEEN

Marcotte's lawyers also took his case to the Queen Thursday, sending her a telegram at Buckingham Palace seeking a recommendation of mercy and a pace spokesman in London said they hoped the royal clemency would have to be exercised back to the Queen's representatives in Canada.

Mr. Maynard was in Mr. Favreau's office for the press conference. He said he will apply Monday for a new trial on the basis of fresh evidence.

This evidence is expected to establish that Marcotte did not take part in the Santa Claus holdup that was "framed" by two witnesses at the original trial.

Two others were charged in the holdup-slaying. Jean-Paul Fournel was sentenced June 8 to life imprisonment in Quebec capital murder. Jules Reeves, who was found unfit to stand trial and ordered held in the asylum. He had suffered a stroke.

Fournel was the chief Crown witness at Marcotte's trial in February. He identified Marcotte as the one who wore the Santa Claus outfit. Fournel also testified that he fired one shot at a police officer escaping through a back window of the bank.

ADMITTED KILLINGS

Mrs. Real Fournel, a sister-in-law of Fournel, testified that Marcotte told her: "I have just killed two policemen."

Marcotte had been charged with the slayings of two policemen, Constables Claude Martineau, 36, and Denis Brabant, 31. He was convicted of murdering Martineau and sentenced to be hanged May 29. The second charge was not proceeded with.

The original execution date was changed to July 3 pending completion of Marcotte's trial.

The robbery loot was largely in registered Canada savings bonds and travellers' cheques. Only $6,566 was cash.

Some $64,000 in negotiable bonds were recovered in the theft car, which was found abandoned the same day in the town of Mount Royal, a northwest Montreal suburb bordering on St. Laurent. The cash and $58,000 in bonds and Canadian travellers' cheques have not been found.

Powerful Soviet Crew Breaks Course Record

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) A powerful Soviet eight today broke by seven seconds the course record for the Grand Challenge Cup at the Royal Henley Regatta.

The Soviets, an all - muscle crew of Lithuanian rowing for Klub Zjalghiris Vilnjius, overwhelmed their British opponents with a time of six minutes, 23 seconds and moved into the finals where they are favored to win.

The Soviets had announced before today's race they would attack the record on the one-mile, 550-yard course on the Thames River at this picturesque English town near London but few riversides experts expected they could do it by so wide a margin.

When the race ended the Thames Rowing Club of Britain trailed by 70 yards.

The former record was held by Cornell University and before the Soviets arrived the 1957 American eight was recognized as the finest of oarsmen ever to arrive on the Thames.

IN GOBLETS

The record fell on the third day of the four-day regatta in which a Canadian paired with an American to win the semi-final of the Silver Goblets for paired oars.

John Lecky of Vancouver, looked upon as a strong hope to win a gold medal for Canada at the Tokyo Olympics in October, and John Kelly won by three lengths in 7:22—four seconds slower than the record they set for the event Wednesday.

Lecky, who stands six feet four inches, was described by the London amateur rowing correspondent earlier this year as the "most powerful oarsman in Britain today, at his best."

The big North Americans, together upping the scales at 359 pounds, proved much too strong for Stuart Douglas-Mann and Riley Rand of the Leander Club of England. Lecky and Kiely also row with the Leander Club and are schoolmates at Cambridge University.

MEET IN FINAL

They will meet M. J. Hall and A. R. Napier of England in Saturday's final.

Twas the third day of racing at this picturesque riverside town about 30 miles from the centre of London and saw British, Danish and Americans sweep to victory.

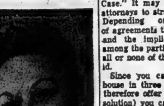
A British crew of George Justice and Mick Birkmyre, record holders in the double sculls, won their event by two lengths over New Zealand's D. A. Holeswort and T. J. Reid. They meet a Danish crew in the double sculls finals.

Trial for Theft

A Belleville man was committed for trial today for stealing men's clothes from a parked automobile.

George Gill, 24, requested trial by judge and jury when first arraigned. Magistrate T. Y. Wills ordered him on trial at the conclusion of this morning's preliminary hearing.

Bail was set at $500 cash.



Gill is charged with stealing the clothes, including coats, shirts and sportsjackets, from an automobile parked outside a city hotel.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

A great many letters are received from irate citizens complaining about rising real estate taxes, and blaming the government. The following letter presents the other side of the question — and in this case, apparently the citizens themselves are to blame.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: In the nearly ten years since I have been its mayor, our town has grown steadily and rapidly. It is an almost entirely residential community and our growth has incurred a continuing growth in the tax rate.

It is clear to me and our council that if we are to maintain the standards of community services, taxes and rates must continue to increase — unless we can establish a new tax base including industry and commercial development.

There is a great reluctance to accept this, and our citizens have expressed a strong desire to remain a purely residential community. As personal knowledge I know that your column is widely read in our town, and I would consider it a great public service if you discussed this problem and the solutions that may be indicated from your experience." — L. I. F., Mayor

Answer: One of the basic corollaries of social development is that the larger and more densely populated a community, the higher the cost of services and the higher the taxes. The problem is especially difficult in communities where single family houses provide the bulk of the tax income. As new housing is added — especially in the middle and lower priced brackets — the unit cost in services (schools, police and fire protection, sanitary and health facilities — even government administration) increases more than tax revenues.

The principal alternative to higher taxes is, as you suggest, after the tax base to include units that provide more in tax income than it costs to service them. Industry provides the net gain (tax-income minus the cost of services).

Commercial development offers a lower, but substantial net gain. Apartment developments provide a smaller net gain, except for the most expensive houses and low density educations — usually result in a net loss to the community. Therefore, if the citizens in your community do not agree to a better mix of land uses, higher and higher taxes would appear to be inevitable.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My real estate problem started when we couldn't decide what broker to list our house with. Although we were going to postpone a decision until we returned from a vacation, I went ahead and listed it with a fellow member of my club. When we returned he had a buyer and I signed the agreement of sale.

Then I discovered that my wife (whose sister's husband is a broker) and our married son, who lives with us and jointly owns the house (his broker was a former roommate from college) also signed agreements of sale with buyers their brokers had found.

We are still arguing about what agreement to honor and what broker should get the commission. Could you please help us settle this? — C. L. B.

Answer: Readers sometimes accuse me of using my imagination to create these situations. Your letter is welcome because it proves truth is indeed wilder than the imagination.

The best way to settle problems is which broker is entitled to the commission — if any. You have created a situation known in the profession as a "Supreme Court Case." It may take a corps of attorneys to straighten this out. Depending on the types of agreements that were signed, and the implied relationships among the parties signing them, all or none of them may be valid.

Since you can't split your house in three (and I can't, therefore offer a King Solomon solution) you can probably look forward to a busy legal year.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We are in a state of shock! We had had our basement finished as a recreation room and paid the contractor $2,200.

Today we received a notice that there was a lien against us for $760. From a supplier who was not paid by the contractor for materials. This supplier said that if he isn't paid immediately he will put our house up for sheriff's sale.

Answer: Mechanic's lien laws differ, but in many states a materials supplier who has not received payment can file a lien — even though he has not dealt directly with the home owner.

As a general rule, the best protection is to have an attorney draw up a release of liens to be signed by the contractor and his suppliers and the persons who have done work for him on the job (plumbers, electricians, etc.) before making final payment.

In your case, by all means have your attorney check your liability and what recourse you might have by suing the contractor — although if your contractor is as untrustworthy as your experience indicates, you may have trouble collecting.

RED SCHOOLHOUSE SOLD

Sometime ago we printed a letter from a reader who had impulsively acquired and then wanted to sell a little red schoolhouse. We received and forwarded a flood of inquiries and offers to buy it — there appears to be much more active "Little Red Schoolhouse Market" than I would have suspected.

I am happy to report that it has been sold — and at a small profit, which proves, I suppose, that money can be made in real estate even from the most impetuous actions.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to go into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Fruit Pickers, Farm Workers Badly Needed

Anybody want a job as a fruit picker or possibly as a farm worker?

If so the opportunity now is good, either in the Belleville area or in other parts of Ontario.

Cecil Hiuser, manager of the Belleville employment office, said today that there was a good demand for cherry and peach pickers in the Niagara area, while an experienced farm worker with ability to operate milking machine or other mechanical equipment, would have little difficulty in getting a job in any part of Ontario.

Many workers, mostly women, went to work this week at the Shannonville canning factory to assist in canning strawberries. Later raspberries and tomato juice will be canned at the Shannonville factory.

MORE SEEKING JOBS

But the school holiday season has upped the number of job-seekers in the Belleville area with approximately 400 of the undergraduates and high school students registering still in the job seeking category.

The still unplaced high school students together with mine workers discharged from the new all-but-closed Faraday Uranium Mine near Bancroft, have helped to swell job seekers at the Belleville office.

As of the end of June there were 1,512 persons looking for jobs as compared with 1,385 a year ago, or an increase of approximately 10 per cent.

At the same time, however, there were more persons placed in jobs during June—328 as compared with 284 last year.

Construction is coming at a good pace in the city and district and this is helping to take up the labor slack.

Paper Named As Defendent In Libel Action

SARNIA (CP) — The Sarnia Gazette Publishing Company Limited and Marcel Saddy, editor and publisher of the weekly newspaper, were named as defendants Thursday in a libel action instituted in a Supreme Court writ filed at the office of the Supreme Court registrar.

The writ was issued by Sarnia lawyer John Wing on behalf of seven members of the International Typographical Union (CLC), Local 837, which has maintained a picket line at the Gazette's plant since April 14.

The plaintiffs claim the libel was contained in an article headed "Eight weeks of picketing all over but the shouting" published on the front page of The Gazette June 11.

The typographical staff of the newspaper was seeking a first contract between the local and management.

The newspaper has continued to publish regularly, employing non-union staff.

Legionnaires Will View Colored Film

TRENTON — Next Thursday night, July 14, starting at 8:30 p.m., the colored film "Fields of Sacrifice" will be shown at the Legion Hall.

No admission will be charged to this tribute to the 100,000 Canadians who died abroad in the service of their country. The film has been made available for local showing by James Williams, area Molson's representative.

As the film was compiled by the National Film Board of Canada, working in co-operation with the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the original was presented to Judge Sparling, immediate past president of the Royal Canadian Legion by Gordon Way (formerly of Wooler), chief information officer for the RCAF at the Legion's Centennial Conference in Winnipeg this spring.

The film depicts the graves of the fallen in various countries where Canadians have fought and died and shows up the loving care with which the graves of the men are tended by grateful citizens of these countries.

NO CHILDREN HURT

In June, 37 motor vehicle accidents resulted in damages estimated at $8,100; injuries were injured and accidents, where more than $100 in damages was done, or persons injured totalled 14.

According to the report released on Thursday by Police Chief F. J. Taylor, no school aged children were injured in motor accidents during the month and hit-and-run accidents numbered four.

Strange Interlude

U.S. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy has publicly stated he does not believe the assassination of his brother was the result of a conspiracy, by communists or others.

Since this opinion, voiced on Monday, marked the first occasion on which Robert Kennedy had spoken publicly about his brother's murder, it was newsworthy in itself.

Some people, however, may regard as of even greater significance the manner in which Mr. Kennedy came to make his observation.

It was made at Krakow, in Poland, and was in response to a question by a 25-year-old Pole, head of the students' union. Holding this position in a communist-ruled land, the student is almost certainly himself a communist. One wonders what prompted the question. Had Polish officials, in private conversation with Kennedy, learned of his views on the assassination and was the question "planted" in order to make these views public? If not, was not the student taking a grave risk? What would have been the official reaction if Kennedy had said he believed Lee Harvey Oswald was acting under Red orders, or even that he acted on his own because of communist beliefs?

And, if the motives of the questioner give rise to interesting conjectures, what about the prompt reply of the man questioned? Robert Kennedy shares with his late brother the gift of being able to appear open and almost naive, when it serves his purpose. But the record of the Kennedy clan suggests this is more likely to be the result of art than of artlessness. The Kennedys have proven themselves sophisticated and tough-minded politicians. When Kennedy answered promptly, it can only be because he desired to do so, because, at the very least, he believed it would do neither him, his party nor his country any harm—and quite probably because he believed it would be of actual advantage to any or all of them for this reply to be made, at this place, at this time?

What was his object, if he had one? A rapprochement between Poland and the U.S.? Was he seeking to take advantage of the fact he was a Catholic, talking in a nation which, while communist-ruled, is still overwhelmingly Catholic?

Or is all this reading far too much into a casual incident? Could it be possible that for once, a Kennedy was speaking without there being political gain involved?

New Threat to Cigarettes

Cigarette manufacturers in the U.S. are worried about a new Federal Trade Commission rule that requires cigarettes to carry a label stating they are a health hazard.

A much greater threat to continued cigarette sales lurks hidden in the results of medical research on coronary heart disease.

Smoking is often described as a factor in heart disease. However, a New York heart specialist reports a survey of 6,000 persons in 14 occupational groups showed that persons who never smoked had a significantly higher coronary heart disease rate than those who stopped smoking.

Presumably, though this was not spelled out in the report we saw, those who smoked and continued smoking had the highest rates of all. That, though, is beside the point. The significant thing is that those who stopped smoking gained a reward for their abstinence.

Now if a research scientist could show that those who stop smoking have a significantly lower rate of lung cancer than those who never smoke at all—why there would be a flood of cigarette smokers swearing off. It is the nagging fear they might go through the agony of swearing off without reaping the reward they feel they deserve which keeps many smokers puffing away.

We Need a New Flag

The Red Ensign is the target of many critics, these days. But, to judge by what is flying above our City Hall, it has as much need for protection from its friends as from its foes. It seems rather incongruous that a city which takes pride in flying the Ensign would permit it to fly in such a tattered, torn and moth-eaten condition.

South of the border, people can be arrested for flying a flag at the wrong time of day or in the wrong position. Surely, American tourists turning off Bridge Street onto Front must look up at our poor Red Ensign and wonder.

Since we are not going to have the new flag for a while, would it not be a smart, and the right thing to do, for council to buy a new Red Ensign, as temporary as it may be?

Ottawa Offbeat

Pity Laing vs. Levesque Fight Staged in Private

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Too bad, really, that those "negotiations" between Resources Minister Reta Levesque and Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing over the ultimate fate of Ungava's 3,800 Eskimos have been conducted in private.

Here, surely, was one show the taxpayer should be entitled to see for his tax dollar.

In this corner, Rene Levesque — the fire-eating nationalist from Quebec City who seems to scare everybody including his own leader, Premier Jean Lesage, and Prime Minister Pearson too, with all those wildly swinging "French-Canada-is-a-Separate-State" views of his.

And in this corner, Arthur Laing, political pin-up of the Pearson Government — at least among those Liberals — and there are more and more of them every day — who, deeply concerned, think it's long past time somebody put Rene Levesque in his place.

For years, these Ungava Eskimos, Anglicans and English-speaking, have been the responsibility of the Federal Government.

For months, Rene Levesque has demanded their delivery into the care of his Catholic and French - speaking provincial department.

"AND GET OUT"

Nobody, but nobody so far in Ottawa, has said a firm, uncompromising "no" to Rene Levesque.

But then, nobody, especially in Quebec City, has made Arthur Laing an offer he could not even Rene Levesque.

There they were, as Arthur Laing and Rene Levesque termed "negotiating" their differences.

Picture it if you can. The cocksure Levesque, blustering and rebellious against the Dominion-Provincial administrative status quo. And artful Arthur, perched so aptly by his admirers in the Speaker's chair in the backbenches alike as "quietly and stubbornly unmoving as mountains."

What a terrible show it must have been when the irresistible force met the immovable object — while political object in what was seriously called "negotiations".

What lightning flashes of temper! What thunder-claps of tooth-gnashing!

From an eye-witness comes this: "We threw away account of one abrupt session of those negotiations."

Those abrupt sessions the then still continuing discussions, addressing himself to Arthur Laing in the chair, Levesque, disarming and altogether conciliatory terms:

"In Ungava you have the staff. You have the buildings. You have the money. Hand them all over. And get out."

It was just like that, Blunt. Even brutally so.

"This is negotiating?" shrugged Arthur Laing amiably.

"Out," shouted Rene Levesque. "Put all your staff in and everything. Then negotiate."

Negotiation remains "open," but in an unbreakable state of what Ottawa knows as "suspension."

But, what a show! For fire-works like that they could have charged admission.

TO EACH HIS OWN

Majority of Parliamentarians certainly Conservatives, and definitely a majority of Canadians — in fact, just about everybody except Real Caouette's Creditistes — are glad to have been fed up to here with this kind of one-way "negotiating" that Quebec has seemingly trying to impose on the rest of the country.

Into the Federal - Provincial tax pie, Quebec, still, as always, never gets enough of the dough to match the ache she takes out.

Part of Quebec's out-size portion comes out of what Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta put into the national taxdollar mix.

So, obviously, with just this in mind, along now come four Senators — two Conservatives, Wallace McCutcheon of Ontario and Jacques Flynn of Quebec, and two Liberals, Tom Crerar of Manitoba and Salter Hayden of Ontario — with an instant cure for what ails Rene Levesque.

Just let the Federal and Provincial administrations conform to the basic principle of each level of Government being responsible for raising the money it intends to spend, Senator Crerar who has been on Parliament Hill watching the way the political ball bounces since 1917.

He spoke, and sagely from a perspective of nearly 30 years a Parliamentarian.

Senator Crerar it was who only recently suggested another instant cure for Rene Levesque's acute case of Quebec "independentitis."

"Let 'em go," he counselled, "let 'em go in peace, but be sure they take their share of the national debt with them."

Quebec and Levesque simply couldn't afford the prohibitively expensive luxury of "go - it - aloneness."

Censoring Mother Goose

Stratford Beacon-Herald

Skins are getting pretty thin these days.

In the public library in New London, Connecticut, the librarian has been cutting pages out of books, to avoid wounding sensitive feelings.

It wasn't a new book, it was neither pornographic nor political, and children had been reading it, or being read to from it, for 30 years without being visibly corrupted.

The book was a 1917 edition of Mother Goose rhymes. The pages that were cut out were found to be offensive because they contained the lines "Easy, messy, misy me; catch a pigeon by the toe." The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has a chapter in New London. A gentleman named Linwood W. Bland, Jr., who is the head of the chapter, complained to the library board that these lines are, "insulting, degrading, offensive, libel and slander, and not in keeping with the times."

There was a second complaint. The book was also found to contain the verses which begin, "Ten little nigger boys sitting on a fence." If we understand correctly the report we have been reading, the NAACP chapter took the stand that these lines would have been acceptable if they had referred to "Ten Italian boys sitting on a fence." As they were, however, they were said to be unacceptable, and so they too were cut out of the book.

If it is possible to corrupt the minds of innocent children by letting them hear or read about "Peter Piper picking" no . . . there is no hope for us. The great majority of readers of this newspaper, for instance, were corrupted long ago.

The only kinds of people about whom we can safely make any joking reference, these days, are the Irish and the Scots.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 2, 1864 . . .

The city of Quebec was founded by French explorer Samuel de Champlain—the first settlement in New France—on this day in 1608. It had been more than a century since Columbus had reached America. For a number of years after its founding Quebec was no more than a trading post, reached only by a difficult route. Twenty years after the founding of Quebec boasted about 100 inhabitants, six families, and an economy founded on farming.

1916—Fire at Cobalt, Ont., left 2,000 of the 5,000 residents homeless.

Busy Nickels

Halifax Mail-Star

It looks as though the familiar saying that a nickel doesn't do nothing nowadays will have to be altered. For the fact is that there are simply not enough nickels to go round. They must be in demand for doing something. . . . Coin-operated machines, pay-telephones, stamp vending machines, toll roads and bridges — even the ever more popular coin collection — all demand metal currency. Never, in fact, has the humble nickel been busier.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

July 2nd, 1934

You've heard of long eggs, short eggs and perhaps fat and thin eggs, but the Bidding of this district have not been backward in producing the popular breakfast food with various designs superimposed upon the shell. However, the latest henhouse freak is that deposited by a five-months' old pullet belonging to Mr. R. Gibson of Hillier. This glamor chick of the barnyard holds her head high for she laid a large egg the other day that is flat on its sides. How it occurred the youngster won't tell. But her owner states that she will probably patent the new style which is so shaped as to prevent it from rolling off the table.

A near drowning occurred off the Government Wharf on Friday evening when a row boat capsized throwing John C. Downer of Toronto, who is temporarily residing at the Y.M.C.A. here, into the heavy seas. Two other persons who had been in the boat managed to climb safely to the dock before Friday night's storm broke with unabated fury up the bay. The two Red Ensign flags were Ted Austin of Everett, Street and Beatie Hazlewood of Trenton.

Sixteen years ago, Wally Goodwin, head of the censorship office in Australia, while visiting in Toronto checked 4 or 5 thirds of a bottle of whisky in the check-room of a hotel there (Mine Edward). Tonight, the Lottie will be claimed by the holders of Goodwin's check ticket . . . Philip Gibbs visiting newspapermen from Australia — Allan Dawes, Don Whittington and Fred Smith — touring Canada under auspices of the Wartime Information Board have arrived in Belleville and will be in charge of the town at 2 o'clock when they attend a dinner in their honor at the hotel tonight.

Mr. Delbert Frost is home from Syracuse, N. Y., on a visit.

Dr. W. C. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell of Sudbury are visiting the former's parents, Mr. W. F. Campbell, George Street.

Mr. W. C. Mikel and family left today for Twelve O'Clock Point where they will spend the summer.

The Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain died on July 2nd, at his home in London, Eng. He was 78 years of age and was active in parliamentary life for many years. Ill health forced his retirement in 1906.

Mrs. O. H. (Martin) Day of Winnipeg and formerly of Belleville is visiting relatives here.

Air Canada In Maritimes

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

Air Canada's suspension of its early morning flight from Halifax to Saint John has awakened many to the realization that regional air services are far from adequate to meet the needs of this part of Canada.

The national airline has committed itself to a policy which demands a fleet of large aircraft operating over lengthy route patterns. The Viscount with a seating capacity of 51 is the smallest airplane now employed by Air Canada. Plans for the future envisage the introduction of domestic schedules of the Vanguard, with 72 seats, in considerably larger.

When TCA flew 14-passenger Lodestars and 21-passenger DC-3s in the Maritimes, service was frequent. Actually, fewer seats were available, but there were more flights at the disposal of travellers.

It is permitted to ask what will happen when 72-passenger aircraft are assigned to routes which now cannot sustain the frequent use of 51-passenger Viscounts?

Air Canada's image of itself is of a great transoceanic and transcontinental system. But it also has an obligation as a regional carrier, and it is this article which currently is being ignored.

Meat Joins Sasky Wheat

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

Saskatchewan, the wheat province will be known some day as Saskatchewan, the wheat and meat province. In fact, this sturdy growth in livestock population on farms, especially in beef cattle, enables this province to stake a claim as one of the nation's most important meat - producing areas.

Between 1942 and 1963, the cattle and calf population increased from 1,458,000 to 1,147,000. In 1961, Saskatchewan farmers marketed a record total of 1,455,000 cattle, calves, hogs and sheep and lambs.

Cattle and calves accounted for more than 50 per cent of animals marketed in 1961, and all livestock, exclusive of poultry, accounted for $137 million in farmers' cash income. So 1961 tied the previous record between record set in 1952.

To Your Good Health

Some TB Patients Respond To Treatment Very Quickly

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Twenty years ago my husband was admitted to a sanitarium for a spot on the lung. He was released six months later, doctors having found everything negative.

Four months ago he had X-rays and a sputum test, and the sputum was positive. He was sent to the same sanitarium and is taking medication. All sputum tests now are negative but the doctors do not speak of a release. Is there a specific time for which such a patient must be confined? — Worried Wife.

It doesn't sound as though you have too much cause for worry; your husband evidently is making progress.

No, there is no specific time. Some patients respond better to treatment than others; some have suffered on a lung involvement than others.

The continued negative sputum tests (treatment may have done a wonderfully good job in suppressing the germs) are an excellent sign, nevertheless. In a good many cases patients are released very quickly, once repeated tests show the absence of germs and such patients then can be treated at home or on an outpatient basis. They just need to get a point at which they no longer are a peril to others. They won't be allowed to go home from Syracuse, N. Y., on a visit.

But that isn't the whole story. If X-ray tests at intervals show the lungs to be continuing to improve, it is often best to keep the patient where he is. Don't rock the boat when you are making progress!

When the situation stabilizes, that is the strategic time to talk about release. There is no reliable way to predict exactly when this may occur.

We all can sympathize with the patient who feels good, knows he is no longer a menace to others, and would like to leave the hospital.

We can sympathize, too, with his wish that somebody would tell him exactly when he can no longer be ought to stay. Yet that can't be done, dependably. If you specify some number of weeks or months, at the end of that time it may be necessary to tell him to stay still longer.

And that's when the patient becomes really frustrated. He'd better to wait until you are sure before you tell the patient he should be released.

The goal of the doctors for all patients is to send them home as soon as possible, but that isn't keeping your husband without good reason.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am European born but have been residing in Canada for years. I was born with a birthmark on my cheek. Could skin grafting be performed? — If so would you tell me the best doctor or clinic? — H. S.

In general the answer is yes. Most of these blemishes can be removed. Some may leave a scar, but an inconspicuous one. In other cases you can hardly see anything.

I can't recommend individual doctors or clinics, for since you live in the city, ask your own doctor to refer you to a plastic surgeon; or ask one of the major hospitals to tell you some of its doctors who handle such cases; or ask the county medical society to give you two or three names of specialists doing this work. In any of these ways you will be referred to fully-qualified doctors.

Note to Mrs. C. S.: I know of nothing dependable for whitling except cosmetics or stains to make the light areas blend with your normal skin color. For what consolation you find in it, at least vitiligo poses no threat to your health.

Strictly Personal

No Person Can Wholly See Another

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The two young people, about to announce their engagement, told me that they understood each other "perfectly and completely," and no doubt they thought me cynical or slightly senile when I shrugged my shoulders and smiled sceptically at their protestation.

But the fact is that much as they are in love, no person can wholly see another person — and what we cannot wholly see, we cannot wholly understand. We can only have faith, which is quite another matter.

We cannot even see a whole apple, much less a person. Every apple has its obvarse and reverse, yet who can see them at once? We can, of course, we see only a reflection.

At each given moment, we see only a part of the apple, and build up the rest in our mind's eye from the part we have seen. But in the totality, in its three-dimensionality, the apple remains incomplete to us. "Every object is depth," says Ortega, "withholds some secret from us."

And how much more so the person. Hamlet quite properly informed his friends that they could not pluck out the heart of his mystery. And his mystery was — himself; that part unknown to everyone, even his dearest friend, Horatio, even Hamlet himself at times.

Gabriel Marcel, many years ago, wrote a fine book called The Mystery of the Person." It is a title worth remembering, because in modern times this mystery (which lits all proper mysteries, has a sacred origin) runs the risk of being dissolved into its lifeless components.

There are many who consider the person chiefly as Economic Man. There are those, equally prevalent and powerful who would reduce him to Psychological Man. There are the Positivists and super-scientists who would admit nothing but Physical Man. And there is as though a dollar's worth of phosphates explained love and honor and sacrifice.

The whole person cannot be known by human means alone, and he is in great danger of being violated: his privacy removed, his passions anatomized, his whole life, if he is successful, recorded, his reactions tabulated on a curve, his ultimate identity reduced to a combination of digits, a tag, a license, an area code, a zip code, and, finally, a dossier.

It was sweet and touching that the two young people thought they understood each other "perfectly and completely." Ten years from now, they will not be sure, and twenty years from now, if they gain in wisdom, they will have the courage and honesty to admit that they do not, and never did. Nor do they need to: it is the charge of love to attempt to correct from mystery to no surrender so elusive and yet so heavy that no two of mere reason could transmit or support it.

Conservatives Outline Platform For Election

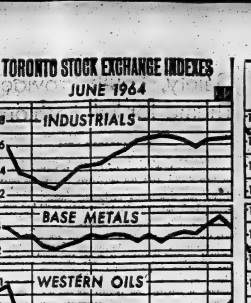
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Douglas-Home outlined a four-point platform today for his Conservative party's campaign to repel the Labor party's challenge in the fall election.

In an interview with The Daily Telegraph, Douglas-Home said he believes the election should be fought on these issues:

1. Maintaining full employment and the competitive position of British industry in export markets.

2. Labor plans for nationalization " which only part of the iceberg is showing."

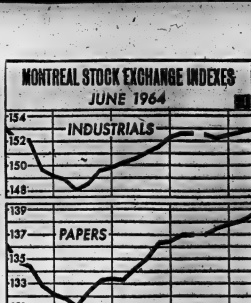
3. Britain's independent nuclear deterrent, which Labor Party Leader Harold Wilson says he will scrap if he takes over the government.



4. The genuine differences between the Conservative and Labor philosophies.

Under the fourth heading, Douglas-Home made clear that the Conservative election manifesto will suggest sweeping changes in Britain's welfare state system.

"As I see it," he said, "our task, while maintaining and improving existing rates of benefit, will be to concentrate the resources we have more on those most in need."



The election must be held by Nov. 5. The date is up to Douglas-Home.

The Conservatives now hold a majority in Commons of more than 90 seats. Opinion polls and recent special elections suggest, however, that if the vote were held now Labor would win by at least 60 seats.

SLIGHT DECLINES — The industrial index on the Toronto Stock Exchange climbed slightly during June, rising to 156.63 from 156.59 at the beginning of the month. All other index figures dropped.

Base metals declined to 63.98 from 64.10, western oils dropped to 99.37 from 101.91 and golds dropped to 132.02 from 134.59. (CP Newsmap)

PAPERS HIGHER — The papers index on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchange reached 137.8 at the end of June, the only index to show an advance for the month.

The industrial index was down to 152.5 from 153.1, banks were at 125.8 at the end of the month, down 1.1 and utilities fell to 137.2 from 137.9. (CP Newsmap)

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was active and, quality considered, prices were strong to higher on steers, heifers and yearlings at the public stockyards this week.

The lack of volume was attributed to the fact that the New York Stock Exchange is closed today for the July 4 holiday observance.

In industrials, Moore Corp. and Chrysler Corp. added ¼ each to 56¼ and 54¼ respectively. CPR lacked on ⅛ to 46⅝ while Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Distillers Seagram climbed ¼ each to 66 and 60.

Noranda was up ¼ to 46¾ and Rio Algom 15 cents to $9.20 among base metals. In other mining action, Marchant tacked on 28 cents to $2.80, but Genex eased three cents to 42 and Base Metals 1¼ cents to 14¼.

Cochenour Willans dipped five cents to $3.30 in a lower and quiet gold section.

On index, industrials were ahead .19 to a new high of 1 : 33, base metals .02 to 63.99, western oils .10 and golds .30. Exchange index .17 to a new high of .146.89. Volume at 11 m was 190,000 shares compared with 760,000 shares traded at the same time Thursday.

On Friday the market, led by a stronger New York market, industrials moved to a new index high of 157.14 with a .21 gain.

A total of 3,005,000 shares was traded, the lightest turnover since March 4 on Tuesday, the day before the Dominion Day holiday 3,859,000 shares traded.

Interlisted motor stocks—that is stocks listed on both the Toronto-Can. and New York exchanges—led industrials here ahead. General Motor gained 1½ to 98, Chrysler 1¼ to 54¼ and Ford U.S. ¼ to 57.

Primary steel makers were also strong. Algoma added ½ to 69 , Dosco ⅛ to 18⅝, and Dofasco ⅛ to 27⅜. Bank stocks firmed and Brazilian Traction commanded support with a gain of 40 cents to $3.75.

Senior base metals met support with loco spearheading the rise, gaining 1¼ to 89¾. Noranda was ahead ¾ to 46¾, and Hudson Bay ¼ to 66⅛. In juniors, Leitch and Highland-Bell gained 20 cents each, to "$5.20 and $7.70, respectively.

Speculative action was relatively tame. Genex was the heaviest trader, turning over 206,350 shares by gaining 3½ cents to 45. New Calumet was up four cents to 36.

Golds were quiet and firm. On index, Golds were up .10 to 132.12, western oils .40 to 99.77 and the exchange Index .47 to 146.72, a new high. Base metals eased .01 to 63.97.

...ared with the corresponding period last year, in millions of dollars:

	1964	1963
Exports
United States	1,338.4	1,195.3
United Kingdom	364.7	279.0
Commonwealth	142.7	125.0
Others	607.9	414.5
Total	2,453.8	2,013.8
Imports
United States	1,710.0	1,413.6
United Kingdom	187.3	151.1
Commonwealth	93.3	90.8
Others	377.1	313.3
Total	2,367.6	1,968.7

The bureau said the unusually large increases in both exports and imports in April were influenced by two basic factors, which resulted in the spring peak in trade coming a month earlier than usual.

One factor was the increase in the number of working days in the month, some 10 per cent more than in 1963, and the other was the early date at which the St. Lawrence River ports opened.

The usual trade deficit with the United States was nearly double last year's in April at $130,000,000 against $65,500,000 a year earlier while the customary trade surplus with Britain was slightly larger for the month, $34,700,000 against $21,200,000 in April, 1963.

Canada's export balance in April with other Commonwealth and preferential-trade countries was more than double that of a year earlier at $18,600,000 versus $9,000,000 and the trade surplus with all other countries as a group was more than quadruple that of April last year at $37,400,000 against $8,800,000.

April imports from the U.S. increased 21.7 per cent to $300,200,000 from $282,800,000 a year earlier, boosting the January-April total 21 per cent to $1,-710,000,000 from $1,413,600,000 in the previous year.

Exports to the U.S. in the month were up 18.1 per cent to $, $374,100,000 from $316,900,000, and for the four-month period increased by 12 per cent to $1,-338,400,000 from $1,195,300,000. Thus the four-month trade deficit with the U.S. was $371,300,000 this year against $218,300,-000 in 1963.

Purchases from British adjusted by 21.4 per cent in April to $62,000,000 from $47,200,000 a year earlier and by 23.9 per cent in the fourth-month period to $187,200,000 from $151,100,-000

Sales to that market climbed by 41.4 per cent in the month to $96,700,000 from $68,400,000 and by 30.7 % the January-April period to $364,700,000 from $279,000,000. Canada's trade surplus with Britain in the first four months was $177,400,000, against the 1963 period's $128,-000,000.

Purchases from other Commonwealth and preferential rate countries rose 16.2 per cent in April to $23,200,000 from $27,700,000 a year earlier but rose 8.1 per cent in the January-April period to $93,-300,000 from $90,800,000 in the 1963 period.

Exports to this group of countries were up by 13.9 per cent in the month to $41,800,000 versus $36,700,000 and by 14.2 per cent in the cumulative period at $141,800,000 against $125,000,000. Thus the four-month trade surplus for Canada was $49,400,000 against last year's $34,300,000.

an extension of the Colombo plan, initiated by the Commonwealth in 1950 with Canada as an important contributor in a co-operative effort to improve Asian living standards.

AIDS HEAVILY

Canada now contributes between $180,000,000 and $200,000,-000 annually in aid to various programs, including two under the United Nations.

An important feature of Douglas-Home's proposals is that the Commonwealth program would be handled on a "co-operative" basis among countries rather than on a bilateral basis between, say, Britain and only one other country.

It means financing from the wealthier countries such as Britain, Canada, Malaysia and Australia. Observers here, noting Canada's support of UN and Commonwealth aid plans in the past, feel it will welcome the new initiative.

Douglas - Home proposes a stepped - up program of exchange of experts, teachers and volunteers and the plan covers agriculture, education, medicine, scientific information, industrialization and trade.

Gen. de Gaulle and Erhard Stress Frankness in Talks

By HAROLD KING

BONN (Reuters) — French President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard met for nearly two hours here today and discussed the top subject on their agenda—how to get the two most powerful political units of the Europe of the six under one way again.

In short speeches before television cameras after the meeting both leaders stressed the "frankness" of their talks. De Gaulle said they discussed "subjects close to our hearts and which rangs over the whole world."

De Gaulle arrived earlier today for a two-day visit with eight senior cabinet ministers—including Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing—under heavy security guard.

The two leaders were scheduled to meet later today with their ministers present.

POLICE PATROL

As the two men talked to TV reporters, dozens of armed police patrolled the grounds of the chancellery and a helicopter hovered overhead.

Erhard was under strong pressure to take some immediate action on political unity by the most important leaders of his own Christian Democratic Union party. This pressure was led by the party's chairman, former chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

De Gaulle was met by Erhard and West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder at the airport when he stepped from his Caravelle jet which flew him from Paris.

There were no speeches at the short airport ceremony. The two leaders inspected a guard of honor.

Every bridge on the road into the capital was guarded. Police with sub-machine - guns, rifles and pistols stood every 30 yards along the 15-mile route.

GERMANS UNEASY

West German leaders have been reported uneasy lest the French president press them to agree to a political union of Europe, based for the time being on France and West Germany.

The Bonn government appeared unwilling at present to fall in with the French leader's plan for political union for fear of offending the United States.

At the same time, however, chancellor Ludwig Erhard and his foreign-minister, Gerhard Schroeder, would be embarrassed if it were to become public knowledge that West Germany had flatly refused a plan which is in line with its own declared policy of European un...

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The June meeting of Pine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Don Irish with 17 members and two visitors present, who were welcomed by the president Mrs. Farley Lindenfield.

Mrs. opened the meeting in the usual manner after which a letter was read announcing the resignation of Miss Spouse and the appointment of Miss Munroe as the new home economist. The conveners of the various standing committees gave their reports. Mrs. Charles Ross read a letter from the group in Orangeburg, South Carolina with whom programs are exchanged. She also told about their climate and sent some of their recipes. Mrs. Fred Campbell read an article from the Country Woman Magazine which was written by the area vice-president of Asia.

During the business it was decided to make a donation to the Stirling Fair Board. The possibility of having a 4-H Girls Club was discussed.

Mrs. Bartindale, convener for agriculture presided over the program and all joined in singing a number. Readings were given by the president as well as by Mrs. Don Irish and Mrs. Allyn Finkle. Miss Marilyn McAllister favored with two solos with her own guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Perry Bronson, Stirling showed colored slides of many beautiful flower beds in the area as well as many other places of interest. A contest on the one group of pictures was conducted with Mrs. Alex Tanner the winner.

Mrs. Bartindale expressed thanks to Mrs. Bronson and after two readings the meeting closed.

The hostess served refreshments.

Honor Principal At Graduation

RED THORLOW—A large number of parents and friends of Grade 8 pupils of the Douglas R. Atkins School attended the graduation class and presentations held last Friday evening.

The principal Mr. M. Workman was chairman for the event and Mr. William Leeming chairman of the area school board introduced the trustees, Messrs. Ken Greatrix, G. Ray, H. Thomson, N. Howard and secretary-treasurer, Mr. Doug McLean; also the teaching staff, Mrs. Campbell, Miss Alexander and Mr. C. Hannesy.

Mr. Workman spoke briefly and told of the various achievements and especially mentioned the boys' ball team which had won the field day trophy two years in succession in competition with Point Anne, Foxboro and Cannifton He also mentioned the fact that Ronald Mitchell had won the intermediate boys' trophy at the field day at Cannifton and the girls basketball team.

On behalf of the pupils Donna Carson expressed regrets Mr. Workman's leaving and presented him with an appropriate gift and money. Mr. Workman is taking up duties at King George School in Belleville in the fall.

Mrs. D. Atkins presented the Douglas Atkins Memorial scholarship award to Lorna Tweedy for the highest standing in Grade 8 class. Donna Carson was also presented with the Ontario Public School men teachers federation citizenship and proficiency award. Certificates were presented to the Grade 8 pupils.

Regrets were expressed to Mr. Workman who has been on the teaching staff of the new area school for the past five years. Mr. Hennessy, who joined the teaching staff at the same time will take over as principal in the fall.

Refreshments were served by the trustees and their wives and a social time was enjoyed.

Some of the young folks enjoyed dancing.

Sandwich plates, so popular at teas and receptions, can be given fresh appeal with this hint from the Foods Department at Macdonald Institute, Guelph. In the centre of a large sandwich plate, arrange a grapefruit or small cabbage. Place toothpicks holding olives, radish roses, pickles, carrot curls, cherry tomatoes, and other relishes in the grapefruit or cabbage and surround with a variety of sandwiches. Try relish balls add color and height to sandwich plates and guests can easily choose their favorite relish. Prepare a few extra grapefruit or cabbage to use with you replenish the supplies. Relishes are so eye-catching in this way that you will have to replenish often.

WEDDING

KIDD — DUNHAM

Bouquets of pink gladioli adorned the altar in Christ Church, Campbellford, for the recent marriage of Carol Anne Dunham, daughter of Mrs. Gordon Dunham, Campbellford, and the late Mr. G. Dunham, to Dr. Richard Allan Kidd, son of Mrs. Harry Kidd of Oshawa and the late Dr. H. Kidd. Rev. Owen G. Barrow officiated at the ceremony. White satin bows with sprigs of pink flowers designated the guest pews.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Ward Archer who also accompanied the soloist, Mr. Francis DeCarroll, in his vocal renditions.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Richard Dunham, wore a full length bridal gown of white faille taffeta highlighted with floral pattern Chantilly lace neckline with long lily-point sleeves. The full skirt was enhanced with lace appliques down front and back. A circular veil of silk illusion fell from an Egyptian-style teardrop pearl headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pink gladioli, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Marvin Walker was the matron of honor and Miss Linda Hogg, Belleville, and Miss Nancy Warren of Ottawa, were bridesmaids and Miss Janet Wright, Belleville, was junior bridesmaid. The matron of honor and the two bridesmaids wore pale pink silk Shantung dresses with matching overskirts and matching accessories. The junior bridesmaid wore pink silk broadcloth dress with an overskirt of white faille crepe embroidered with pink rosebuds and green leaves. All carried bouquets of white Fuji mums and trailing ivy.

The reception was held in the Skyline Motor Inn, Belleville, at which the bride's mother received the guests wearing a champagne beige silk organza dress enhanced with Alecon lace with matching overskirt and accessories and a corsage of white pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pale green silk chiffon and lace dress, flowered hat and bone colored accessories and carried a corsage of Talisman roses fastened on a small green purse.

For the wedding trip to Thorne Lake, Chartered, Quebec the bride chose a Kelly green A-line dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Ottawa, Oshawa, Perth, Peterborough, Lakefield, Belleville, St. Thomas, St. Catharines, Toronto, Kingston, Saskatchewan and Lorain, Ohio.

Dr. and Mrs. Kidd will reside at 5425 Beaubrough Drive, Montreal, Quebec.

ROSE TOO LATE

LONDON (CP) — Edward Wakefield delivered 24 red roses to a divorce court here and said they were for his wife. He left the court just before she arrived and her plea of cruelty was accepted by the court as grounds for divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. Laverne William Harvey are pictured signing the register following their recent marriage in Calvary Temple, Belleville. The bride is the former Donna May Greenwood, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Greenwood, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harvey of Wellington.

HARVEY — GREENWOOD

A lovely summer wedding took place in Calvary Temple, Belleville, at 2.30 p.m., Saturday, July 4, when Donna May Greenwood, only daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Greenwood, Belleville, was united in marriage to Laverne William Harvey, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey of Wellington.

The church was decorated for the occasion with tall standards of white, yellow and pink flowers and baskets of orange blossoms. Presiding at the organ was the church organist, Mrs. Doris Osborne, who played appropriate music for the occasion. Rev. James MacKnight sang two appropriate selections.

The bride was given away by her father, Rev. W. B. Greenwood. Rev. E. D. Bergman conducted the devotional part of the ceremony and her father united them in marriage and brought a brief message at the request of the bride. The bride was dressed in a white sheath gown of nylon organza over taffeta. The bodice had a scoop neckline which was accented with chantilly lace, with a panel of the same lace down the front of the skirt. A chapel train fell gracefully from the waistline. Her shoulder length, over the face veil, of embroidered net fell from a headpiece of nylon taffeta trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. She wore pearl earrings, a necklace — bouquet of deep red roses and stephanotis with white streamers and rose-buds and ivy.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Margaret Greenwood of Peterborough as maid of honor. Her dress was of turquoise with long bell shaped skirt and gathered nylon organza. She carried a crescent bouquet of yellow carnations and wore a matching hat with a crescent veil. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Meribeth Sweeper, a cousin from Williamsport, Penn. Her dress was yellow chiffon over taffeta, made with long bell skirt, accented by seed pearls at the neckline. She carried crescent bouquet of pink carnations and wore a white pillbox hat with crescent veil.

The reception was held at the Pinnacle Room of Hotel Quinte. The bride's table was adorned with silver candelabra and the beautiful round three tiered wedding cake which had a top ornament of a cluster of white bells, ribbon, and pink lily of the valley. It was underlaid at the base with white tulle.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue dress of nylon organza over taffeta, with appliques of lace roses around the neckline and down the back to the hem. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink carnations and stephanotis. Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother who wore a pretty silk sheath dress in nile green with bodice of lace. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of yellow carnations and stephanotis.

For going away the bride chose a white sheath of puffed silk with a V neckline and bracelet sleeves with accent of black on the belt. Her hat and shoes were white and her purse and gloves of black and white. She wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. They planned a wedding trip in the Adirondacks.

Guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Streetsville, Peterborough, Wellington, Cobourg, Oshawa, Harwood, Verona and Williamsport, Penn.

The bride was honored previous to her marriage with showers at the home of Miss Evelyn Bowers and Mrs. Madeline Farrar. The office staff at the Northern Electric presented her with a hand mixer.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey will reside in Belleville.

Sunday School Picnic

FULL GOSPEL PICNIC

FRANKFORD — Frankford Full Gospel Sunday School picnic was held at Tweed Park on Saturday. Cars left the church at 2.30 a.m.

Arriving in Tweed, ball teams were organized and capt. Sandra Purvis' team defeated capt. Carolyn Reichart's team 16-6. Umpire was Mr. Jim Conlin. Capt. Mary Reichart's team defeated capt. David Spring's team 44-11. Umpire was Mr. Doug Robinson.

The smaller children played on the slides, swings and teeter-totters, supervised by Mrs. F. Wood and Mrs. M. Patrick.

At noon, Rev. T. Spring led in Grace and all enjoyed a bountious dinner.

A treasure hunt followed at 1.00 p.m. with children ranging in age from 5-11 years. A number of races were run.

The picnic concluded at 3 p.m. and everyone enjoyed a day of fun and fellowship.

Gaiety, Youth Provide Theme for Fall Fashions

Written for The Canadian Press

By MARGARET NESS

NEW YORK (CP) — Gaiety and youth provide the theme for this week's New York fall fashion scene.

Oddly, this combination has brought back the little black dress. This fall, black will be the biggest single color. Cranberry red and bright yellow are other outstanding colors shown.

"What we need in fashion is more originality and personality," commented designer Leo Estevez during the showings. However, it remained for far-out Rod Kermaich to provide ultra originality.

Expecting a nudity continuation of his sensational topless bathing suit, the fashion editors were treated to the most covered-up costumes in the 30 individual showings that made up the American designer series. Originality there certainly was, including skinny tweed knickers and long stockings topped by a tightly-belted dress that stopped four inches above the knee cap.

MAY BE TREND

This above - the - knee skirt length is probably a trend. Christian Dior - New York fashion showing knees but only slightly. With Kermaich the length looks bold and sexy; with Dior, it's engagingly youthful.

The unnatural waistline—high or low—is the trend to watch.

This is a tricky season. It's difficult to tell positively in what direction fashion is heading. For example, suit jackets are seen at every length from short cropped to hipline. But Pauline Trigere believes the longer suit jacket is the trend and she's seldom wrong.

In coats you'll find just about every style for fall—skinny to swingy.

Fabrics are most interesting this fall. There's a trend back to flat and plain fabrics.

The plunging necklines are still deep plunging but not more revealing than they have been for the last few seasons.

U.C.W. Meeting

SALEM U.C.W.

MINTO — The June meeting of Salem U.C.W. was held on Wednesday evening with a splendid attendance. Mrs. Everett Sine opened the meeting with an appropriate verse. Ross call was answered with a donation of a quilt block for mission work.

Some correspondence was dealt with and plans for entertaining were discussed. The visiting committee, reported; also a report on the parsonage board was given.

Mrs. F. Lebon took charge of the program, conducting the call to worship. Readings were given by Mesdames Ivan Series, Burton Heagle, Cecil Carter, Albert Tweddy and Everett Sine. Mr. I. Munroe gave a splendid explanation of the new Sunday school curriculum.

YOU'LL RUFFLE UP A SHOWER OF COMPLIMENTS when you wear this ruffled princess and the irresistible, frosty organdy jacket! They're designed by Sylvia de Gay for Robert Sloan — two names that are lighting up the fashion scene with the happiest, snappiest designs. This dress is a coolly shaped princess with the deep, deep U neckline that's great for summer days or dancing under stars. The jacket neckline is cut a little lower to allow the dress ruffle to "collar" it. The jacket is ruffled only at the wrist. Choose linen, shantung homespun for the dress crisp, sheer organdy for jacket.

Printed Pattern M437 is available on Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 16 dress takes 2¾ yards 35-inch; jacket and ruffle on dress take 3¼ yards.

Send ONE DOLLAR for Printed Pattern M437 to The Ontario Intelligencer, Pattern Department, 60 Front St. W., Toronto 1. (Ontario residents add 5c sales tax) Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Successful Living

Freeloading Brother Drunk, Disrupts Happy Home

DEAR DORIS — My husband's brother lives with us and we seldom speak to each other without getting into an argument. He (the brother) openly admits he doesn't like me and my feelings are about the same. Yet just about every place Joe takes me he goes along.

Joe comes home weekends and the brother never gives us a minute to ourselves. I feel there are some things that are only our business. Joe says there is room for all of us here; that if I didn't have him to complain about I'd think of something else.

But he never pays a cent for his keep. Comes home loaded to the gills. The children are upset with our quarrels. I'm about ready to leave, yet I love my husband. — PUZZLED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR PUZZLED — Joe better wake up before his happy (?) home crumbles around him. What's more, he is contributing to the deterioration of his alcoholic brother. People need a challenge, not a feather-bed berth.

My message to Joe is: Decide who you are promised to for life and act like a partner; not a dictator. (Maybe you will have to take French leave for a while.)

DEAR DORIS — My hands are very soft and nice all right but they perspire immensely. It is terribly embarrassing because if I dance with a boy my hands will be all wet and he'd probably never look at me again.

I don't want to wear gloves because none of the other girls are wearing them and I'd look like a freak or something. What can I do? — JUST A DRIP.

DEAR JUST A — Simply carry a hanky or tissue in the hand which holds your partner's. This will absorb the excess moisture. If you need to, wipe your hands quite openly. If you aren't obviously upset, he won't think twice about it.

DEAR DORIS — Could Familiar With Nursing and A Registered Nurse, when referring to a nurse's aid, mean a Registered Nursing Assistant?

I belong to the College of Nursing and on my certificate this is my title. — A REG. NURSING ASSISTANT.

REAR REG. NURSING ASSISTANT — Yes. The terms are used rather loosely. In some provinces the nursing assistant course is the one offered by the province and recognized by hospitals.

Confidential to NO PRIVACY — Either you have a show down or you "fold up your tents like the Arabs and silently steal away." There are times to have pity, but this is not one of them. Things will only get more miserable.

(Longer, fuller replies went privately to those correspondents enclosing a five-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

The Experts Say

What Men Should Wear On Formal Occasions

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP) — With the trend in male fashions more and more emphasizing the casual look, the occasions when a man has to go formal create confusion.

What does he wear at which time of day and to what kind of function? Does he really have to have all the accessories?

The answer appears to be yes, and no.

"People don't do what is proper, they wear what is comfortable," says Syd Silver whose firm sells and rents formal clothes.

For an evening wedding that is completely formal, only tails are correct, he says. Men shy away from them because of the wing-collared shirt they must wear. They choose white or black dinner jackets which are semi-formal and thus not quite correct. For early summer evenings when the sun doesn't set until late, tails are the thing to wear o'clock Mr. Silver maintains.

Tails take a white bowtie, white waistcoat, white gloves, white or pearl studs and cufflinks and a black silk top hat.

GREY FOR DAYTIME

For a formal daytime wedding, morning dress or a director's suit is correct. Both are worn with grey striped trousers.

Morning dress includes a grey cutaway, grey double-breasted waistcoat, a shirt with wing collar or a four-in-hand with a turn - down collar, grey silk gloves, silk top hat, pearl stick pin, pearl or stone studs and cufflinks.

The director's suit has a grey, short jacket and is worn with a four-in-hand. Other accessories are the same as for morning dress.

Mr. Silver says men begin wearing white dinner jackets before summer, even though they shouldn't probably because they like them. He says he gets little call for striped, plaid or metallic dinner jackets, presumably because it takes an extra dollop of self-confidence to wear them.

One problem that faces the man with a 20-year-old tux apart from his own waistline, is the change in style. Double-breasted tuxedos are no more in style than a double-breasted business suit. They can be cut down but it's a tricky process.

COATS SHORTER

Evening clothes have followed the same pattern as business clothes. Coats are shorter, shoulders more natural, trousers are narrower than they were even a few years ago.

For social dance and theatre evenings men wear what Mr. Silver calls the old reliable plain black tux or tropical, with black, midnight blue or white bowtie and matching cummerbund. A pleated shirt goes with the outfit usually but because little of it shows a man can wear an ordinary French-cuffed white shirt.

Cummerbunds have hidden advantages. "They hide the sloppiness of the shirts and hold a fellow's waist in a bit."

Black shoes and socks are musts with any variation on the formal theme. Shoes need no longer be patent leather but they should be smooth-toed and lightweight.

Mr. Silver says there have been signs of growing interest in formal clothes. Few of his customers now come in just because a wife or girl friend has been putting on pressure.

"Formal clothes make a man feel good. He can put on a tuxedo and look equal to a millionaire."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Most foods offer no problem in eating. A fish and fork will polish them off tidily. Some are hard to handle, and sometimes you're not sure whether to use your fingers, as well. So now to the table.

How would you make a neat job of:

1. Very crisp bacon?
2. Very crisp lettuce?
3. A delicate artichoke?
4. Hot French fries?
5. Crispy fried chicken?
6. Corn-on-the-cob?
7. A triple-decker or a Hero sandwich?
8. A dry cake and a gooey one?
9. A stalk of celery?
10. A few ripe olives?

ANSWERS:

1. Pick it up in your fingers. If you try to attack it with a knife and fork, chances are that bits and pieces will be set flying all over the table. Fingers were made for crispy bacon.

2. Ordinarily, lettuce is cut with the side of the fork, but if it's a hard head, like Iceberg, is served in quarters with dress ing on top, and dressing in it, or across the table when you come at it with a long fork, then it is necessary to use the fork to steady it and apply a knife to do away with it neatly.

3. The leaves are plucked off one at a time with the fingers, and the base, or pulpy end, is dipped in sauce, then eaten. What's left of the leaf is then put on the plate. When that's done, the heart is exposed and this is cut into small bite-size pieces, also dipped in sauce, and eaten. If the cook has neglected to scoop out the choke before serving, be sure to remove it before eating the heart. It's that fuzzy stuff on top.

4. Unless you're at a picnic where anything goes, French fries should be cut into bite-size pieces with the side of the fork before eating.

5. At the dinner table, no fingers, please. The meat should be cut from the bone and eaten in delicate fashion. At a picnic or backyard supper, it can be picked up in the fingers, but let us hope whoever packed the picnic basket remembered to put in loads of paper napkins.

6. Corn-on-the-cob is finger food, even though it tends to be dripping. You make less of a mess, though, if you butter only a few rows at a time instead of dunking the whole ear in a mound of butter.

7. The triple-decker, especially if it has tomato and mayonnaise and similar runny ingredients, usually has to be cut with knife and eaten with a fork. The other hand, how, is to be finger-food, since a knife couldn't even get through the pile of ingredients. Pass the napkins often, though.

8. A marble or gingel cake may be broken and eaten with the fingers. A cake that's iced, or awash in sauce, requires a fork — naturally.

9. Don't try to cut it with a knife, unless you really want to send a piece sailing across at your opposite number. If you want to be a model of politeness use fingers.

10. Gently bite the fruit off the pit, which then is deposited neatly on the plate. It's all done with the fingers.

Honey With Fresh Summer Fruit

A delightful way to use honey is in syrups and dressings for fresh fruit. A thin syrup of one part honey to two parts water may be used on fruit such as strawberries, raspberries, peaches, pears and sweet cherries and plums, or a combination of these, either for cooking or freezing. Include lemon juice to help bring out the fruit flavor, especially with peaches and pears as it also helps to keep these fruits from darkening. For cooking sour cherries, plums and apples, use a thicker syrup of about one part honey to one and a half of water.

Fruit dressings are used in the two dessert recipes that follow. These dressings can be made without the whipped cream, too. Try them on other fruits besides the ones named in the recipes.

A French-type dressing made with honey is excellent with a combination salad of fruits, cottage cheese or jellied molds, and greens. You might also vary the seasoning for example, use a little ginger to pick up pears or nutmeg for added zest with peaches.

FRUIT SALAD DESSERT

Combine ¾ cup honey, 2 tablespoons each of lemon juice and orange juice, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind and ½ cup sherry. Stir and heat 5 minutes; let cool slightly and pour over 4 to 5 cups of mixed fresh fruits, such as sliced peaches, pears and bananas, and whole blueberries or cherries. Chill. Serve with honey-sweetened whipped cream.

CREAMY HONEYED RASPBERRIES:

½ cup honey, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1-16 teaspoon ginger, 1 quart fresh raspberries, ¾ cup heavy cream, whipped.

Mix honey, lemon juice and rind and ginger. Drizzle over raspberries and toss lightly. Fold in whipped cream. Serve at once or freeze and later serve partly thawed. 4 to 6 servings.

DRESSING FOR MAIN COURSE FRUIT SALAD:

2 tablespoons honey, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1-3 cup salad oil, dash paprika, dash salt.

Combine ingredients and mix well. Shake before serving.

Many Styles Shown by Designers

NEW YORK (AP) — There are as many types of clothes for the rich, as there are classifications of persons with the dough to dig deep for couture-designed wardrobes.

This was evident Thursday at the close of the American designers' series, a five-day program of winter style previews.

Earlier in the week, models appeared in chic and spectacular costumes of New York's Christian Dior house.

The wife-of-the-company-president type of elegance was represented by Pauline Trigere's collection, a practical kind of glamor girl wardrobes typified by Seasati; and the audacious, sometimes kind of wear by the young adventurer too rich to give a hoot, by anyone who thinks by Rudi Gernreich of topless bathing suit fame.

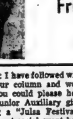
Thursday, Ben Zuckerman, Count Sarmi and Geoffrey Beene's collections suggested three other types of wealthy fashion personalities.

FOR EXPENSIVE TASTE

Perfect for a political candidate's wife are Zuckerman's outrageously expensive long, pastel jacket suits, or crisply shaped coats in quiet, but lustrous hues.

Zuckerman's floor length pale wool ball gowns, or short silk cocktail suits are rich enough, but these, too, restrain their opulence to a few diamond buttons or a glittering collar.

Sarmi manages to handle opulence like a $7,000 mink opalene embroidered floor-length evening coat, shaggy with white feathers, without letting it get out of hand.



Even the daytime silhouette for suits, dresses and coats with its small high bosom, narrow shoulders, straight back and skinny sleeves seems regal.

A newcomer who has latched onto the rich young matron called the fashion intellectual is Geoffrey Beene, who manages to mark clothes with individuality—his own design individuality —without stamping them as way-out or avant garde.

CHARM-STYLE SITTING

MONTREAL (CP)—There is an analogy between landing an airplane and sitting on a chair —for women. So says a charm book shown to the Association of Business Colleges at their convention here. Chair-sitting is only perfected when a woman sits so gently that her audience is unable to detect the instant of landing.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

Question: I have followed with interest your column and wondered if you could please help me. Our Junior Auxiliary girls are having a "Julia Festival". This is a great social event held in India to honor someone. We are going to honor our mothers and members of the W.A. of our church. Since we have been studying India, we would love to serve some food from there. For example — dainties, or special breads or anything suitable for an afternoon tea. Betty D. S.

Answer: The recipes I have chosen are authentic Indian dishes and some of the ingredients may be difficult for you to buy and some of the methods are strange, but you can make them if you are determined.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Crumbed Pickerel Fillets; Lemon Butter; Curried Rice; Spinach Souffle; Marinated Sliced Cucumbers and Tomatoes; Chocolate Blanc Mange Pudding with Whipped Topping; Coffee.

COCOANUT COOKIES

1¼ cups grated cocoanut (if you cannot buy whole cocoanuts, use packaged unsweetened cocoanut).

1½ cups milk,
rose water,
1 cup sugar,
1½ teaspoons cardamom seeds,
2 tablespoons cashew nuts (unsalted).

Mix the cocoanut (save 2 tablespoons), finely pounded or worked through a blender with the milk, and boil for ½ hour. As the liquid thickens, add the sugar and continue to cook for ¼ hour. Stir all the while at this stage. Dry off all moisture. Add the cardamom seeds and nuts, crushed. Pour into a buttered dish and leave until almost cold. Sprinkle with rose water and reserved cocoanut. Cut into any shape you like.

INDIAN CHEESE CAKE

2 cups milk,
½ tablespoon lemon juice,
2 egg yolks,
1½ tablespoons butter,
½ cup ground almonds,
pastry dough,
¾ cup sugar.

Boil milk and add the lemon juice. Place in a cloth bag and drain off the liquid. (This is similar to rather dry cottage cheese). With the resulting cheese, mix the egg yolks, butter and almonds to a perfect smoothness. Make a little pastry dough and line some baking cups or bigger moulds with it. Fill with the cheese. Sprinkle with sugar and bake in a moderate oven until done. Serves 4.

Club Activities

EXPLORERS' GROUP

THOMASBURG — The Explorer girls and their mothers met at the home of Mrs. H. K. Morton on Tuesday evening, June 30 for a special meeting of presentation of red, blue and gold stars to the girls.

The minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary, Lois Morton followed by the roll call answered by the two leaders, Mrs. Don Gean and Mrs. Joe Rollins, ten girls and their mothers.

An impressive presentation ceremony took place with the leaders both participating. Karen Mumby, Caroline Carleton and Karen Green were presented with their 1st and 2nd red star by Mrs. Don Gean in recognition of memory work learned and projects completed during their first year.

Mrs. Joe Rollins presented Cathy Fisher, Brenda Calvert, Lois Morton, Betsy Howell and Kay Spencer each with two blue stars in recognition of two years faithful work.

Beth Schwager, who was absent, has earned these stars also and will receive them later. Mearle Morton and Irene Calvert were presented with their 2nd gold stars for four years work in the group by Mrs. Gean, this being their final year as Explorers. The girls sang a hymn and were asked by the leader to tell two things which they have learned during the year as members of the Explorers.

Mearle replied that learning about different countries in addition to learning and following Jesus while Irene said she had been interested in joining in the various activities of the group and learning about other countries.

Two contests were enjoyed and were won by Mearle Morton and Karen Green and by Mrs. Allan Howell.

A short singsong followed after which the leaders served a dainty lunch.

Irene Calvert graciously thanked the mothers for being present and Mrs. Morton for her hospitality.

Mother's Helper

A BIRTHDAY CAKE is never so wonderful as when it hides flowers in its delicious interior. Wrap small items in foil, drop them into the batter just before you put the cake into the oven. Use coins, a ring, buttons, charms—no plastic. Then guests in bite carefully! With simple variations to read with the favors.

Ann Landers

Husband and Wife Differ On Meaning of Adultery

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I need an outsider's opinion. Please put your answer in the paper so he won't say I forged your name on a letter. Thank you.

Is it adultery if a married man goes out once a week with a woman who is also married and whose husband works nights? There's no sex involved. My husband swears to it.

According to him, adultery involves a married person and a single person. If they are both married (even though not to each other) this is not considered adultery, no matter what happens. What is your verdict?—LITTLE EGYPT.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR LITTLE EGYPT — Your husband is wrong. Adultery is defined as a sexual relationship between a married person and another person who is not his spouse. The other person can be either married or single.

I hope your husband will knock off his weekly "sexless" date. If the woman's husband catches up with him the guy is not likely to discuss word definitions. He may just give him a belt in the chops — or worse.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — How does one protect himself against a liar? Please don't tell me to avoid him. I would like nothing better, but it is impossible. We have the same friends and our paths are crossing constantly.

This person is vicious, cruel and clever. His tales have a quality of believability that is truly diabolical. He skillfully manages to hook the lie to a couple of half truths.

I have faced him on a few occasions and asked why he told so and so such and such. He denies everything and twists the facts to make it appear as if the one who repeated the story was actually the liar.

This person has caused me many sleepless nights. I'd appreciate your counsel. — VICTIM OF A FORKED TONGUE.

DEAR VIC — Liars seldom have one target. You are probably one of many. People learn who's who and what's what, eventually, and then the liars are no longer believed.

Your best protection against a lie is your own good character. It's a waste of time and energy to try to defend yourself against this kind of assassin.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Please help a desperate mother of six. Our oldest will be 18 soon. She has another year of high school left but she doesn't want to finish.

In this state a girl of 18 is legally able to move out of her parent's home and do as she pleases.

Her father and I have talked, bribed, pleaded and demanded that she finish high school. We offered to finance college or business school but she is not interested. She wants to leave home this summer and get a job "doing anything" so she can be on her own.

All this is beginning to show on me. I'm losing weight and can't sleep. What can we say or do to make our daughter understand we love her and want what is best for her? — DESPERATE MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER — Please don't expect a few lines from me to repair a relationship which has been coming apart at the seams for years. Unhappily you've been unable to make the girl understand the necessity of a high school diploma and the value of a higher education.

Since she is of legal age there is nothing you can do to keep her at home. Let her live her own blessings and let her know the door is always open. She'll discover being on her own is not so glamorous as she thought. When she does come home which will be soon, I hope, please don't say "We told you so."

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

three weeks of teaching time.

He noted it was not the intention of the report to shorten the academic year. Teachers would be urged to consider the reduction in topics as an opportunity for more intensive study.

In the 1966 examinations, a student's term work will constitute 25 per cent of his final standing, with the remainder the opinion of the principal and teachers of his work throughout the year. In Grade XIII the proportion will represent 75 per cent of the final mark.

However, for the 1966 departmentals the committee report recommends that term work make up 50 per cent and the examination 65 per cent of the final standing.

Where no term mark is available as in the case of a correspondence course student, the final examination would count for the full standing.

WILL CUT TIME

The report also emphasizes that the change in the form of examinations will result in considerable reduction in the time required to write exam papers without lowering the validity of the examination. Approximately 42,000 students wrote 240,000 examinations this year.

The proposed deletion of topics, the report says, is not necessary measure. In the long run a carefully-planned revision in the curriculum will be required

To encourage more penetrating [illegible] of high school courses, [illegible] urges universities to revic[illegible] its entrance requirements to reduce the number of subjects and to emphasize depth.

Currently, Ontario universities require standing in five subjects, normally covered in the six grades of high school, with the committee hopes this can be reduced to three or four subjects covered by six, seven or eight of the present papers.

The report says Grade 70 will be the crucial years during which new forms of post - secondary education will be chosen.

For that transition period it recommends:

1. That Grade 13 graduation diploma continue to be issued and that a certificate of standing in subjects to be used in the "matriculation year" (Grade 13);

WOULD BE REPLACED

2. That in September 1966, the present Grade 13 be replaced by a program called the matriculation year, consisting of:

3. That instruction in the matriculation year be in two levels general and advanced, the student's standing in the advanced (specialist) level determined 50 per cent by term work and 50 per cent by a joint university - education department examination, the general level based entirely on term work.

That universities consider for "provisional admission" qualified Grade 12 graduates.

That at least 40 per cent be report states, it will be necessary to operate such an interim system during which it will be neither practical nor possible to do away with Grade 13.

The ideal goal is a system whereby Grade 13 would be the secondary school year, leading to community colleges, polytechnical institutes, teachers' colleges and universities or to immediate employment.

Sunday School Lesson
Powers That Enslave

By Dr. Clarence W. Cranford

There is no doubt that we are living in a changing world. Changes occur with such rapidity, it leaves us stunned. Science is making new discoveries almost every day. New gadgets or products constantly replace old ones. What was a colony one day is a new nation the next. Yesterday's standards are left behind today. It is a far cry from the primitive world of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob to a world of electronic computers, space capsules, atomic energy, fast travel and pictures bounced off satellites from one continent to another.

Why, then, do we go back to study the beginnings of Hebrew history? In fact, why do we study history at all? The answer is quite simple. Even in the midst of a changing world, some things do not change. Styles and devices change. But motives do not change. Love is still love whether we call it "spooning" or "pitching woo." Hate is hate in Nazi Germany or whether we see it expressed by an Egyptian Pharaoh or a Russian dictator.

LEARN FROM PAST

We can learn much from history. It is a mirror of human feelings. If some of the new nations of the world know more about what happened to the Israelites in Egypt, they might be less eager to turn to a dictatorship like Russia for guidance and help. If they knew history, they would know that whether it is the Israelites in Egypt, Arab Palestine under Rome, or Hungary under Russia, the pattern is the same. The cry of tyranny gets control, freedom is taken away, and the people end up as little more than slaves.

FREEDOM VERSUS SLAVERY

Throughout history there has been a struggle between the forces that liberate and the forces that enslave. This is seen in the experiences of the Israelites in Egypt. Hunger had taken Jacob and his descendants into Egypt and at first they were welcome. They were free to increase in number. Then Joseph, was prime minister of Egypt. The Pharaoh was kindly disposed toward them.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 10 is "From Sojourners to Slaves". Genesis 46.1 through 47:12 Exodus 1.

Almost at once, however, trouble began to develop. They ran into prejudice. Because of much prejudice, was rooted in economics. The Israelites were sheep herders. To the Egyptians were an abomination to the cattle raisers of Egypt. Just as sheep raisers in our own country were hated by cattle ranchers in the early days of the West.

Two things happened to intensify the problem. The Israelites increased in numbers, and a new Pharaoh came to the throne who was unsympathetic to their presence. He placed taxes masters over them, reducing their status to that of servants. He was aided in his plans by prolonged famine. Hunger had brought them to Egypt, now hunger reduced them to slave labor. They were forced to spend all their money to buy food they could not grow, and later to sell their land, to get more money to buy food. Anyone familiar with the Russian revolution knows how much famine in Russia enabled Lenin and Stalin to fasten a complete dictatorship upon the people. When the Israelites continued to grow in numbers, the Egyptian ruler, as did the Russian leaders, was forced to resort to murder to subjugate the people. (Exodus 1:18).

TEACHINGS DON'T MIX

"The Hebrews were ill-suited for slavery for they brought with them the magnificent concept that man is made in the image of God. (Genesis 1:27). Man is not just a creature of the state. There are certain rights the state did not give him, such as the right to equal justice, the right to human dignity, the right to worship God as the right, as Thomas Jefferson phrased it, to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." These inhere in man because he is a child of God, therefore no state has the right to take these away from him.

And yet the struggle still goes on. Under communism, the individual is used to further the welfare of the state. The power of the state is absolute. Under democracy, the government is there to protect and preserve the rights of the individual. Believing in no God, the communists see no reason why they should not lie, cheat, and even murder to further their ends. Believing — as it is true — in the one righteous God as well as in the Christian concept of a God of love, we see in the infinite dignity of the individual. Christians believe that in dealing with each other, we must practice truth, honesty, justice, purity, and consideration. (Philippians 4:8) These are not merely nice standards to follow if we hope to have happiness. They are God for them. These are the only bases on which a free society can exist. Nothing that man can measure up to the moral stature of true children of God.

EXPECT NO CHANGE

TORONTO (CP) — No change is expected in Canadian flour prices in the wake of a sharp rise this week in the U.S., spokesmen for the Canadian industry said Thursday. The price charged Toronto bakeries by Canadian flour mills is $2.80 per 100 pounds, little changed from last June 30 price. Gregg of Toronto, managing director of the Bakery Council of Canada, said: "Substantial increases in prices by as much as 80 cents to 100 pounds.

Promotion Lists For High Schools

B.C.I.

On the basis of recent examinations the following students are being recommended for the Ontario Secondary School Graduation Diploma. All recommendations are subject to review and revision by the Ontario Department of Education.

Requirements for the five-option Diploma in the General Course includes satisfactory completion of the work of Grades XI and XII in English, History, Health and Physical Education, and five of the following options: Latin, French, Spanish, Mathematics, Science, Geography, Art, Music, Shop-work, Home Economics and Commercial Work. Students with standing in the obligatory subjects and with the optional subjects are awarded a four-option Diploma.

Graduates in the Commercial Course have completed the work of Grades XI and XII in English, History of Commerce, Economics, Health and Physical Education, Mathematics, Shorthand or Clerical Practice, Bookkeeping, Typing and Office Practice, Business Law and Business Correspondence.

Graduates in the Special Commercial Course have completed at least Grade XI in another course and one year's work in Grade XII Economics, Mathematics, Typewriting, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Business Law, Business Correspondence, Office Practice and Penmanship.

GENERAL COURSE

Five-options:

Honors: Bakker, Irene; Belch, Beverley; Desaulniers, Donald; Frost, Patricia; Graham, Phyllis; Halward, Brenda; Irwin, James; James, Janice; Jones, Dale; Knight, Edna; Locklin, Edith; Nott, Allan; Rushton, Faith; Stovell, Constance; Weese, Janet; Williamson, David.

Four-options:

COMMERCIAL COURSE:

Honors: Hull, Peggy; MacDonald, Yvonne.

SPECIAL COMMERCIAL COURSE:

Honors: Mitchell, Marlene.

Pass: Flynn, Margaret; Johnson, Mary; Jones, Norma; Lockhart, Linda; Miller, Joyce; Mitchell, Pamela; Murray, Margaret; Ray, Beverley; Rekker, Irene; Sills, Barbara; Royle, Sherry; Wannamaker, Catherina; Zalstoris, Dongola.

Students whose names appear in the Honors group have obtained an average of at least 75% on the aggregate and not less than 60% in any subject.

Where a subject is listed in brackets following a student's name it indicates that the student has failed in this subject. In the case of History, Geometry, Physics, French and Latin in Grade IX he will be required to repeat the subject. In other cases he will be allowed to proceed to the work of the next Grade and will be expected to exert extra effort in the subject or change to another option.

Some students who have failed in not more than two subjects and who have met other requirements have been advised to consider attending summer school in order to improve their standing. A six-weeks summer session, sponsored by the Ontario Department of Education, will be held at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational Institute, beginning on July 5th. Transportation is provided by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board for students attending this course on the recommendation of the Principal. All applications for the course must be in the hands of the Principal not later than June 26th.

Students who have failed to obtain clear promotion are invited to discuss their programme of studies for next year with the Principal or Director of Guidance during the week of June 29 or the last week in August.

we've put a stop to highway robbery

Here's an arresting fact: Now, more than 591,000 Canadian automobile owners can stop paying too much for gasoline!

Their cars are designed for premium grade fuel, but not for the full power in the top-octane premiums they have been buying. These motorists pay for extra octane their cars can't use.

Up to now. Now, BP has added two new medium-octane, medium-price Super gasolines. With four great BP gasolines... one Regular and three Supers...you can exactly match the power requirement of your car at the lowest possible cost.

Think about that. Maybe you're one of the thousands of premium gasoline buyers who can use one of the new BP Supers and save 2¢, even 4¢ per gallon.

BP FOUR GREAT GASOLINES

BP CANADA LTD

One Regular and three Supers: SUPER RED is the top-octane fuel. SUPER WHITE costs 2¢ less per gallon. SUPER BLUE costs 4¢ less...and only a penny more than REGULAR.

May Be Months Before Result of R.C. Policy on Population Growth Known

By EUGENE LEVIN

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The spirit of Roman Catholic renewal and the development of birth control pills have led to a major review of church policy on population growth, but it may be months before conclusions are announced.

Until then, Pope Paul has confirmed the validity of existing rules and in effect ejected what had been a growing debate among some Roman Catholic prelates and theologians about birth control.

Vatican circles believe that major aspects of the study will concern oral contraceptive pills. The basic church position on birth control is expected to remain unchanged, with emphasis on improving economic conditions, not contraception.

Vatican sources say theologians and medical experts in many countries are working on the moral and practical aspects of the problem.

BROAD STUDY

The Pope said June 23 the study would be carried out "as broadly and profoundly as possible" and that conclusions are not likely to be announced soon.

His statement has had three major effects:

1. It has served to acknowledge a demand among Roman Catholics for clarification of hormone pills.

2. It has tended to moderate public discussion of birth control among prelates and theologians by meeting the demand for study and action while reaffirming for the present, current policy.

3. And it has emphasized the church's desire for renewal in the modern world.

While Pope Paul's speech was believed to refer especially to the new pills, he did not specifically mention them and he talked in general terms, indicating a broader review.

NO PROMISES

In announcing his study, Pope Paul was careful not to promise changes. "Let us say frankly that we have not yet sufficient reasons to consider overcome, and therefore not obligatory, the rules given by Pope Pius XII in this connection."

He was referring to major pronouncements by Pope Pius. The first, Oct. 29, 1951, to an audience for midwives, discussed the use of the rhythm method, which is allowed by the church. Pope Pius made it clear that even the rhythm system should not be used indiscriminately.

A few weeks before his death in October, 1958, Pope Pius said a woman might use pills to check uterine ailments if done without intent to prevent fecundation.

Debate on the pills is generally concerned with finding ways of using them along with the rhythm system to make that method more acceptable. The pills, in addition to controlling ovulation, help make the menstrual cycle regular.

Most Roman Catholic authorities including British Cardinal John Heenan of Westminster and the Vatican weekly L'Osservatore Romano, forbid the pill now on the market. They indicate that a pill must be found to be a contraceptive regular without suspending ovulation.

However, some theologians say the current pills may be ruled acceptable — that they apparently do not sterilize, but simply cause a suspension of ovulation by providing a woman with an artificial hormone that nature produces to halt ovulation during pregnancy and lactation.

Until a formal pronouncement, the pills now on the market lack church approval.

Dr. R. Patterson Opens Practice In This City

Dr. Russell K. Patterson, graduate of Queen's University in medicine and former internes of the Belleville General Hospital, has opened a general practice in the medical building on Bleecker Ave.

Dr. Patterson was born in Medicine Hat, Alberta, and early in life moved to Guelph where he attended high school. later entering Queen's University in the medical faculty. He graduated in 1960 and interned for a time at Toronto East General Hospital and then in Kingston and later in this city. He practised in Oshawa for two years before deciding on moving to this city.

He is married and has a son and daughter.

Hospital Food Poisons 25

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of Toronto General Hospital are investigating the cause of food poisoning Thursday of at least 25 persons who ate in the hospital's cafeteria.

The stricken group included nurses and office staff, although one doctor was reported to have been affected. No patients were involved.

Most of those treated were released.

A dressing used on ham sandwiches was believed to have caused the poisoning, a hospital spokesman said.

He said all food served in the hospital is prepared in the same kitchen, but he said he didn't know if the ham sandwiches and their suspected dressing was on the patients' menu.

The hospital's laboratory was placed on an emergency basis and worked throughout the night analyzing food samples.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, July 2, 1964

Prime Minister Pearson said the Canada Pension Plan will be taken up by Parliament in the fall.

A bill providing $100 annual allowances for parents of students aged 16 and 17 was introduced and given first reading.

John A. Irvine (PC—London) said he is prepared to do without a summer recess rather than wind up the flag debate.

Pauline Jewett (L—North-umberland) called on MPs to serve national unity by choosing the new maple leaf flag.

Maurice Cote (SC—Chicoutimi) said those opposed to the maple leaf flag are not true Canadians.

Henri Letulipe (Crediliste —Compton-Frontenac) said 97 per cent of his mail favors the maple leaf flag.

FRIDAY, July 3

The Commons meets at 10:30 a.m. EDT to continue the flag debate. The Senate stands adjourned to July 20.

Non-Union Help Taken Into Plants

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto and District Labor Council was told Thursday night that two truckloads of non union women were taken into three strikebound Bradford, Ont., vegetable packing plants during the day.

They received $6.80 for 10 hours work, said Frank Drea of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC). He charged the firms — United Farms, Federal Farms and Holland River Gardens—are exploiting immigrant workers.

About 300 members of Local 419 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (Ind.) have been on strike against the firms, 30 miles north of Toronto, for 11 days.

Mr. Drea told the council the pay rate for the women help was 80 cents an hour for 10 hours, making a total of $8. From this the women were charged $1 for bus fare from Toronto plus 20 cents for the use of uniforms.

"As trade unionists I think we should rebel that this sort of thing is going on," Mr. Drea said.

Loose Women Glad They Don't Live at Ugley

LOOSE, England (AP) — The women of Loose have declined a change of name. They're Loose women and proud of it.

The subject came up at a meeting Thursday of the Loose Women's Institute, Mrs. Mary Holding presiding.

"It appears that there are places in England that the village should change to a less peculiar name," Mrs. Holding said. "Some people think we should be called Loose Valley. Others want to spell it louse."

One member commented from the floor: "I've heard of a village called Ugley and I'd rather be Loose than ugly."

Ugley is in Essex and a place of considerable charm. Loose is in Kent and its morals are not in doubt. The name is supposed to derive from several streams that lose themselves underground.

Another name-change proposal came from newer residents, who arrived in the rush of Londoners to suburbia.

The women's institute voted 97 to 3 to keep loose.

Mrs. Holding summed up: "Our answer seems to be that although our name has been bandied about, we want to keep it that way.

"People who think it ought to be changed will just have to get used to it."

The girls for weekly English placenames still goes to a village in Somerset.

It's called Dead Woman's Bottom.

PROTESTS ANTHEM

OTTAWA (CP) — Maurice Cote (SC — Chicoutimi) Thursday protested in the Commons that the playing of God save the Queen at the Montreal 1967 world's fair site Wednesday was "colonial action." He raised the matter as a question of privilege.

Invasion of Playgrounds In City Starts on Monday

The city playground season will get underway on Monday, July 6th. The 23 playgrounds in all parts of the city will be ready for the annual invasion of kiddies.

Recreational director, Lloyd Doran notes that there will be two additional playgrounds in operation this year — one at Sir Winston Churchill School, and the other at the Harry J. Clarke School, both in East Belleville.

Last week playground supervisors from Belleville attended camp at Moira Lake where they received instruction in the type of program calculated to keep playground children interested throughout the summer.

Last evening supervisors received final instructions and were assigned the playgrounds where they will be in charge during July and August.

Parliamentary Notebook

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — When a man has spent nearly 30 years in Parliament, he can be fairly regarded as a successful politician.

When he has also had a distinguished academic career and wide experience in international affairs, his political success can fairly be capped by the term statesman.

And a basic rule for the successful politician and statesman is to be careful not only about what you say, but how you say it.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin gave a demonstration of this knack in the Commons Thursday when he was asked, in effect, whether he regards the situation in Cyprus as worsening.

"The situation in Cyprus certainly is not free from serious concern," he said.

Was it true that 4,000 Greek troops had been landed secretly on the island?

CAN'T SAY

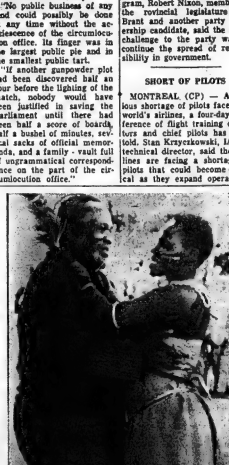
"I cannot say whether or not the statement . . . is in accordance with the facts. There are reasons for believing, however, that there have been importations of one kind or another, and beyond that I do not want to go at this time.

"In a matter of this delicacy there are some things that should not be said until there has been a complete verification."

This is the fine art of circumlocution, designed not so much to befog an issue as to take into account all possible variations of interpretation and state the facts of the case while at the same time softening the blow of anything unpleasant that has to be said.

Mr. Martin first entered the House of Commons in 1935 as MP for Essex East and has held that Windsor, Ont., constituency without interruption through eight general elections.

His academic training took him through Osgoode Hall law school, Harvard law school, Trinity College at Cambridge, England, and the Geneva School of International Studies. At last count he had more than a dozen honorary degrees.



Eighty years before he entered Parliament, Charles Dickens wrote in Little Dorrit about an office of government which, if it did exist in the context of modern day government, Mr. Martin might fill with distinction.

As minister of external affairs, his portfolio has the greatest prestige of any office in the Canadian government, next to the prime minister's office itself.

What Dickens described in 1855 was the most important department under government of its kind in that day.

"No public business of any kind could possibly be done at any time without the acquiescence of the circumlocution office. Its finger was in the largest public pie and in the smallest public tart.

"If another gunpowder plot had been discovered half an hour before the lighting of the match, nobody would have been justified in saying the Parliament until there had been half a score of boards, half a bushel of minutes, several sacks of official memorands, and a family - vault full of ungrammatical correspondence on the part of the circumlocution office."

Says Province Not Getting Good Govt.

WELLAND (CP) — Charles Templeton, a candidate for the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party, said Thursday the province's Progressive Conservative government is "complacent, sluggish and reactionary."

Speaking to the Welland riding Liberal association, the former newspaper executive, news editor and evangelist said the province was not getting good legislation.

Mr. Templeton charged the Conservative image of solid business-like government was a sham and would be one of the reasons the government could be defeated in the election he predicted would be held in 1967.

Speaking on the same program, Robert Nixon, member of the provincial legislature for Brant and another party leadership candidate, said the basic challenge to the party was to continue the spread of responsibility in government.

SHORT OF PILOTS

MONTREAL (CP) — A serious shortage of pilots faces the world's airlines, a four-day conference of flight training directors and chief pilots has been told. Stan Krzyczkowski, IATA's technical director, said the airliner are facing a shortage of pilots that could become critical as they expand operations.

Laxatives, Girdles, Bras And Hair Restorers Banned CBC Advertising House Told

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (C) — The CBC has a ban on the advertising of 25 products and services, including laxatives, girdles, brassieres and hair restorers, the Commons public accounts committee was told Thursday.

CBC resident Alphonse Ouimet tabled a list of the banned products and services during the first appearance by CBC officials at a meeting of this standing committee of the House. He also tabled a list of programs that cannot be sponsored on CBC television or radio networks or CBC stations.

The list showed the CBC would advertise sleeping tablets, bathroom tissue, corn removers, preparations to keep dentures in place or such products as toilet bowl cleaners and bathroom deodorizers.

Advertising plugs for men's and women's underwear, all types of female foundation garments, funeral parlors and cemeteries, health studios and liquor also fall under the ban.

Mail order advertisements are accepted only if the sponsor is well-established and has a high reputation. Mail order and lotteries may be broadcast and sponsorship of programs by breweries is accepted only if accepted only in provinces where it is legal to advertise such products.

AFFECTS COSMETICS

The ban also applies to adult-type comedies by radio stations, car perfumes, nail polishes and lotions. Also under the ban is the broadcasting of religious services by doctors, dentists and lawyers.

A total of 10 types of programs are not available for sponsorship. They include news, civic affairs, public affairs programs, controversial interviews, farm and fisheries programs, certain documentaries, religious program, Robert Nixon, member of the provincial legislature for Brant and another party leadership candidate, said the basic challenge to the party was to continue the spread of responsibility in government.

The CBC was engaged in commercial operations only to reduce the amount of public funds required for its operations. All CBC programs, including sponsored ones, were produced in keeping with the corporation's policy of providing a public service to meet the tastes of all segments of the community.

Mr. Harkness said that in the 1962-63 fiscal year the CBC produced programs at a cost of $26,500,000 which were not sponsored. He said that these programs could have been sold through a better sales program.

DOESN'T AGREE

Mr. Ouimet didn't agree. He said the majority of these programs were not the type that would be used by sponsors as an advertising medium.

No sponsor would pay for a program of Beethoven music to advertise his product or service. Another example is that some of the programs were broadcast in the afternoon viewing hours, a period when it was difficult to find sponsors.

Mr. Harkness said the Glasco commission estimated that the CBC sales effort was not good enough.

Mr. Ouimet replied that certain conclusions reached by the commission do not apply to "the kind of organization we have. If the CBC was a commercial enterprise they would apply.

Castro's Sister Kept in Touch With U. S. CIA

NEW YORK (AP)—Premier Fidel Castro's sister Juanita kept in touch with the Central Intelligence Agency for nearly four years and helped at least 200 persons flee Cuba before she defected last month, the New York Herald Tribune says.

A report from Washington by the paper's Latin American correspondent, Bernard G. Collier, also says Miss Castro's flight to Mexico City June 26 had the co-operation of her brother, Raul, the deputy premier and chief of the Cuban armed forces.

Collier did not identify his sources but said his information was confirmed by highly placed intelligence sources in Washington.

Parties Still At Odds Over Computer Issue

TORONTO (C) — Negotiators for Toronto's three daily newspapers and their printers ended another round of contract talks without settlement Thursday, and the union said it was calling an "emergency meeting for Sunday to deal with the situation.

The two parties were still "at odds over the issue of electronic computers. All other points in a proposed new contract were agreed upon earlier.

The union, Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC), said Sunday's meeting will recommend "appropriate action" to the membership.

The union and the newspapers —The Star, The Telegram and The Globe and Mail — each submitted revised proposals on the computer issue at Thursday's session. No details were available.

In earlier negotiations, the newspapers proposed that a composing room worker be added to the over-all staff of a data-processing centre in which the computer is the heart. His duties were not defined. The union had demanded complete control of the computer while it was processing composing room data.

Meanwhile, photo - engravers from the three newspapers and The Star Weekly have decided to ask their union's international headquarters in St. Louis for authorization to take a strike vote in a contract dispute. The men are members of Local 35, International Photo-Engravers of North America (CLC). Their contract expires at midnight of the work week to four from five days.

Leukemia Takes Life of Boy Who Got Serum

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Carpenter, the child whose father had hoped would be cured of leukemia by a French biologist's controversial serum, died early today.

The 3½-year-old boy began receiving injections June 18 of the serum known as Anabiart. On June 26, the injections were suspended.

A blood transfusion had been ordered June 23 when the child's blood count grew worse.

The serum, produced by self-educated biologist Gaston Naessens, has been described by French medical authorities as without therapeutic value.

Rene Carpenter, a Duvernay, Que., restaurant owner, told reporters Wednesday that his son died at 2:50 a.m. in Montreal's Ste. Justine Hospital.

Mr. Carpenter who brought Mr. Naessens to Canada, said his son was confirmed Thursday afternoon by the hospital chaplain.

FATHER MADE DECISION

The final word was by himself who made the decision, after consultation with doctors, to suspend the Anabiart injections. The Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons had agreed to injections of the colloidal antileukemia serum as a humanitarian act.

It was only on Tuesday that the blood condition of the boy was reported to be responding markedly to the serum treatment. The consulting committee named by the college said his condition seemed to be checked against the disease, a cancer condition of the blood.

The Tuesday statement by the committee said the leukemia cells had dropped to 27 per cent from 97 per cent.

The Anabiart injections were given by the Microbiological Institute of the University of Montreal had analyzed the serum and administered it and have no immediate toxic effect.

Dr. Victor Goldbloom vice-president of the college said all those who have been treated with Anabiart have died.

Attention, youngsters—golf youngsters, that is—school goes in for the opening class at the Bay of Quinte Country Club on Tuesday night, starting six p.m.

"Headmaster" George Balazs will be in charge of the school, ably aided and abetted by assistant principal Val Smith.

In keeping with the club policy, pro Balazs and Smith will conduct a junior golf clinic that will extend over five lessons. Both boys and girls are eligible.

The clinic which will be spread over a period of five weeks will start with the fundamentals of the game—and on upward.

Golf-minded youngsters are well-advised to take the clinic classes. Both Messrs Balazs and Smith are well qualified as instructors and the future Arnold Palmers, etc., will get the full benefit of years of experience.

Youngsters attending the clinic will be asked for a deposit of three dollars. Two of these will be returned if students attend four of the five classes. The remaining dollar will be spent for refreshments and for course awards.

All youngsters taking the course are requested to leave their signatures at the club pro shop.

The qualifying round for the Ontario Junior Golf Championships will be held at the Bay of Quinte Country Club next Monday for players 18 and under. This includes, junior, juvenile and bantam.

The round will be held under the supervision of OGA official T. A. Carruthers and is expected to attract youngsters from Quinte, Picton, Napanee, Port Hope, Cobourg, Kingston, Trenton and Trenton RCAF golf clubs.

Golf pro George Balazs who is playing the best golf of his Quinte career will play in the O'Keefe Ontario Pro Golf Championships at Bayview on Thursday and Friday, July 9 and 10. He will leave the first of the week to get in some practice rounds.

"MAN VERSUS BEAST"

A furry, 240-pound individual with flowing locks, beard, with mere pile on his hide than a 220-yard broadloom and wearing the name of "The Beast" headlines the wrestling card at Memorial Arena tonight.

This "Flintsone" of the ring takes on a pocket-size powerhouse from St. Louis, a very popular guy here by the name of Ray Villmer.

"The Beast" is a powerful cuss who has the knack of squeezing people into hour-glass shapes with his bear-hug. When you first see him you don't know whether to greet him or vacuum him.

Accompanying the "Beast" is his manager and mouthpiece, one Martino Angelo, a former junior and lightweight wrestling champion.

Martino is reported to have discovered his man in the hills of Sicily while on a world tour. Villagers told him of a man who was as strong as a bull, could run like a deer and carry two or three sheep in one armful.

Another popular wrestler here tonight is the handsome Ilio de Paolo, a 226-pound perpetual motion grappler from Abruzzis, Italy, who takes on the unmasked Black Destroyer, Joe Christie.

And coming back after a long absence is that popular Irishman, Timothy Geohagen, known as "Ireland's Strong Man", who battles Big Ike Eakins in the appetizer.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Eric Walsh, the 36-year-old jockey who had his doubts about his future as a rider this winter, monopolized the races at Woodbine Thursday, winning four and finishing second on three other mounts.

Walsh won the second, third, fourth and fifth races then finished second in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

After finishing last season as the fourth leading rider in Canada, Walsh had his doubts about his future. He thought the competition would be too rough.

Eric took to working out daily in a gym and running two miles every night. His fitness program has paid off.

He is Woodbine's leading rider with 28 victories.

Walsh guided odds-on favorite Page Service to a close decision over Tiny Fruit in the second race and with first-race winner, Spotted Flyer, Page Service completed a $36.80 daily-double.

Cibolette and Forest Rover combined in the sixth for an $18.40 quinella.

Clouts Grand Slam, Single, Two Doubles ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

LA Angels' Willie Runs Bat-Berserk

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Smith, baseball's newest Cinderella, hasn't turned into a pumpkin after all.

Smith, who stepped off the pitcher's mound into a slugging outfielder's role, clouted a grand-slam homer in the ninth inning that boosted Los Angeles Angels to a 10-6 triumph over Chicago American League - leading Baltimore Orioles Thursday night.

Smith also belted a single and two doubles and drove in two other runs as the Angels broke their five-game losing streak.

The 25-year-old wizard, who didn't do much for the Angels with his pitching arm, won three consecutive games with his bat during the team's recent 11-game winning streak.

Then Smith talked off considerably, as if midnight had struck. Before Thursday night, he had only five hits in 27 times at bat. The sudden slump dropped his average from a season's high of .340 to .286. Just as suddenly, though, Willie rediscovered his batting zipper. He popped out in the first inning, then:

Doubled home the Angels' first run in the fourth; ignited a two-run rally with a leadoff single in the sixth; doubled across another run in the seventh and connected with reliever Stu Miller with the bases loaded in the ninth for his fourth home run.

His hit and RBI production was his biggest for one game and increased his average to .317 and his RBI total to 23, 21 coming in the last 17 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York Yankees slipped Kansas City Athletics 4-3 in 15 innings, Minnesota Twins outslugged Boston Red Sox 15-8 and Detroit Tigers mauled Cleveland Indians 9-1.

The Orioles' loss cut their lead to three games over the Yankees. Jack Brandt hit a pair of two-out, two-run homers, the second coming coming in the eighth and tying the game 6-6.

Miller, now 4-2, hadn't lost since April 28. Albie Pearson opened the Angels' ninth with a single, went to second on Miller's throwing error and took third on a walk. Smith then blasted his first major league grand slam.

Hector Lopez drilled a bases-loaded single in the 15th inning for the Yankees' victory. Mickey Mantle started the winning rally with a triple.

The Yankees tied the game 3-3 on Bobby Richardson's leadoff homer in the eighth. Mantle drove in New York's first two runs with a fifth-inning double.

Minnesota mauled the Red Sox for the second straight day. Don Mincher led the assault, driving in five runs—with a fifth-inning double.

Minnesota mauled the Red Sox for the second straight day. Don Mincher led the assault, driving in five runs with a three-run homer and a single. Tony Oliva had three hits included a three-run homer.

Mickey Lolich held the Indians to five hits as they lost their sixth straight game. The Tigers scored five runs in the second inning, three on a homer by Gates Brown.

Chinese World Champion Will Compete In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — C. K. Yang, representing Nationalist China and considered the world's greatest all-round track and field athlete, will compete in the Canadian championship and Olympic decathlon trials here July 31- Aug. 1, it was announced Thursday.

The 30-year-old Yang, favored to win the Olympic gold medal at Tokyo next October in the 10-event decathlon, won the second-place silver medal behind Rafer Johnson of the U.S.* in the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome. A week ago, at Walnut, Calif., he won the U.S. title.

Ken Twigg of Toronto, international events chairman of the Central Ontario Amateur Athletic Union Track and Field Association, made the announcement of Yang's entry and said also that the Canadian women's championship and Olympic pentathlon trials would be held at Toronto, also July 31-Aug. 1.

Sees Threat To Seven WorldMarks

NEW YORK (AP) — At least six world records, and possibly seven, are in serious jeopardy this weekend as the United States' premier track and field athletes go into the first of two trials for spots on the Olympic team.

"The track is ready, the athletes are ready," George Eastment, U.S. Olympic track and field chairman, said Thursday. "We could have one record-breaking performance after another."

There are six world record holders and four former Olympic champions included in the select list that qualified for the trials.

In danger are the world records in the hammer throw, broad jump, shot put, pole vault, discus and 200 metre dash. A 1,500-metre record is a possibility and should furnish the highlight of the meet in the rematch between Tom O'Hara of Chicago and Dyrol Burleson of Oregon.

Balding, Three Others Shoot 66

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP) — Al Balding of Toronto, Juan (Chi-Chi) Rodriguez, Tony Lema and Tom Shaw tied with six-under-par 66s Thursday for the first round lead in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open golf tournament.

The four leaders led a charge over Whitemarsh Country Club's 7,007-yard course on a sultry, 90-degree day that saw almost half the field shoot par or better. The birdies and at least half a dozen eagles came thick and fast.

A stroke off the pace in the field of 150 came Larry Mowry, Dave Marr and Tommy Jacobs, each with 67.

Arnold Palmer turned in a 68, along with Al Besselink and six others.

Shaw was the first to post the score that commanded this first day of the four-day, 72-hole competition for the first prize of $24,000 and other loot. The Portland, Ore., golfer birdied five of the last six holes in his scorching finish.

Then, along came Rodriguez, 10th leading money winner on the pro trail, with a 32-34.

Lema, who won three of the last four PGA tournaments, was under par on three straight holes going out.

Balding birdied four holes and scored an eagle 3 on the 315-yard par-5 17th hole. The three-time Canadian PGA champion posted a 34-32—66 for his share of the lead.

Cannifton Meet Joyces Here Tonight

Belleville Joyce Realty will make their shortest "road trip" of the season for tonight's Eastern Ontario Baseball Association's senior contest right to their own playing field.

Joyces meet Harold Griffin's Cannifton boys, who also play their senior league games at the Belleville Fairgrounds, in an 8.30 fixture.

The Cannifton club cannot be taken too lightly and there is said to be a great deal of rivalry between district players on the two teams, which should add up to a good battle

Belleville coach Gordie St Louis may send the club's latest pitching addition, young Dave Lewis, to the mound and you can bet Griffin will throw his best into the battle in an effort to beat the city squad

Belleville's next game will also be at home, against the Brockville Beavers, next Wednesday night.

PLANS TWIN FULLBACKS

HAMILTON (CP)—Ralph Sazio, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the IEastern Football Conference, said Thursday his club will employ a twin-fullback offence in order to provide a balanced attack for the 1964 season. Sazio said his backs were unusually big this year and this is the main reason the twin-full-back setup is in the play books.

14-Year-Old Trapshooting Champion

HAMILTON (CP) — Ricky McGarry, 14, of Niagara Falls, Ont. Thursday became the first Canadian champion of champions in trapshooting in the first major event of the four - day Canadian trapshooting championships here.

The event was open to all provincial title holders.

McGarry, winner of the Ontario sub-junior and handicap events in 1963, faced a shoot-off with Harry Willsie of Montreal, after the two tied with 190 birds at the end of the event which included 100 single targets, 80 doubles and 30 handicaps.

In the first 40-bird shoot-off, both again tied with 38 each but in the second round, McGarry hit all 40 while Willsie missed three for 37.

Spahn Skid, Move, Worrying Braves

Mays Sidelined

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Where has Warren's wonder gone?

For the ninth consecutive time Thursday Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's 45-year-old pitching marvel, trudged from the mound early in the Braves' trip to St. Louis 6-3.

So, within hours, Milwaukee sports fans forced to wonder whether the Braves were ready to hit the road and whether Spahn had reached the end of it.

First came still another report that the Braves would be playing in Atlanta next year. And then Spahn went out to the mound against the Cardinals, looking for his first victory in a month and his first complete game since May 19.

Instead, the winningest left-hander in major league history was knocked out in the seventh inning and tagged with his third straight loss. He now is bogged down with a 5-8 record and a staggering 4.80 earned run average.

While Spahn's ineffectiveness continued to plague the Braves, the first-place San Francisco Giants suffered a temporary setback when Willie Mays was sidelined in the first inning of action against Pittsburgh Pirates because of an upset stomach.

With Willie absent, Orlando Cepeda took command, slugged a two-run homer and launched a five-run sixth inning rally that beat the Pirates 6-5. The victory kept the Giants 1½ games in front of Philadelphia Phillies, who edged Los Angeles Dodgers Elsewhere, Cincinnati Reds three defeated Chicago Cubs 7-0 be-

Wimbledon Tennis

'The Vanishing Americans'

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Australia's Margaret Smith knocked out the last American hope for Wimbledon singles title Thursday and will meet Maria Bueno of Brazil in her bid for a worldwide string of major women's tennis titles.

Miss Smith, the defending champion, easily disposed of Billie Jean Moffitt of the United States 6-4, 6-4 in a replay of last year's Wimbledon final.

Miss Bueno, the 1959 and 1960 champion, played some of her finest tennis in sports and eliminated Lesley Turner of Australia 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The defeat of Miss Moffitt left the U.S. without a Wimbledon finalist in either men's or women's singles for only the second time since the Second World War. The first time was in 1960, Chuck McKinley of the U.S., the 1963 men's champion, was eliminated by Fred Stolle of Australia in men's semi-finals Wednesday.

ALL-AUSSIE FINAL

Stolle and Roy Emerson meet in the all-Aussie men's singles final today and Miss Smith and Miss Bueno meet Saturday.

Miss Smith already has won the Australian, Italian and French championships this year. She hasn't been stopped since Miss Bueno did it in a classic match at Forest Hills, New York, last year. That was when

Henley Royal Regatta

Soviet Eight Shows Wake To Americans

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP)— The Soviet Union rowing eight at the Henley Royal Regatta celebrated a victory Thursday by inviting the Harvard team they defeated earlier in the day to a party.

The Soviet rowers stormed ahead of the Americans in their Grand Challenge Cup heat to equal the 1-year-old record time of six minutes, 50 seconds.

The Russians were invited to a private party and were asked who they would like to bring along as their guests.

"Harvard," said the Russians, did they did.

The regatta entered its third day today and John Roche Kiely of Jacksonville, Fla., and his Canadian teammate, John Lecky of Vancouver, were to meet R. C. H. Duggins-Mann and S. C. Rand of England in the Silver Goblets semi-final.

Lecky and Kiely, rowing for the Leander club of England, took an easy four-length victory in their heat Thursday. They'll day in win their berth in today's semi-final. They covered the one mile, 550-yard course in eight minutes, 21 seconds.

Heavyweight rowers seemed to have the edge on Thursday's competition.

The Soviet eight, an all-muscle team averaging 193 pounds, completely out classed the lighter Harvard crew and tied the record set for the Grand Challenge Cup despite a blustery wind sweeping the Thames. The record was set by Cornell University seven years ago.

Experts predict that the Soviet squad, all Lithuanian rowing for the Club Zalgiris Vilnius, will break the record if they hold their form and the weather improves.

This could come today when they meet Britain's Thames Rowing Club in the Challenge Cup semi-finals. The current little-holders, University of London, face the winner in 1960, Molesey Boat Club.

Lecky and Kiely, students at Cambridge University, are considered the best amateur pair rowing in Britain today and Thursday they showed why.

They captured the lead at the start of their race and were three lengths ahead of their opponent before the race was half the halfway mark.

Pete Johnson, 17, a winner of the Canadian schoolboy title, proved too strong for Gerry Hubbard of Yale and survived won by more than a dozen lengths.

The other American, 30-year-old Dwight Crowell of Mercer Island, Wash., will meet Britain's Non-Pareil Rowing Club, beat J. Pilgrim Morris by two lengths.

Says Braves Will Move To Atlanta

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves move-to-Atlanta report, originated a year ago, was revived today.

The Sporting News, despite denials from involved parties, stated flatly it has learned that the Braves will move to Atlanta, Ga., in 1966.

The copyrighted story by C. C. Johnson Spink, publisher of the baseball weekly, said no formal meeting of the National League has been held but said the Braves are sure the nine other league clubs will approve the move.

John McHale, Braves president, said in Milwaukee:

"We consider this just another of many, many stories that have been written about baseball in the past years. We're going to stay in Milwaukee as long as we're welcome."

Driving Club Racing Card

A record four-race thirty-horse entry faces the barrier tomorrow night at the Quinte Driving Club's weekly harness meet at the Raceway.

Eight horses will start in the first three races with six scheduled to go in the fourth and feature dash-mile.

Matching strides in what should be another thrilling duel will be Mountain Way and Frosty Magic who split the victories last week in whirlwind photo finishes.

But there's Hal's Pence, Magic Millie, Ace Hy and Roya K. Abbey any of which could furnish strong opposition in the fourth and eighth heats.

Gaytans owned by B. Kerr of Smith's Falls is a new entry in the second and sixth heats.

Irens Han, Direct Dillard, Atomic, Sella and other former winners are entered in the third and seventh heats and this could be a photo finish.

With recent rains and sunny weather predicted for tomorrow, raceway officials say the track should be in fine condition.

Deseronto Wins Over Foxboro 8-6

A pair of runs in the top of the fifth inning gave Deseronto an 8-6 South Hastings Baseball League victory over Foxboro on the losers' home field last night. The win was marred by dark ness after five full innings.

The winners had held an early lead, erupting for five runs of seven hits in the first frame. Four in the bottom of the third allowed Foxboro to tie the score 6-6.

A. Brant pitched the victory, allowing seven hits, striking out five and walking one.

Campbell failed to last through the first frame for the losers, giving way to Dickey. They gave up 11 hits in all, earned eight and passed two.

Huffman had three singles, Maracle two doubles and R. Brant two singles for Deseronto. Loney, B. Deltor, D. Deltor and W. Brant also hit safely.

Dickey capped a pair of doubles and Little a pair of singles for Foxboro. Mann and Skelly also doubled and Belanger singled.

An unofficial league standing, including games played up until today, shows Shannonville in first place with 23 points, followed by Plane's Concrete of Cannifton with 20, Deseronto with 14, Read fifth 10, Foxboro with eight and Latta with seven.

Deseronto	510 02—8	11 2
Foxboro	114 00—6	7 1

Rain Halts Ball Games

Yesterday's much - needed rainfall washed out most of the history's ball games scheduled for last night.

The Belleville and District Softball League game, Trenton Hills Construction was postponed and will be played Saturday night, at the CNRA Park at 8:45. The game is an important one with the Juniors just two points behind first-place Trenton.

Two Commercial softball tilts, Point Anne at Belvedere Hotel and Black Diamond at Lightfoot Construction, were also rained out. No announcement has been made as to when these games will be played.

Meanwhile at a league meeting, the committee has voted to allow three of the lower-level teams to secure pitching help. Players were allotted last night.

It is assumed that interdepartmental, several other district leagues and minor games were also postponed last night.

CUT TO FOUR

MONTREAL (CP) — The original eight Davis Cup hopefuls participating in trials aimed at filling two empty spots on Canada's Davis Cup team were pared to four at the close of Thursday's matches. The four chosen were Mike Carpenter of Montreal ad Reider Getz, of Vancouver, both with five wins and one loss, and Val Haritt of Montreal and Brian Flood of London, Ont., who had 4-2 records.

HEALTH TOLLS

An estimated 285,000 Canadians are disabled from the various forms of rheumatic diseases.

Thompson Leads Pack In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alvis Thompson of Crescent arrived a tough back nine that played havoc with most of the field Saturday to win the men's feature par 69 in the first round of the 54 - hole Manitoba Open golf championship.

This earned him a one-stroke lead over professionals Will Montgomery of Winnipeg and Jack Webb of Fargo, N.D.

Two strokes off pace at 71 was Doug Pollock, 17-year-old golfer from Bermuda. At 72 were professionals Dave Berg of Regina, Jack Lilliedale of Dauphin, Ont., Moe Norman of Toronto and Bill Wright Jr., of Edmonton.

PROBLEM PARKING

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (CP)—A Tahiti newspaper complains that heavy traffic and parking is becoming a problem in the South Seas. It says imported Paris type automobiles should be limited.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD
— Four-Time Winner of the Masters —

HEAD MUST MOVE DURING SWING

Too often, golf instructors tell you to "keep your head still," because it is very misleading to the average player. I think this is bad advice.

It is true that your head should not move laterally or up-down during your swing. Such head movement would throw your swing plane and arc out of kilter and cause mis-hit shots.

However, the head must rotate during the swing, just as the hips and shoulders must turn or rotate. I know my head turns on the backswing and on the downswing, as illustrated. Without this head rotation most golf swings would become constricted and the swing arcs would be shortened. The result would be a loss of distance. Even Sam Snead, whose physical makeup is very flexible, rotates his head to ensure himself a free, smooth swing at the ball.

73-Year-Old Scores Sixth Hole-In-One

LONDON (AP) — Charles Bowlby smacked the ball with a six iron off the tee of the 136 - yard eighth hole of the Sandy Lodge course in suburban Norwood recently.

The ball soared high into the wind, bounced once on the green and plopped into the cup.

"Bless my soul," sighed the 73 f year old golfer. "I've done it again."

It was Bowlby's sixth hole in one in the last 12 years —all but one at Sandy Lodge.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A healthy daily double of $224.00 highlighted the Western Fair Raceway Thursday when Stanley Davis won the first race at $13.00 and Dram's Gal grabbed the second at $19.90.

In the only double dash of the 10-race program Stormy Lu finished second in the first heat, paying $6.00, to pair $8.00 then came back strong in the second leg, with sixth race at win at $12.00.

Fastest time of the night on a sloppy track was recorded by Alan Direct, 3, a seven-year-old gelding, who paced the mile in 2:18 1-5.

TORONTO (CP) — Fairside Star found racing room on the rail to score a stunning upset victory in the junior tort feature on Thursday's harness racing card at Greenwood Raceway.

The four - year - old mare, owned by J. R. Pritchard of Toronto, was lightly regarded in the $2,000 event which drew seven starters including the 5-2 choice Elmtoe Colby.

Fairside Star left the gate at 17 to 1 but had plenty of speed in the stretch to beat Ledbetter Frost from the Armstrong Brothers Stable of Brampton, Ont.

Central Jail Costs Reported By Department

PICTON (Staff) — In a report by the Department of Reform Institutions facts and figures on the cost of a central jail to serve the counties of Hastings, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward have been compiled. Various county councils requested this cost investigation following a joint meeting with Reform Minister Allan Grossman, held in Kingston on the subject of a central jail for the four counties.

In part the report from the department reads: "We attach some calculations and suggestions concerning the unit as requested. As this would be the first of such units we have no previous costs, etc., to guide us. Therefore we have used a combination of factors from various types of institutions. This is a basic set of figures for estimate only. In fact, a true estimate for such a unit could only be made by an architect after completion of drawings, etc. Any figures therefore should be looked upon as an educated guess particularly in respect to costs.

"It is our thought that in such a unit the maximum security building would be used to house all prisoners for transfer to other institutions, all remand prisoners, and all female prisoners. The minimum security building would be for short term male prisoners, who could be used for productive labor. The kitchen in the maximum security building would provide meals for the minimum security building. The food would be transported by means of hospital type heated hand trucks.

"We suggest that in connection with this building there would be a garden, the produce of which would be used in the detention unit and possibly in other county institutions, such as the Home for the Aged, in the winter the prisoners in minimum security could be used for a variety of projects such as painting road signs, manufacturing snow fence, assembling picnic tables for your recreation areas, etc. Possibly there are many other things that could be done for these prisoners for the municipality of which we are unaware."

The report continues to give a breakdown of the accommodations required and their estimated cost. The maximum security building is estimated at $904,000, and the minimum security building at $330,000, a total cost of $1,234,000.

Total annual cost for keeping the prisoners based on 1963 total days' stay at the four county jails would be $160,138.78.

The report calculates that a staff of forty would be required to administer the central jail.

The July meeting of the county council will consider the report in full.

Legion Marks Dominion Day With Carnival

PICTON (Staff) — Branch 78 of the Canadian Legion held a carnival Wednesday evening featuring games and a fireworks display.

A large number gathered on the lawn of the Legion Hall to play bingo and to try their luck at the penny loss.

At 10 p.m. Mayor H. J. McFarland drew the winning tickets for cash prizes of $100. Winner of the draw for $75 was Mr. James Hill, Picton while Mr. Don Bongard won the $25. draw. Following the draw everyone enjoyed an attractive fireworks display.

SPONSOR FORUM

On Tuesday, July 14th at 7.30 p.m. the Ontario Department of Agriculture will hold a Freezer Forum at the Anglican Parish Hall.

Included in the program will be discussions and demonstrations on the freezer itself; care and packing; how what and when to freeze; and several other important topics. Stress will be placed on good freezer management. Plans have been made to question perfect to permit special problems to be discussed.

WILL HOLD BOOK FAIR

Plans were charted at the monthly meeting of the University Women's Club for their annual book fair, to be held this year on October 2nd in the Parish Hall.

The club voted $50. of the Education Fund raised by this means for a Grade 12 scholarship.

Officers for the 1964-65 season were voted as follows: president — Angela Keyes; 1st vice-president — Patricia Taylor; 2nd vice-president — Ruth Walmsley; secretary — Mary Greatrix; treasurer — Rachel Hodgin; Federation representative — Eleanor Anderson; membership secretary — Susan Bell.

Provincial Director of Canadian Federation of University Women for Eastern District Mrs. R. H. McCreary, addressed the club on the pilot classes in French for public school students sponsored in Arnprior by CFUW in '62, '63, and '64. Experience demonstrated that the plan was very successful at the grade 5 level and that class as showed good attendance.

At the Triennial Conference of CFUW held in Winnipeg in summer Mrs. L. Charter will represent the Club.

Survey Crew Now at Work At Sandbanks

PICTON (Staff) — A Department of Highways survey crew is surveying a location bank for the first mile of new road into the area. The road will be an extension of County Road 12 and will enter the sandbanks east of the Department of Lands Area. Construction of the first mile is expected to start this fall and indicates Department plans to proceed with development of the beach as announced.

Marketing Board Favored by Egg Producers

PICTON (Staff) — Fewer than 10 per cent of the provinces' estimated 30,000 poultrymen cast ballots in last week's poll of setting up a provincial egg marketing board. A majority of the 2,635 Ontario egg producers who voted were in favor with the plan an official count disclosed on Monday. Allan Wadow of Hanover associated president of the Ontario Poultry Producers' Association estimated that 15 to 20 per cent of those eligible had cast ballots.

A total of 68.4 per cent of those who voted favored a board, said vice-chairman of the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board, Herbert Arbuckle.

William Stewart, Minister of Agriculture, said earlier that a board would be set up if 66% per cent or more voted in favor. Mr. Wadow noted that the vote was light, but Mr. Stewart said that he had specified not a minimum number of voters, only a minimum of 66⅔ per cent of the vote in favor of the plan.

Mr. Stewart stated that the vote should mean that egg producers will be more helped with Ontario Government's help. In recent years the government had given the Poultry Producers' Association about $2,000 a year to help pay for expenses.

Purpose of a board would be to promote egg consumption and to do research into egg uses. Board operations would be paid for by collecting two cents for each bird marketed from producers.

Ladies' Night Sponsored by Rotary Club

PICTON (Staff) — Tuesday evening Gladiolus and Rotary Anns enjoyed their annual Ladies Night in the form of a dinner meeting. A delicious meal was followed by a roast beef dinner served at the Royal Hotel.

Mrs. Lester Keeler, wife of the retiring president, was presented with a bouquet of red roses by Arthur Moore. Dan Walker presented Miss Gena Ostrander with a bouquet in appreciation of her help with the Club bulletin. Wives of new Rotarian during the past year received a special club gift. The ladies were Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Gordon Jackson, Mrs. Wm. Barron, Mrs. Robt. Boyce and Mrs. Gerald Vincent.

Officers in the new club year are: President Russell Parkin, Vice President Canon Robt. Wright, Sec. John Bongard, Treasurer, Arthur Lloyd, Directors, Victor Allan, Jack Golden, Lorne Cassidy and Gordon Ellis and Al Anderson.

Former presidents Gerry Morrison, Woodstock, Howard Gorsline, Ottawa, and their wives were also guests.

Rotary Anns and guests were welcomed by Dan Keeler who summarized the year's work.

Guest speaker Mrs. Betty Garden was introduced by Herb Garden. Mrs. Garden gave a brief speech concerning the roles of the councils industry. She spoke of comedies as "a great morale booster."

Jack Hardwick thanked Mrs. Garden and presented a Quinte Milk Cheese to the interesting speaker of the evening.

ONE ACCIDENT

Suns Shade Jets 6-5, Vees Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Suns had a helping hand from the weatherman Thursday as they increased their International League lead to 2½ games with a 6-5 triumph over Columbus Jets while second-place Rochester Red Wings were rained out against Buffalo Bisons.

In the only other game, Atlanta Crackers blanked Richmond Virginians 5-0.

Minor Baseball Results

Barrirage Landscapers collected only one hit but still managed to pull out a 5-2 victory over the Jayoees in a Bantam baseball league game played at Park Dale last night.

The winners' lone hit, a single, came in the sixth inning but combined with four costly errors and two walks to give Landscapers the victory nod.

Steven Ling pitched three-hit ball on the Barrirage mound. He struck out nine and kept nine walks well separated. R. Howe and B. Windsor shared the catching.

John Holgate was the loser despite his one-hitter. He injured one on third strikes and issued five free passes. Thornton was his receiver.

The lone Barrirage hit was a single by D. Roper.

Lalonde hit a two-run double for Jayoees. Paul Goeddelien and Clifford Scott had the other base knocks.

Minor Softball Results

Only one of the games scheduled in the B.M.S.A.'s Squirt (East Hill) section was played last night and in that, Yankees downed the Packers by a 14-5 score. Other games were rained out.

An exhibition was played between two Peewee teams, with Athletics defeating the Tigers 23-12.

No Social Life During Work Week Says Actress

Inger Stevens, star of her own ABC television series, explains why the life of a popular star isn't all glamour. She is substituting for vacationing Cynthia Lowry.

Written for
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
By INGER STEVENS

HOLLYWOOD (A) — As a bachelor girl, I'm frequently asked how starring in a weekly television series affects my social life.

The answer is simple. During the work week, there isn't any. Besides, my schedule is so impossible I can't imagine any man putting up with it.

The alarm clock sounds at 6:15 a.m. and homecoming is usually around 8:30 in the evening. There is only time to remove makeup, eat and study the next day's 13 pages of dialogue before 9:46 bedtime.

About the only exception to this rigid routine is that I do attend premieres and openings—because it's part of the job. But if I get home late, it always affects my work the next day. Even after completing 42 shows, I hate to be late and can't relax if I don't know my lines.

Is it worth it?

IT'S NO HARDSHIP

Frankly, it is not hardship. After being with people all day, I enjoy getting home and taking it easy. On the weekend I make up for it and enjoy life with a lot of friends, mainly from outside the business. A favorite Saturday recreation is going to the races. After friends took me the first time, I became a challenge to learn to read a racing form. The rest of the cast and crew members tease about this interest in handicapping.

When The Farmer's Daughter started last season I had no idea how time - consuming it would prove. Sometimes I feel as if my life were being churned down a garbage disposal. The first season was particularly difficult because so many weekends had to be devoted to promotional trips. And virtually every studio lunch break was an interview session. I've never talked so much about myself ever. It makes me feel like the most boring person in the world.

Working in a series is plain hard work, particularly when I involve appearing in nearly every scene. It's also a weighty responsibility when you look around at all the people working on the set and are aware that they and their families are dependent on the success of the series.

While starring in The Farmer's Daughter, is restrictive in terms of personal life, it is at the same time providing freedom for the future through opportunity and financial security.

HOPES FOR SUCCESS

I hope I'm as successful in the long run as Loretta Young, who starred in motion picture of The Farmer's Daughter. We have yet to meet and I have never seen the movie, preferring to feel that I have created something of my own in the role of Katy Holstrum—the role that brought Miss Young an Academy Award. It has brought me Golden Globe and TV Guide awards plus an Emmy nomination—not bad for one-year.

However, there is no comparison between the two productions. Other than the title and some of the characters, there is no similarity between the film and our television series, which is much more sophisticated.

"Ja," as Katy would say, I like life as The Farmer's Daughter.

JAPANESE MAESTRO ACCLAIMED — Seiji Ozawa has climbed, in five years, to a leading place among conductors of the western world, winning acclaim throughout Europe and North America. The 28-year-old native of Manchuria has accepted a three-year contract to conduct the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, starting in 1965. Ozawa was offered the contract after a Toronto audience gave him a standing ovation lasting more than 15 minutes last January. (CP Photo)

In Five Years Japanese Musician Has Climbed to Top of World Conductors

By CARMAN CUMMING

NEW YORK (CP) — Seiji Ozawa is small, intense, and by general agreement a musical genius.

Five years ago he was washing dishes on a Japanese freighter crawling lazily through the Indian Ocean on a 63-day voyage from Japan to Sicily.

He travelled from Sicily to Paris on a motorcycle he was advertising for a Japanese company. He was 23, had little money and knew no European language.

All of which makes it even more remarkable that he has climbed, in five years, to a leading place among conductors of the Western world.

In a way, the culmination came last January when a Toronto audience saluted his maestro with the baton in a standing ovation that lasted more than a quarter-hour.

After that it was no surprise that Ozawa was coming back from a Japanese tour while his wife was on her way there. And when his wife got back to New York, Ozawa had just left for Europe.

He's busy, oddly enough, is the only city where Ozawa has run into troubles instead of praise. In a way it fell to two head-on into the traditionalist Nhk Symphony Orchestra in a dispute climaxed with the refusal of the orchestra to play for him. Feelings were later soothed and reconciliation restored, however.

SETS HOT PACE

At present, Ozawa is shuttling back and forth between New York and Chicago, where he has been named music director of the prestigious Ravinia Festival. This winter he will return to the Philharmonic here and he also has guest appearances scheduled in Toronto, Montreal and London.

At Toronto next year he will succeed Walter Susskind, who has directed the symphony since 1956. He will be only the fifth conductor in the Orchestra's history.

The first was Frank S. Welsman, who led it from 1907 until 1917, when it lapsed. It was revived under Luigi von Kunits from 1922 to '26 and Sir Ernest MacMillan led it for two decades, 1935-55.

F.E.L. SHOWS

CBC-TV will present a series of programs, mostly originating from Charlottetown, during Prince Edward Island's centennial celebrations this summer.

Music World Mourns Death Of P. Monteaux

HANCOCK, Me. (AP) — The music world mourned the death Wednesday of Pierre Monteaux, the French - born conductor whose career spanned more than half a century with the world's great orchestras.

It was joined by the 800 residents of his Maine pearful town, who knew him as Pierre, as the community's honorary fire chief, and as a man who had adopted Hancock as his home with zest and affection.

Monteux, 88, was still permanent conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra when he died in his sleep at 2 a.m.

His sister, Mrs. David Michlin, said Monteux suffered a concussion in a fall in London several months ago. She said he returned to Hancock to recuperate, but suffered several brain hemorrhages.

A requiem mass is planned at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Joseph's Church in nearby Ellsworth.

Monteux began his musical career as a viola player in a string quartet in his native Paris. He fought as a French Army enlisted man in the early days of the First World War and came to the United States as conductor of the Ballet Russe.

Star Oskar Werner Pays Rare Visit to Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Among Oskar Werner's distinctions is the fact that he is the only star to place his footprints in the Cinemascope Theatre cement in absentia.

It happened a dozen years ago when Werner's manager was a hit in the Fox film Decision Before Dawn. The studio wanted him in the forecourt, but Werner couldn't make the trip from Europe so he had his signature and an outline of his handprints.

"But look at the footprints—enormous!" He said while viewing the concrete block recently.

"I wear a 6½ shoe, but they used the army boots I wore in the picture."

Werner didn't make the trip merely to see his signature immortalized in the Gruman's cement. He is part of the international cast assembled by Stanley Kramer for his film of the Katherine Anne Porter best-seller, Ship of Fools.

FIRST HOLLYWOOD MOVIE

It's Werner's first movie in Hollywood, but not his first trip here. He came once before, following his success in Decision Before Dawn.

He considers movies a sideline to his primary profession, which is the stage. From his home base in Liechtenstein, he travels with his own repertory company, playing the classics plus an occasional Tennessee Williams or Eugene O'Neill play.

STIRLING—The first bootenanny was staged in Stirling theatre on Friday evening with approximately 250 people in attendance. The proceeds will be in aid of the Stirling District Memorial Hind.

About 45 singers and musicians from Stirling, Frankford, Cobourg, Trenton and Oshawa staged the entertainment consisting of folk and western songs, and various musical instruments, accordions, guitars and violins. The Stirling Legion sponsored the affair under the direction of their president Allen Lewes.

The master of ceremonies was Keith Tompkins and he kept the show going as each group prepared their own stage. Jack McCaughen was in charge of the Stirling group which was entitled "Stirling Hills Country Ramblers" and he sang with his own guitar accompaniment. John DeVries gave accordion music, Glen Ray of Halloway was violinist and Murray Bateman sang with his guitar.

ATTEND SERVICE

On Sunday morning, June 28th, the Orange Lodges in the village attended divine service in St. John's Anglican church, Stirling. The parade from the lodge hall was led by Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barnard. The marshals were Mr. Bert Goodmans and Sister Verna Woodcock.

Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of the church conducted the service and a former pastor, Rev. C. C. Brazill, rector of St. Edmunds church, Toronto gave the sermonal message.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Lorne Hagerman, Grand Master of Ontario East Orange lodge and Rt. Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, past Grand Master of Ontario East read the Bible lessons.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 4

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Take special care while travelling. Be practical, avoid your boss. Day to reflect, think and decide. Ideas abound. Be selective. Good to be with those who stimulate you.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Your intuition now rings bell of truth. Disagreement concerning finances will boomerang in your favor. Concentrate on expressing appreciation to loved one. Holiday spirit prevails.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): One who has been confined to home or hospital due to make request. Respond. Follow concepts of Golden Rule. Avoid apprehension. Accept challenge. Day to prove you are capable.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): One who shows interest on provoking you may be engaging in practical joke. Day when you achieve degree of fulfillment. You can be aided by member of opposite sex.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 23): Changes in financial situation are to be expected. Go with the tide . . . be flexible. Your image shines bright. Highest you remain improved. Discard outmoded methods, ideas.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Good lunar aspect highlights long journeys, reunions. Be adaptable. Obtain valuable hint from today's—Leo message.

Check details. Take special care in traffic.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You are able to solve "mystery" . . . get to heart of matter. Involves visitors, travel, contacts with intriguing persons. Domestic situation fine if you avoid money question.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21): Study significance of recent events. Don't be deceived by word trap of "coincidence." There are reasons. If you dwell upon possibilities . . . you will come up with valuable answers.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Feeling of frustration could prevail. Your pace should be slow but sure. Check directions, traffic signs. Key is being patient. And maintaining sense of humor!

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Pleasure to be gained through children. Excellent for picnics, special events — day when you can be active yet relaxed. Think about important changes, new programs. Easy are due!

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Your idealism is put to test. Hold fast to principles. Temptation is to throw caution to the winds. But this would be mistake. Remember promises, resolutions. Don't hurt loved ones.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): If possible, avoid crowded highways. Being confused today could prove costly. Do one thing at a time. Be with individuals who create feeling of harmony. Utilize intuitive intellect.

If today is your birthday . . . you are a combination of the practical and imaginative. You have both feet on the ground, but you are a visionary. Many have much to learn from you! General Tendencies: People rush. Their intentions are good, but accidents are numerous.

Took 20 Years to Win Edmonton Council Seat

By JOHN WARREN

EDMONTON (CP) — It took Julia Kiniski 20 years and 11 elections to win a seat on Edmonton's city council. Once there, in less than two months, she established a reputation as the most outspoken, persistent and energetic alderman in the city of 330,000.

The 64-year-old Polish - born mother of six has even stolen much of the spotlight from controversial Mayor William Hawrelak since October when both were elected, he returning after being out of politics since 1959 when a royal commission accused him of "gross misconduct."

There's a chance Mrs. Kiniski and Mr. Hawrelak may come into more direct competition in time. She doesn't deny she has thoughts of perhaps trying for the mayoralty in a few years.

Meanwhile, "Big Julie," as she is affectionately called—her propositions being only slightly less ample than those of her famous son, wrestler Gene Kiniski—is satisfied to leave the mark of her enthusiasm on council from her alderman's chair.

Mrs. Kiniski is an unusual combination of humor, sympathy, determination ad ambition. Over the last two decades her lively manner of expression with emphasis on the metaphor —sometimes mixed—has added color to otherwise tedious civic election campaigns.

DEAD MAN'S MEDICINE

"Those wolves in sheep's clothing are taking the taxpayer to the cleaners while they fill their own pockets with gold," she said of one annually successfully slate of council candidates.

"Re-electing the same council is like giving medicine to a dead man. . . . A change is as good as a rest. Give yourselves a change and let them rest awhile."

Once she told a heckler: "I may not talk too good but you don't think too good. Your tongue moves so fast it must have put a knot in your brain."

The council's self-appointed champion of "the little guy," she was treated almost as curiosity during her first few months, sometimes described as "a meddlesome busybody" and "a silly woman."

"They don't always treat me as a lady, but sometimes I don't act like a lady myself," she says, such as the time she objected to another alderman interrupting her while she was reading a brief. "Shut up till I'm finished," she told him.

But the occasional unladylike outburst doesn't obscure the fact that her sincerity is unquestioned, whether she's fighting bureaucratic methods of handling welfare payments or trying to help low-income families battle a city crackdown on illegal basement apartments.

And there's no doubt that she has succeeded in stirring interest among the public in city government. An average of 50 persons is being turned away from the previously empty 100-seat gallery in the council chamber.

While some may question the effectiveness of her hard-hitting methods, she can point to at least a few successes.

The 11-member council, which includes one other woman, scoffed at her fight for better manners on the part of civic employees. But a month later the mayor instituted a program of public relations training for city workers.

She brought up the case of a retired city employee whose $12,000 salary was being continued more than a year after his retirement to enable him to qualify for a pension. The salary was cut off.

And while the city still maintains its basement-suite legislation is valid, Mrs. Kiniski insists its "a violation of privacy and sanctity" and feels sure it won't be enforced against persons who supplement modest incomes by renting suites in older homes.

Julia Kiniski's concern for these people has a personal foundation. Although she and her husband, now retired, live in an attractively landscaped two-bedroom bungalow in northcentral Edmonton, they haven't forgotten that their early quarters after moving here from rural Alberta in 1937 were in the poorer districts of the city.

MANAGED CAFE

In those days Nicholas Kiniski was a $5-a-week barber and Julia sold cosmetics and managed a cafe while raising six children.

When Gene, her youngest, was 13 she decided to catch up on her education, interrupted in Grade 7. She enrolled in University of Alberta extension courses, walking two miles to class ("I usually got a ride home") to study psychology, philosophy and world affairs.

She continued to study for nearly 10 years as the family prospered modestly during the war years and afterward by buying and selling oil shares and apartments.

Today one son is a union executive in San Francisco, another is a graduate meteorologist and TV weatherman here and a third operates two music schools in Toronto. Both her daughters were married; one now is a widow.

But even as the Kiniski family prospered, Julia never forgot those less fortunate than herself, and she became a sort of one-woman welfare agency.

"I drove the health minister and some others almost crazy," she recalls, "but I wanted to help those people when they needed it—not through a long process of filling out forms and passing them on.

Food and clothing provided by the Kiniskis themselves often went to help others.

MUST SUFFER FIRST

In 1960 she made a four-month trip to Europe and distributed in Warsaw shoes purchased through a Polish children's aid fund in Canada.

Mrs. Kiniski has some frank opinions about women in politics. She doesn't feel either Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa or Health Minister Judy LaMarsh can do an adequate job because neither has raised a family.

"You've got to first suffer and sacrifice. You've got to raise a family to know the value of people."

Mrs. Kiniski makes a full-time job of her aldermanic position but this sometimes has its drawbacks. Her reputation as a sympathetic listener means her phone is seldom silent for more than 15 minutes.

But she smiles when she recalls the woman who called at 11 p.m. to report she couldn't sleep because the man next door was making a noise repairing his car.

"Well,go over there and help him fix it," she told the woman. "He'll finish sooner and we'll all get some sleep."

Preparations for World's Fair Started Under a Cloud But Now Right on Time

By JOHN YORSTON

MONTREAL (CP)—When he is asked whether the 1967 Montreal world's fair will open on time, Bob Shaw has a one-word answer: "Yes."

The tone used by the fair's husky deputy commissioner makes it clear that is his final answer.

Preparations for the fair—Expo 67 as it is known in Montreal—started under a cloud of confusion and doubt. But Mr. Shaw says everything is going ahead on schedule now, in fact a bit ahead of schedule.

"The 'experts'—don't count how many—said the site would not be ready on time," recalls Mayor Jean Drapeau, the man who started the drive to get the fair here.

But on "the very first second of the very first minute of the first of July" the island site will be handed over formally to Montreal according to program to the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition, the body running the fair.

On the second second of this Dominion Day, the mayor adds, bulldozers will begin the job of digging channels for sewers and water systems, to be in by December. Construction of pavilions is scheduled to start in the spring.

CITY BUILDS SITE

Preparing the site has involved building a new island in the St. Lawrence River and extending existing islands with fill. The $10,000,000 job was the responsibility of the City of Montreal and its deadline was July 1.

Two big dredges have sucked up fill from the river bottom and more was trucked in to provide some 18,000,000 cubic yards of fill to create the site between Montreal Harbor and the entrance to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

As the first big job was nearing completion, members of the fair staff exuded confidence.

"I've got a hunch," said Edward Churchill, an army colonel with a reputation for busting through red tape who is responsible for getting the site set up.

"We'll be able to get our roads and utilities before construction of the pavilions begins," he added.

Although Pierre Dupuy, the commissioner-general, and Mr. Shaw were appointed only last fall after the first commissioners resigned and the fair seemed to be bogged down, both have been moving fast to make up for lost time.

TOURS WORLD

Mr. Dupuy, former Canadian ambassador to France, has travelled four continents selling the fair with the result, officials say, that 28 countries have given official or unofficial indications they will participate.

Mr. Shaw, former president of Foundation Company of Canada, has been canvassing Canadian businessmen, who are expected to put up about 50 of the 100 pavilions.

So far, Mr. Shaw says, 35 private exhibitors have reserved space. Ten lots remain to be sold but the ground plan is under review to see if it can be altered to accommodate more.

Mr. Shaw estimates total cost to the corporation will reach $167,000,000 and revenue $120,000,000, leaving a deficit—"I prefer to call it an investment" —of $47,000,000 to be borne by the federal, Quebec and Montreal governments.

Explaining his idea that the deficit is an investment, Mr. Shaw says the fair will mean $400,000,000 extra tourist dollars for Canada in 1967 and exhibitors will spend an additional $200,000,000. The deputy commissioner says he is convinced that general business development resulting from the fair will produce at least $800,000,000.

Fair authorities expect about 30,000,000 people will see the fair and with many making more than one visit they anticipate 30,000,000 admissions during the six months of the fair.

MOST FROM U.S.

Officials expect 56 per cent of admissions will be visitors from the United States, 22 per cent from metropolitan Montreal, 20 per cent from the rest of Canada and the remaining two per cent from the rest of the world.

Theme of Expo 67, Terre des Hommes—Man and His World, will be worked into buildings and emphasized in three main areas of human life, showing cultural and scientific achievements; man and the universe, showing aspects of the earth and cosmos, and man and the community, showing how he lives and works.

The fair has met initial deadlines and will continue meeting them, Mayor Drapeau says. They include:

Oct. 31, 1964, final approval of plans for the site, including location of pavilions.

Sept. 30, 1965, completion of foundations for pavilions.

April 28, 1967, opening day. "It will be done," says Mayor Drapeau, "and it will be done on time."

BRINGS COLOR TO COUNCIL — Mrs. Julia Kiniski has brought to Edmonton city council the same color she added to civic election campaigns over the last 20 years. It took Mrs. Kiniski 11 elections to win a seat on the council, but she soon gained a reputation as an outspoken champion of the "little guy." Mrs. Kiniski, affectionately called "Big Julie," is the mother of wrestler Gene Kiniski. (CP Photo)

Local 171, O. F. U., Makes Future Plans

BONARLAW — The June meeting of Local 171 of Ontario Farmer's Union was held in the I.O.L. with a good attendance. During the business period Shirley Reid gave a summary of the board meeting. A meeting is to be held in Peterborough soon to make plans for a booth at the plowing match.

Jaimie Williams gave her report on the membership meeting that was held in Oshawa. It was well attended and was quite satisfactory.

A discussion was held on a social to be held next month.

A song was rendered by Murray Bateman.

The rummage sale proved a great success. Larry Thompson drew the ticket on the quilt and the winner was Mrs. Walter Miller of Tara, Ont., chairman of the O.F.U. marketing committee. The ladies served lunch and a social time was spent.

Employees Get New Contract

OSHAWA (CP) — American Newspaper Guild employees at the Oshawa Times Thursday night unanimously accepted company counter proposals providing for a 40-hour work week, an immediate $5-a-week salary increase across the board and overtime compensation.

The settlement, constituting the first guild contract with a newspaper owned by Thomson Newspapers in Canada, averted a threatened strike and came after a 14-hour negotiating session in Toronto last Saturday.

Fifty editorial, business offices, advertising, circulation and trucking employees are covered by the Oshawa unit of the guild. The vote to accept proposals was 37 to 0.

Salaries under the one-year contract range from a minimum of $42 a week for clerical employees to a high of $105 for wire editors. A guild spokesman said the weekly maximum before the contract was $85.

12 RETROACTIVE

The general $5-a-week increase is retroactive to mid-April.

The Times, with a daily circulation of 21,000 is among the largest of the 30 Thomson-owned Canadian dailies and weekly newspapers.

Thursday's settlement came about a year after the guild was certified at The Times. Contract talks broke down in June and guild members voted to strike to back up their demands.

Printers at The Times last week accepted a 30-month contract providing a 34½ cent hourly wage increase. Basic minimum was $2.67 an hour.

About 120 members of Local 500, International Typographical Union (CLC), had threatened to strike this week.

Their contract included improved welfare benefits and jurisdiction over four proofreaders, not previously covered by a union contract.

Commonwealth; Can It Survive In Present Form?

Conference Next Week May Give An Answer

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Alarmist as it may seem, an unspoken question will be at the back of many minds when the 12th conference of Commonwealth prime ministers opens here next week.

The question is whether the Commonwealth can survive in its present form.

On problem it can. Eighteen countries are assembling for the conference, which starts Wednesday, and the likemindedness that once lay at the root of this unique association of nations is becoming hard to maintain.

The "old Commonwealth"—consisting of such countries as Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Britain—used to be something of an old boys' club. Delegates, many of whom had gone to the same schools, knew the same toasts, cherished the same British-conceived institutions.

Now there is a sense of disillusionment. Seven new countries have come into the Commonwealth in the last couple of years. With the best will in the world, there are bound to be differences of approach.

OUTSTANDING

India's Jawaharlal Nehru, a dominant figure at post-war conferences, once praised the Commonwealth for its "healing" touch.

It seems almost symbolic, in view of its present forebodings, that Nehru now is dead and his moderate-minded successor, Lal Bahadur Shastri, is unable to come to London for health reasons.

President Makarios has announced that because of the situation on Cyprus he will be attending, although he'll be represented, and Ghana's controversial President N'kr a may, whose policies are sharply criticized in some British circles, also is expected to stay away. It is widely believed their absences reflect Commonwealth tensions.

It is precisely because of such stresses that Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home decided to call the present conference. In essence, if he made no break. He wants to see whether, despite all the difficulties caused by numbers, geographical dispersion and differing views, there is still some basis for a Commonwealth consensus.

Can the Commonwealth again become the "concert of conference" it used to be?

Sir Alec has declared his resolve to give the Commonwealth some meaning in "new life." One specific British plan at the conference will be to try to enlist support for a Commonwealth effort in technical, educational and other fields.

The thinking behind the new initiative is that the only projects in the past have tended to be bilateral, flowing from Britain to individual countries. The aim now is self-help, with nations jointly financing particular

Nude Trips Out Says Big Fanny

AGASSIZ, B.C. (AP) — "No more nude parades," said Big Fanny, the 20-pound grandmother who used to lead her radical religious sect through protest marches in the raw.

The mass destruction of property has stopped too.

After a turbulent 40-year history of fighting government authority with nude parades, burnings and bombings, the Sons of Freedom sect now appears to be living up to its original pacifistic ideals.

How long the lull will last is anybody's guess.

Florence Storgoff, better known as Big Fanny, the Freedomite spokesman, believes her religious group is the victim of a miscarriage of justice which must be corrected.

The main spot is one of the most unusual prisons in the world. The fireproof, concrete-composed built here in 1959 to house 100 members of the sect sentenced to terms of up to 10 years for terrorist acts, mostly arson.

HAS LONG HISTORY

Behind the prison lies a long history of friction between a democratic state seeking to protect the rights of all its citizens and a radical religious sect which believes it must resist all government authority.

Big Fanny, 56, and the 550 other members of her sect are camped here outside the prison, 75 miles southeast of Vancouver. They live in 142 tarpaper shacks.

Many of the men wear beards of biblical patriarchs. Some of the women wear babushkas on their heads, peasant blouses and ankle-length skirts.

They converse in Russian, cook borscht, chew sunflower seeds and find part-time work picking fruit.

But mostly they just wait, hoping to embarrass the British Columbia government into releasing their brethren.

MOST ARE YOUNG

About 12,000 Doukhobors now live in peaceful scenes and most have adapted to Canadian life while retaining their cultural heritage.

The hostile centres on the Sons of Freedom, the minority radical wing of the sect which broke with the Doukhobor brotherhood 40 years ago and settled in the Kootenay Valley, 400 miles east of Vancouver.

Since then, by some accounts, the "Freedomites have been charged with 834 acts of violence, burning their homes bombing railway tracks and destroying other property as signs of protest.

They often stripped and par-

New Civil Rights Law Obeyed Without Fuss in Most Instances

ATLANTA (AP) — Two restaurant operators reacted violently when Negroes sought service Friday, the day after the civil rights law was signed.

But they were in a minority. Public accommodations were tested quietly and successfully in many parts of the U.S., including several southern cities where violence has flared in the past.

Looking at the over-all picture Friday, President Johnson called it "wonderful and hopeful." At the same time he reiterated his plea for wholehearted compliance.

But there were a few incidents. In Atlanta, Lester Maddox forced three Negro ministers away from his eating place at the point of a pistol.

"Get off my property," he shouted, jerking out a pistol as the three drove into his parking area. He was backed up by an angry white crowd brandishing axe handles which Maddox keeps in a box inside the front door of his eating place.

The Negroes left, saying they would return. The restaurant will be closed today. Maddox plans to attend a July 4 rally.

At Cambridge, Md., restaurant operator Robert Fehsenfeld was arrested and charged with assault and battery following a shoving match with a Negro integration leader.

Fehsenfeld owns Dizzyland, a restaurant and soda parlor that was the scene of several violent racial clashes in the past.

Small groups of Negroes were served without incident at two other establishments in Cambridge where demonstrations were staged last summer.

The doors of a restaurant at Durham, N.C., were locked and the blinds drawn.

Mr. Frank Adcock, whose family managed Adcock's restaurant in Durham for the last 50 years, said, "It's just a matter of not agreeing with that kind of legislation. I have no bones to pick."

However, most North Carolina businessmen took the attitude of members of the Fayetteville Restaurant Association who said "We are loyal Americans and we will obey the law." The majority of civil and government leaders agreed.

Even the Ku Klux Klan urged white persons in Mississippi coastal areas to let police handle any racial trouble.

Nikita On Way Home

OSLO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev sailed from Norway today after a lukewarm reception that matched the reception he has received throughout a 19-day tour of three Scandinavian countries.

About 1,000 Norwegians and tourists applauded without enthusiasm as Khrushchev inspected a Norwegian Army guard of honor before boarding a naval launch that sped him to the Soviet liner Bashkiria at anchor in Oslo harbor.

A 21-gun salute boomed as the launch pulled away from the pier where Khrushchev stepped ashore last Monday on the last lap of his swing through Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Soviet officials said the premier would arrive in Moscow Monday evening, apparently scotching rumors that he would stop off in Finland and the East German Baltic port of Rostock.

Khrushchev saved his strongest propaganda bid for the last stop of his tour. But he failed to persuade Norway to trade NATO membership for a promised nordic neutral zone.

Lotteries Around World Finance Hospitals, Schools

By BORIS MISKEW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Lotteries around the world finance hospitals, schools, medical research and recreational activities.

Perhaps the best known of the lotteries—in Canada—at least—is the Irish Sweepstakes which began in 1930 and from which Canada has received about $175,000,000 since.

There is little wonder, then, that Canada's royal commission on health services two weeks ago suggested among its recommendations that provincial lotteries could possibly be one way in which to help finance health services.

"We do not advocate the use of lotteries," the commission stressed in its report issued in Ottawa. "But where a province desires to operate a lottery solely to assist in the financing of health services, the federal government, when requested by a province to do so, might submit to Parliament appropriate amendments to the Criminal Code."

Quebec has asked for such an amendment. The request was first made last at the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa in November, 1963. The federal government agreed to study the issue.

Government - run or - supervised lotteries are common in Europe as well as in Central and South America, Africa and Australia and New Zealand.

The government of India does not encourage lotteries but state governments are authorized to permit private organizations or parties to conduct lotteries for specific purposes, mainly charitable.

In the United States, New Hampshire hopes that the New Hampshire Sweepstakes which the state's voters approved last spring will provide $4,000,000 annually to be distributed to schools.

Generally, revenues derived from lotteries are split up this way: About 60 per cent makes up the prize money, about 25 per cent goes toward hospitals, charitable organizations or the treasury, and the remainder covers operating expenses.

Lottery prizes range from a few dollars to top prize money

No Flag, No Recess -Pearson

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — After slowing down to a crawl for most of this week on the flag debate, the Commons may bound forward Monday when it turns to other top - priority government business.

An optimistic Prime Minister Pearson said earlier in the week he believed the Commons could dispose of six items of pressing legislation by July 31 or 23 and then return to the flag issue.

Opposition parties have promised to co-operate in giving relatively quick passage to the priority bills.

These provide for new fiscal arrangements with the provinces, extension of family allowances to students aged 16 and 17, establishment of a new territorial and fishing limits, establishment of a student loan fund, appointment of a single chief of defence staff and government spending authority for August and September.

The House will tackle the last stages of defence bill Monday and then switch to family allowances.

NO END IN SIGHT

As for the emotional flag dispute, the end wasn't even remotely in sight as the House completed its sixth day of repetitious debate Friday.

Mr. Pearson has expressed the hope that the debate will not come to a vote by the end of July. He said Tuesday that the issue must be cleared up before MPs can take their traditional summer recess.

This statement was greeted with deep resentment by Conservative MPs, most of whom oppose the maple leaf design, preferring retention of the Red Ensign as the Canadian flag.

P. B. Rynard (PC — Simcoe East), a physician usually noted for his mild speaking manner, charged Friday that Mr. Pearson is acting like a despot and "riding roughshod" on this "no flag, no recess" position.

He called for a fight to the last straw to prevent the adoption of the new flag.

So far 20 Conservatives have lined up solidly behind Opposition Leader Diefenbaker's insistence on the government resolution calling for a national plebiscite on the issue.

17 LIBERALS SPEAK

Only 17 Liberals have been made by 17 Liberals, four Social Credit members and three spokesmen for Creditistes and New Democrats.

A. B. Patterson (SC—Fraser Valley) wrote a letter to MPs whether MPs were wasting their breath.

"I think that possibly each and every member has studied the matter for himself or herself and arrived at the point where he or she knows what the decision will be and that they are concerned," he said.

"Therefore, there may not be too much to be accomplished by lengthy debate."

He agreed that the debate should continue because MP cited had had his say. No final decision should be made but time should be allowed MPs and the

Canada Opposes 'Family Plan' Peacekeeping

Think British Proposal Could Hamper UN Force

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Any proposal by the British government for the formation of a Commonwealth peacekeeping force is unlikely to win much support from Prime Minister Pearson at the forthcoming Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Informants said Friday that Mr. Pearson's own proposals for a standby force have always involved the United Nations and that he would oppose any such operation outside the UN.

The British government is believed to favor the establishment of a Commonwealth peacekeeping force that could emit out "family problems" before they reach the international level.

But some officials in Ottawa say such a force might interfere with the establishment of a UN force, while not being an adequate alternative.

Meanwhile, Mr. Pearson is expected to sound out the prime ministers of smaller Commonwealth countries on the possibility of them contributing to an international force that would stand in readiness for UN operations.

ADVOCATES MEASURE

He has been advocating such a measure for some time, and the forth coming conference gives him his first opportunity to get the collective views of other countries.

In the Commons Friday, Mr. Pearson was asked by H. Russell MacEwan (PC — Pictou) what his reaction would be to any proposal for a Commonwealth force.

"Any discussion of this matter . . . will, I think, be in the light of our obligation to the United Nations and peacekeeping," he replied. "I know of no request that it should be discussed in any other context."

The discussion of peacekeeping operations likely will arise in connection with the safe-keeping of Cyprus which will be a key issue in the week-long conference and not for the first time.

The Mediterranean troubles will be discussed before previous conferences as it rumbled from colony to independent nationhood, being given largely a British problem. As the prime ministers meet this year, Britain is host to many ex-colony state, patrolled by United Nations troops.

WILL BE CRITICISM

This will be the first such conference for Mr. Pearson who has not had discussions with be "of far-ranging significance."

He said Friday that development aid to Africa will be given special consideration, and informants added that such questions as racial policies in Southern Rhodesia will be high on this list.

The Canadian prime minister

Hail, Rain Damage Some Crops

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A turbulent thunder, rain and hail storm hit southwestern Ontario Friday leaving some farmers surveying their damaged crops and repair crews fixing broken telephone connections.

Hamilton, London and Windsor area took the brunt of the storm. Golf-sized hail stones were reported at Hamilton and did some damage to tomato crops there.

In the Komoka district, just west of London, two tobacco barns and a silo were damaged about 50 per cent of their crops.

London proper was drenched under continuous afternoon rains. Some hail was reported at its north section. Stratford reported some hail, but mostly rain.

The Windsor-Detroit district copped with torrid storms accompanied by winds gusting to 48 miles-an-hour. Several telephone lines were damaged.

HITS TORONTO

The tail-end of the storm hit the Toronto area, bringing scattered showers.

Fog that covered most of the province the previous night lifted early Friday at Toronto International Airport and flights began catching up to the schedule which was running 11 hours behind time.

Hospital officials at London said Lloyd Coutts was just "shaken up" by an electrical faceof he adiffi very while talking on the phone in his home during the storm.

Mrs. Morley Nichols of the London suburb of Byron, disgusted with water that floods her basement after every storm, decided to revolt and sat down in a lawn chair in her home.

There she remained, despite the coaxing of her children, until police officials arrived and talked her into discussing the problem.

Mrs. Nichol's husband explained later that rains bring flood waters into the basement at his home because catch basins can't handle the water run-off.

Telephone wires were also down in London.

The weather office predicted a sunny day for all Ontario today with seasonal temperatures.

Open Russia's Doors for Inspection And We Will Open Ours, Rusk Says

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—State Secretary Dean Rusk called on Soviet leaders today to open their doors, "we are willing to open ours," to a system of arms inspection that would make possible a reduction in armaments.

"We believe," Rusk said in a speech at Independence Hall, "that all governments recognize a common interest with us in reducing the dangers of a nuclear war.

"We most earnestly hope that they will open their doors as we are willing to open ours, to the sort of inspection which will make possible genuine progress in reducing armaments.

"At the same time, we heartily favor increasing contacts between our people and those of the Eastern European states and the Soviet Union. And we welcome co-operative undertakings such as the work on desalination of water on which Soviet scientists and our own recently agreed."

The red-brick building where Rusk made his appeal to the Soviet Union is considered the birthplace of U.S. independence and it is the home of the Liberty Bell.

MOVE TROOPS

GEORGETOWN (Reuters) — British troops crashed swamps farmland about 12 miles from this British Guiana capital Friday after the bodies of three Negroes were found there. It was reported that the three men, with two other Negroes who now are missing, were ambushed by gunmen as they went to work in canoes from their homes in Buxton Village.

Mainly sunny skies are anticipated in the cool air and afternoon temperatures are expected to be near the seasonal normals of 80 degrees in the south and 75 degrees in the north.

Union of Cyprus and Greece 'Our Aim' Says Grivas; Johnson Seeking Talks

NICOSIA (AP) — Lt. - Gen. George Grivas, former leader of the Greek underground on Cyprus, declared Friday that union of this island and Greece is "our main aim" and predicted "it will not be very long before it is achieved."

"If other countries want to help us, we will accept such assistance," he said. "But even if other countries will not help us, we are in a position to get it ourselves."

The Turkish-Cypriot minority has denounced his recent return from self-exile in Greece, saying he is out to create a union Enosis—or union with Greece by wiping out Cypriots of Turkish descent. Greek-Cypriots outnumber Turkish-Cypriots four to one.

Grivas led EOKA, the underground guerrillas, in the long fight against British rule. Enosis had been his unifying cry. He went to Greece in 1959 when ATHENS (AP) — Greek Premier George Papandreou said today that he had received a personal message from President Johnson declaring that Greece and Turkey agree to visit to solve the Cyprus issue.

The Greek premier showed no sign of relaxing his opposition to such talks in Athens.

Papandreou told reporters of the Johnson message after the pro - government Athens newspaper, To Vima, said the U.S. president had sent Papandreou an "ultimatum" demanding bilateral Greek-Turkish talks on Cyprus. To Vima said the Johnson message had ended of "ultimatum" which might eventually, come if both sides aren't equally satisfied—but comes to an agreement."

Papandreou told reporters:

"The American president has sent me a message explaining his views on the Cyprus and pointing out the dangers the Turkish threats. But it was neither a threat nor an ultimatum."

United Appeal Spells Out How Allocations Will Work

United Appeal agencies, except in unusual circumstances, will benefit to the full amount of donations specifically allocated to them, W. J. Killough, chairman of the fundraising publicity committee of the United Appeal, announced today.

The exceptions would be in the event of unclassified gifts according to the agency's needs. In that case, balancing in the cooperative spirit which is the foundation of the United Appeal, it was fortunate agency would share its surplus funds amongst the other members.

Mr. Killough's announcement followed an editorial in The Ontario Intelligencer on June 27, which praised the United Appeal for its courage in setting the highest objective, $106,-054.80, in the Appeal's history, but asked that the precise methods to be followed in distributing attested funds be explained to the public.

"Providing a formula to distribute funds amongst the 12 member agencies took time to prepare," commented Mr. Killough today, "but the Board of Directors feels that the system approved for this year's drive will be acceptable to all.

"As you know, 'allocation' provides that donors to the United Appeal may designate their gifts to the agencies of their choice. With the complete agreement of the member agencies, it has been decided that an agency cannot receive more than its approved budget—unless, of course, the campaign exceeds its objective.

HOW IT WORKS

"For the purposes of explanation, let us say that an agency with an approved budget of $20,000, receives allocations totalling $22,000. The over-subscribed amount of $2,000 will then be placed in the United fund and distributed over the remaining agencies in an amount proportionate to their approved budget. If, after this distribution, another agency's combined total exceeds its approved allotment, then this balance will be redistributed over the remaining agencies in the same manner. Unallocated funds will be distributed proportionately on the basis of approved budgets amongst the agencies whose total receipts have not exceeded their approved budget. Campaign expenses for the 1964 5-year United Appeal will be shared proportionately at the final calculations of agency receipts.

"The Board of Directors believe this revised method of allocation funds that has been approved agencies will share in a better degree than they have in the past. In the 12 member agencies, who have seen fit to join together to reduce the multiplicity of fund-raising campaigns, who deserve the support of the people of Belleville. We earnestly believe that, although we are facing the task of raising the largest budget in the history of the United Appeal, that Belleville will demonstrate that we have—a community of people who care about the needs of their neighbors."

HOW TO BLOW YOUR NOSE

Physicians advise that one should not stop up one side of the nose and then blow the other. Some of the force will back up into the head. Also, germ-laden mucous might be driven into the middle ear with a possible infection resulting.

Blow your nose gently. It must last you a lifetime. Don't pick or pull hairs from it. A serious infection may be caused. And, if it troubles you and home remedies don't give quick help, don't delay. Go to your physician for inspection and skilled treatment.

Five Suffer Minor Injuries In 2-Car Crash

A two-car crash on Highway 2 at Trenton RCAF station last night sent five people to hospital with minor injuries.

Provincial Police said the eastbound car driven by Ronald Munro, 49 Victoria Avenue, Belleville and flying officer Hugh Hammond, collided just east of the station's main gates.

Both drivers were released after treatment for cuts and bruises along with Michael Scarlett, Gary Pinkham and Agris Simanis, also of 49 Victoria Avenue.

Werner Daechsel Awarded Degree At Columbia

Werner F. O. Daechsel has been awarded the Master of Science Degree in Administrative Medicine by Columbia University for very specialized training in hospital planning, which he has completed during the past year. Mr. Daechsel is spending the summer with the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York and will continue his studies at Columbia University in the Fall.

Mr. Daechsel graduated in Hospital Administration from the University of Toronto in 1952. Before coming to Columbia University, he was the Superintendent of the Belleville General Hospital, Belleville, Ontario for four years, and Assistant Superintendent of the Kingston (Ontario) General Hospital for seven years.

Seven years following the completion of his Residency in Hospital Administration at that hospital, Mr. Daechsel is a Fellow of the College of Hospital Administrators.

Forest Fires Up Four-Fold

There were more than four times as many forest fires in the Tweed district in June compared with the same month in 1963.

Department of Lands and Forests statistics released this morning showed 47 fires in the district last month. This compares with only 7 for June of the previous year.

Besides usual carelessness of campers and smokers, lack of rain and three lightning storms contributed to the overall increase. The rain count was down from a normal June total of 2.90 to 1.46 inches.

At present 25 fires are burning in the district and all are said to be under control.

Canadian Govt. Takes 'Strong Exception' to Move

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Friday that Greek soldiers and arms have been landed in Cyprus, but that he doesn't know how many.

He said the Canadian government has taken "strong exception" to the move.

Mr. Martin said Thursday that infiltration of Greek troops into Cyprus would create a new and dangerous situation for the United Nations force there. The latter has contingent in the force numbers 1,120.

Mr. Martin said Thursday the UN force was established to interpose itself between two well-equipped forces in Cyprus.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker referred Thursday to press reports that 4,000 Greeks had been landed in Cyprus and Friday he continued his questioning on this point.

SHARP REACTIONS

Mr. Martin said the figure isn't 4,000, but that he couldn't say exactly what it might be.

But there had been "an importation of arms and bodies" into Cyprus, he added.

"As this is a serious matter, I would say there have been importations of arms and this is contrary to the UN Security Council resolution.

"It is contrary to the obligations of members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the most serious view is being taken of this."

Heath Macquarrie (PC — Queens) asked whether UN soldiers were restrained by Greek Cypriot police from preventing the debarkation of arms.

Mr. Martin said there have been "suggestions" that this was the case and the UN was investigating.

ATHENS (Reuters) — Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos Friday expressed "deep surprise" Friday night at a statement by External Affairs Minister Martin to UN House of Commons in Ottawa alleging that "Greece had sent men and arms into Cyprus."

Kostopoulos said: "I wonder where Mr. Martin got his information and I cannot understand why the Canadian foreign minister has not sought direct information from Greece. After all as the two countries are allies and have friendly relations."

Yeoman of the Guard Gets Cool Reception From Critics

Written for
THE CANADIAN PRESS
By BILL ROSS

STRATFORD (CP) — The Stratford Festival Company Friday night inaugurated its particularized Gilbert-and-Sullivan with a gaily colorful production of Gilbert and Sullivan's The Yeomen of the Guard.

The Avon, for several years the home of the Shakespearean festival's annual fare in the early farings, has undergone a considerable refurbishing, intended (say the promotion notes) to restore it "to its turn-of-the-century splendor."

Mayor C. H. Meier of Stratford declared it officially open, and presented Musical Director Louis Applebaum with an ivory baton to commemorate the occasion, in a brief ceremony before the first-night curtain was rung up.

Although the near-capacity audience responded with generosity to Director William Ball's production, the designs for which were by Stratford's Mark Negin, the critics were rather more reserved.

The Yeomen is the fifth successive Gilbert and Sullivan operetta to be produced here, and most regular patrons of this particular barrel had been pretty well scraped with previous seasons' fare. Not to mention finafore, The Pirates of Penzance, The Gondoliers and last year's The Mikado.

CALLED 'INFERIOR'

This is inferior Gilbert and Sullivan, with a plodding score lifted by only occasional flashes of their characteristic genius. The lines now sound stilted and the "plot" is downright silly. Effective staging in 1964 it was found to need a more skilled hand at the helm than Mr. Ball's.

The saving graces of this production were found in the excellence of the orchestra, which has seldom been in better form than it appeared here. And this year, the uniform quality of the chorus, and the splendor of Mr. Negin's costumings.

The critics said:

John Kraglund, Toronto Globe and Mail—If the staging did not come up to expectations, the music, sets and costumes did. Numerous moments of excellence in this production, as well as generous dashes of mediocrity and worse, make it difficult to ignore the thought that we should all have been better off had lesser efforts been beheaded on schedule.

George Kidd; Toronto Telegram — The production lacks quite a while to get off the ground. Half of the first act lacks the projection that is necessary if Gilbert and Sullivan is to steer away from banality.

Ted Miller, Guelph Guardian—The orchestra was as fresh as leisure from a summer. We have been given a traditional Yeomen. Costumes are authentic, scenery is realistic (and very well done).

WILL SEEK DIVORCE

KENNEDY BUNKPORT, Me. (AP)—Singer Anne Morgan said Friday that she and her husband, Laurence Slith, Jr., have separated amicably and that she would seek a Mexican divorce in August. They were married in 1956.

Cheese Exchange

Squares are now in the majority — cheese that is.

Once a novel introduction a decade or so ago, square cheese are being made in greater number than the 80-pound "regular" blocks which at time predominated.

Sales on the Belleville Cheese Exchange there were 14,627 square cheese boarded as compared with 2,375 regulars.

There were 4,803 specials.

The average price for white cheese both regular and squares was 36 cents per lb. with colored cheese bringing 38.3 cents. First grade square cheese subject to a premium.

Workers Begin Return to Jobs, Strike Settled

BRADFORD, Ont. (CP) — Employees of Anglophone carriers began returning to their jobs here Friday night, hours after an agreement was reached ending a 12-day-old strike that had been marked by picket-line violence and tension.

The agreement between Local 419, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and the company ending the 300 striking workers—and the three companies in Bradford—met all the original workers' demands.

But Albert LeFort, union secretary - treasurer, claimed it was a victory for the union.

Under the new 2½-year contract the employees of Federal Farms Limited, Holland River Gardens Company Limited and Holland Farms Limited will get pay increases, eight statutory holidays annually, and will have to pay 10 cent of a welfare plan and Ontario hospital insurance paid for by the companies.

Women employees will receive an increase of 15 cents an hour, 10 cents immediately and five cents next year. Men will receive a 20-cent hourly raise, 10 cents now and the rest spread over the life of the contract.

Bowling Notes

Three rinks of mixed doubles journeyed to Kingston on Wednesday to compete in the tournament staged by the Kingston Lawn Bowling Club and Mrs. Rita Lloyd with Wally Lavergne came home with the prize for winning three games. They were third high in the tourney won by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jagues of the Kingston Lawn Club. Other rinks to go to Kingston were Miss Margo Sherman and Ralph Tuck and Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price. Tuck won one game and Mr. Price two.

The greens were in excellent condition and lightning fast. The players enjoyed perfect weather for the tournament.

On Sunday afternoon at the local greens the second stage of the district playoffs will be played. This competition is for men's doubles and seven rinks from the Belleville Club have been entered, while Trenton will have at least four. The rinks from Trenton are Mr. Campbellford, Kingston, Brighton and possibly Madoc. This is a knockout draw and excellent bowling will be seen. The games start at one o'clock and the public is cordially invited to come out and witness the contests. The winners will proceed into the zone playoffs.

On the Thursday afternoon bowling, Mrs. Vera McIntosh, Mrs. Cisla Gilbert with Mrs. Betty Vince as skip won the ladies' event. Mrs. Doris Jackman and Mrs. Myrtle Smith in second place.

Hostesses were Mrs. Pearl Legault and Mrs. Dorothy Price.

Chief Magistrate Post Refused By Roberts

TORONTO (CP) — Ill health has forced Magistrate Johnstone Metcalfe, 66, of Niagara Falls, to reject a $21,000-a-year appointment as Toronto's senior magistrate, chief magistrate for Ontario, Il was learned here Friday.

Attorney-General Wishart said Magistrate Roberts absence from Toronto meant he had refused the post because of ill health. He was to start his new duties Thursday and be sworn in next Thursday at a Toronto police commissioner.

A. A. Russell, inspector of legal offices, said Magistrate Roberts was ill. Later he said Magistrate Metcalfe had turned down the appointment while in hospital made June 11.

It was the second appointment refused by Magistrate Roberts because of ill health. He refused appointment to Board of Police College at Aylmer, Ont., in 1959 but said he couldn't accept.

Mr. Wishart said he regretted Magistrate Roberts would not be able to take the job.

WAS SUITED

"His qualifications ideally suited him to the position," the attorney-general said Friday.

Mr. Wishart had said the new chief magistrate would introduce principles of uniformity and sentencing. However, Magistrate Roberts said the following day he would not be bound with individual magistrates in their decisions. He considered appeal courts as the adequate job of reviewing sentences.

Magistrate Roberts could not be reached in Niagara Falls, but a court official said he had influenza and would not be able to speak to anyone on the telephone for at least a week.

An amendment to the Magistrate's Act at the last session of the legislature combined the chief and senior Toronto magistrate and set up the new office of chief magistrate for Ontario, with overall supervision of the province's 97 magistrates.

IN MEMORIAM

WHITE — In memory of our dear little boy, Mark James who died so suddenly July 4, 1959.
Sweet Lord Mark, we love you well.
We loved you—too dearly and always will.
You shared our joys, our hopes, our fears.
God bless you dear Mark for three wonderful years.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Betty, Art and brothers Al and Steve.

REEVES — In memory of our dear son and brother Gordon who passed away July 4th, 1962.
Time heals the heart but memories stay.
But never out of mind.
They are always in the heart.
Of those they leave behind.
—Mother, Father, sister and brother.

REEVES — In loving memory of my dear father who passed away July 4, 1962, also my dear brother, Agnes (Taylor) Reeves who passed away July 31, 1944.
Though your smiles are gone forever.
Memories fond and dear.
Sadly missed by the second youth.
Still we have so many memories.
Of the one we love most.
Your memory is our keepsake.
With which we'll never part.
God has you in His keeping.
We have you here in our hearts.
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten. Grace, Speedy, Buddy, Gordon and family.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of a dear brother Gordon Alistair who passed away suddenly July 4, 1962.
To us he has not gone away.
For he has travelled first.
Just entered God's eternal home.
But we shall meet him there.
—Ever remembered by sister Nora and brother-in-law Ron and nephews Glen and Dale.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of a dear brother, Gordon Alistair, who passed away suddenly July 5, 1962.
Memories are golden.
—Mrs. Vera McIntosh, Mrs. Cisla Gilbert with Mrs. Betty Vince as skip won the ladies' event. Mrs. Doris Jackman and Mrs. Myrtle Smith in second place.

GRAY — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away on July 4th, 1963.
What we would give to clasp their hands.
Speak to them.
To hear their voices, see their smiles.
The two we loved so much.
—Sadly missed by Dad and Mom.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of my dear husband Gordon Alistair who passed away July 5, 1962.
This month comes with deep regret.
It brings a day we'll never forget.
You were taken away without one word.
But memories of you will never die.
—Always remembered by wife Betty.

BATEMAN — In loving memory of our dad, Gordon Harold Bateman who passed away July 5, 1962.
We little knew when we woke that morning.
The sorrow the day would bring.
Before the evening shadows fell.
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sometime its hard to understand.
Why some things have to be.
In His wisdom God has planned.
We've not the power to save.
—Lovingly remembered by Douglas, Mildred and Gloria.

Will Take 2 Weeks to Drill Rock at 'Intell' Building

It is going to be a noisy two weeks in the Pinnacle-Bridge Street downtown area.

That is the time that it is going to take T. A. Andre and Sons, to finish drilling of rock at the site of the new Ontario Intelligencer building.

Rock drilling at the site of the new newspaper and radio building is now well underway with two wagon drills and two jack hammers, but it will take at least another week and a half to complete the work.

"This is the part of construction work which the neighbors "don't like," commented Nathan Carr, superintendent for T. A. Andre and Sons.

Specifications call for 1300 cubic yards of rock excavation, ranging from three to six feet in depth. The six-foot depth is to provide ceiling room for the newspaper press.

All the drilling is to be completed before blasting is started.

The entire rock excavation job, including removal of the rock, is expected to take about three weeks.

Mr. Carr noted that wherever possible local labor, is, and will be, hired for the construction job. So far the job superintendent and the dynamite men are the only outside men on the job.

Staff Nurses Withdraw Resignations

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP)—Eighteen staff nurses at Georgetown Hospital, who resigned Thursday in protest against the dismissal of their assistant director, have withdrawn their resignations after "they were asked to reconsider," Harold Seckington, acting administrator said Friday.

The nurses were protesting the dismissal of Margaret McLennan the day after she had acted as their spokesman at a grievance meeting with the hospital's board of directors.

Mr. Seckington denied that her dismissal was linked with the meeting.

Official reason given for her dismissal was that she "wasn't doing her job."

A spokesman for the nurses who resigned said they were called into the director of nurses office separately and told to retract their resignations as photostats of their letters had been sent to Toronto.

They were not told to whom the letters were sent but one nurse said it was insinuated that it would be a slur on their records.

Mr. Seckington denied that any pressure had been placed on the staff nurses.

Hospital administrator Graham Gilboly resigned June 29.

Stores Serving As Test Area For New Plan

TRENTON — Sketch plans for the improvement of buildings along the west side of Front Street, between Dundas St. W. and Elgin Street, have now been prepared by Trenton architect, Tony Lansing and accepted in principal by the merchants involved.

Under the direction of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, the stores are serving as a test area for the implementation of the Norwich Plan of improvement.

A color consultant from the Glidden Paint Company will be in town next week to advise the individual merchants as to color schemes for their buildings which will blend in with the rest of the street.

Once the block is finished, the chamber hopes other merchants in the downtown section will adopt the Norwich Plan of economical improvement.

CHILDREN AT PLAY

Although only about 225 children have registered officially to attend summer playgrounds, today that number are now attending, while delaying about getting their registration forms in to the leaders.

Yesterday, the children at College Street school playground held a Day on Wheels, with every kind of conveyance, from doll buggies to racing bicycles entered for prizes and the children at the high school playground held a fancy dress party.

The playground supervisors are planning a Junior Olympics Day for the last of the month, and this will be held at the high school.

Police Chief F. J. Taylor Resigns Post

TRENTON — Police Chief F. J. Taylor has tendered his official resignation to the Trenton Police Commission and the commission has appointed Inspector E. J. Rutherford to head the force on an interim basis, until a regular meeting of the commission can be held at which time it is expected a decision for the appointment of a permanent replacement for the chief will be discussed.

Inspector Rutherford, who came to Trenton from the RCAF Service Police in 1945, is the senior officer with the department.

Chief Taylor will take up duties with the Ontario Police Commission in an advisory capacity later this month or early in August.

DIVERS CHECK PIPE

Scuba divers have been down at the bottom of the Trent River assisting utilities workmen in the repairing of a break in the water main, crossing the river. One section of the main was unbolted and removed by the divers and another section put in place.

The divers will check the entire length of the 12-inch main, which relays spring water from Wooler Creek to East Trenton water users.

Meat Prices Expected to Climb in July

OTTAWA (CP)—Meat prices are expected to take a seasonal climb during July, the agriculture department predicted Friday in its monthly food bulletin.

Prices of beef, pork, smoked and cured meats will be as high as last summer, or slightly higher, with the smoked and cured meats the least expensive. Fresh fruits and vegetables will be readily available in all parts of the country.

July will see the last of the strawberries but the first raspberries, cherries and early peaches will appear on the market. Good peach crops are expected in British Columbia and Ontario.

Spanish Tanker Sinks in Flames

VIGO, Spain (AP)—The 12,942-ton Spanish tanker Bonifax sank in flames Friday night after colliding in thick fog with a French tanker eight miles off Cape Finisterre, on the east coast of Spain.

Three of the Bonifax' crew members were known dead. Eighteen others were missing and presumed to have perished.

The 32,125-ton French tanker Fabiola also caught fire but the flames were brought under control by the crew.

The Bonifax sailed Friday night from La Coruna, an Atlantic port in northeastern Spain, with a cargo of oil for Cartagena, on the Mediterranean coast of Spain. It carried a crew of 53.

Two rescue vessels arrived in the Atlantic port of Vigo today with three dead and 32 survivors. Some were in critical condition with burns. The three men died after their rescue.

He Changes Sides

Edgar John Benson, Kingston accountant, is now Minister of Revenue in the Pearson Government.

The results could be interesting.

"I've sat on the other side of the table for some ten years," the Minister observed in commenting on his appointment.

This experience has certainly given him an insight into the problems of the taxpayer and when he says, "We will try to find any ways that we can to make it a little easier for people to pay their taxes," Mr. Benson is certain of appreciation and deserves applause.

There is, however, another matter in which his experience on the other side of the table should be invaluable.

We are of the school which believes the taxpayer is entitled to make use of every exemption and privilege which the law permits. The accountant's job is not to attempt to guess what legislators had in mind, but to interpret the law as it is written and to see his client gets the full benefit of all its provisions for tax relief.

Still, we all know laws are frequently worded in such a manner they do not say precisely what those who drafted them intended they should say. Mr. Benson's experience "on the other side of the table" should have provided him with knowledge of instances of this. Now his position is changed, it is up to him to see these loopholes are plugged.

We are sure taxpayers will thank him when he does so, for whenever any person manages to escape a tax which our legislators intended he should pay it means the rest of us have to carry more than our share of the tax burden.

Is This the Best We Can Do ?

Prime Minister Pearson, Labor Minister Alan MacEachen and Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp conferred Thursday with CNR President Donald Gordon and CPR President N. R. Crump.

They were seeking ways to avert a possible railway strike.

Fifteen unions representing non-operating workers have accepted a conciliation board report granting a wage increase. The railroads have estimated this would cost $57,000,000. They are unable to raise freight rates to offset the increased wage bill, because freight rates were frozen in 1959. It was in that year the Diefenbaker Government established the MacPherson Royal Commission to investigate railway problems. The commission took long since reported, but legislation embodying its recommendations has not yet been placed before the Commons.

Five years to get action on a pressing problem!

Can we even be sure that, when action does come, it will be effective? Problems have a way of changing with altered circumstances. Circumstances march to a livelier tune than the leisurely pace at which our legislative machinery trudges through the years. Can we afford, can we survive, this tardiness? Even democracy can come at too high a price and sometimes we wonder whether our present-day governments are not crowding this top price uncomfortably close.

Fidel Flayed By Sister

The defection of Fidel Castro's sister, Juanita, makes startling news.

Of course, there are many instances of members of the same family holding conflicting political opinions. Stanley Baldwin, pre-war Conservative Prime Minister of Britain, had a son who was a prominent Laborite. There was a time when Chiang Kai-Shek's son was considered a Red.

But there is an important distinction between a mere difference of political opinions and the type of tirade which Miss Castro unleashed against her brothers, Fidel and Raoul, after she reached Mexico City.

Nothing that any of the other Cuban exiles have said about Castro's regime has been any stronger than the charges levied by Castro's own sister. She even described how her brother's militiamen fired on a Catholic demonstration in which she participated. "I saw the boy carrying the banner of the Virgin of Charley beaten to death in front of me."

Some earlier critics were suspect. They might have been flunkeys for the ousted Batista, whose brutality while in power has been well documented.

The same suspicion does not apply to Juanita Castro. Her account will be given credence by thousands who in the past wondered whether charges of this type were not pure propaganda.

From the French-Canadian Viewpoint

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French language press of Canada.

Le Droit

Granby Le Voix de l'Est—The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal has submitted a brief to the mixed parliamentary committee on the Canadian constitution which seeks nothing more nor less than the dependence of Quebec within a confederation of two associated states, French and English.

The government of Quebec would be the national government for all citizens under its authority and this state and English Canada would associate to form a true confederation in which legislative power would be exercised in a unicameral parliament where the representatives of the two states would sit. . . .

The brief requires serious study by all French Canadians to understand its real meaning and the possibility of important effects. It is to be hoped that English Canada itself will study it before expressing an opinion and above all before deciding in favor or against Quebec separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada. . . .

We do not doubt that in the present climate of relations between French and English Canada, and between Quebec and Ottawa, this brief will have wide repercussions. It proposes a new conception of Canadian federalism, the evolution of two distinct nations towards independence in a free association aimed at saving, not destroying, the Canada of Confederation.

So before totally rejecting this proposition, let us ask ourselves whether within 25 or 50 years, this formula will not show itself to be the best one for assuring the survival of our country. (June 22)

Action

Quebec L'Action—Three solutions now are offered to French-Canadians (in the debate of Quebec's future)—separation, federal or simple; a voluntary association of two distinct states, and co-operative federalism.

It is useless to hide our heads in the sand to avoid seeing that the separatist movement is growing. . . .

In the study of the problem of French Canada's future, we therefore cannot ignore the existence of such a group. . . .

No one will deny us even the right to think as they do, or to try to become a majority which would then take Quebec out of Confederation . . . but such eventuality is not for tomorrow. Rather than separation, we believe a majority of Quebecers would prefer one of the other solutions, the association of two distinct states or the new co-operative federalism.

The St. Jean Baptiste Society of Montreal is impressed with the idea of two distinct states. A Quebec state and an English state which would be associated in a confederation for two tiers of 10 units.

The fundamental weakness of this formula is that it combines a nation and a state which are two distinct entities. . . .

The formula ignores . . . the one hand and the existence of one-fifth of the Quebec population that is not French and, on the other hand, the existence of a part (more than 1,000,000) of the French-Canadian nation living outside Quebec.

In addition, is it not injury to think that the other nine provinces would agree to renounce centralism to create a single English state? . . .

Finally, the new co-operative federalism . . . which is a return to the spirit of the Fathers of Confederation, which is an Association of two cultures and two nations, with both assured of their ability to grow . . . on the federal and provincial levels.

If English Canada wants to avoid separatism it will be necessary to return to the spirit of the Fathers of Confederation and adapt the century-old constitution to present requirements. — Louis-Philippe Roy. (June 23).

La Tribune

Sherbrooke La Tribune—. . . The emphasis placed on Quebec in recent months is certainly an excellent thing but only if it does not lead us into a state of self-centredness that would prevent us from seeing the Canada or Canada aspect of the world we live in.

Those who preach separatism, by violence or otherwise, would have us limit to Quebec the concept of the French-Canadian nation. But then what would be done about the hundreds of thousands of Canadians with the same ethnic background as us who live by choice or accident in Ontario or other provinces? (June 23)

Le Soleil

Quebec Le Soleil — Nothing shows the urgency of Canada to repatriate its constitution more than the amendment to the British North America Act concerning the portable pensions plan. After being adopted by the Commons the amendment must, as a simple formality, be submitted to London where in practice the British Parliament can only approve what Canada has decided.

But, the fact that this could happen at a time when Canada is giving itself distinctive national symbols shows how laughable the situation is.

We now are ripe for the repatriation of the constitution Mr. Pearson and the Commons it was humiliating to turn to a foreign parliament for this procedure. . . .

But are the provinces themselves ready to agree, since the principle of repatriation but on the formula for amending the constitution? That is the stumbling block. . . .

One thing is certain, once the flag and national anthem are adopted Canada will soon have to give itself the last symbols of an independent nation. This independence exists in fact, we must now put it into practice. The time has come to act. (June 22)

Le nouvelliste

Wroir - Riviere Le Nouvelliste — Premier Lesage outlined his government's principal objectives during the graduation exercises of Dartmouth College in New Hampshire. Never has the head of our government expressed himself with so much vigor and precision. He gave special place to a statement that Canadian federalism should undergo a profound change. Federalism as it is now, he said, will be seriously jeopardized by forthcoming changes, but it is false to say that the country itself is endangered. . . .

Fortunately, the authorities in power, at least those in Quebec, now know how to distinguish between popular support for immediate profound changes and, on the other hand, the extremist movements which no longer believe in the possibility of changing the system as it was built up with the free Confederation and call for final separation, sometimes using methods of violence.

It must be said that anyone confusing the two trends of thought works unconsciously to increase the importance of the extremists and as a result to favor their propaganda. It is absolutely necessary to distinguish between the reformers who still give Confederation at least a chance, and those who have repudiated it for a long time and count on its defeat. (June 22)

Ottawa Offbeat

Doug Fisher on Warpath Rare But Awesome Sight

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It doesn't often happen, but when it does, it's truly a spectacle.

And a formidable one.

Like a tank, the Lakehead's maverick New Democrat, Douglas Fisher, that MP-of-the-many-trades, rumbles to his feet and rolls over the Government, Cabinet Ministers and Backbenchers alike, crushing them to silence.

It's a great sight because of a man with a booming voice to match that he can make dike acid or use as a brutal club.

He gears up and rolls out only once a session, but it's something to see and remember, for this Man-Who-Moves-Like-A-Tank leaves the Government benches, front and back, flattened and stunned.

Like nobody else, he not even "Fighting John" Diefenbaker, he can do it.

He did it on the Budget last year, and the Government in general and Finance Minister Walter Gordon in particular still haven't fully recovered from his explosive disclosure that a trio of Bay Street tycoons had written much of that politically disastrous Federal balance sheet.

And now he's done it again on that epic of epics, "Medicare," or a Day in the Life of the Prime Minister.

DIVINE RIGHT

It was nothing less than cruel.

For with brutal skill, he brought to vivid life that old ghost of "arrogance" which is so much, only eight years ago, to destroy another Liberal Government.

This time he has dressed the old ghost-of-arrogance in a new and hideous costume: "The Divine Right to Govern."

Just sample Fisher in Hansard:

"They think they are administrative geniuses."

"They think they Know-How-To-Handle-Things, but all they can do is eventually fumble."

All this in a voice saturated with scorn.

Then:

"Although Ido not feel sorry, I do have sympathy for a lot of Liberal Backbenchers who have to sit there and watch the fleshy perambulations of the Cabinet, as they are dragged later after another getting into trouble, right from the Budget of last year down to this last and silliest of things."

All this in deep, if mock sorrow.

And finally:

"They don't like criticism. They simply can't stand it. They haven't got the skin for it. When they were over here (in the Opposition) you could not stop them. They were in there knifing. But once in power again, and they want to get back to those good old pre-1957 days, warm with Blair Fraser (of Maclean's Magazine) pouring all those honey phrases of praise about this greatest collection of talent in Canadian history. Hawhaw. Ha-ha.

And this last in laughing contempt.

TOWN TO EARTH

Off the destructive theme of the "Divine Right," Fisher had some other devilishly damaging phrases.

His description of Tom Kent, the Prime Minister's $25,000 a year "Co-ordinator of Programming" and CBC) made even that usually oily avoid brain trusting sitting there in the Commons athletics, quivering in a torture of embarrassment. The "Kent-ous" Tom Kent, grinned Fisher with malicious delight, was enchantingly entertaining the way he "Uriah Heap - ishly mothers the poor Prime Minister."

Through all this and more — at last nearly a morning day after incredible day, the Government Frontbench sat silent, the Cabinet seemingly crushed in a stunned insensibility by the weight and power of The-Man-Who-Rumbled-Like-A-Tank.

When it was done, there were Conservatives who mourned that it was over, that the spreading his talents too widely, didn't have more time to be the Great Parliamentarian that towers over the Commons but once a Session.

Fisher, with a full head of power and all guns blazing, could well make Government single-handed, if he could maintain that destructive drive of single super-charged assaults. —

It was so impressively overwhelming that Mitchell Sharp, the plain-spoken, down-to-earth cowboy MP from Alberta, looking, unbelieving, at the Tory Government benches, could only murmur incredulously:

"What gutless wonders — and that includes the Cabinet and that gutless bunch of backbenchers over there. No guts. Just no guts."

And still they sat, silent; shaking their heads as if they were just regaining consciousness after a victimized severe beating — which, perhaps, they were.

Botulism Is a Rare - Dangerous Food Poisoning

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain the difference between botulism poisoning and ptomaine poisoning. We are having quite a discussion on this. Are they both fatal? Do you get poisoned today from food eaten a week? Or are they are not kept refrigerated? — M. H.

That may not be so easy to explain as you might think — and yet I'll try if you'll keep in mind that the answer for you isn't entirely medical. Part of it is the "meaning of words."

"Ptomaine" means only that it is some form of poisoning resulting from spoiled food. And how does food "spoil"? By the action of bacteria.

There are many kinds of bacteria which work on food. Some are harmful — or "poisonous." Others are not harmful, such as the bacteria which makes milk turn sour, or are needed to turn milk into cheese.

There are other bacteria which, when they multiply (and make food spoil) are dangerous.

The common form of "poisoning," or food poisoning, is from staphylococcus, or from a germ called salmonella. These happens to be several hundred varieties although most of the trouble is caused by a very few of these.

The germs are fairly common. In some kinds of food, and under certain conditions, the germs will multiply very rapidly — chicken salad, some salad dressings, cream puffs, or fillings, things like that. Going on a picnic, and leaving the lunch in the trunk of the car in the sun beating down on it so the temperature is far above 100 degrees, provides conditions under which the germs multiply. If the food is not kept refrigerated up to the time it is eaten, the car, you'll probably be all right. But if you open the car the night before—beware! The germs will have had time to multiply. I'll not go into ways of keeping the food cold while you are on your way to the picnic, better yet.

It isn't really the "spoiled food" that makes you ill. It's the bacteria that made it the food spoil!

This type of ptomaine poisoning can make one mighty miserable but is not often fatal in otherwise healthy adults. (It can be excessively dangerous for very small children, or in feeble adults.)

Botulism, another kind of food poisoning, is rare but in many dangerous; probably half of its victims die, and the others recover only by the aid of good luck as well as medical care.

The germ in this case is botulinus, which develops in canned foods, especially home canned foods. It develops in a bulging can, or in a can which explodes in the oven. In some cases of it, there is also some rare accident.

But it remains a peril in home canning, especially "cold pack" canning, and there are quite a number of cases of botulism each year. The best rule is with home-canned food that it be pressure cooked and to be sure to cook it thoroughly after opening it.

In fact, in the case of botulism, the germ itself that makes you ill is a toxin produced as a byproduct of the germs in multiplying in its airless environment, and this toxin is, actually, a deadly form of poison . . . is known to man. Just a little of it can be fatal.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 4th, 1944

Following weeks of incessant investigation looking into the $1900.00 robbery at the National Grocery, Ltd., on Pinnacle St., Provincial and Belleville police apprehended four local young men over the weekend and are holding them on charges of breaking and entering and of theft. The men are all residents of this city, and are being held without bail.

The apprehension of the men came only after lengthy and diligent police investigations that saw complete harmony between the Provincial and city authorities until the arrests were effected Friday. Police officials of the district have been a method of breaking and enter their places robbed in the city and employing the same winter's table consumption. While proceeding along the bay bridge early Friday morning they managed to escape and leaping from the speeding vehicle, roll into the bay. Rescued on a few times before regaining its feet, and last seen the shoat was running at a fast speed towards the bay bridge road back to wards Belleville.

A purchasing business amounting to $25,898 was conducted by the Foxboro and District Farmers' Institute during the annual meeting held last week. Of this amount more than $20,000 was spent with the Eastern Farmers' Co-operative for the purchase of grains and other commodities used on district farms.

July 4th, 1934

Members of the Horton family held their first reunion picnic on Consecon Bay at Crescent Beach, Oak Island. It was most enjoyable. Relatives got together from Harrowsmith, Queensboro, Yarker, Tamworth, West Huntingdon, Madoc, Stirling, Corbyville, Marmora, Deloro, Ivanhoe and Belleville to the number of 81. An excellent and very well served dinner was served in the afternoon sports were enjoyed. After supper plans were made to hold a gathering next year.

The corner stone for the new high school at Marmora was laid on Dominion Day with appropriate ceremonies by Dr. Egleson and was witnessed by a large crowd. Mr. Will Connor, the chairman of the high school board presided and called the following to seats on the platform: The Rev. Mr. Hunter, the Rev. Father Meagher, Mr. James H. Hill, M. P. P. elect; Dr. J. Albert Faulkner, M. P. P. elect; Rev. Mr. Doggett, Mr. Erle Denyes, Mr. S. B. Wright; inspector of public schools Mr. A. Maguire; school principal, Mr. A. C. Anderson and Reeve Campbell Wallbridge. Following the speeches, Dr. Egleson was introduced by the chairman, Mr. Will Connor, and Mr. C. Moon, the secretary of the school board, presented Dr. Egleson with a silver trowel with which he proceeded to lay the corner stone. Mr. S. B. Wright of Deloro read the scroll which was deposited in the stone along with coins, newspapers, the Bible and a scroll bearing the names of the members of the school board, the council and high school staff.

The pupils led in singing the Maple Leaf and Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow. The singing of the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close. Miss Ethel and Mr. George Mayhes conducted the musical parts of the program. At the close of the proceedings the crowd assembled at the armouries lawn where sports were run off.

Letter to the Editor

Wants Our Patriotism To Be in U.S. Style

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

Are Canadians unaware of, or just less than proud of our great country? It is obvious that either this is true or that we are of a less boastful ilk than our neighbouring country.

This was forcibly brought to mind on a four-year-old Canadian boy, who has lived in the United States for three years, one of which was spent in nursery school, was "America The Beautiful." "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and recited the Oath of Allegiance to the Stars and Stripes, while he was staying with relatives to return to his native land.

Our leaders debate and argue for weeks and months and to give distinction to Canada. People talk of Separatism and Amalgamation. Our great industrial investors are reluctant to back our untold resources, our present and future great industries.

It would seem that the answer lies in teaching our children of Canada, "The Maple Leaf Forever" and any other patriotic lyrics. Also one of our great writers must compose our own "Oath of Allegiance" to our own Canadian flag...regardless of its design. The principal goal must be to teach our wee ones to be proud of their great heritage in being Canadians.

— Canadian.

COMMUNIST REVOLUTION — It is in the schoolrooms that young Russians acquire most of their attitudes towards the West. Jack Hutton describes one Russian textbook which makes us look ripe for a Communist revolution.

Teen-Age Canada
You Too Will Some Day Be A "World Communist"

"Ever wonder what the Russian fellow or girl thinks of when he reads about Canada in his newspaper?

I've finished reading large sections of a social science textbook that is compulsory for all Russian students, and the answer is given.

You don't know it, but you're going to revolt someday.

Ah, you're a good type, basically. But it is important to keep working for the overthrow of our Capitalist system, and never forget that. You, too, will someday be a world Communist.

The Russian 18-year-old believes you are deluded by propaganda from your leaders.

It is the job of his country, he believes, to help you crush "the bourgeois state machine."

HOGWASH

There will not be any war — at least not a war of armies. But, nevertheless, a revolution will take place in every capitalist country around the world as the working masses realize the folly of their leaders.

This incredible hogwash comes from a Russian textbook entitled Social Science which became compulsory last fall for every student in the final year of secondary school. (This means the students are either 17 or 18 years old.)

What amazes me is that the book was authorized while Russian leaders were preaching "peaceful co-existence" with the West. Apparently the words mean something else in their language.

You'll be interested to know the book is all in favor of democracy, even though it claims it favors the rich. The democratic system, says the book, is the only one under which workers can overthrow their leaders.

The six Russians who wrote the textbook must have done a good job. It's been a best-seller on the newsstands ever since the first printing of 1,250,000 copies.

LAST SHOT

Educators who've read the English translation (330 single-spaced pages) say its importance lies in the fact that it is the last lethal shot of Communistic teaching students get in secondary school.

Some students spent 50 hours studying the book during the last school year. Others spent either 70 or 90, depending upon their type of school. I can't imagine any Russian student remaining unbiased after even 50 hours.

The book took me back in memory to 1960 when I toured the schools in Moscow. I remember a shy, blond teacher-in-training who carried a book by Erskine Caldwell while he guided me for a day.

We became quite friendly and discussed everything from girls to the last world war. Suddenly he pointed at the book and asked, "Is this true? Do people really live and talk like this in America?"

MY REPLY

What can you reply? "Yes," I said. "Caldwell wrote well about a small area of the U.S. where people still live in poverty, even though he stretched some points. But don't apply that to all America because that is not true."

"It's the same as if a Russian author wrote about a small part of the U.S.S.R. that did not apply everywhere. For example, Georgia? Or any area less developed than the others."

My friend stiffened. "No areas in Russia are less developed," he said. "They are all developed. Every area in the Soviet Union is developed."

The conversation was closed. It was like trying to communicate through a locked door. And I'm afraid the new social science textbook will help lock doors in the minds of another Russian generation.

BEATLES

Don't know whether you have noticed, but our friends, the Beatles, are sliding off hit parade charts while record crowds greet them around the world.

This is the second week that our pollsters have left them off. And back home in Great Britain fans seem to be favoring new idols — even if it's only temporary.

One British writer asked the question out loud: have the Beatles become too commercial? Is it no longer a sign of rebellion or being "in" to listen to the boys from Liverpool?

I wonder.

DISCRIMINATION

The letter we received from the Negro who claimed Canadian teenagers are as color-conscious as Americans apparently touched a nerve with many of you.

At least I'd guess that by my mailbag. Watch for the reactions in next week's column.

Lotteries

of $150,000.

The Irish Hospitals Trust runs three annual sweepstakes—the Grand National Steeplechase; the Cambridgeshire and the Irish Sweepstakes Derby.

Prize money on the 1964 Irish Sweepstakes Derby totalled $3,021,000, with the amount being made up from the sale of $3 tickets.

The money spent on tickets goes into a pool. Twenty - five per cent of the amount goes into the Hospitals Trust, which must pay a 25-per-cent stamp tax to the government out of this amount. About 16 per cent covers operating expenses and the remaining 59 per cent is distributed in prize money.

Britain instituted a savings-type lottery in 1957—its sole national lottery — whereby money deposited for savings draws no interest but serves as a ticket for non-taxable cash winnings.

Prizes range from $75 to $3,000 for a uniform initial investment of $3 provided the number of the bond is selected by a robot computer. Bond buyers must wait six months before their numbers are eligible for the draw, made every month.

Proceeds of the premium bond draw are used for national expenditures.

The French government runs a weekly national lottery with a top prize of $200,000. Sixty per cent of the income from the sale of tickets goes toward prize money, seven per cent covers operating expenses and the remainder winds up in the treasury.

Revenues derived from lotteries in Australia generally is used directly or indirectly to provide funds for hospitals and charitable institutions.

Figures for Australia show that of $97,000,000 in lottery tickets sold in 1962, nearly 60 per cent was paid out in prize money. Fifty per cent went as taxes and other net contributions to state government revenues. The remainder was spent on operating expenses.

Ticket sales on the government-supervised lottery in New Zealand totalled nearly $14,000,000 in 1962-63, with about 50 per cent distributed after expenses.

Lottery duty amounted to about $1,380,000 while the net profit was $6,000,000 or nearly 30 per cent of total ticket sales. The remainder went toward commissions and expenses.

A New Zealand government board determines how profits are distributed after receiving requests for funds from distribution committees.

Funds are designated for welfare for the aged, social welfare, recreation and youth activities, medical research and scientific research.

The 16 republics of the Soviet Union have their own lotteries and the Russian federation alone plans to sell lottery tickets worth about $110,000,000 this year.

Half the proceeds will pay for the prizes—either cash or goods —and the other half will go toward the development of schools and hospitals.

About 40 per cent of the revenue from state-run lotteries in Italy is paid out in prize money while the remainder is directed toward charitable organizations, with a percentage going to the state.

In Argentina, about 17 per cent of the total revenue from lottery ticket sales is spent on hospitals, public works, tourism.

The treasury receives less than 25 per cent and 60 per cent goes toward social welfare, being allocated mostly to private institutions caring for the sick, the aged and young children. Prize money makes up the balance, after expenses are paid.

Lotteries are also run in Mexico and Panama, with about 60 or 70 per cent of total revenue making up the prize money. The remainder goes toward public projects, including schools, hospitals and homes for the aged, after operating expenses.

confirmed my opinion that this peaceful era wants to live in peace and that coexistence between countries with different social systems is the solution," Khrushchev said in a farewell speech.

"I can express our great satisfaction with 'the frank and open talks with Prime Minister Lester Gerhardsen and members of the Norwegian government.

"The result of these talks is that the good neighborly relations between Norway and the Soviet Union have been strengthened."

The Norwegian prime minister said in a brief speech he too was satisfied with the visit. He asked Khrushchev to convey the best wishes of the Norwegian people to the people of Russia.

In what was considered his most significant speech of the trip, Khrushchev called on Norway and Denmark to quit the alliance. He said neutrality was Scandinavia's best hope for peace and prosperity.

Gerhardsen replied by reaffirming Norway's commitment to NATO. He told a press conference Friday he thinks the Russians have been persuaded to accept Norwegian and Danish participation in NATO as "a fact of life"—even though they dislike it.

Driver Injured When Car Rolls Over After Crash

Donald Dillon, 35 year old operator of the general store at Rednersville, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital after his car rolled over on the Rednersville road yesterday.

Mr. Dillon is being treated for chest and shoulder injuries and possible concussion.

He was injured when his car collided with a station wagon driven by Lawrence Pollitt, R.R. 7, Belleville, upon out of control and flipped in a ditch, straddling a farm fence.

Cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

A Lift for Living

Forget Life's Little Details Stretch Mind, Soul on Stars

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

The night sky is hauntingly beautiful when midsummer moonlight and starlight lie thick on our roof and window sills. A night wind has herded flocks of woolly clouds to some distant celestial fold so that the blue-black heavens above us are clear. A slender sliver of new moon drifts dreamily across the sky. Sparkling in cool splendor in the high, wide silences above the earth, the distant stars look down upon a sleepy world.

Such a night is meant for wading in thoughts until the wonderer is beyond his depth. Then he should lie back awhile, easily leaning his weight upon deep mysteries, like stumbling in a window of freshly cut alfalfa, lying there, relishing it, not caring to rise too soon.

Especially after a day of dealing with small details it is good to take such a star bath. We are so prone to become like what we are attentive to that hours spent on minutiae make us small. Punching a time clock, putting parts together on an assembly line, typing reports, tapping keys on an adding machine, correcting computations, fulfilling assignments, preparing and serving meals — all the little features of daily living have a way of dragging our minds down to their size. To achieve and maintain the full stature of manhood and womanhood we need frequently to focus our minds on bigness.

BIGNESS BEST ANTIDOTE

In Florence Barclay's The Rosary a doctor says to his patients: "Give a few big things. Go in for big things. You will like to remember when you are bothering about pouring water in and out of teacups that Niagara is still flowing." When we are tired of accounting for where our money went, or wearied of adding up duties still to be performed before the week end arrives, or bored with planning how many and what guests we should invite to our next party — then it is restful to step outside and attempt to count the stars in the vastness of the sky. Bigness is the best antidote for littleness.

On a clear night, with the unaided eye, from 5,000 to 7,000 stars can be seen throughout the celestial world, only half of them, however, being visible in our half of the sky. But with the help of the 100-inch Mount Wilson telescope approximately 1,500 million can be seen. Look through the 200-inch mirror on the Palomar Mountain telescope and additional billions of stars come into view.

Distances to the stars are measured in terms of light years rather than miles. A light year is the distance light will travel in a year's time while speeding at the rate of 186,000 miles per second. In other words, a light year represents a distance of approximately six trillion miles. The Milky Way, of which our sun and its planets are but a tiny part, is composed of some one hundred billion stars. From our earth to the centre of the Milky Way the distance is about fifty thousand light years. If you could go from your doorway to the far, outer edge of the Milky Way on some heavenly steed, galloping along at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, it would take you 100,000 years, which means that a person contemplating the journey should start rather young if he is to make it."

Still, beyond the Milky Way there are other galaxies, yet more vast.

STAR BATH CLEANSES

Such a star bath for our thoughts cleanses the mind of the transitory, the little, the insignificant.

Plunging one's thoughts into the immensities of our universe does something else for us too. It can deepen our religious faith and enlarge our reverence for God. When Dr. Henry Norris Russell, famed Princeton University astronomer, once gave a lecture on the Milky Way, he talked of its millions of stars. He told how many of them were far larger than our sun and how the still more distant heavens swarmed with stars innumerable. When he finished his address a troubled woman came to him and asked, "Dr. Russell, if our world is so little, and the universe is so great, can we really believe that God pays any attention to us human beings?"

The noted astronomer answered, "That all depends, Madam, on how big a God you believe in."

The immense magnitude of the universe demands a bigger God than most of us know. Stretch your mind and soul on the stars, and you will make more room in your thoughts and devotions for a greater God.

Religion Influences Illiteracy

NEW DELHI (AP) — There are more illiterates in India than ever before. At the same time, more people than ever can read and write. An annual net population increase of about 10,000,000 swamps efforts to raise standards.

Illiteracy is worst among women. Of the 50,000,000 persons in schools, only 13,000,000 are girls.

Despite vehement opposition from religious bodies, the government has introduced far-reaching reforms abolishing social inequalities of women.

"When Indian women come into their own, the literacy vacuum will fill itself," a government spokesman says.

In 1947, when India gained independence, the population was 322,000,000 persons and 276,000,000 were illiterate.

Today, 17 years after independence, the population is about 475,000,000 and approximately 336,000,000 cannot read or write.

Government figures indicate India is 25 per cent literate, compared with 16 per cent in 1947.

The next target is 35 per cent literacy but the population will touch half a billion in two or three years. The race to keep pace will strain education facilities.

The education ministry is hopeful that by the end of the fourth five-year economic development plan in 1971 "we will have made the entire younger generation literate."

NOT OPTIMISTIC

Officials are not optimistic about educating the elders. Their main struggle is to earn enough to keep themselves and their families alive.

There also is a teacher shortage. Teachers are poorly paid and there is no incentive to become a village teacher. The moment a boy learns the three R's his first temptation is to run away to the city—from the farms to the factories.

TESTS PUBLIC

LONDON (CP)—Leslie Preston, a men's outfitter in London's Soho district, sold 515 40-shilling notes for seven shillings and sixpence apiece in a 2½-hour sale. Said Preston: "I wanted to test the public's reaction to the bargain. Everyone got a receipt. I will use the information for future business."

QUESTION:

I have tasted frozen sweet cherry jam and the fresh fruit was lovely. Last week I noticed your column giving frozen strawberry and frozen raspberry jams and that you would be testing frozen sweet cherry jam shortly. As soon as you have the method would you please print it for we have two sweet cherry trees and I want to make some into jam . . . Mrs. C. B.

ANSWER:

It is ready! We tested sweet cherries in frozen jam and it is lovely.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Baked Beef Cakes with Creaming Poppy Seed Buttered Noodles; Green Beans; Celery, Olives and Radishes; Apple Tapioca with Brown Sugar Hard Sauce; Tea.

FROZEN SWEET CHERRY JAM (unbaked — to be stored in freezer):

1 lb. (or a little more) ripe sweet cherries, 4 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ½ cup water, 1 package powdered pectin (certo crystals).

Wash and stem cherries. Remove pits with hand or wheel cherry pitter or strong hairpin. Grind cherries through food grinder. You should have 2 cups ground cherries. To them add the sugar and lemon juice and stir well and let stand while you prepare the pectin liquid. In a small saucepan stir together the water and pectin crystals; bring mixture to a rolling boil and boil hard one minute. Remove from heat and pour over fruit mixture and stir for 4 minutes. Have ready small clean plastic or waxed freezers container or strong waxed cartons. Fill and leave ½ inch head space. Ladle into containers or glasses to within ¼" of top and cover well. I put a small square of foil over top first, then put on lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours then put in freezer to freeze. Note: 1) This jam actually does not freeze hard because it has such a high sugar content but sets nice and firm. 2) If this jam is to be used within 2 or 3 weeks you can keep it in storage part of refrigerator quite safely.

Batter: ½ cup flour, ¼ tea-spoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk.

Preheat oven to 425 deg. Fahr. Batter: ½ cup flour, ¼ tea-spoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk.

Preheat oven to 425 deg. Fahr. Put 1 tbsp. fat into pan; sausages in ungreased casserole and leave in oven until sausages are a golden color. To prepare batter, sift flour and salt into mixing bowl, making a well in the centre. Add egg and lemon juice and stir well and let stand while you prepare the liquid. In a small saucepan stir together the water and pectin crystals; bring mixture to a rolling boil and boil hard one minute. Remove from heat and pour over fruit mixture and stir for 4 minutes. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Joe Sexsmith, an old war buddy, now resides in New York. He lives in a small hotel not too far from the brand new Shea Stadium, the home of the Amazin' Mets.

The Mets, Joe says, "is a ball club that everything happens to. You don't know what is going to happen or when it will happen."

"They're a bunch of baseball lunatics who curl their whiskers at the Kings of the Bronx (the Yankees). When they not only outdraw 'em at the gate, but they hold a percentage in wins of confidence games. The Yankees? Phooey."

The Mets, Joe said, "are strangely reminding of the famous the Dutfiness gang from across the river, a place called Brooklyn."

In fact, he said, a great part of the Met supporters are 'the offspring of the Ebbet's Field crew. "They swarm across the river and it's another Fourth of July when the Giants are in town for a series."

The only difference in Joe's opinion, the present crop of Brooklyn fans, unlike their pappies, speak a language one can understand.

Joe is a dedicated baseball man whose forte is statistics. He knows more about records than the guy who compiles them and has them at tongue-tip.

"The Mets won't win a pennant this side of the turn of the century," says Joe, "but, five gets you a hamburger that they'll have their name in more records than the Yankees, the Phils, and E. F. Taylor tossed into one."

Jim Bunning's perfect game against Casey Stengel's quarter-horses, was the second Sunday in a month that they made their way into the official records.

On May 1st they played the longest game in point of time in major league history—seven hours, 23 minutes —and lost to the hated Giants in the 23rd inning, 8-6.

That marathon helped produce the longest day in baseball history. It ended 10 hours, 23 minutes after the first game of a doubleheader had started.

"They started off on the left foot—and have been using the southpaw pinkies ever since," said Joe. "They opened their National League career in 1962. By the time they were 11 days old they had tied a league record for futility—they lost their first nine games. At the beginning of 1963 they dropped their first eight."

The Mets set a National League record in their first season when they lost 120 games. This was also a major league mark for the modern "era," which dates from 1900. They dropped 60 of their 81 home games in the first year—another major league record.

Opposing pitchers have made their way into the record books at the Mets' expense. Bunning, for example, became the first Phillies' pitcher to hurl a no-hitter since 1906. That year a lefty named John Lush turned the trick against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sandy Koufax of the LA Dodgers, pitched his first no-hitter against the Mets in 1962. He has since pitched two more against other clubs. Recently, Bob Veale of the Pittsburgh Pirates struck out 12 Mets during a 2-1 victory. That feat tied a 59-year-old Pirates' record.

Although the New Yorkers are well on the way to losing 100 games for the third consecutive season—the league record is five—they stand a good chance of becoming only the third National League club to draw more than two million customers in one season.

Yet the Mets, whose lifetime won-lost record is 111-278 (.285) hold the distinction of being the only club that has won more than it has lost against the Yankees. The Amazin' Mets have turned back the mighty Bronx Bombers four times in seven exhibition games.

"And just one more record," said Joe. "They tied a 72-year-old major league mark for consecutive roadefeats with 22. A big loser in the streak was Roger Craig. He was to lose 18 in a row, a figure matched only by one other pitcher in National League history.

Orioles' Bunker One-Hits Athletics

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rookie pitcher Wally Bunker of Baltimore Orioles didn't feel well before the game. Kansas City Athletics felt worse after.

The 19-year-old bonus right-hander reported at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium Friday with a headache, took a couple of aspirins, then stepped out and hurled his second no-hitter of the season, blanking the Athletics 4-0.

He retired the first 12 Athletics before Rocky Colavito doubled as leadoff batter in the fifth. Bunker then retired 12 more in a row before he walked Wayne Causey with two out in the ninth. He got out without a run to make his record 8-2.

Extra - inning games dominated the rest of the American League scene. Cleveland's Twins nipped New York Yankees 1-0 in 10 innings, Cleveland Indians edged Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 11, Los Angeles Angels defeated Boston Red Sox 5-3 in 10 and Washington Senators stopped Detroit 3-1 in 12 before bowing 2-1 in the Tigers in the second game.

HEADED FOR TITLE?

No matter what happens today, Baltimore should end up top in the AL standings. Tradition says the team ahead on July 4 wins the pennant.

Bunker said after the game, "I threw one wrong pitch." Was that the one to Colavito? Nope.

"It was in the fifth inning and the batter hit a foul ball."

Bunker didn't remember who the batter was. He hasn't been around long enough to know whom he's getting out.

Homers by Brooks Robinson and Bob Johnson helped Baltimore move 4½ games ahead of the Yankees.

Dick Stigman, meanwhile, was frustrating the defending AL champions, who were 4½ games in front last July 4th. The Twins' burler allowed the Yankees only four hits, facing the minimum number in every inning until the ninth. Stan Williams gave the Twinse just two hits in the nine innings he pitched.

MINCHER SCORES

In the 10th, though, Don Mincher tripled off reliever Ralph Terry and scored on Jim Snyder's sacrifice fly.

The Indians dropped a six-game losing streak with the help of Tito Francona's 11th-inning triple. Francona, who had had three double, drove in pitcher Dick Donovan, who had walked, with the hit.

Consecutive home runs by Joe Adcock and Lou Clinton off ace reliever Hoyt Wilhelm in the 12th inning carried the Angels past the Red Sox. Radats then was fined $50 when he nearly hit the next batter, Bob Rodgers, in the head with a pitch.

Washington won the opener with the aid of a three-base throwing error by Detroit first baseman Norm Cash. The error on Dick Phillips' grounder in the 11th allowed Chuck Hinton to score from first. Phillips came home from third on an infield out.

Detroit won the nightcap on a two-run homer by Bubba Phillips in the ninth inning. Dave Stenhouse had permitted the Tigers only three hits until Phillips connected.

REFEREE NAMED

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Italian Fernando Pica has been named to referee Sunday's heavyweight fight between former champion Floyd Patterson and Eddie Machen. There also will be a welterweight title, and some boxing experts rate the fight as an even affair.

Belvedere Wins Over Point Anne

Belvedere Hotel, grabbing an early lead, downed the Point Anne Cementmen 11-8 in a Commercial Softball League game last night. The game was rained out earlier this week.

Belvedere scored six times in the first inning and made it 8-0 in the second, netting a final trio in the bottom of the fifth. Ox-Point runs came in bundles of five in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Casson pitched the victory, allowing only four hits. Five walks and a pair of errors helped the losers score. Casson fanned one.

Whalen was the loser, gipped for nine hits, striking out two and walking half a dozen. Hylie Anne marked the winners at the plate, slamming a three-run homer, a double and a single. McEvoy, Clapp, Hughes and Casson also hit well for Belvedere.

Rosebush collected two Point Anne safeties with MacDonald and Lloyd getting the others.

Yacht Trials Set For Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — Fifty-three yachts and their crews, representing clubs from as far away as Vancouver and Halifax, converge on the harbor here July 10 for the Canadian Olympic yacht trials.

It will be the first time that all sailing classes listed for Olympic competition have held their trials simultaneously.

One entry from each of four classes is expected to represent Canada in the Olympics at Tokyo in October.

Winds Up Today

Henley Finals Promise Thrills

HENLEY ON THAMES (Reuters) — Harvard's Eliot House crew today entered the finals of the Thames Cup — the second most senior event of the Royal Henley Regatta — by defeating the English Kingston Rowing Club by half-a-length.

The Harvard eight thus meet their London Rowing Club, the other semi-finalist, winner, in the finals to be rowed later today.

The U.S. crew gained the victory over the crew considered tops in Britain with an impressive time of six minutes, 45 seconds. The London Rowing Club took six minutes 56 seconds to defeat the Thames Rowing Club, another British crew.

The Americans took a canvas lead of two quarter-lengths mark. With about one-third of the race finished they had a lead of three-quarters of a length.

Towards the finish line, the Kingston crew got to within a length of the Eliot Harvard team but a final spurt assured the Americans of victory.

HENLEY PARK

Meanwhile, John Lecky of Vancouver and his American teammate, Conn Kiely, were to meet a British pair today in the Silver Goblets final.

The big North American pair, who in the afternoon together at 359 pounds, faced M. J. Hall and Robert Napier of Leander Club at the finish of this event for pair without coxswain. On Friday, Lecky and Kiely, students at Cambridge University, defeated Stuart Douglas Mann and Peter Lecky in two straight three lengths, in the good time of 7:52. In an elimination event Wednesday Lecky and Kiely covered the one mile, 550-yard course in a record 7:48, and on their showing are favorites in the final.

The Henley limelight was stolen Friday by a husky crew of eight Lithuanians, rowing for the Soviet Union, which knocked seven seconds off the event record by winning a Grand Challenge Cup semi-final in the fantastic time of six minutes, 22 seconds.

CORNELL SET MARK

Cornell University had set the old record in 1957.

The Soviet eight was up against a University of London crew in the semi-finals of this premier event of the 125-year-old regatta. London University, defending champion Oscar Moyer boat Club, also of England, won by inches of a length in 6:44, 21 seconds slower than the Soviet time against Thames Rowing Club in the other semi-final.

United States powers put on a fine display.

Seymour Cromwell of New York qualified for the Diamond Sculls final today against Alberto Demidoff of Argentina. Cromwell Friday turned in the second fastest time ever recorded in the single-oarsman event at Henley, 7:37, — beating Harry Wardell-Hersburgh of Britain. Two days earlier Cromwell had set the record of 7:54.

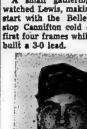
SCHOOLBOYS SHINE

U.S. schoolboy eights from Groton, Andover and Washington and Lee rowed their way into the semi-finals for the Princess Elizabeth Cup by overcoming British opponents. The lone British crew left in the event is Winchester College, which faced Groton, Mass., entry today.

Phillips Exeter Academy, from New Hampshire, was to meet Molesey Boat Club of Britain, and Thames Rowing Club met London Rowing Club.

Two Danes, Hans Frederiksen and Ib Kruse, faced George Justice and Nick Birkmyre of Britain in today's double sculls final today in the final for the Prince Philip Cup, an event for fours with coxswain.

In Thames Cup semi-finals today, an eighth event, Eliot House of Harvard University faced Kingston Rowing Club of nation.



A-4-2 Squeaker

Joyce's Win Over Cannifton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Young Dave Lewis survived three bases loaded situations in the middle innings while pitching Belleville Joyce Realty to a 4-3 Eastern Ontario Senior baseball victory over Cannifton at the Fairgrounds here last night.

A small gathering of fans watched Lewis, making his first start with the Belleville club, stop Cannifton cold during the first four frames while his mate built a 3-0 lead.

DAVE LEWIS

Cannifton started to find the range in the fifth, snapping Lewis' no-hit bid and cutting Belleville's lead in 3-2 with the aid of glaring Joyce errors after six frames. The winners added an insurance marker in the top of the ninth.

Belleville's next start will be against the Brockville Beavers here Wednesday night at 8.30.

Lewis and Cannifton's Lorne Cronkright staged a fine pitching duel, marred only by errors. Each pitcher allowed five hits over the route. Lewis struck out 14, including the side in the fifth and ninth innings. He walked five and hit one. Cronkright blew third strikes past nine batters and issued only one free pass although charged with wild pitches which plated two Belleville runners.

Joyces scored once in the second when Asselstine opened by toppling over first baseman's foul line. Cronkright got the next two batters without trouble but Barberstock deliberated a single to left-centre, scoring Asselstine.

Cronkright cost himself a run in the fifth when he walked McKibbon and Ian Kilborn with one home after Barberstock had sacrificed.

Cannifton got their first big chance when two walks and a base hit loaded the bases but Lewis struck out Cole on four pitches to end that threat.

Joyces made it 3-0 in the top of the sixth when Asselstine cued with a single. An error on Moon's attempted steal of second and Hunter's ground out got him to third and he rode in from there on Weston's single to centre.

The losers struck quickly in the bottom of the inning. O'Connor cracked a ground-rule double but was out at the plate, on a good relay play, trying to score on Empey's hit to right. Cole rapped a third straight hit then an error on a high bopper allowed the first run to score. A walk kept the sacks full and another infield boot made it 3-2 before Lewis fanned Urch.

Cannifton filled the bases again in the seventh on a hit, walk and an error, but once again there were stranded when a strikeout, a square bunt that failed and a fly ball accounted for three outs.

The tying run got to third in the eighth but died there. An error, stolen base, Asselstine's hit and a wild pitch got the clincher across in the Belleville ninth.

Pat Asselstine had a triple and single for Joyces. Bill Barberstock, Pete Weston and Bob Moon split the other singles.

The losers left 12 men on base, the winners only four.

Too Much Bear-Hug

Buzzsaw Beats The Beast

Roy Villmer, the popular St. Louis "Buzz Saw" withstood the bear-hugs of the Sicilian Beast, here last night.

In fact the skin-killed hairy Italian couldn't use a bear-hug to advantage and it led to his downfall.

The pair divided the first two of the three-round bout and Villmer appeared to be getting the worst of the third-up to a point.

Then he secured a punishing leg-hold on the Beast and had him weaving with some well-placed drop kicks.

Finally Villmer tossed the fur-lined heavyweight out of the ring on his matinee-d behind.

The "Beard" clambered up on the apron and climbed hammer in the bear-hug with the ropes serving as a buffer.

The Beast coached by his manager Martino Angelo, won the first fall with his clutch hold, catching Villmer coming off the ropes.

The little "buzz-saw" got that one back after eight minutes of the second fall with an overhead flip and a back crab hold.

Chief Suni Warcloud and the Great Mephisto took to the tarmac after splitting the first two falls in the substitution semi-final.

Mephisto won the first then the Chief, using an Indian Judo chop took the second catching the "devil" coming off the ropes.

The pair left the ring to decide the final affair and were too interested in slugging to note the count.

Referee Gallop called it "No Contest".

Popular Timmy Geohagen was awarded the preliminary over Big Ike Eakins after the latter thought he had won and left the ring. He didn't get back in time.

WINS SPLIT DECISION

CANADIANS WIN

CINCINNATI (AP) — An unseeded Canadian women's doubles team pulled off the upset of Friday's Tri-State tennis tournament. Faye Urban of Windsor, Ont., and Brenda Nunns of Toronto beat the top-seeded team of Julie Heldman of New York and Carole Loop of North Bradbury, Calif., 7-5, 6-2. It was the third victory of the day for the Canadians.

Phillies Within Half Game Of First

Beat Giants 5-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

If tradition can hoist a pennant up a flag pole, today's game between Philadelphia Phillies and San Francisco Giants will decide the National League issue.

The second - place Phillies moved into San Francisco Friday night for opener of a three game series, knocked off the front running Giants 5-1 and climbed within one-half game of the top spot.

That made today's game the focal point of a psychological battle since either team can wind up in first place at the end of it. Tradition holds, and the percentages back it up, that the team in first place after the July 4 program will win the pennant.

It has happened 40 times in 53 years.

Jim Bunning of the Phillies and Jack Sanford of the Giants will be key pitching assignments for today's game.

The Phillies open the series opener behind Ray Culp's six-hit pitching and Richie Allen's three-for-three performance, including his 16th homer and a key single in a two-out, three-run rally in the seventh inning.

It was the Phillies' second victory in six meetings with the Giants and only the third loss in 15 games for San Francisco.

Cincinnati Reds, 5½ games back in third place, whipped St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 behind Vada Pinson's hitting. Milwaukee Braves rode a first baseman's double by Lee Maye to an 8-2 victory over Chicago Cubs. Pittsburgh Pirates nipped Houston Colts 2-1 and Los Angeles Dodgers belted New York Mets 6-2.

The Phillies put it away against Ron Herbel in the third after Tony Gonzalez drew a leadoff walk. Gonzalez and Herbel zipped a single. Singles by Wes Covington and Clay Dalrymple each drove in a run and Covington scampered home on Jesus Alou's throwing error.

Allen's homer was a two-run triple in the fifth inning, then stroked a single with two men on in the seventh that Bob Skinner let by, accounting for the other Reds' runs. That was more than enough for Culp, Cincinnati, who brought his record to 5-5 with a seven-hitter.

Backed by Maye's three hits and a homer by Eddie Mathews, Tony Cloninger went all the way for the Braves despite allowing nine hits. It was only the fourth complete game by a Milwaukee pitcher in the last 31 games and Cloninger has posted them all.

The Pirates snapped a five-game losing streak when Willie Stargell's double and a triple by Smoky Burgess produced the winning run in the eighth against Houston.

Don Drysdale brought his record to 11-7 with his 11th complete game, a 7-2 victory, although he was rapped for nine hits, including a homer by Jesse Gonder. The Dodgers broke it open with a four-run fourth. Singles by Ron Fairly, John Roseboro and Joe Oliver and Drysdale produced one run, as error by Amado Samuel two more and a double by Derrell Griffith the fourth.

Wimbledon Tennis
Smith In Three Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (Reuters) — The final of the women's singles today highlights the last day of the two-week long Wimbledon lawn tennis championships.

The women's event promised to be a thriller with the finalists — Australian Margaret Smith, Margaret Smith and Brazil's Maria Bueno — both former Wimbledon champions.

Miss Smith was favored by the seeding committee this year ahead of Miss Bueno because of her victory last year here and her defeat of Miss Bueno in the Australian championships a month. The scores were 8-7, 6-1, 6-2.

Tall, athletic 21-year-old Margaret Smith was hoping to take another step towards making a unique grand slam of the world's five major titles this year.

She has already won the Australian, Italian and French championships. If she retained her Wimbledon crown it would need only to win the United States title at Forest Hills in September to clinch the world's five major titles this year.

Miss Smith scored the only girl who can approach the Australian for power and hard distance. Maria has shown this year she was fast coming back to her championship form which won her the Wimbledon title in 1959 and 1960, before her attack was halted.

Maria beat Margaret Smith in the United States championship last September.

In all Margaret Smith will be in three finals today—her singles, mixed doubles and the ladies doubles.

She was in the women's doubles that the only United States players were entered. The American team of Billie-Jean Moffitt and Mrs. Karen Susman were matched against Miss Smith and fellow Australian Lesley Turner.

In the all-Australian final of the mixed doubles, Miss Smith and Ken Fletcher, the holders, will play Miss Turner and Fred Stolle.

Stolle, beaten by fellow Australian Roy Emerson for the men's singles title Friday, will have a chance of revenge when the pair clash in the men's doubles final — another all-Australian affair.

Stolle will partner Bob Hewitt, wife whom he won the title in 1962. Emerson was teamed with Fletcher.

MAKES U.S. TEAM

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—John McNamara of Boston won the U.S. 5-5 metre yacht trials Friday and will represent the United States in Olympic sailing cup competition at Tokyo in October. McNamara boat Ringo won the final race by 19 seconds over Pride, skippered by Ernest Fay of Houston, Tex.

Bisons Nip Leafs 4-3, Suns Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons have shown a penchant this year for winning the close ones in the International League.

They proved it to Toronto Maple Leafs Friday by edging the visitors 4-3 the 13th game of the one-run decisions they have figured in this year that wound up on the Buffalo side of the ledger.

The victory held the Bisons in a three-way tie for second place in the league standings with Rochester Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs.

The Chiefs downed Rochester 3-1 Friday and the three clubs are locked 3½ games back of Jacksonville Suns. The Suns thumped Richmond Virginians 6-2 to keep a firm grip on the top spot. Atlanta Crackers and Columbus Jets were rained out.

Dick Smith's single in the seventh scored the winning run for the Bisons, who also got seven-hit pitching from Craig Anderson. Ken Nixon took the loss for the fifth-place Leafs.

Bob Sparks boomed a three-run homer for Jacksonville and Dick LeMay limited the Virginians to seven hits to hang a loss on Richmond reliever Billy Muffett. He came in when starter Eddie Fisher had to leave in the second inning after being hit on the leg by Coot Veale's liner.

George Smith's two-run double was the big blow for Syracuse. It followed two walks and a single,

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Monteddy, a bay mare who was forced to sit out seven months of competition while she grew a new hoof, signalled her return to top form Friday at Woodbine, Molly winning the featured eighth race.

Monteddy's victory also signalled the return to the winners circle of Toronto trainer Gerd Bryson. Bryson last saddled a winner in 1960, then dropped out of the business.

Monteddy sped over the muddy track in 1:35 4-5.

Return Trip, the colt Golden West Farms of Calgary shipped in a month ago, had little trouble winning the fifth race, paying $3.50, and set up a quinella of $6.50. He combined with runner-up Canadelle.

Two outsiders, Rosss Prefect and Yukon Squaw in the first and second races combined for a $301.60 quinella double.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD
Four-Time Winner of the Masters
A QUICK WAY TO LOWER YOUR SCORES

Stop and think for a minute just how much you could lower your golf scores if you had a guarantee of hitting every green on shots from 100 yards or less. Generally speaking the average golfer misses the green as many times on such shots during a single round as the number of hundicap strokes he carries. If you carry a handicap of 15, you will probably miss the green 15 times on shots from less than 100 yards out.

To avoid this needless waste of strokes, practice your skill with the pitching wedge, which can be used from 100 yards out to within a few yards of the green.

To pitch with this club, I suggest you use a "swinging" stroke as opposed to a stopping hit. Think of executing the shot in the same manner you would toss a baseball underhand (see illustrations). Keep your body and leg movement to a minimum and always contact the ball before your clubhead cuts into the turf.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Armbro Electra easily won the Invitation Pace for three-year olds at Greenwood Raceway Friday.

Armbro Electra was 1¼ lengths in front of Gracie Lochinvar and in registering her fifth win in 13 starts this year, she added $1,000 to her seasonal earnings which now total $4,409.

Armbro Electra was driven by Harold Langelier who earlier won for the Armstrong stable of Brampton, Ont., with Armbro Bingo Pacer. Scotty was second to Armbro Bingo as a quinella of $21.50 came up.

Vital Hall was third with Wilham Hutchinson of Alliston, Ont. captured the first race, a mile trot, and teamed with Becky Dorwood, owned by Jacob Geisel of Hanover, Ont. for a daily double of $15.20.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Eleven-year-old gelding Argyel Sam won the feature race at Western Fair Raceway Friday, pacing the mile in 2:07 for his third straight victory.

He returned $6.80 to win in his fastest time this year.

An exacta of $15.20 was posted in the seventh race when Pat Johnston C won at 8-30 and Vern Song came second. Payoff on the fourth race exacta was somewhat healthier— $80.60—as Wayne Frost with first spot for $11.80 and Cinda C Grattan came second.

The early double was $35.20 with Felipa taking the first and Penny Hal the second.

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph and John are looking forward to meeting Igor and Valery at the October Olympics in Tokyo.

Just how eager was shown by Ralph Boston and John Thomas Friday night in the U.S. Olympic trials at Randall's Island.

Boston, who will be defending broad jump champion in Tokyo, excited a crowd of 13,000 with two stunning leaps—the first at feet, four inches, the second 27 feet 5¼. Both topped the recognized world mark of 27 feet, six inches set by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan.

But wind speed cannot exceed 4.47 miles an hour for official recognition. The wind was 5.8 miles an hour for Boston's first effort and reached 15.2 on his second.

And Thomas, a rangy Bostonian who flopped at the 1960 Olympics, won the high jump with an effortless leap of seven feet, one inch to assure himself another try at Russia's great Valery Brumel. "I thought I'd see him soon," the happy Thomas said after the victory. ARE YOUNGSTERS

Winners here were automatic nominees for the U.S. Olympic team. The next five competitors in each category get a shot at the other two places for each event in Randall's Island or Los Angeles in September.

Yale graduate Jay Luck, running for the New York Athletic Club, provided the surprise of opening day with a 49.4-second performance over the 400-metre hurdles. The world mark is 49.2.

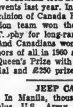
Others clinching Olympic berths were Trenton Jackson of Illinois in the 100 metres, 10.1; Hal Connolly of the Boston Athletic, 225 feet four inches; Jim Stevenson in the javelin, 244 feet, eight inches; Dallas Long in the shot put, 64 feet, 9¼ inches, and Bob Schul in the 5,000 metres, 14:10.8.

Bob Hayes, who has turned in .1 in the 100 metres, did not compete because of an injury suffered last week. But he is expected to be allowed to compete in the finals by special committee action.

Jerry Lindgren, the 18-year-old schoolboy from Spokane, set the pace most of the way in the 10,000 metres and set the crowd going. But the youngster fell back to third as Schul, from Dayton, Ohio, and Max Truex, Sterling kick on the final leg to get ahead. Bill Dellinger of Portland, Ore., was second.

In the 1,500 metres, the runners, perhaps in deference to temperatures that climbed to the mid-90s, worked just hard enough to attain speed for today's finals. Dyrol Burleson won his heat in a slow 3:54.7. Tom Farrell, a newcomer, the last qualifying spot, in his heat with a 3:49.8 clocking.

Canadians Seek Bisley Honors



BISLEY, England (CP)—Canadian riflemen will be seeking a return to glory at the Bisley National Rifle Association Commonwealth shoot that starts in earnest here today.

Canadians took many of the top events last year. In 1962 the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association team won the Mackinnon Cup for long-range shooting. Williams, Ont., was one of the honors of all-in 1960 and 1961—the Queen's Prize with its gold medal and £250 prize.

Seek Spot On Ontario Golf Team

KINGSTON (CP) — Betty Sanhope Cole of Woodbridge shot a one-under-par 75 here Friday but still trails Gail Harvey of Scarborough by two points in the competition for places on the Ontario women's golf team.

Miss Harvey, who had a 76 Friday, now has 53 points to Mrs. Cole's 51. Kay Hallam of Toronto carded an 81 to remain third in the running with 34 points, while London's Sue Hilton took an 83, good for 28 points and fourth place.

Canadian champion Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto is automatically on the team.

Other Friday scores included: Sandra Post, Oakville, 80; Cookie Cartwright, Kingston, 88; Lil Stubbs, Oakville, 80.

Stop Sale Of Aintree Race Course

LONDON (Reuters) — The Aintree race course, home of Britain's Grand National Steeplechase, Friday received a 24-hour reprieve from being sold.

A High Court judge made an order effective until Saturday that the course is not to be sold.

The order followed an application on behalf of Lord Bath of the Earl of Sefton, who sold the Liverpool-area track to Mrs. Mirabel Topham in 1949.

Wednesday, Mrs. Topham announced she proposed to sell Aintree to a housing development company for £1,000,000 ($3,000,000).

The application Friday was made minutes before the court was scheduled to rise. The court was told that the proposed sale would be a breach of covenants in a 1949 agreement with Mrs. Topham that the land should be used only for horse racing or, in part, for agricultural purposes.

Only a few months ago Lord Sefton refused Mrs. Topham's request to release the restrictive covenants, the court was told.

Tied For Lead In Trapshoot

HAMILTON (CP) — Larry Irwin of Inglewood, Ont., E. E. Sullivan of Oakville and George Snellenberger of Angola, Ind., were tied with 192 birds each at the end of the first day of the three-day Canadian trapshooting championship Friday.

Tied for second were John Emmett of Thorold, Ont., and Ken Wright of Kingsville, Ont., with 190 each on the day's round. Emmett led the handicap event with 200.

A Calgary housewife, Vera Holdsworth, led the women's division smashing 96 of 100 birds in the singles and 81 in the handicap for a total of 180.

Mrs. Holdsworth edged out Mrs. Ida Mills-Clemente, 96 of 100 birds in the singles and 81 in the handicap for a total of 180.

'I Have Never Gotten Over His Death . . .'

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Marlon Brando? Richard Burton? Never! Clark Gable was the closest but not even he had what Rudy had."

Pola Negri was speaking of Rudolph Valentino, the great love of her life.

Miss Negri, still every inch the movie star, reposed in her Beverly Wilshire suite. Her hair is still jet black, her eyes as big as ever and on her left hand was a diamond as large as a flashlight bulb.

The setting was exotic as she poured the French champagne. She's well off, now.

"I lost two fortunes out here," she recalls, "but I have good investments in San Antonio, Tex. I will not lose this one."

She's in town for a Walt Disney movie, The Moon-spinners, in which she plays a wealthy and eccentric jewel fancier.

In the old days, her fiery temperament used to melt directors and producers but she asked for only one change in the script, which called for her to have a Siamese cat.

LIKED IDEA

"I suggested that we use a cheetah instead — and Walt loved the idea. You know, I always had a cheetah around the house in the old days."

She looked out the window to a busy Beverly Hills street where land sells for $10,000 a front foot.

"Rudy and I used to ride horseback there — and deer would come out of the orange trees. We would feed them together."

Valentino, the greatest screen lover of silent days, died in 1926. Women, by the thousands, screamed, fainted and rioted at his funeral.

"He and I were to be married the following week," Pola says. "I have never gotten over his death."

She had three husbands, all titled — from count to prince. Rudy was untitled.

"But he was the king to me — and women all over the world," says Pola.

"The screen will never see his equal again. He didn't just thrill women. He hypnotized them. He had virility, sex appeal, intelligence, charm, good looks and something that actor ever had before — or since.

"And that extra something may explain the unique devotion that Valentino holds to this day among his feminine fans of 40 years ago.

"He had mysticism," says Pola.

Quiet Western, Rawhide, Just Keeps Rolling Along

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Other westerns may attract more fuss and higher ratings, but Rawhide just keeps rolling along.

You might call it the quiet western. In fact, I did, and co-star Clint Eastwood agreed.

"We started in mid-season six years ago last January," he said, "and nobody really expected us to last."

"But we just kept going along in our own quiet way and we've managed to survive.

"Now have we done it? I don't know exactly. Maybe it's because we've always worked hard for authenticity. Our is an open-country show, as compared to other westerns which are town shows. Rawhide is fundamentally about cowboys, and each year we get awards for our portrayals of the western heritage.

LOYAL FANS

"Perhaps the viewers sense that authenticity. At any rate, they are remarkably loyal."

Indeed they are. The Rawhide fans set up a yowl when the show was moved from its traditional Friday night niche to Thursday. It racked up reasonable ratings considering it opposed longtime Thursday fixtures like Dr. Kildare, The Dooms Reed Show and" My Three Sons. Meanwhile CBS's Friday ratings took a dive.

CBS has shown a preference to switch rather than fight, and Rawhide will settle back to its Friday night time next season. There are intentions Rawhide won't be so quiet next year. Eastwood confirmed reports that the budget has been raised to lure stars like John Wayne, Natalie Wood, James Stewart, and others who don't play the TV guest-star circuit.

If the film deal is successful, Rawhide may continue its journey indefinitely, as Wagon Train, Bonanza and The Virginian appear to be doing.

BEATLES RETURN

CBC television will offer a September rerun of its Telescope film on the Beatles' first weekend in the U.S. last February.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Bob Hope is in hot water again — this time in darkest Africa — in his new comedy in color "Call Me Bwana," Saltzman-Broccoli offering in which he is co-starred with Anita Ekberg (seated), opening Tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. 2nd feature, also in color is "Sword of the Conqueror" and stars Jack Palance and Guy Madison.

Other Pros Unhappy

Rodriguez Clowns Way to Top

Rodriguez, whose 36-hole total of 134 led the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open golf tournament by one stroke today, has been told in no uncertain terms by some fellow pros to stop clowning.

The 28-year-old Puerto Rican tried to act subdued Friday after he toured the 6,907-yard Whitemarsh course in four-under-par 68. With his first-round 66, he led Dave Marr, who had 67-68—135.

"Some of the pros are getting too hot at me," said Rodriguez after completing his second round. "They don't wish me to kid it."

However, he takes golf as seriously as the next pro and said the bantering on the course merely relaxes him and enables him to play better.

At one point, overjoyed about a shot, he leaped over a rope and shook hands with a little girl.

Rodriguez did a dance around the 192-yard green when a birdie putt rolled around the cup and came out.

Trailing Rodriguez and Marr as the field headed into today's third round of the four-day, 72-hole test were Terry Dill, Dan Sikes, Pete Brown and Yon Fairfield, each with 136. Tommy Jacobs and Howie Johnson were a stroke back at that.

Six tied at 138, including George Knudson of Toronto who added a fine 67 Friday to his opening-round 71. Masters champion Arnold Palmer and Tony Lema, winner of three of the last four pro tournaments, also were in the group.

Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player were at 139. So was Al Balding of Toronto, who carded a 66 in the opening round but soared to a 73 Friday.

Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont. squeezed under the cutoff point by two strokes with a 71 Friday for 145 as the field was trimmed to 90 golfers.

CFL-AFL GAME EXPECTED

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Traveller says there is an excellent chance the Canadian and American football leagues will meet in a post-season game in January to benefit the Kennedy Memorial Library fund. The paper says the game would probably be played under American rules in a warm — weather U.S. city about Jan. 17.

Thompson Leads In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — Airle Thompson of Toronto fired a one-under-par 70 Friday to take a three-stroke lead after two rounds in the 54-hole Manitoba Open golf championship.

The performance gave Thompson, who lost last year's open in an extra-hole play-off a 139 total in the $5,100 tournament, Canada's richest provincial open.

Moe Norman of Toronto matched Thompson's 70 to move into second place with 142. One stroke behind were Dave Berg of Regina, Rick Iliadelaki of Duluth, Minn., Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg and Jack Webb of Fargo, N.D.

Frank Whibley of Kitchener was in a two-way tie for ninth place with his 73-73—146, seven strokes off the pace.

DRIVER INJURED

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Fred Lorenzen, stock car racer with $113,000 in winnings last year, suffered serious injuries Friday in a qualifying race at Daytona International Speedway. Lorenzen, 29, of Kimhurst, Ill., scrambled out of his wrecked racer but stumbled and fell as ambulance attendants rushed to his aid.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 5

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Don't go too far afield where money matters are concerned. Guard personal possessions against urge to "gamble." Offer may merely contain glitter. Have faith in plan for expansion.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) One who opposes you has little to offer as alternative. Stick to your guns! Your inner thoughts provide useful guide. Temporary period of concern soon erased by favorable news.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) After putting finishing touches on project . . . you will receive reward. But you may be called upon to invest additional time, talent. Answer should be resounding yes!

Cancer (June 21 to July 22) A "confinement" must be recognized. Means there are details, basic materials which demand attention. You won't actually feel free until job is completed. Attend church of choice.

Leo (July 23 to August 22) Holiday spirits prevails. You can make new friends, discuss unique enterprises. Exercise caution on highway. No need to frantic pace. Principle of Golden Rule could be life saver.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Hold off on journey until you are certain of directions, prevailing highway conditions. Confusion may exist concerning money offer. Wait until you are in more familiar surroundings.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) Wonderful for trying new foods, experiments. Be with those who are adventurous. Important that you relax. Bring forth creative forces. Gain joy through hobby, special interests.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be wary of tendency to be overly optimistic. Base reactions on facts, signed papers. One who promises much may be talking through his hat. Be calm, practical. Stand ready for changes.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Message you have been awaiting could now arrive. But complete story has yet to be related. Recent activity, travel may have tired you. Good to rest, recuperate.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Emotions take the reins. Watch tendency to throw caution to winds. Remember there are domestic responsibilities. Plus day if you achieve successful balance between fun and work.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Be sure your message is "getting across." Explain position. Excellent for pursuing creative endeavors. Your judgment accurate where member of opposite sex is concerned.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to March 20) Don't push back where travel enters picture. Be cautious. Avoid taking unnecessary chances. Relations with loved one will improve. Be willing to make concession. Frank discussion can clear air.

If today is your birthday you are creative, often restless, very impressionable, and you probably are something of a psychic.

GENERAL TENDENCIES—Cycle high for Gemini, Cancer, Leo. Special word to Capricorn. If you are too generous, some will take advantage of you. . .

For July 6

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Where you are cheerful . . . you can gain. Where you openly complain or brood . . . you will lose. This has nothing to do with right or wrong. Just happens to be the connection. Act accordingly.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Trying to impress could lead to extravagance. Know what your actions imply. Utilize common sense. You are capable of accomplishing much today. But if you don't work . . . all is for naught!

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Cycle high. But you may be deceiving yourself about worker, servant or helper. Finish pet projects without agreeing to new ones. Strive for balance. You have much to give. Today will offer it!

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): If you attempt to run in all directions at once — you will have ruin awakening. Be specific. State plans carefully, clearly. Set policy regarding future expansion . . . and then adhere to it!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 23): Friend who is in need due to "spill the beans." Your intuition can provide hints, answers. Your ideas are personal and valuable properties. Try to be firm. But don't invite trouble.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Several possibilities exist . . . take time to deliberate. Emphasis is both professional and personal life. Emotions demand outlet. But also consider those who have faith in you.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23): Good lunar aspect highlights journeys, added knowledge — plus uncertainty. Don't drive yourself. Answers will be available. But task requires research and patience. Stress confidence.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Day for outings, travel and variety. You can make contacts which aid in solving recent puzzle. Piece together bits of information. The "complete story" adds up to a surprise!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Go slow where agreements, contracts are concerned. Pay special attention to advertising, public relations. You are due to face certain basic issues. Maintain attitude of acceptance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Confusion may be order of the day! Best to listen, observe and not to commit yourself. If possible, consult Pisces individual. For the most part — tread carefully. Bide your time.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Affairs of heart dominate today. Your romantic instincts come to forefront. You desire adventure. Today your creative efforts pay off. Utilize imagination. Don't imitate — originate.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): You may be consulted by confused individuals. Set good example. Keep your own house in order. Check details. Get rid of red tape. Don't delay basic tasks. Finish major project.

If today is your birthday . . . you are warm, giving, able to attract the best in others. Would make excellent teacher, dramatic coach, production manager.

General Tendencies: Gemini and Virgo persons must be wary lest excess speed, impatience cause trouble. Pisces and Capricorn individuals can offer each other mutual aid.

The company, operated by Harold Elworthy and his three sons, claims it will tow anything anywhere. (CP Photo)

Bond Market Quiet During Past Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian bond market was quiet during the week with prices generally unchanged.

The new issue of treasury bills showed only nominal change. The 91-day bills quoted at 3.58 per cent, offered at 3.57 per cent, while the 183-day bills were quoted at 3.75 per cent, down .02 per cent.

The amount of day-to-day money rose by a scant $2,000,000 to $182,000,000, while the day rate dropped sharply by ½ per cent to three per cent. Money supply was tight during the week, bond dealers said.

Both the long- and short-term Canada markets were quiet amid easing prices. The short-term market saw the 3¼ per cent issue due Dec. 15, 1964, gain two cents to close at $99.80.

In the long-term Canada market, the 5¾ per cent issue, due in 1990 lost 25 cents to close at $99 bid and $99.25 asked compared with last week's prices. Bond dealers blamed the long-term market's drop on the new $50,000,000 issue of Quebec Autoroute Authority.

The issue featured trading in the provincial market and not with high participation. The issue was offered at 5¾ per cent, due in 1987-90 to yield 5.81 per cent.

Today's bond rates and municipal bond markets suffered through fractionally easier prices in mild trading.

Swing of a Pendulum Brings This Man New Life After 65

By THOMAS COLLINS

It was at a motel near Omaha Nebr. It was late afternoon. The man sitting on the bench by the swimming pool looked to be about 70, had crew-cut hair, and wore one of those noisy sports shirts that might have been handed down to him by Harry Truman.

He said his name was Swanson — Wallace Swanson. That he was retired. And that he was travelling with his wife to Salt Lake City because — "I think every American ought to see Salt Lake City once."

He said he was making the trip because of "the swing of a pendulum." Then he smiled. You see, I've set up a clock repair business since I retired, and it provides the extra money for Mama and me to make trips like this. But I became a clock fixer because of the swing of another pendulum — the pendulum of a man's life that swings from nonentity to his youth, to position and affluence in his middle years, and back to nonentity in his retirement. . ."

This appeared to be an important piece of personal philosophy to him. He talked a bit about it for some thirty minutes. His thinking boiled down to this: A man invariably retires to a pedestal as nearly like the pedestal of his career as he can. He was a general manager, so he tries to act like a retired general manager. He was a veep in a bank, so he tried to look like a retired veep. They all want to hold their image, and they are most anxious that the people back at the company think well of what they do. But the pendulum is swinging back now. They aren't retired veeps; they're just retired people. And they're swing back into a nonentity status. And while people back a the company wouldn't like to see their president retire and become a fool salesman — next week — he could become a garbage collector the next year and they wouldn't care.

ASSOCIATES DON'T CARE

"A man must realize," Mr. Swanson said, "that as soon as he retires he is generally over and done for, so far as former associates are concerned. They simply don't care what he does . . . after a month or so.

"Which is how I brought myself to turn my back on a career that brought me an executive title, and hang out my shingle as a clock repairer."

Mr. Swanson, with what he describes as "an unduly prosperous boyhood," had tinkered with watches and clocks most of his life. In his later years he had become most interested in clocks, particularly old ones. He had built up a fine set of tools.

"When I retired Mama and I thought it best to get out of town. We had a pretty fair income, and we bought a little house in one of the better suburbs.

"I didn't have anything to do except cut the grass — what d-ear! So I turned more and more to my clocks. As we met new friends, word got around that I was a clock expert — and our friends were the sort of nice people who have old family clocks.

BROUGHT HIM CLOCKS

"They began bringing them around to my basement. They said they could find nobody who was interested in working on clocks, that all the usual repair places wanted to fix only watches. They always wanted to pay me, but these were social acquaintances. I couldn't charge them. This made it awkward all around . . ."

So Mr. Swanson mulled matters over. He reasoned he was not a retired executive anymore but just a fellow on a pension. And then he came up with his pendulum philosophy.

He inquired around business establishments in the suburb and found that there actually was nobody who wanted to bother with clock repairs.

"I rented a small upstairs office, laid out my tools, put a sign out front, and went into business. As the same time I wrote letters to all watch repairers in the community asking them to refer their clock problems to me. . .

Mr. Swanson's income from his business, which now includes the sale of old clocks he collects, nets him about $250 a month, he said. And when the fancy strikes him he and Mama close the shop and go off to see places like Salt Lake City.

Men and Arms Sent to Cyprus House Is Told

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin informed the Commons Friday that Greek men and arms have been sent into Cyprus.

He added that the Canadian government has taken strong exception to the move.

Importation of arms into Cyprus was contrary to the United Nations Security Council resolution of March 4 and a most serious view was being taken of the situation.

Mr. Martin, replying to a series of questions by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, said he can find no justification for reports that 4,000 armed Greeks had infiltrated into Cyprus.

He added, however, that there is no way of determining the exact number.

Campbellford News

Chief Explains System Used In Corporation

CAMPBELLFORD — Chief of police in Campbellford, S. Baird states the system used in Campbellford is that the four-man police force has two-way radios, also extension phones in their residences so that if parties making phone calls to the police station get answers by female voice they should state their complaint, this will be immediately transmitted to the officer on duty in the cruiser. The cruisers will then be despatched to the location involved.

Chief Baird states that they receive calls and ask for him personally when he perhaps is not on duty at that time, and many also hang up the phone on hearing a female voice. He emphasized that complaints should be given to answering voice and they will promptly be given to the officer on duty.

Chief Baird stated there was a total of 30 cases under Highway Traffic Act and Liquor Control Act in Magistrate's Court in Campbellford Thursday.

Heavy Agenda In Police Court

CAMPBELLFORD — Frederick Earl Baker, 40, last address 38 Sentinel Road, West Hill, was convicted of dangerous driving on February 21st. He appeared in court July 2nd and was fined $100 and costs.

Thomas Gray, R.R. 2, Campbellford, was charged with indecent assault of a 16-year-old girl. Sufficient evidence was given in Thursday's court; further evidence will be taken in Cobourg court on Friday, July 10th. He is also charged with escaping custody. Gray is remanded out of custody on bail.

Arden G. Stephens, 29, Pelissier St., Campbellford, pleaded guilty to a charge of public mischief and was fined $100 and costs. Stephens was also fined $10 and costs on a liquor charge.

Leslie John Martin, 25, R.R. Campbellford, was fined $50 and costs on a speeding charge of 70 m.p.h on Bridge Street West.

Archie M. Johnston, 47, 75 Summerset Gardens, Toronto, was charged with impaired driving by alcohol or drug. On the evidence heard he was given the benefit of the doubt and the charge was dismissed. Mr. Johnston is employed by a distilling company.

Paul McGrain, 88 Booth St., S., was remanded out of custody until July 16 charged with being in possession of a stolen vehicle.

Seven juveniles remanded out of custody for theft of a vehicle, wilful damage and possession of a stolen car.

Fire Causes Some Damages

CAMPBELLFORD — A fire alarm early Friday forenoon sent firemen hurrying to the Weldrest Cleaners, Bridge St. West. A fire caused some damage to the boiler room and pumping system.

Mr. Hughes of the firm, said damage was not serious.

'May Day' Means Any Day For Distress on High Seas

VICTORIA CP — "MAYDAY . . ."

The code word, a cry of "help me."

It was born in France but it has crackled across the widest, deepest ocean in the world in a Babel of tongues.

Among those who listen for it are the red-haired Elworthys, a family that has a tug close to its desks in two cities while sending one of the largest tugboat fleets afloat ranging the Pacific.

Donald Elworthy is vice-president in charge of operations for Island Tug and Barge in Vancouver. He's not a seaman.

"You don't have to be a captain to run a tugboat business." Nor are brothers Gordon and Arthur, who operate from the Victoria office; nor their father Harold, who founded ITB and still is chairman of the board. They're businessmen.

"We'll tow anything from anywhere to anywhere for anyone, provided the price is right," says Donald.

The ITB house flag, a white life ring encircling a red funnel, has been torn by tornadoes off Japa and ripped by hurricanes off Mexico. It has frozen stiff in the inlets of northern British Columbia and Alaska and faded under the sun of the South Pacific.

CAPTAINS ON SHORE

ITB has 50 captains — "one on the boat and one on the shore," for each of its deep sea vessels. Behind them stand 250 clerks, divers, bookkeepers, electronics experts, stenographers, deckhands, cooks and waiters and welders and dock wallopers.

And always there is someone listening for the cry of "may day."

In mid-May it came with a Chinese inflection from the Taih Sing, 9,000 tons, bound for Portland, Ore., who lost her propeller 1,000 miles west of here and 500 miles south of the Aleutians.

Last year the call came from the Greek freighter Elli, a 10,000-tonner who also lost her propeller at 46 degrees north, 170 degrees east.

But it was another Greek freighter, the Ionic Coloyanis and a retired corvette, the Sudbury, keeping a rendezvous off Japan in 1955 that broke an ITB tradition.

"Suda" brought her safely to Vancouver. 3,000 miles under tow and 43 days through eight major storms and uncounted gales described in her log as "moderate."

Until then, ITB practice had been to name the tugs Island the firm operates the Island Rocket, Island Planet and dozens of other craft, all with the Island prefix.

COULDN'T CHANGE NAME

There had been pressure to rename the Sudbury the Island Elworthy.

"I wouldn't have it," Harold Elworthy says. "I could see the stories the first time she went into drydock—Elworthy is up on the ways having his bottom scraped."

In the midst of the indecision, Makedonia got her signal.

"After the Makedonia run I couldn't change her name. The city of Sudbury which had adopted her as a corvette, claimed a piece of the glory. Capt. Stanley Hagbourne is from up Kelowna way — they claimed a part in it.

"Makedonia was taken to Vancouver and Vancouver claimed credit. So did her home port, Victoria."

The Makedonia epic is only one of the stories which make ITB's scrapbook locker an anthology of the sea.

In 1949 Capt. Arthur Warren turned the steel towboat Island Commander into an icebreaker by lashing logs to the bow and charged into ice-choked Muchalat Arm on the west coast of Vancouver Island to rescue seven marooned adults and a child.

10,000-MILE TOW

In 1947 the tug Snohomish put her line aboard a barge loaded with six smaller tugs, and towed the strange cargo 10,000 miles to Buenos Aires.

Cambrian Salver, in 1950, sailed from San Francisco with an escort aircraft carrier and a 10,000-ton liberty ship hooked up in tandem to her two lines and delivered them into the breakers' yards in Osaka.

Same year, same tug and the tow was 11,000 miles, taking the Royston battleship Almirante Latorre once HMS Canada from Concepcion Bay, Chile, to the same final destination.

In the mid-1940' ITB had the contract to meet the engineless Pamir, four - masted windjammer, and tow her into Vancouver. Years later Pamir, ex-German cadet ship, was lost off Africa.

Earlier ITB crews had gone to the rescue of the Canadian Pacific Steamships' Maplecove, before dashing 800 miles to her side.

The rescues and the salvage operations are headlines but the big money-maker is the towing of forest products.

Donald:

—"We carry rail cars, barges of explosive. We have brought sections of ships by air and Crown Zellerbach. It takes light oil products to Prince Rupert and a weekly barge schedule to remote northern ports.

From his office, Harold Elworthy can see the tiny Island Planet. As the Quinitas, overall length 35 feet, she was the tug upon which Elworthy built his fleet.

"She'll run until doomsday or until we lose her."

He can also see Sudbury — more than 200 feet long and one of the largest salvage vessels in the world. She is named for the ship that lies off her famil the original "Suda."

Since he went to work at 16 as an office boy with a salvage firm, Harold Elworthy has followed a philosophy of "continue expanding and always surround yourself with good key men, at sea and in the office."

In 1926 ITB absorbed Gardner Towing; in 1952 Young and Gore Towing; in 1956 Victoria Tug.

Only once did Harold' Elworthy falter. In 1941, following "some and always surround" he found himself with only five percent of "my own company."

He quit, ill and discouraged, later arranging financing through "one of our oldest customers" and buying back ITB.

Today the controlling interest in ITB lies with McAllister Towing of New York and Montreal, but the Elworthys operate it under contract.

Only once did the Elworthys desert their desks for the sea.

Donald and Gordon shipped as hands on the six-tug tow to Buenos Aires. At their destination, Gordon met the daughter of the port captain for the powerful Royal Mail Lines.

Today they are married, with three children.

African States Seek Showdown Over Rhodesia

Commonwealth Leaders Gather Amid Rumblings

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Off-stage rumblings from Ghana and Southern Rhodesia created a distracting atmosphere today as Commonwealth prime ministers assembled for their 18th and biggest family conference.

An official statement by President Nkrumah, issued during the weekend, termed the situation in Rhodesia "critical and explosive." At the same time it was disclosed that the president will be coming to the conference possibly sealing the doom of strenuous British efforts to play down the Rhodesian issue.

The Ghanaian foreign ministry issued a document calling for urgent British action to give Negroes in Southern Rhodesia equal voting rights with white settlers.

The document, entitled "Britain's responsibility in Southern Rhodesia," said the present situation there was "critical and explosive" and a threat "not only to the security of Africa but to world peace."

The seven African states attending the week-long meeting, starting Wednesday in Marlborough House, were reported pressing for a Commonwealth statement that South Africa's apartheid policies.

PLAN TO LOBBY

Still another report was that the two Southern Rhodesian black nationalist movements planned what one commentator called a "major lobbying operation" during the conference.

The report said African representatives planned a direct approach to Prime Ministers Pearson of Canada, Menzies of Australia and Holyoake of New Zealand. They have served notice on Britain they will press for an end to white rule in the self-governing British colony.

Uganda Prime Minister Milton Obote said on arrival in London: "I hope the Rhodesian constitutional duty to force Southern Rhodesia's 220,000 whites to give political power to the nearly 4,000,000 Negroes.

The African states, led by Nkrumah, hope the issue will be scheduled a foreign ministers' meeting today to co-ordinate strategy on Rhodesia.

Other new members of the Commonwealth indicated they would support the African states in Southern Rhodesia, thus setting the stage for a debate with some of the older white members of the family. The latter nations may argue that the Commonwealth

Quebec Liberals On Own

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Liberal Federation voted, overwhelmingly Sunday to break away from the federal party and did it with the blessings of leaders of both camps.

Premier Jean Lesage and Justice Minister Favreau, the federal leader in Quebec, spoke in favor of the break as only five of some 1,400 delegates to a special meeting of the federation voted against. A dozen abstained.

Mr. Lesage said the provincial and federal branches of the party are often on different sides of the fence in political disputes. He gave the questions of federal aid to education and the federal-municipal development fund as examples.

Mr. Favreau said the two groups are not mutually exclusive, but complement one another. Both men said no conflict is involved and that the break will give both sides a better chance to express themselves.

The vote ratified a decision of the 142-member council of the federation last April. It was on a resolution rescinding a 1957 decision by the federation to become affiliated with the Liberal Federation of Canada.

PRESIDENT CLASHES

Mr. Lesage said that clashes between the federal and Liberal parties will "inevitably" occur. It was time for a "revision of the conception we have had up to now of the Liberal party and of the role it is called upon to play simultaneously at the federal and provincial levels."

Mr. Favreau and Mr. Lesage said the break is in the spirit of co-operative federalism.

"The political reality of Quebec is asserting itself and is developing parallel to the political reality of Canada," the justice minister said.

"The two do not exclude each other. They complete each other, but to complete themselves in duty and rights, each must be sufficiently autonomous expression and action to permit the party to dialogue with Ottawa and the part in power in Quebec to exercise their re-

Stampede Marshal Gordie Howe Admits He Is Scared of Horses

CALGARY (CP) — Hockey star Gordie Howe, parade marshal of the Calgary Stampede, admits he's plumb scared of horses.

Today's Chuckle

Public opinion is merely what people think other people are thinking.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Predominantly clear skies will continue today over all except the western portions of Ontario. But a low pressure system west of the great lakes will bring some cloudiness to Northern and southwestern Ontario later today and tonight, giving a few widely scattered thunderstorms to those areas. The rest of the district will have some cloudiness Tuesday but the chance of thunderstorms are slight. Temperatures today will be a few degrees warmer than Sunday and Tuesday's will likely be little changed from today's.

"I used to work with them back on the farm," said the native of Floral, Sask., and I've been stomped, kicked and bitten by them. I want no part of them."

With the Detroit Red Wing star riding—in a convertible—the parade will open the Stampede before flying to Frobisher Bay to attend an Eskimo dance on his way to the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London.

Besides Howe, Stampede events ended Sunday night with a mixed bag of entertainment before about 10,000 people in the downtown Mewata Stadium. Earlier, much of the crowd had helped down 5,000 pounds of Alberta beef at a Rotary Club barbecue which suffered a temporary reversal when an inch of rain fell on the city in an abrupt 45 - minute storm.

Big Week On For House

OTTAWA (CP)—MPs embark today on consideration of a seven - item legislative lineup designed to lead them back to the flag debate in another two weeks or so.

Before the Commons is the bill creating a single chief of the armed forces to replace the existing three staff chiefs.

The measure has received two readings already and has been studied by the defence committee. Only completion of committee study in the House itself and third reading, expected to be a formality, remain before it is sent on to the senate.

Next item of business is the 20th anniversary bill whereby $10 monthly family allowance payments would go to parents of 16-year-olds who attend school. So far it has received first reading.

Mr. Pearson has listed five other items as urgent and has set July 22 or 23 as the target for completion.

They are: The setting up of the 12-mile territorial limit and fishing zones, which is in committee stage; a measure providing loans for needy university students; fiscal arrangements with the provinces; a supply bill to cover government expenses through August and September; and two days of study of departmental spending estimates for 1964-65.

After that, Mr. Pearson has said the House will sit until the government resolution has been passed designating the proposed maple leaf flag as Canada's official flag.

When the flag debate was interrupted Friday night there had been about 50 speakers—less than one-fifth of the total number of MPs. Each has a right to speak 40 minutes on the measure.

Toronto Star Editor Drowns Near Minden

MINDEN, Ont. (CP) — W. Ralph (Wilb) Turner, 50, telegraph editor of the Toronto Star and one of Toronto's best-known newspaper men, was drowned Sunday in Kennists Lake, 20 miles northeast of here while on a canoe trip.

Police said Mr. Turner's trolling line caught in the propeller of his motor. His niece, Cheryl Carter, 11, grabbed for his hand, but he fell overboard before the Ajax girl could get the line.

The accident took place about 15 miles from the cottage of Mr. Turner's mother - in - law, where he was spending the weekend with his wife, Mary, and son, Bruce, 15.

Mr. Turner was born in Toronto April 8, 1914, son of Mrs. Ethel and the late W. Turner.

He was educated in Toronto and joined the Star in September, 1930, as a copy boy after graduating from Oakwood Collegiate.

He worked as a suburban reporter, as story editor, of the Star Weekly and later as a copy reader and night editor before becoming telegraph editor in October, 1962.

In 1940 he joined the RCAF and worked as a public relations officer in the Western Air Command at Winnipeg and Calgary. He returned to the Star in 1945.

CHOOSE OFFICERS

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — D. F. Rice of Montreal, president of Columbia International in Canada for the last two years, was unanimously re-elected to his third term Saturday at the CIC's 53rd annual convention. Also re-elected for a third consecutive term was L. D. Crimp of Leamington, Ont., as vice-president.

DRIVER of this automobile claimed gas pedal jammed, sending his car on rampage through rush-hour traffic Saturday on Front St. (Story on Page 5.)

Violence Flares as Negroes Seek Rights Under New Law

WASHINGTON (CP - AP) — The underlying bitterness of some segregationists has broken out into open violence once again despite the newly-passed federal civil rights law.

At Jackson, the Mississippi state capital, leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People Sunday registered without incident at two downtown hotels and a motel, then received service in the coffee shop of one.

Also in Jackson, four Negro youths attended a previously all-white movie theatre while more than a dozen Negroes in several cars were served at a drive-in cafe for whites. At the drive-in, all four lines on one car were slashed while its Negro passengers were inside.

Four persons were wounded by gunfire as white persons and Negroes exchanged shots when the Negroes tried to integrate a swimming beach near Texarkana, Tex., Sunday.

Thirty - three Negroes were jailed on charges ranging from inciting a riot to assault with intent to murder.

The violence erupted when Negroes swam in Lake Texarkana near here for the first time in large numbers since the passage of the civil rights bill.

At another area of the lake, whites left the beach when a group of Negroes began swimming.

Officers said 80 to 150 Negroes appeared at the beach where

Tshombe Is Asked to Form New Government in Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—President Joseph Kasavubu today asked Moise Tshombe, former president of Katanga, to try to form a transitional Congolese government.

Tshombe said Sunday that if requested to form a government he could deliver a cabinet list within 24 hours.

"My government will be a hard - working one," Tshombe said today.

Tshombe returned to The Congo from self-exile in Europe 10 days ago and has been holding talks with Kasavubu and other Congolese leaders against a background of political reconciliation moves here.

The government of Premier Cyrille Adoula handed in its resignation last week when its regular tenure ran out. Kasavubu asked Adoula to stay in office until a transitional government is formed.

The transitional government, to run the country pending new elections, is provided for in a referendum now under way on a new Congolese constitution.

Tshombe told a press conference Sunday a "national reconciliation" government must be formed.

He also scored some Congolese political leaders for repudiating earlier statements of support for him, but he said he had their support in writing.

Castro Ready to Enter Pact With U. S. Not to Aid Rebels

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has said Cuba would commit herself to cease material support of Latin American revolutionaries if the United States and its allies would agree to withhold material support of subversive activity against Cuba, the New York Times says.

A Havana story by Richard Eder quotes Castro as making the statement Saturday night.

Castro made "the most emphatic bid he has made in recent years for a lasting relation with the United States," the story says.

Castro, the story continues, said he did not exclude the use of some international means to supervise such a joint commit-

To Protest Visit Of Governor

TORONTO (CP)—The battle between two millionaires for the coveted third vice-presidency of Lions International and a huge three hour parade are expected to be two of the highlights of the Lions three-day convention opening Wednesday.

But an event that could steal most of the interest during the convention is the controversial visit of segregationist Governor George Wallace of Alabama as the guest of honor. At least two Toronto groups plan demonstrations Thursday when the governor is scheduled to address the Lions.

The two millionaires, A. A. Schock, a cottage cheese tycoon from Sioux Falls, S.D., and Jorge Bird, a 54-year-old Puerto Rican, have hit the home-stretch of lengthy campaigns for the stone to the presidency, and will be using every possible device to attract the votes of more than 40,000 delegates expected to attend the convention.

Voting for the executive positions will take place at the final session Saturday.

The parade, which opens the convention Wednesday morning, is expected to have about 30 bands and take three hours to pass.

GROUPS PROTEST

A committee of 18 Toronto organizations and groups of private citizens has been formed to protest the presence of Governor Wallace. Mrs. Jean Dalglish, chairman of the committee, urged in a statement Saturday that Canadians and especially Torontonians express their abhorrence of all that Governor Wallace has come to represent and their determination not to permit his inhuman policies to creep in unnoticed."

The Toronto and District Labor Council has urged its members to picket during the Democratic governor's scheduled appearance Thursday.

The invitation of Governor Wallace is following a Lions

Police Use Gas, Dogs To Control 4 Unruly Mobs

Traffic Toll Is Record For Holiday Weekend

NEW YORK (CP-AP)—Riots by hundreds of youths and a record death toll on the highways marred what otherwise was a generally safe and sane Fourth of July holiday weekend in the United States.

Police used tear gas, dogs and cattle prods to break up riots at five places across the country. About 200 persons were arrested. Several officers and rioters were injured.

The Associated Press count of deaths on the highway from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight Sunday was 477. Belated reports were expected to increase the total. There were 31 deaths in boating accidents and 117 by drowning for a total of 625.

The heavy traffic death toll compared to the previous record of 442, set during the three-day July 4 Independence Day holiday in 1963.

The National Safety Council had estimated the traffic deaths would total between 450 and 550.

The holiday riots occurred at Indian Lake, near Bellefontaine, Ohio; Newport, R.I.; Garnett, Kan.; West Yellowstone, Mont., and Pleasanton, Calif.

MANY DEMONSTRATE

At Indian Lake, an estimated 5,000 to 10,000 beer-drinking college youths staged two armed demonstrations both Friday and Saturday nights.

"These kids were like a keg of dynamite waiting for something to set them off," a sheriff said.

More than 50 young men were arrested on the two nights. Tear gas was used in several flare-ups.

Authorities said firecrackers thrown into the crowds, injuring several youths, probably triggered the Saturday night riot.

Near Newport, R.I., thousands of youths attending a jazz festival started to whoop it up at a beach party. Beach house doors, beach umbrellas and a lifeguard stand and other items tossed onto a huge bonfire, police said.

About 100 youths were taken to jail when they hurled rocks and other missiles at officers.

At Garnett, Kan., about 2,000 beer-drinking youths started a riot on an outdoor dance floor Saturday night. Police officers were burned by exploding cherry bombs. Thousands had gathered on the small town (pop. 3,000) for the annual Lions carnival.

USE CATTLE PRODS

Police dogs bit several persons while helping to herd the unruly crowds. Several other youths attempted to crash

53 Killed In Weekend Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 53 persons died accidentally across Canada during the weekend—39 of them in traffic accidents, nine in drownings, and five in other accidents.

In a survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday local times, Ontario led the provinces with 22 deaths. Fifteen were on the roads, five in drownings and three were two suffocations.

Quebec had 16 fatalities, with 12 persons dying in traffic accidents, one in a drowning accident and one struck by lightning.

Manitoba had two deaths in traffic and two drownings. Three persons died on British Columbia highways and two on New Brunswick roads. In Alberta there was one drowning and one highway death.

Saskatchewan's sole accidental death was in the crash of a single - engine airplane near Prince Albert, and in Nova Scotia one person died in a fall from a bridge.

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were without fatalities.

The survey does not include deaths by suicide, slayings or industrial deaths.

The Ontario dead:

DROWNED

Diana Joan Nelson, 25, Toronto, when the car in which she was riding was struck by a train.

Leslie Hall, 22, Maynard, near Brockville, when his car left the road and overturned 18 miles east of Brockville.

Koyo Fujimara, 28, Toronto, James F. Gibson, 44, and William Booth, 47, both of Sutton, in a two-car collision near Markham, 6 miles northeast of Toronto.

Evelyn Ducharme 16, and Angelo Anzi, 38, both of Sudbury, in a two-car collision.

Ronald Lalonde, 45, Stouffville, suffocated in a fire in a car at Sturgeon Falls.

Mario Dedicco, 5, Toronto, in a Toronto hospital, after she was pulled from a swimming pool at Twin Falls, 30 miles west of Toronto.

Brenda Margaret Sawchuk, 19 months, suffocated in a bonfire in a backyard artificial fish

Scranton Busy Using Soft Sell In Bid to Undermine Goldwater

CHICAGO (AP) — Governor William W. Scranton knows he is in a David-and-Goliath position in his final soft - sell campaign Barry Goldwater for the Republican presidential nomination, but it doesn't seem to bother him.

He is a cool candidate.

"I'm the president of the United States," he tells his audiences, serenely. "I'm accustomed to that. I know how to fight as an underdog."

Scranton's problem, however, is that he has yet to find the sling and the rock to slay the Goliath. By his own calculations, he must win 70 delegates away from Goldwater—in three waning hours before the convention—in order to stop the Arizona senator from winning on the first ballot in San Francisco.

So Scranton is racing the clock. This is a cliff-hanger.

His campaign is low key, the soft sell.

He meets privately with state delegations and talks mainly about fiscal responsibility in government, a strong foreign policy, and civil rights, which he equates with human rights.

As for Goldwater, the governor's principal contention is that the senator, if nominated, "can't win."

He also tells a story about the critical moment when President Eisenhower decided to send the marines into Lebanon. When Eisenhower reached this decision, Scranton says, the late John Foster Dulles, then secretary of state, said, "Mr. President, do you realize what this may mean?"

Scranton, speaking in a low, quiet voice, says: "Every president since the end of World War II has been faced with such decisions. Don't send a man to the White House who is impulsive. Send a man there who thinks before he acts."

It seems unlikely that the point is lost on many listeners.

Ken Peacock, W. Lavergne Are District Doubles Champs

The second stage playoff for men's doubles for the district championship was played at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Sunday and a rink of Wally Lavergne with Ken Peacock emerged with the title after 45 ends o' bowling. The weather was delightful for bowling - excellent and the greens were lightning fast. Ralph Tock, district chairman was in charge of the draw and the bowlers were served light refreshments between games by members of the women's section of the club. There were 10 rinks on hand, six from Belleville, two from Trenton and one from Kingston and Brighton.

Due to ten rinks being entered it was necessary to hold a preliminary round with four rinks and William Fuller of Trenton defeated Ralph Tock of Belleville, while Orie Smith of Belleville defeated a team-mate of the same Club, Percy Graham in the other match.

After the first round, Percy" Hyde of Belleville, William Fuller of Trenton, Ken Peacock and Orie Smith, all of the Belleville club were left. In the second round Peacock defeated Hyde and Smith took the measure of Fuller. The final game was a dandy. Peacock went out to a six - point lead in the early frame but with the strategy shot Smith a deuce four was counted followed by another two to even the game. But from this point, the Peacock rink took command and steadily increased their margin. There was no exchange of shots made during the day and every game was witnessed by a large gallery. The winners will play in the zone playoffs to be staged in this city on July 25th. These playoffs will include rinks, skips, doubles and singles and one rink of each will represent the four districts. This draw will be on a point basis.

Municipal Board Approves Buying Old 'Y' Bldg.

Purchase of the former YMCA building in downtown Belleville for use as a police station has been approved by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The approval was received last week by City Manager J. R. Reynolds and recommendations for the purchase of the property and for preparations of detailed plans and specifications for renovation will be before council at a special meeting this afternoon.

A special hearing on the city's application to purchase the old "Y" building was held by the Municipal Board at city hall several weeks ago, with the board reserving decision.

The request was for permission to buy the "Y" building at a cost of $53,000 and to spend up to $100,000 for renovations to fit the building as a police station.

Considerable objection against the city's request to buy the old "Y" building had been voiced by ratepayers at the conditioning the claim being that costly renovation of such an old building would not be good business.

On the other hand an architect's report indicated the building was sound and would be suitably renovated.

County Museum Is Visited by Many Children

During the last few days of June, almost one thousand school children from Belleville and district schools visited the Hastings County Museum.

There they were taken on a guided tour of the museum displays by the staff, headed by Mrs. J. Sargent. According to Mrs. Sargent, it was one of the busiest periods in the history of the museum. She reports that the staff worked to enlist their guided tours and many favorable comments were also received from the accompanying teachers.

A new touch added during the week was the appearance of the museum guides in old-time costume. This proved very popular and probably will be carried out for further school tours.

In addition to the present display outlining the history of Belleville, the young visitors were also shown many types of early household equipment, some of which are being demonstrated by the museum staff.

At the conclusion of the week, the total attendance at the museum had passed the 2,000 mark for the year, a good increase over the same period last year. This figure is also very good in terms of similar museums across the province.

With the tourist season now in full swing, museum officials are hoping for continuing good attendance. For the summer months, the museum is open every day from 2 to 5.

'Yeoman of Guard' Opens Stratford Music Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

In the reconstructed and redecorated Avon Theatre, Gilbert and Sullivan's bitter-sweet operetta "Yeoman of the Guard" opened this year's Music Festival at Stratford last Friday evening. In many ways this is the most successful of the G. and S. productions here, and the most enjoyable. Much more of the bad D'Oyly Carte traditions, while keeping the best things that have made for the genius of the author and composer to shine through. For this reason the more subtle and entertaining presentation was more than adequately received. Dr. Elizabeth Oliver of Toronto General Hospital is a daughter.

CHARLES BUCKLEY

The funeral of Charles Buckley was held from the family Residence of George F. O'Brien to St. Charles Church at Read on Saturday morning. Rev. W. Hamilton celebrated the Mass, and present in the sanctuary were Rev. Fr. Allen, Rev. D. Byrne and Rev. J. O'Neill. The choir of St. Charles formed, a guard of honor at the entrance to the church.

Interment was in St. Charles Cemetery with Rev. W. Hamilton reciting the graveside prayers.

The bearers, all grandsons, were: Michael, Timothy, Dennis, Harold, Jack and Arthur Buckley.

MRS. DAISY MILDRED TWEEDY
(Camilton)

Mrs. Daisy Mildred Tweedy of Camilton died this morning in the Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 70th year.

Born in Thurlow Township, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pope. Mrs. Tweedy had lived most of her life on the third concession of Thurlow.

She was a member of the Camilton United Church and a very active member in the Canadian Legion.

Surviving are four sons Lyle, Arthur and Jack of Belleville; Ray of Camilton and Belleville, daughters, Mrs. Gordon (Mildred) Hamilton of Camilton; Mrs. Raymond (Betty) Thompson of Kingston, Mrs. James (Helen) Wallace of Toronto and Mrs. Robert (Helen) Mullen of Colborne.

Her husband, Harry Walker Tweedy, died some years ago.

Also surviving are three sisters, Clara Johnston of Brooklyn, Mrs. Thomas (Jessie) Stewart of Camilton and Mrs. Perry (Jean) Hamilton, R.R. 2 Trenton and 24 grandchildren.

Funeral on Wednesday afternoon from the chapel of Mrs. John R. Bush Funeral Home, 80 Highland Avenue.

Nine of Fires Said Caused By Campers

Be careful of those matches and campfires. They could be the cause of a serious bush or grass fire.

The Trenton Forest District reports today that there are no less than 19 fires burning in the forest area, nine of which were definitely caused by careless hikers or campers.

The other 10 fires were believed to have been caused by lightning.

The biggest fire in the district is in Bangor township where approximately eight acres have been burned over, including a stand of pine. Other fires are burning in Tudor, Monteagle and Cashel townships, two in Hinchinbrooke and three in Bedford township north of Kingston.

Six of the fires started over the past weekend.

Rain is needed, badly to help douse the fires now burning and to prevent other outbreaks, according to district forest officials.

Toronto Man Held For Car Theft

A Toronto man, sleeping peacefully in a car Saturday was arrested by city police during inquiries at a service station.

Officers say the car was stolen.

Robert Lorne MacDonnell was turned over to Toronto police to face charges of false pretenses.

He was arrested while officers were on investigation and spotted him asleep in the automobile. They awakened him, asked some questions, then checked the number on the car.

Within minutes they discovered it had been stolen earlier in Toronto.

Cadets Prepare For Visit To West Indies

PICTON — Forty-two Royal Canadian Army Cadets assembled at Camp Picton before the weekend to prepare for an exchange visit to the West Indies this summer. The exchange training scheme, instituted between Canada and Jamaica in 1963, has this year been extended to include Barbados.

The cadets, chosen from Cadet Corps across Canada from Newfoundland to British Columbia, will undergo specialized training and physical conditioning at Camp Picton before leaving July 19 for the West Indies. The cadets will travel in RCAF Yukon aircraft.

Of the forty-two cadets, twenty-one have been selected for the five-week visit to Jamaica, and sixteen will spend a like period in Barbados.

Capt. H. M. A. R. Soucie of Mytane and Quebec, Que., is in charge of the contingent visiting Barbados, while Capt. J. W. Martin of London, Ont., and Sgt. John J. Neil, is in command of the contingent visiting Jamaica.

In order to qualify for the exchange visits, the Canadian cadets must have obtained at least 675 per cent in the Master Cadets' Training examination, and 70 per cent or over in his academic examinations. Most important though, the cadet must have been recommended by his school principal as a well-rounded youth, both physically and mentally.

The cadets will return to Camp Picton on August 25th for dispersal to their home units across Canada.

GEORGETOWN (AP)—Three East Indian women and an East Indian man were beaten to death Sunday in a racial clash at Annandale, a village 10 miles east of Georgetown, British Guiana. Annandale adjoins Buxton, where two Negro men and a boy were found shot to death Friday. This brings the death toll in racial clashes which started in this British colony five months ago to 14.

Fifty Cruisers Take Part in Four-Day Meet

TRENTON — Fifty Canadian and American cruisers arrived at Bahee's Island, off RCAF Station, Trenton, in the Bay of Quinte, for a four - day power squadron rendezvous. Winners, yesterday, of the Quinte District Power Squadron events were: the Richardson trophy, Don Jones of Belleville in "L'Ou Sussan," the Little Corby trophy, Bob Lashley of the RCAF Trenton Power Squadron, in "Shibob"; Mrs. Albert MacKenzie of the Pinecrest Power Squadron in the "Jane Eyre II," winner of the Squadrocette cup and the crew of the RCAF Trenton sailing craft, piloted by Joe Bourque, won out against the crew of the Presqu'ile boat in a novelty race. All crew members were members of the power squadron.

Trent Canal Traffic Sets New Record

TRENTON — Traffic on the Trent Canal set a record as vacationing Americans cruised through the waterway this weekend.

In all, 44 craft were admitted to the waterway here — most of them cruisers owned by U.S. tourists.

Meantime, tourist traffic also is on the increase, at the Chamber of Commerce booth.

Attendant Peter Bonter answered some 30 inquiries yesterday.

$500 DAMAGE

Police estimated damage at $500 in a two-car crash at West and North Murray streets Sunday afternoon.

The drivers, Doug Bennett, 21, of 32 Leonard Street and Aubrey Green, 47, of 22 Ferry Street, were uninjured.

SUFFERS WEAK SPELL

An elderly man suffered head injuries in a fall at Trenton dock Saturday and later insisted on leaving Trenton Memorial Hospital after treatment.

However, Leo Augry, in his 50's suffered a weak spell after walking on the docks. He was returned to hospital and released after overnight observation.

WILL ATTEND

Trenton Lions Club will be well represented at the organization's international convention in Toronto this week.

Official delegates are past-president Thomas Bedford and Nostrand Sprague. Lions Joseph Garmola and Graham Brundage also are expected to attend.

Three hundred Air Cadets arrived in Trenton Sunday aboard a special CNR train from Western Ontario, to attend the Air Cadet camp at RCAF Station Trenton. In all, more than 500 boys arrived at Tent City for a two weeks' air training course.

Lt. Gerald Piro, commanding officer of RCSCC Trent, and Mayor James MacDonald, area Navy League chairman, were on hand Sunday to see eight Trenton Sea Cadets leave for Halifax. They will take a two weeks' course on HMCS "Cornwallis." They are Lee Collar, Mike Desjardins, Glenn Haley, Ray Croxford, Gary Fairman, Larry Peterson, James MacDonald and Michael Boyle. A special CN train had collected 160 Sea Cadets by the time it reached Trenton. There were more to come as it sped eastward towards the coast.

Rotary Club Gets $2,000 From Committee

TRENTON—At the regular meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club last week, R. J. "Dick" Whitley, chairman of the Bingo committee, turned over a cheque for $2,000 to the retiring president, Dr. Robert Patrick, to be added to the club's crippled children's fund. During the past 11 years, the committee has given more than $29,000 to the club.

The Rotarians will discuss various suggestions for a club Centennial Project at tonight's meeting. Some of the suggestions are: the development of the former sanitary landfill area, south of the community gardens, as a bayshore park; the purchase of a property and building of a Rotary Youth Centre; provision of a swimming area on the Legion Hall dock site and an outdoor bandshell in the Bayshore Park; creation of a YMCA for Trenton; development of Mount Pelion as a historical park and the possible erection of a bandshell here.

Permits Total $658,358 for Half-Year

TRENTON — Trenton has passed the half million mark in building values this year, with 95 permits having been issued by building inspector William Anderson, since the first of the year to the total value of $658,358. In the first six months of 1963, the same number of permits were issued and values estimated at $572,574.

During June, this year, 26 permits were issued; values, $106,628.

A breakdown: new dwellings, six, $74,400; home repairs, six permits, $6,535; new garages, four, $2,700; commercial repairs, two, $18,393; commercial addition, $3,900; one sign, $800; a demolition and three side-walk installation, no values set.

Optional Knowledge

Hon. William Davis, Ontario's Minister of Education, has announced that the content of Grade 13 courses will be made lighter and that a student's term marks will be considered in determining his or her final standing.

These changes are recommended in a report by a Grade 13 study committee comprising prominent educationists. They are in line with widespread suggestions by educationists and parents. If they are to be criticised, this task must be reserved for those with expert knowledge.

There is, however, one change which the layman is qualified to discuss, because its effects can be assayed by the exercise of that general experience which we call common-sense.

Fewer questions will be asked on examination papers and students will have more options, in other words they will be able to choose for themselves a larger portion of the material on which their knowledge of a subject will be judged.

The reduction in the number of questions could be dangerous, if carried beyond a reasonable limit, since it is self-evident—that is evident to anyone with common sense—that the fewer the number of questions the greater the role which chance may play in determining the marks which the student obtains. For instance, if there were only one question on a paper, this might deal with the only part of a long course with which a good student was unfamiliar—and the only part with which a poor student knew.

We think we can take it for granted, though, that the experts will not permit the number of questions to be reduced to this degree.

Many of the old generation can remember when options on examination papers were the exception rather than the rule. This was hardly fair. Chance could enter the picture, with few of the parts of the course with which a student was most familiar being included in the list of questions. Some options are advisable, to guard against a good student being the victim of bad luck in the selection of questions, but it is obvious there is a point where too many options could defeat the purpose of the examination. If the choice of questions to be answered is wide enough, it would be a dull student, indeed, who could not discover some questions which he could answer. On these options he might obtain a perfect mark—but still be ignorant of much of the course.

One would not expect the policy of providing options to be carried to this extreme, but common sense tells us that when the pendulum swings it often swings too far. From a day when students were given too few options, and when there was a danger that good students would be betrayed by chance into poor marks, we may be in danger of creating a situation where poor students, through judicious choice from a long lists of options, may be able to obtain good marks.

What Cause Does He Serve?

Moise Tshombe says he has won the backing of the remnants of the Congolese factions which once backed Patrice Lumumba, Congo's first president.

President Tshombe was the man who, it was alleged at the time, arranged for Lumumba to be "escape" his jailers in Katanga so that he could be conveniently and brutally murdered. Is this is quite an adventure in the art of "sincere reconciliation," the banner under which Tshombe currently shelters.

One wonders, though, which of the irreconcilable creeds will be embraced by the new coalition. Tshombe from the first espoused the doctrine that mineral-rich Katanga was entitled to first call on taxes from this wealth, while Lumumba contended that the Congo was one nation, in which the good of the whole must come before the special interests of any of the parts.

At the time the Manchester Guardian, in a memorable analysis, described Tshombe as a man worthy of a better cause, and Lumumba's cause as worthy of a better man.

Nothing that has occurred in the intervening years has altered the validity of Lumumba's position, but there are those who will hold that much which has happened has cast doubt on the Guardian's estimate of Tshombe's character.

I have been among my books all day, and they have confused and overpowered me with doubts and questions which start in books but are rarely answered there.—Hamilton Wright Mabie.

Conversation With a Red

By DOUGLAS RUSH in the Christian Science Monitor

Dacca, East Pakistan, was preparing a glittering reception for Chou En-lai, Peking's Prime Minister. Special arches spanned the main streets with floral decorations and colored light bulbs. Flags were strung around traffic intersections. Mr. Chou had been to Karachi and other cities in Pakistan in a triumphal tour of good will. His full-length picture had been on the front pages of the papers for a week in various poses, proclaiming his friendly feelings for Pakistan.

When I boarded the Pakistan Airliner that would take me from Dacca to Karachi, it was not surprising to be seated next to a Chinese. I assumed he was some kind of a Chinese Communist official who had been in Dacca arranging for Mr. Chou's arrival. After our plane was airborne, I turned and addressed him in Chinese, asking if he was from Peking. Since I had never had the opportunity of talking with a Chinese Communist, I opened the conversation with real interest.

"You speak Chinese?" he said, with some surprise. "From which country do you come?" The conversation was launched. I explained that I was an American citizen, but had been born in Shang-hai and later taught at Yenching University, Peking. Since this was his hometown, we talked about the city for a few minutes. It developed that the gentleman was Li Chen-teng, Cultural Affairs Officer of the Chinese Embassy in Karachi. He had been there with arrangements for Mr. Chou's arrival. Mr. Li was in his early thirties. He was a medium stature, alert and responsive, and was obviously proud of the Peking accent. His English was almost without accent.

He soon hinted at small talk and stated bluntly: "China's number one problem is to recover control of Taiwan (Formosa). Don't you Americans know that Chiang Kai-shek and his government are a clique of bandits? He ruined the Chinese economy before he fled to Taiwan. How did you Americans like it if China captured Hawaii?"

"This," I protested, 'is not quite a parallel. America did not take control of Taiwan but was invited by the Nationalist government to provide assistance and protection. Furthermore," I added, "you know that Taiwan is the number one problem for Peking. There are many other problems which are more urgent. We read that you have an annual net increase in population of 15 million people. We also read that the commune system did not succeed in solving the food production problem. So we would say you have some real problems of your own to solve. Also there are other problems. Why are you not having better relations with Moscow, your ally? Moscow has given China great help but now you seem to be having trouble in your relations."

Mr. Li responded at once. "Russia is not helping us as she like China. The relations between two socialist states must be on a basis of equality. Unfortunately Russia is at the present time showing improper behavior because she is trying to treat China as if we were not equal. As soon as Russia corrects this attitude, our relations as an equal power, relations will become normal again."

Switching to Chinese-American relations, I asked, "Is it not true that neither Moe Tse-tung nor Chou En-lai nor any of your top leaders will ever visit in America? It is very difficult if not impossible to have a correct understanding of American life and diplomacy without direct experience with Americans. This, we believe, is a very dangerous situation because Peking might come to conclusions and make decisions that are unrealistic with regard to America."

Mr. Li listened carefully. He then turned around, smiling at me in a friendly but superior manner and said, "Chairman Mao understands America even better than you do. It is true he has never been in America but he understands the principles of your society and nation. You who live there know the details but you do not grasp the principles as our Chairman Mao does."

This dogma was a bit hard to swallow and I spontaneously asserted, "General principles without up-to-date knowledge can be very dangerous. American life is changing rapidly and these changes are unknown in China since we have no direct communication and interchange."

Mr. Li nodded. "Yes, since you have not been in China since 1946, you do not know the many great changes that have taken place. We are still an agricultural society, slowly developing a technology. We now have our own trucks, jeeps and tractors. We have built many dams to control the floods and to produce power. China has made great progress. You would not know China if you returned now. Have you read the last book by Edgar Snow? This shows some of the advances in China." Mr. Li's national pride was obvious.

A new subject was then touched on. "Why does America use helicopters and all these modern weapons to destroy the people of Vietnam? Don't you know that it is impossible to win the support of the people by killing them?"

"Mr. Li," I responded, "America is not in conflict with the people of Vietnam and is certainly not trying to kill them. It is the people of the Viet Cong who have infiltrated in bands that are causing all the trouble. You understand that they are getting aid from outside and in their efforts to overthrow the government. In these people that we are fighting. I am sure you understand very well why we use the weapons the same. He sensed this discussion was not moving in the direction he desired. He changed the topic of the American President.

"Your President Kennedy made one speech at the American University in Washington that was very conciliatory to China. This entire speech was printed in newspapers in China. The difficulty is that President Kennedy is dead and we do not know what President Johnson will do. Surely he must all follow the opinion of the people and this will not improve relations with China."

I tried to assure Mr. Li that President Johnson would very likely adhere closely to the major policies of President Kennedy and added, "I believe our President to be both a leader and a follower of the people."

We then discussed the effort of the Chinese Communists to simplify the writing of Chinese number of strokes. Mr. Li produced a recently published book from his brief case entitled, "The Revolution of 1911." He pointed out examples of simplified character writing in this book. I remarked, "There are quite a few Chinese universities now teaching Chinese and the enrollment of American students is increasing. However, I do not yet know of any American universities which teach the new simplified form of writing." "Of course not," was Mr. Li's response, and with a sardonic note, "your education is only preparing to communicate with Chiang Kai-shek and his corrupt regime on Taiwan."

• • •

We were approaching Karachi and I told Mr. Li that I had ever came to Beirut it would be a pleasure to show him around the campus of the American University there. Then I added as an afterthought, "I also have a Chinese ambassador in Beirut whom I recently had the pleasure of meeting." Said Mr. Li "you have no Chinese ambassador in Beirut. We have a Chinese ambassador in Syria in Damascus; but the man you mention in Beirut is a personal representative of Chiang Kai-shek."

• • •

When I returned to Beirut, I mentioned the points in this conversation to one of our Chinese attending friends, Tsi-wan. "A typical case of brain-washed Chinese," was his concise conclusion.

Takes Sting Out of Bees

St. Thomas Times-Journal

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise." So the Book of Proverbs has been admonishing for three millenniums.

Now, thanks to the work of a West German apiarist, it may be to the bee that men should go to learn, not only to be industry, but the ways of peace. One Jan Lassen, beekeeper in the village of Wohlenb in Schleswig-Holstein, has succeeded in breeding a variety of bee that is completely non-aggressive.

Lassen spent 50 of his 80 years in developing this coat by breeding from bees selected for their gentle nature. His pacific bees can still sting, but never do, and Lassen can handle them without gloves or mask.

Alas, as is so often the case in human affairs, interlopers from outside bring trouble to this riparian Eden. Despite precautions, an occasional wandering beliegerent male successfully woos one of the gentle queens producing a generation of little stingers who have to be painfully weeded out.

Belleville Air Cadet Squadron will lose three of its present members to the Royal Canadian Air Force next Monday, it was revealed today by the squadron adjutant. The boys who will leave the corps at the beginning of the week are Donald A. Devey, Cecil Girlls and William A. Mitchell. The boys will not leave for more serious training in the R.C.A.F., however, without a memento of the happy times spent with the local air cadet corps. At the regular Thursday evening drill period, the commanding officer of the squadron, on behalf of the local corps, presented the three boys with appropriate R.C.A.F identification bracelets suitably engraved.

Members of the Eastern Ontario System of the Ontario Hydro Commission from all parts of the district met in Belleville Thursday evening at the home site of the associates who retire from the active life of the Hydro System to go on pension in the immediate future. Those honored were Harry Cox, operator at Port Hope, Gordon Hicks, operator at Point Anne, Richard Arnett, operator at Belleville and W. E. Brown, storekeeper at Belleville and James McNamara, line supervisor at Belleville. Suitable presentations were made to all of the Hydro employees with the customary words of good wisher for a happy retired life being expressed by W. H. Gerrie, area district superintendent, and other Eastern Ontario Hydro executive members.

He Deplores White Shirts

Regina Leader Post

In these days of stereotyped living, almost any departure from the norm is worth listening to.

Recently, Howard Ketchum, an industrial color consultant in United States, made a move to tempt men to break out from their mold of conformity. He started a private war against the dress white shirt, contending that it has become a virtual business uniform and allows no room for individual tastes. Furthermore, he thinks, it has such a blind mass conformity tends to make all think along routine lines instead of giving original and necessary talents and abilities.

A colored shirt, according to Mr. Ketchum, is not only fun to wear, but, if chosen with a modicum of taste, can still be attractive. Furthermore, it has no permits expression of person al mood personality quirks.

As a clincher to his argument, the consultant said that he has found a colored shirt looks as if he's ready to roll up his sleeves and go to work. This is a point to which we subscribe lightly. The ability to look productive, even while sitting down is something to be dismissed easily.

There may be just one hitch. Judging from the comments of city clerks, and other flagrant disregard of fashion dic tates evidenced by many men, if they are encouraged to follow the dictates of their own fancy and abandon their white shirt uniformity, there may not be nearly as much productivity from the female workers in the office. They will be too fascinated and mesmerized by the changing train formation of the sedate office scene.

No Set Time for Baby To Start Feeding Himself

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have two grandda ughters, one a year old and the other 28 months. When the older girl was a year old the young mother decided it was time for her to feed herself. She put the baby's food in front of her and let her eat as best she could, which ended up in a horrible mess, and I don't think the child got enough to eat.

Am I wrong in believing children should be fed until they want to do it themselves, which usually is gradual, and given easier foods first? Is there a certain age when their bodies and minds co-ordinate? Am I too old-fashioned, and worrying for nothing.

These parents are now threatening to do the same to the smaller child. I am afraid the children will end up with impaired health because the young people of today are too lazy to care for their poor innocent children. — Mrs. M. B. E.

Slow down, just a little minute, Grandma. Giving Grandma Let's see if there's anything to worry about.

There isn't any set rules as to when babies are ready to feed themselves. About 12 or 14 months is around the time to start sooner, some later. Mostly? Sure, they're messy. So mothers clean 'em up. Remember?

You don't mention that the child is either sickly or overweight. That would indicate that this baby, like say other, will eat if she's hungry. Now is it be that the "not eating" is something that happens when somebody starts a second baby as — well — Grandma? Could be. Kids are show-offs.

My personal preference is for easing a baby into self-feeding, but I don't think there's much of a health aspect involved.

Unless there is some gross neglect, I don't think we're justified in accusing young people of being "too lazy." In fact, sometimes all we do is to put our age by complaining about the younger generation.

As a matter of fact, there were times when I wasn't sure my own children had enough sense to come in out of the rain, but now that they are adults, I'm beginning to see traces of their early training sprying off. albeit they have to adapt what they learned to conditions which are now quite different from those that existed when they were children — and much more different from what I had when I was boy.

Relax and enjoy your grandchildren. And if they make a "horrible mess" as they learn to feed, you don't have to do the cleaning up!

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes osteomyelitis? Could it be some childhood disease like scarlet fever? What is a cure for it, and is there a cure or not? — A. L. C.

Osteomyelitis is an infection that has invaded the bone, and it can develop from a variety of causes, but usually from germs in the body. Yes, scarlet fever is one. I have known it to follow severe tonsillitis and extraction of infected teeth. Tuberculosis can be a cause.

The ailment is usually chronic, and in the form of a draining sore which is in communication with the infected bone. X-ray will show the defect in the bone.

A combination of treatments generally required for a lasting cure: Surgery, to clean up the diseased bone and to remove infected soft tissues; and antibiotics chosen to suit the particular infection present — because various germs can be involved.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 61 and was told I could not have a Pap test because of lack of natural secretions. Is this true? If so are there other tests? — D. M.

Women can have the Pap test at any age. It is a matter of gently scraping the tissue of the cervix and vaginal wall. (There is no discomfort). This does not depend on secretions. If any abnormal cells are disclosed, additional tests are in order of biopsy or D and C (dilation and curettage) are made.

Strictly Personal

Personality of Man Is Like a Banana

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

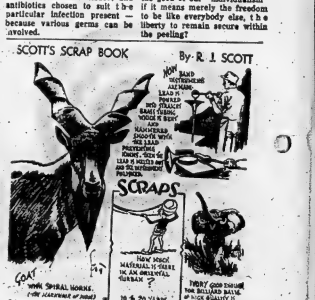
The personality of man is not an apple that has to be polished, but a banana that has to be peeled. And the reason we remain so far from one another, the reason we neither communicate with one another in any real way, is that most of us spend our lives in polishing rather than peeling.

Man's lifelong task is simply one, but it is not simple: to remove the artificial barriers between his outer self and his inner self, to get rid of the "persona" that divides his authentic self from the world.

This persona is like the peeling on a banana: it is a covering built up to protect from bruises and injury. It is not the real person, but sometimes it is the fear of injury remains too great for someone's lifelong substitute for the person.

The "authentic personality" I spoke about to my freshmen researchers last year knows that he is like a banana, and knows that only as he peels himself down to his individuated self can he reach out and make contact with others. That is why what Father Goldbrunner calls "the sheer maturity of his humanity." Only when he himself is detached from his defensive armorings can he then awaken a true response in his students.

Most of us, however, think in terms of the apple, not the banana. We spend our lives shining the surface, in making it very and pleasing, in perfecting the "image." But the image is not the apple, which may be wormy and rotten to the taste.



Almost everything in modern life is devoted to the polishing process, and little to the peeling process. It is the surface personality that counts—on the appearance, the clothes, the manners, the geniality. In short, the salesman-attitude we are selling the package, not the product.

There is a vast disparity between our outer and inner selves in many of us, the real person never comes to the surface at all, never reveals itself, never risks itself. It lives through its functions, it lives as a physical response to an environment, and dies without ever having found its true existence. This, and not unhappiness, is the tragedy of life; and this, and not "selfishness," is what causes human misery.

So long as we live behind the peeling, we can have no genuine encounter with the world. So long as we are afraid to show or sacrifice the substance for the image we shall, at last, there is no substance left. What is left is the good of our "individualism" by means of which the freedom to be like everybody else, to be liberty to remain secure within the peeling?

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar in terms of Canadian funds was up 1-32 at $1 06 5-32.

Pound sterling was up 1c at $3 01 15-16.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged today.

Butter prices: Agricultural Stabilization Board tenderable (cartons) buying 40 score 53; buying 38 score 52; selling 53.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Windfall Oils and Mines more than tripled in price in active trading on the stock market today.

The stock closed Friday at 56 cents, and rocketed to a high of $1.75 this morning, turning over more than 500,000 shares in the first hour's trading. A company spokesman said Windfall has completed drilling on its first oil on a property in the Timmins area near the Texas Gulf Sulphur huge base metals find. However, no results were immediately available.

The enthusiasm spilled into a handful of other Timmins area stocks with PCE exploration ahead 13 cents to 48 cents after opening around the 36 - cent mark. Genex and Belleterre were ahead 7½ cents each at 30½ and 33 while Glenn climbed 11 cents to 38 cents.

Other sections of the market were almost ignored in the rush for speculatives and prices drifted lower. In industrials, Bell Telephone and Consolidated Paper gave up , each to 57 and 42¾ respectively.

On index, industrials were down .01 to 197.82, golds .20 to 152.27, western oils .14 to 100.22 and the Exchange index .02 to 147.37. Base metals were up .08 to 64.60. Volume at 11 a.m. was 2 919,000 shares compared with 760.000 shares traded at the same time Friday.

ANAF Auxiliary Holds Dance Party

The ladies auxiliary of the Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans, No. 49 Belleville, entertained at an informal party and dance Friday evening in the auditorium of the Front Street Memorial Hall.

During the evening, Comrade Charlotte Clark, 50-year-old charter and life member, presented a trophy for dart league competition. The trophy is inscribed as a memorial to late husband (Comrade) John T. (Clark) and herself.

Comrade Charlotte had as guests for the evening, her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Neff of Chicago, Ill.

To conclude the evening, Comrade Gladys Fitzgerald and her entertainment committee assistants served a chicken lunch with tasty salad and French bread.

SUNDAY FLIERS ended in churchyard when plane had engine trouble near Moira Lake. Mrs. Joseph Csora, Buffalo, N.Y., watches mechanic Don Moffatt examine motor for defects after she and husband force-landed on Madoc county road.

Many Attend Re-opening Dance

Local dance enthusiasts turned out in good numbers Saturday night to mark the reopening of the Club Commodore at Exhibition Park.

The club, closed for the past 18 months, is now back in business and completely renovated. The music for the weekly Saturday night dances is by a new musical combo, the Quintette.

Four Civilian Flyers Escape Injury in 2 Forced Landings

Four civilian fliers escaped injury in two forced landings in as many hours in the Belleville area Sunday morning.

Luckiest escape in the nerve-wracking episodes was registered by Don McCabe, 33, R.R. 3, Napanee, and 25-year-old James Prout, R.R. 2, Napanee, when their air coupe flipped on touchdown in an Ameliasburgh farmer's field.

Both men were flying over the Quinte district about 7.30 when the small craft — piloted by McCabe — developed engine trouble.

As he steered the plane to a landing on the farm of Bert Bolton, two miles west of Ameliasburgh village, it bounced and rolled over. Damage was reported slight.

For Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Csora, of Buffalo, N.Y., the experience was just as alarming — but the ending happier.

The couple left home about 7.30 a.m. en route for Ottawa when the motor of their four - seater Cessna started cutting out. They made an emergency landing about 90 minutes later. Mr. Csora immediately brought the plane down without mishap on the Madoc county road about two miles north of Ivanhoe.

Once down, the problem was to get the aircraft off the road — a busy northland route for Sunday travellers. The problem was solved by parking the plane in the nearby Bethesda church yard. While travel formalities were set straight — customs clearance and cancellation of the Csora's flight plan with Department of Transport — mechanic Don Moffatt was called from Tweed.

Museum to Continue Weekly Workshops

Because of the success of the winter workshops and the need to continue sorting materials, the Hastings County Museum has decided to continue its Monday evening workshops through the summer months (with the exception of Civic Holiday and Labor Day).

Interested workers are invited to attend and help catalogue and sort the various documents, pictures, etc.

The workshops begin at 8.00 p.m. and light refreshments are served at the conclusion.

In recent months, these workshops have sorted papers relating to Hastings County council in the 1880's and have continued the cataloguing of Mikel's "City of Belleville History".

Campbellford News

Woman Camper Escapes Injury In Twister

CAMPBELLFORD — A woman camper at the Fisherman's Paradise tourist resort at Healey Falls narrowly escaped injury Friday afternoon as trees were felled and camp equipment was strewn about by a freak twister.

One large tree was blown across a car and trailer while a picnic table was blown almost through a tent sheltering kitchen utensils for almost 300 feet.

A woman who lived in the trailer became frightened as the storm struck and sought safety in a nearby store just a minute before her trailer was smashed by the falling tree.

Following the storm fears were entertained for the safety of two fishermen who were out on Treston River.

But they later turned up safely and didn't even know about the storm until they returned to camp.

Man Killed In Car Crash At Trent River

CAMPBELLFORD — One man was killed and four members of another family were injured Saturday as result of a head-on collision on Highway 30, two miles south of Trent River.

Killed was Edmund Adamski, 50, of Garden Ave., Toronto, who was alone in his car. Injured were Roland Watson, Sonia Monica Blvd., Toronto, his wife, Rita, and their two children Gerry 12, and Lynn 11. All four are in Campbellford Hospital with cuts and bruises.

Police said the two cars collided at the top of a hill. Campbellford Provincial Police Opl. Gordon Gray and Eric Downey investigated.

Traffic Mishaps Send Three To Hospital, One Charged

Traffic accidents in Belleville and district sent three persons to hospital over the weekend.

One man was charged with dangerous driving.

Most spectacular crash occurred early Saturday evening when a car driven by Allan John Davidson, 18, of 239 Charles Street, veered through rush-hour traffic on Front Street, mounted the sidewalk and crashed into the Bells Theatre building.

A passenger, 20-year-old Robert Stapley, 220 Charles Street, received chest injuries and cuts.

Police say Davidson claimed the gas pedal jammed as he drove from an alleyway. In its career it smashed into an automobile driven by Alvin Christie of Stirling causing $600; then sideswiped a parked car before ramming the theatre.

Further Saturday, Russell James Green, 22, of Kingston, was charged with dangerous driving after his car veered toward three youths as he turned off Station Street onto Hambly Street. One of the trio, 15-year-old Robert Scott, 29 Brock Street, was struck as he jumped for safety. He was taken to hospital with a broken leg.

At Corbyville Sunday afternoon, four-year-old Mary Ellen Graham, R. R. 1, Corbyville, was struck by a car driven by Lawrence Kelly, 246 Foster Ave., as — police say — she dashed across the road to the Moira River. She was treated for head lacerations.

At Front and College Streets Sunday afternoon police estimated damage at $2,000 in a three-car crash.

They said a car driven by Shirley Montgomery, 14 Smith Crescent, drove through the intersection, was hit by an automobile driven by Peter Mikitsky, R. R. 8, Belleville, then veered into a car owned by Frank Travis, 7 Cecil Street, before striking a hydro pole.

A passenger in the Mikitsky vehicle, 15-year-old Linda Blakely, was treated for a neck whiplash injury.

Sgt. Harry Barker Dies in Goderich

A provincial police officer, a well-known and popular figure during years of service in the Belleville area, died Sunday at Goderich.

Sergeant Harry Barker, stationed with the traffic detachment for years at Belleville OPP District Headquarters, had been in failing health for some time.

He was promoted from corporal and transferred to the Goderich detachment from Belleville four years ago.

Sidney Farmers Win Field Day

Sidney Junior Farmers were the high club over Hawkins and Madoc at the annual Junior Farmer Field Day which was held on Wednesday, July 1 at the Madoc Township Public School. Individual award for the best boy and girl athlete went to Allan Hilchon and Linda Hilchon, members of the Sidney Junior Farmer Club.

In the softball competition, which is always a highlight of the day, the Sidney Club were victorious again this year, defeating Hawkins in a close game in the finals.

The square dance competition had only one entry this year, a team of eight from Sidney Junior Farmers.

The "Miss Hastings" award, which is presented annually to an outstanding Junior Farmer girl, was won by Elizabeth Sager of the Madoc Junior Farmers.

The winners of this County Field Day will represent Hastings County at the Quinte Junior Field Day to be held at Peterborough on Saturday, July 18th.

NOTICE
TO BRASS MUSICIANS
In affiliation with Branch 99, Canadian Legion, The Belleville Men of Brass are attempting to form a good Brass Band.
Since, with the exception of the Salvation Army Band, there is no true band music available to the City of Belleville at the present time, it is our intention to get together as many Brass Musicians as are interested.
We have a very interesting library of music, and a limited number of instruments available for interested parties.
FIRST REHEARSAL IS CALLED FOR MONDAY, JULY 6th, AT 8 P.M. in the Canadian Legion Hall, Pinnacle Street.
It is time for you brass men to dust off your instruments and ambition and bring back to Belleville the fine band she used to have.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Cameron Thompson are shown signing the register after their wedding in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora. The bride is the former Barbara Ann Vanvolkenburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Vanvolkenburg, R.R. 1 Havelock. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, Moira.

THOMPSON — VANVOLKENBURG

St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, June 20, 1964, when Barbara Ann Vanvolkenburg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Vanvolkenburg, R.R. 1, Havelock, became the bride of Melville Cameron Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, Moira.

The Rev. J. M. D. McLeod performed the double ring ceremony before a background of baskets of orange blossoms, white white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. M. McLeod rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Roy Neal, aunt of the bride.

The brids entered the church on the arm of her father, in a floor-length bridal gown of white silk organza over peau de sole. The bodice featured lace appliqued beaded with pearls, scooped neckline and long lily pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was enhanced with lace appliques in the front and the back was gathered with self-fabric roses in a dainty bustle cascading into a small chapel train.

A bouffant silk illusion veil flowed from a headdress of soft silk roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations mingled with ivy.

Miss Carolyn Belcour of Belleville was maid of honor. Mrs. Roy Balson, of Oshawa, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Gordon Graham, of Belleville, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. Miss Darlene Armstrong of Belleville, niece of the bridegroom, was the junior bridesmaid, and Miss Deborah Donaldson was the charming little flower girl.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids were identically gowned in aqua organza over taffeta, street length dresses. The bodices featured scooped necklines and short sleeves. The bell shaped skirts were complemented with a self-fabric rose.

The flower girl was gowned in a similar dress of aqua organza over taffeta with a gathered full skirt.

The attendants wore matching shoes, white, wrist length gloves and matching pillbox headpieces of aqua organza with short veils.

Each carried a basket of white chrysanthemums and pink feathered carnations with streamers of white satin ribbon on the baskets.

Master Stephen Hughes, nephew of the bridegroom, was a satty ring bearer. He carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

Mr. Francis Thompson was the groomsman for his brother, while the ushers were Mr. Keith Ellis, cousin of the bride ,Mr. Gary Reid and Mr. Allan Thompson, nephews of the bridegroom.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a blue lace sheath with white picture hat trimmed with blue braid, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a pale blue dress with matching jacket, blue flowered hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

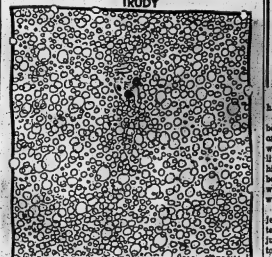
The reception was held in the church dining hall, where the bride's table was appointed with a cloth of white damask and centered with a three tier wedding cake decorated in pure white with pastel pink rosebuds. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom surrounded with pink rosebuds and nested about the base in white tulle. White candles in crystal holders and the attendants baskets added to the nuptial setting.

Rev. McLeod was master of ceremonies. Mr. Francis Thompson proposed a toast to the bride to which the bridegroom responded. Additional toasts were proposed by Mr. Keith Ellis, to the attendants and by Rev. McLeod to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. M. R. Neal.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and around Lake Erie, the bride wore a two-piece linen aerel suit, with a green printed silk blouse and matching hat, green gloves and bone accessories, complemented with a corsage of orange carnations.

Guests were present from Toronto, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Trenton, Belleville, Stirling, Moira, Marmora and Havelock.

Previous to the wedding the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Roy Balson, Oshawa. A miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Carolyn Belcour, Belleville and also a community shower at the bride's home. The staff of the Passenger Department of Canadian National Railways presentted the bride with a walnut cheese tray. The staff of Bad Boy Store presented the bridegroom with a purse of money.



Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside on Elvins St., Belleville.

Congregation Honors Young Couple With Many Gifts

One of the largest, as well as one of the most delightful pre-nuptial congregational showers was held on Friday evening in the lower auditorium of the Alliance Church, corner of West Moira and Coleman Streets, when 85 members and friends assembled to honor the coming marriage of Miss Constance Leonore Dixon, of Belleville, and Mr. Lawrence Edward Hurley, of Toronto, which takes place on Saturday, July 11 in the Christian and Missionary Church here.

Garlands of entwined, pink and white centred by a large white bell, criss-crossed from light to light above the reserved two seats, which were looped together by pink bands, centred by a white bell. The white damask-covered serving table was also adorned by pink garlands and a white hue, and centred by a bowl of beautiful, sweetly-fragrant copper-toned roses. A large container of tall blue, pink and white delphiniums on a corner table also added their stately loveliness to the occasion.

PASTOR PRESIDES

The Reverend Sackville Palmer presided over the evening's festivities. Mr. Clarence Beattie gave the opening prayer. Mr. George Kerr led the singing in a delightful singsong of Gospel songs and choruses, which was followed by interesting games of chivalry and careful thought, both of which added greatly to the evening's enjoyment, directed by Miss Elaine Landry.

Also included in the evening's activities was the presentation of a beautifully engraved silver serving tray to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Vandy for their faithful service in church work, for which both feelingly expressed their thanks and appreciation.

WISHING WELL

Following the presentation, the wishing well, adorned with floating pink streamers simulated Bible pages bearing suitable scripture selections, and overflowing with beautifully-wrapped gifts was presented to the happy bride and bridegroom-to-be, while more and more gifts were carried in by other attendants.

After the multitude of gifts — no two of which were alike — had been unwrapped, duly admired and passed around from guest to guest, the young couple expressed their deep appreciation for the great kindness shown them.

Mr. William Sills gave the invocation and refreshments were served consisting of various types of sandwiches, coffee, tea and cake, by the young people of the church.

Appreciation was extended to those in charge of the refreshments, Mrs. W. Simmons and Miss Brenda Dyck, assisted by other ladies of the church, including the pastor's helpmate, Mrs. S. Palmer.

Mr. Hurley is a graduate of Toronto Bible College, while Miss Dixon has another year to complete her course.

Present Picture to Principal Retiring After 16 Years

On Wednesday, June 24, members of the school board of S.S. 6, Ameliasburg, friends and ex-pupils met at the Massassaga school to honor Mrs. Harry Bates, who is retiring this year.

Mrs. Bates has served as principal of S.S. 6, Ameliasburg for 16½ years.

Mrs. Ralph Ackerman read a suitable address, expressing the appreciation of the parents to Mrs. Bates for her untiring efforts and dedicated service to their children during years as principal, and presented Mrs. Bates with a Manx Macdonald picture on their behalf.

Successful Living

Hurts to Be Discarded Like an Old Dishtray

DEAR DORIS — My husband runs a motor hotel and we have accumulated a lot to make a go of it. — DISHTRAY

Now I find that when he's been away on buying trips he has been seeing another woman. Spent money on gifts, on meals, on gas for the car, which we had never afforded for trips with our little daughters or anything else. I trusted him even when there was evidence of this, because I just couldn't believe that such a wonderful husband could do anything wrong.

DORIS CLARK

Before marriage he was extremely jealous of me, with no cause to be. Now he tells me this affair (which is over now) was just to get even with me. Then says I'm touchy. Touchy! It hurts like fury to be discarded like an old dishrag!

Perhaps I should have told him to go and never come back, but I still love him. Is there any hope for us? — DESPAIRING.

DEAR DESPAIRING — Let's look at causes. He married you while he was still so uncertain of his own worth as to be jealous. Then you plunged into a stern routine. He stuck with it — for a while.

When he was faced with temptation — in the guise of a flirtatious woman — he grasped the opportunity to play again. He had never stopped being a little boy. Now he seeks alibis.

Your girls need a father; you need a husband. If you have been too much the martinet, relax. Before you send him packing, try what a new deal in fun can do for all of you.

DEAR DORIS —

1. If you announce the engagement in the paper do you also have to send out invitations to the wedding?

2. If so, how long before the wedding? — BRIDE-TO-BE.

DEAR BRIDE-TO-BE —

1. Yes. Personal invitations go to all you wish to have at the ceremony and reception. Others may come to the church service.

2. Three or four weeks.

DEAR DORIS — I work at a lunch counter. There is a young man who comes in and always calls me names that aren't very nice. Is there anything I could say to him or do to make him stop this or just embarrass him once so he will stop? — INSULTED.

* * *

DEAR INSULTED — Next time say firmly: "Watch your language, young man!" If this doesn't do it, get the boss on your side. He doesn't want his lunch counter to get a bad name, and you don't have to take insults.

* * *

Confidential to CHRIS — At 14, the laws put limits on labor. But girls like you have found summer work delivering papers or grocerries, helping in a store or cutting the neighbor's grass regularly — for a price. Have you tried weeding?

* * *

DEAR DORIS — Do you have any booklets or information on "Clothing Allowance for Teen-agers"? — ON A BUDGET.

DEAR ON A BUDGET — Nothing down on paper. Duds for Debs involve too many "ifs" for a rigid rule. If she lives on a farm; if she goes to school; if she can sew; if money for clothing must be shared with several others!

Even a part-time work might entitle a girl to a new dress, once in a while. Being handy with a needle, to make over things, should count. It's a matter for discussion and some consideration by the whole family — just as all budgetary plans are.

Confidential to SO MUCH IN LOVE — Sweet nothings are music to Sweet Sixteen's ears. But it's not love! And you are safest to take them with a bushel of salt.

* * *

Blind Girls Enjoy Getting New Hair-do

TORONTO (CP) — There is nothing like a new hair-do to boost a girl's morale and nine members of a special career-girl course here agree — even though they cannot see their coiffures.

The nine girls, either totally blind or with severely limited vision, are completing a course at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. They range in age from 19 to 30. Six are training to become dictaphone typists and three to be home teachers of the blind.

The new hair styles were just part of a plan to give the girls confidence and know-how before entering the business world.

Dr. S. A. Saunders, director of vocational guidance at the institute, says the course gives the girls "the little odds and ends young people want to know, and the social niceties."

"A sighted girl grows up doing the things her mother does, almost unconsciously, but of course blind girls can't. They miss a great deal and it's up to us to fill any gaps in their knowledge."

STUDY MAKEUP

The girls have already learned how to apply makeup with assurance, how to care for their nails and how to walk and maintain good posture. They are also being advised about the most becoming styles and colors in clothing and how to choose and maintain a good wardrobe.

They also learn to orient themselves at a formal dinner party, complete with napkin, glasses and several forks and knives.

The fashion co - ordinator of the course, Dorothy Jenkinson, felt the hair-do session was the highlight of her part of the training.

Appointments at the hairdressers were made after regular hours so time could be taken to choose complimentary styles, and explain the process.

Hairdresser Peter Edelmayer, who has worked voluntarily for the institute for 15 years, says it is "wonderful to see the girls get up when they feel their new hair-do."

He gave the girls instructions on how to keep their hair in place, taking time to let them feel how to pin and roll it.

One pretty brunette sitting in front of a mirror she was unable to see into, feeling the shape and texture of the hair style, summed up the feelings of the new career girls:

"I feel like going to a party," she said.

Outside Salad For Thirty

by Mary Moore

The annual summer picnic of the branch of the Canadian Women's Press Club is an every-member-contributing affair.

The site of the picnic was Doctor's (Ontario) Pioneer Village. We were personally conducted by two of its enthusiastic founders, Mr. Schmalz and Mr. Page, through the authentic village store and museum, which proudly housed the first motor car built in Canada. Doest is the birthplace of artist Homer Watson and his pictures and some of his work are shown there.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Spaghetti with Meat Sauce and Grated Cheese; New Potatoes; Shredded Carrot Salad; Italian Bread Sticks; Raspberries and Cream; Coffee.

Vi Scriver, our new vice-president, started off our picnic pinch-hitting for Jean during she wanted to make rosettes-pigs' tails and spaerribe, Vi Scriver's specialty. Everything shouted "Yes!" in chorus. We will give you Vi's recipe in this column as soon as I receive it.

I contributed a salad for 30 in my custom antique wooden chopping bowl and Lorrie Mc-Laughlin, new president, brought 3 huge watermelon halves filled with delicious fresh fruit, kept chilled in an iced cooler.

TOSSED SALAD FOR THIRTY

Two large or three medium heads iceberg lettuce, 1 medium bunch curly endive, 1 lb. spinach, 1 medium cauliflower, 2 cucumbers, 2 bunches radishes, 3 green peppers, 1 cup chopped chives or green onions, 1 cup shredded old Cheddar cheese, salt, 3 medium tomatoes, 1 cup French dressing, 1 cup genuine mayonnaise. Prepare all vegetables in advance, but do not add the dressing until serving time. Wash and dry all vegetables. Cut the iceberg lettuce into 1" cubes and put into bowl the size of a standard dishpan. Break the endive and spinach into bite-size pieces. Shred the cauliflower, cucumbers and radishes into paper-thin slices. Cut the green peppers into thin 1¼" strips. Chop the chives or green onions finely. Shred the cheese. Cut tomatoes into sixths and reserve them for garnish. Toss all but tomatoes and dressings. Chill all. At serving time, sprinkle with 2 teaspoon salt, pour over the French dressing and toss well to coat all vegetables, adding more French dressing if needed. Add mayonnaise and toss, but add only enough to moisten vegetables. You do not want any liquid to accumulate in bottom of salad bowl. Now taste to see if salad has enough salt. Garnish border with tomato wedges and serve.

FRESH FRUIT IN WATERMELON BOATS TO SERVE THIRTY:

Wash and cut in half lengthwise one large watermelon. Scoop out balls of the pink pulp with a melon cutter, avoid seedy portion. With curved knife, scoop out all remaining and save to use left-over pulp for another time for a fruit cup. To the watermelon balls add 2 qts. of raspberries or stoned halved sweet cherries or blueberries. (strawberries could be used in season), two 20-oz. cans pineapple chunks or fruit-cocktail, mixture of fruit from one large cantaloupe. Sprinkle sparingly with sugar if desired. Turn into the 2 watermelon shells and chill. If desired, slices of watermelon shells may be scalloped with sharp knife to give them a professional finish.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

BE A CONSIDERATE GUEST

House guests are as much a part of the summer scene as hammocks and suntan lotion.

So if you're lucky enough to snag an invitation for a day or two or three at the home of friends in the country or at the seashore, be considerate and make sure you deserve the honor.

When the awaited invitation arrives in the mail, answer it immediately. Don't keep your hostess waiting indefinitely for a reply. She may want to invite someone else in your place if you can't make it.

If you're not sure what sort of clothes to bring with you, don't hesitate to ask when you send your note of acceptance. Also, be sure to ask where you're expected to arrive and depart. If you're travelling by car, get squared away on directions, so your hosts won't have to wait for a long overdue guest who took the wrong turn on the highway.

If you're visiting the family for the first time, it's considerate to bring the hostess a small gift, preferably something she can use in the entertainment category. When there are children involved, often a guest prefers to bring each a small gift — either in addition to, or in place of, the usual hostess gift.

When the household is small and the hostess does all her own housekeeping, the thoughtful guest suggests helping out, but doesn't insist on doing chores unless the hosts take him up on his offer.

CONSIDERATE GUEST

At the minimum, though, the considerate guest makes his own bed in the morning, and keeps his room and the bath — tidy during his stay.

While the guest is free to take a rest occasionally, he or she should go along with whatever plans the hostess has mapped out.

If there's a boat trip or a golf-out or swimming on the agenda, then the house guest is expected to be Johnny-on-the-spot if he wants a return invitation. He's also expected to take part on a simmering summer day. For linen, cotton.

Printed Pattern 4876: Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 35-inch fabric.

Fifty cents (50c) in coins (no stamps, please) for this pattern. Ontario residents add 2c sales tax. Print plainly size, name, address, style number.

50th Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

On Sunday, June 31, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wellman entertained at a reception at their home, 204 Dundas Street, in Peterborough to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on June 24. The happy couple were married in the shade of two blue trees on the lawn amid the sunshine at the bride's farm home near Madoc with two sisters of the bride, Helen Bouck and Hazel Huffman as flower girls.

The bride was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Huffman and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Wellman of Gilmour, later of Belleville.

Dick as he is known, worked at his trade as a blacksmith in the Plainfield and Latta district for about five years and then went into the garage business in Madoc. In 1937 they moved to Peterborough where he was associated with Sun Life Assurance Co., and later the Co-Op Association from which he retired in 1960.

Having kept in practice in blacksmithing work as a sideline Dick has now returned to it and looks after the race horses belonging to Mr. Featherstone of Lakefield and Port Hope district.

Dick and Mary are members of Trinity United Church and in their earlier years were active workers in the church in the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges of which they were members, they have two children, Earl and Mrs. Ken Gibson (Helen), both of Peterborough and four grandchildren.

Besides a multitude or gifts floral arrangements, telegrams and cards, the couple received congratulatory messages from Provincial and Dominion governments officials and Keith Brown, MPP for Peterborough, presented the Ontario plaque.

Master of ceremonies Carol Gibson and Douglas Wellman in charge of the guest book which was signed by over 300 friends and relatives.

Receiving with the bride and groom of 50 years ago was Mrs. Earl Wellman and Mr. Ken Gibson was a tea room hostess.

The tea table, resplendent with lace cloth and silver services was centred with a three-layered cake surrounded by white lilies, made by the bride and beautifully decorated by her daughter Helen.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Leonard Masterson, one of their flower girls, and Miss Estella Wellman, sister of the groom, both of Belleville; Mrs. Earl Sayers of Bethel; Mrs. James Huff of Gilmour; Mrs. Norman Smith of St. Thomas and Mesdames Jack Irwin, Henry Morton, Frank Rowe, Grant Palmer, Fred Thirsbeck, Norman Thomas and Fred Edmondson, all of Peterborough.

Serving the guests were Mrs. Ross Marshall, Miss Sheila Wellman and Mrs. Lloyd Pearson of Belleville., Mrs. Brian Frappier of Ottawa, Mrs. Donald Gean of Thomasburg, Mrs. Matthews Jr., of Cooper, Mrs. Don Harris of Bethel and the Misses Margaret and Marie Edmondson, Mary and Carol Gibson and Susan Wellman, all of Peterborough.

In charge of refreshments were Mrs. W. Beveridge and Mrs. Ruby Asbury. Arranging the plates for the tea room were Mrs. E. Ray and Mrs. A. Greenwood.

The end of the day found a tired but exceedingly happy couple with plenty to keep them reminiscing for all the years together to come, wished them by the many who had recognized this important occasion in their lives.

Guests were present from Washington, D.C.; Kingston, St. Thomas, Oakville and Malarlic, Quebec.

Gay Seventies Are Enjoying Golden Years

By R. J. ANDERSON

TORONTO (CP) — Seventeen happy oldsters, disdaining rocking chairs and bridge, keep alive and kicking, literally, in their golden years. They're The Gay Seventies.

They'll sing a song or two, dance a little, play a tune on harmonica or accordion and generally cut up.

"It keeps them alive," says Elsie Moore, organizer and director of the troupe of 13 women and four men.

The Gay Seventies play at functions around Toronto. All they ask is expenses but sometimes they don't even get that.

Most are old age pensioners and their $75 a month is all most have to live on. They range in age from 60 to 86. Mrs. Moore is 79 although she looks 60.

In rain or snow or on sultry summer nights they leave their lonely bachelor-apartment flat lives in rooming houses—and travel by public transportation to a performance. They average two a month.

During a brisk two-hour show the oldsters may sing a dozen or more old - time songs accompanied by a pianist who plays by ear. Others will play the accordion or harmonica or perhaps a musical saw. They may do a little soft shoe—anything that comes to mind.

HANDBAG SNATCHED

Mrs. Moore was born to her troupe—moves among the audience, tweaking a cheek here or sitting on a man's knee there, all the while keeping a watchful eye on her "girls." "You can't let them get out of line, you know," she says.

Travel can be hazardous for members. Lottie Brown, who is 73, was followed by two men in a car one night and was roughed up before they snatched her handbag. She had cashed her old-age pension cheque that day and lost all the money she had.

Mrs. Moore started the group in 1955. Since then there have been a few changes during the years but right now she has:

Daisy Bentley, 79; Minnie Ayres, 73; Mary Leonard, 73; Lottie Brown; Dorothy Burns, 73, Gladys Marshall, 68; Daisy Sheppard, 69; Minnie Rushton, 65; Alice Shell, 69; Vida Munroe, 67; Phyllis Fritzer, 73; Emily Inkley, 86; Harry May, 80; Reg Stafford, 75; Clarence Mitchens, 67; and Dick Martin, 60.

Ada Clarke, 60, the pianist, is the only member who is paid.

Mr. Miskimins plays a musical saw. Mr. May is a hit with his rendition of Albert and the Lion. Mr. Martin plays an electric harp and a harmonica simultaneously.

STARTED WITH SIX

Mrs. Brown is the widow of Al Brown of the First World War Dumbells. Her specialty, in a sweet soprano, is Alice Blue Gown.

With the exception of Mrs. Moore, all the women are widows. Only Mrs. Rushton and Miss Ayres have jobs.

Collections at a performance may run from $7 to $15 and the troupe pays bus fares, provides a small payment to the pianist and pay for the petrol consumed, most of which Mrs. Moore makes herself, including the Gay Seventies' feathered hats.

Their exhibition show runs a total of four hours and for this they receive a free ticket to the grandstand show and a $1.50 dinner ticket apiece.

Couple Honored On Anniversary

Many relatives, friends and neighbors attended the anniversary Mass in St. Charles Borromeo Church, Read, on June 18 to honor Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Horrigan on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary with Father W. V. Handlen officiating. Also present in the sanctuary were Father Geerld and Father Leo Byrne, cousins of Mrs. Horrigan, and Father T. E. Bricland, former parish priest. Acolytes were Philip Horrigan and Leo Enright, nephews of Mr. Horrigan.

Everyone assembled in the parish hall where a sociable evening was enjoyed, the music being furnished by Nolan's orchestra.

Child Never Loses Sense of Having Home

MONTREAL (CP) — A combined home and school where retarded children are taught to adapt to "normal" life is evolving in a small Quebec community.

The project, started in 1953 by two Dutch-born male nurses in Dixville, 23 miles southeast of Sherbrooke, is drawing from a $250-rental fee on an old parsonage into a small village it sells.

John Visser and Gerrit Van de Mark moved into the community of 1,000 persons and began their project. Today, they operate four homes for the 30 patients, and two others for staff and a school.

"We limit our groups to 10 or 12 and provide the children with father and mother relationship through our staff," Mr. Visser said. "This way the child never loses the sense of having a home to which he or she belongs. The children's buildings are furnished to resemble a home rather than an institution."

Dixville waived the rent on the original parsonage for two years, but now pays a token rent under the project.

The "village" also has facilities for a number of older patients—12 members of an adult training group are learning laundry, gardening and home economics.

Mr. Visser and Mr. Van de Mark came to Canada in 1954, and began their training as male nurses here. Mr. Visser had hoped to work in Africa, but the Africans "don't want white men" and he decided to work in Canada.

couple and their family were called to the stage where an appropriate address was read by Mr. E. McMenemy on behalf of the relatives, friends and neighbors of the surrounding community after which they were presented with a refrigerator, broadloom rug and a purse of money. They received many other beautiful gifts. They were also recipients of a beautiful floor lamp from their three children, Elaine, Danny and Irene.

Following the presentation a delicious lunch was served by the ladies in charge. A three-tiered anniversary cake graced the head table which was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Ann Landers

Dead People May Wear Glasses Says Undertaker

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Why don't you mind your own business and stick to counselling mixed-up people who are having marital problems?

As an embalmer and undertaker I resent your advice to the woman who wanted to know if it was proper to leave glasses on a person laid out for viewing. You said the idea of displaying the deceased was to suggest that the person was "sleeping." You added, and I quote, "Since it is unlikely that people sleep with their glasses on they should be left off."

ANN LANDERS

If this were true, Ann Landers, why are policemen and firemen traditionally laid out in full uniform with the right hand holding the visor of the cap across the heart? Do you think policemen and firemen sleep in their uniforms and take their hats to bed with them? General MacArthur lay in state, resplendent in five-star regalia. Are you under the impression that General MacArthur slept in that outfit?

Speaking of sleep, I think you must have been in a fairly deep slumber yourself when you wrote that reply. Why don't you admit you were wrong and apologize? — NO NAME PLEASE.

DEAR NO NAME — All right. So they aren't sleeping.

Eye glasses are designed to improve the sight, no? If you should ever hear of a case where glasses over the closed eyes of a person (either living or dead) achieved this, will you please let me know?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I do not smoke. We have no ash trays in our home, and this is not an oversight, believe me. It is a way of letting our guests know we don't want anyone smoking when they visit in our house.

Last evening a new business associate of my husband's came over. The very first thing he did was light a cigarette. He then looked around the room far an ash tray, and seeing none he said, "I guess nobody around here smokes." With that he flicked the cigarette ashes in his pants cuff.

I went to the kitchen and brought him a saucer and said as cooly as I could, "Please use this."

Now I think I made a mistake by supplying the lummox with the saucer. I should have told him off. I know you are a non-smoker. How do you feel about this? — MAD AT MYSELF.

DEAR SELF — Not as vehemently as you do. Nonetheless, a considerate person, when he sees no ash trays around, should take the hint.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 14 and have a mad crush on a boy who lives in Omaha. Rod and I met at camp and have been corresponding since last year.

My father says Rod is an idiot just because he writes cute things on the outside of the envelope. I think some of the stuff he writes is real clever. Yesterday I got a letter and Rod had written across the back, "Beware, Postman. Handle with asbestos gloves. Hot stuff inside."

When my dad saw this he said, "Tell that nutty kid if I see anymore trash on the envelopes, his letters are going into the garbage can."

Please set my dad straight before he ruins my sextre life. — CANDY.

DEAR CANDY — Sorry, but I'm with your dad. Tell Rod to save the little gems for inside — where he can probably use 'em.

* * *

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25c in coin—and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Bulletins from Birdland

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

CHUNKY BUTTEO

The saying "Give a dog a bad name" might be applied to a tiled, simply or substituting the word "hawk" for "dog." Hawks in general do not deserve such a thought, for actually only a three are destructive, the members of the genus known as Accipiters. Of these, two are not large enough to do much harm and the third spends the greater part of its existence apart from civilization. Though the ordinary person still will not love it, most hawks are really beneficial, and authorities on the subject have brought the matter to the attention of governments so that these birds are gradually being put on the list of protected birds in the various provinces and states.

PREFER RODENTS

The group of hawks that go under the collecting botany are the most maligned for the majority of them prefer rodents to any other food they may be recognized when in flight by their manner of soaring in wide circles, like a person going up a circular staircase, until sometimes they practically disappear in the sky above.

One of the commonest of the buteos is the broad-winged, a comparatively small chunky hawk the size of a crow. As the name suggests, the wings are unusually broad even for a member of this group, and the evenly placed, alternate black and white bands on the short tail aid in recognition. If the shrill, plaintive whistle "peee-e-e-e-e" is heard, then identity is assured.

KEEPS TO FOREST

The broad-wing breeds in deciduous forests from the Atlantic to Alberta, but can hardly be said to be familiar to most people because it keeps quite strictly to its forest home, sallying forth only on hunting expeditions. Mice and shrews found on the forest floor are only two items on its diet sheet. It is known to eat a great variety of food, including (according to season) frogs, toads, snakes, grasshoppers, katydids, crickets cicadas and large caterpillars.

Like the red-eyed vireo, a road-wing is forever adding more decorations to the nest. Fresh, green foliage appears here and there every day, evidently for purposes of camouflage. The main structure is sticks and twigs, the lining bits of bark, chips and lichens.

Once out of the nest, young broad-wings when seen in flight overhead might be mistaken for red-shouldered hawks because the dark bands on their tails are more numerous than those on their parents' tails.

through police lines to get at the municipal water works and power plant. Police used electric cattle prods and nightsticks to get things under control.

At West Yellowstone, Mont., about 50 residents used axe handles against a mob of 1,000 teen - agers and college - age youngsters Saturday night after the mob tore down fences, tipped over outdoor toilets and signs, and destroyed a trailer for bonfire fuel.

Four young men were jailed, but no fines were levied.

At Pleasanton, Calif., a county fair was disrupted Saturday night after officers tried to send home a half - dozen youths who "had been drinking, were throwing firecrackers, and were shouting and swearing," police said.

The youths began fighting with police. As officers arrested riders and put them in patrol cars, other youths yanked them free.

spective jurisdictions and fulfil their respective responsibilities without obstacle or hindrance, and as fully as possible."

The decision means that the federal party will have to set up its own party organization in Quebec. But each county organization would be free to maintain allegiance to Ottawa and to Quebec if it wanted to.

Mr. Pearson said the Quebec Liberals should profess a "double loyalty."

African

should not be drawn into a dispute between Britain and one of its colonies.

Prime Minister Ian Smith of Southern Rhodesia had asked to attend the Commonwealth gathering, but Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home turned him down. African and British premiers did not want Smith to use the meeting as a forum for a plea in favor of white rule.

Southern Rhodesian whites are demanding complete independence from Britain, but it will withhold independence until Negroes are given some say in the government. They want it to force the White Rhodesians to yield power. They may proclaim their independence unilaterally, the Commonwealth, following South Africa's lead, if it fails to apply pressure for Negro rule, but it may jeopardize its relations with the African Commonwealth members.

The Sunday Telegraph said some African nations, notably Ghana, threatened joint withdrawal from the Commonwealth because Britain has stated her policy toward Southern Rhodesia.

The warning shots from Africa were fired against a sombre background. Seldom if ever has the Commonwealth seemed in such sceptical, self-questioning mood.

Britain's press blossomed forth during the weekend with a series of soul-searching articles, mostly friendly but all squarely facing the fact that the Commonwealth, which is unprecedented size, confronts a crisis of confidence.

TO DISCUSS MALAYSIA

Another issue before the Commonwealth leaders is the Malaysia crisis. Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman said on departure from Kuala Lumpur Sunday: "I expect to get a sympathetic hearing from our friends at our hour of need and trial in meeting a very foul enemy."

Indonesia is waging a guerrilla war against the British-sponsored federation on the island of Borneo, which both countries share.

Although British, New Zealand and Australia have given the Malaysians support, Rahman may have difficulty rousing the Africans still some others. The Africans are only remotely interested in Southeast Asia and some tend to sympathize with Indonesian President Sukarno.

Rahman said he would ask his Commonwealth partners to help with money and equipment, particularly helicopters.

In a Commonwealth development, related to the conference, a memorandum published during the weekend urges more money and more staff to help teacher-training colleges in the poorer countries. The memorandum is timed as a preliminary to the third Commonwealth education conference, to be held in Ottawa in August.

Castro

ment, although his personal view was that this would not be necessary.

Castro suggested that the time has come when an extensive discussion of issues between the two countries should be profitable. He said Cuba's leaders are now more mature and the United States has given some indications that it is willing to accept a degree of social change in Latin America.

FULL BACK GUARDS

Castro announced that, as "a contribution on our part to avoid incidents," the Cuban guards around the Guantanamo Naval Base would be pulled back to a distance of seven hundred yards from the fence at the base. They are now stationed about 50 yards away, he said.

Castro said the Cuban revolutionary government would give way to a constitutional one not later than Jan. 1, 1969.

Castro said that the result of normalizing relations with the United States would be the release of about 90 per cent of the political prisoners now held. He said these amount to "something under 15,000" and he conceded "this is a great many."

He said a later result would be discussions about indemnifying United States companies whose properties have been seized.

CHARGED IN DEATH

TORONTO (CP) — Allister Murray MacPherson, 33, and Charles MacPherson, 35, both of Toronto, have been charged with non-capital murder in the slaying of Ora-rard Lavergne Bowman, whose body was found in a New Toronto lumber yard Saturday. Police said Bowman was beaten to death.

Don't Neglect Defective Fan Belt

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Besides cooling system trouble and noise (which most drivers are familiar with) low battery and sluggish car performance can also result when the fan belt requires attention. A slipping fan belt will hurt generator output, affect acceleration because the belt is weakened, and contribute to battery failure. But looseness or excessive tightness are the only fan belt conditions to be wary of.

There are several possible reasons why a belt may need replacement, and you can easily check them for yourself. To do so, examine the underside not the outside of the belt. Look for fraying, burning, glazing, cracking, splitting, tearing, grease or oil. Any of these conditions is evident, don't hesitate to have the belt replaced. It's a small investment that may be worth many dollars in running economy and convenience.

T. F. asks: Can an overheated engine have any possible effect on braking action?

It is possible. High underhood temperatures might cause fluid in the brake master cylinder to boil and bubble, thus interfering with effective flow.

From S. G.: "In changing the plugs on my '59 sedan, I note that they are covered with a black, powdery layer. Is this due to leaded gas? I use hi-test."

An overrich fuel mixture is the likely cause. Leaded gas promotes a white or yellowish coating on plugs.

S. W. writes: "My car broke a right rear leaf spring recently. I was told this is caused by hard driving on bad roads, yet we've never used the car like this. Could it have been a spring defect?"

Possible, but there are other causes to consider: loose spring bolts, a faulty shock absorber, overloading the car or hitting a bad hole or bump.

From D. M.: "Not only motorists, but station attendants, mechanics and even tire shops seem to ignore the screw-on cap covers on tire valves. Are they really needed?"

They protect delicate valves against damage by dust, dirt, grit and water — and should always be used.

Majority of TV and Radio Stations Show Profits in '63

OTTAWA (CP) — A general improvement in the financial health of Canada's private broadcasting industry has been noted by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

The regulatory body's 1963-64 annual report, made public this weekend, shows an increase in operating profits for the majority of radio and television stations in 1963, although some recorded operating losses.

The report, giving a survey of broadcasting stations' revenues and expenditures, is based on information supplied by the stations to the BBG. No details are given concerning individual stations.

Among television stations, the 44 in operation before Jan. 1, 1960, had an aggregate net profit in 1963 of $4,249,000 compared with $632,000 the previous year. Seven of the 42 stations, however, recorded losses in 1963.

In 1961 the aggregate loss of these TV stations exceeded the total profit of the other 23

INCREASE REVENUE

A four-per-cent increase in total broadcasting revenue for the 42 stations was reported last year over 1962, representing an increase of 46 per cent from 1961 to 1963.

Returns from 12 TV stations, which started operations after the end of 1959, showed four with an operating loss in 1963.

But the board says the nine "second" TV stations which began operating after 1960 in the major markets have participated in the general improvement in the industry.

Between 1962 and 1963 total broadcast revenue increased to $2,990,000 from $19,928,000, up by 15 per cent An aggregate loss of $4,900,000 in 1961 was converted into an aggregate profit of just over $1,400,000 in 1963.

The 140 radio stations, which were in operation at the end of 1959, showed an eight-per-cent increase in operating profit in 1963 over 1962, representing an over-all increase of 47 per cent from 1961 to 1963.

However, the BBG says the increases in profits in 1962 and 1963 would little more than restore the profit position in 1960. Thirty-one of the 140 stations had an operating loss in 1963.

On June 22nd this man joined 9,999 Lakeland Natural Gas customers

(He's A. G. Cooper of 35 Lewis Street, Belleville, Ontario)

Today more and more people like Mr. Cooper are using natural gas.

Mr. Cooper explains the popularity of Gas by saying: "I wanted a fuel that needs no maintenance, is safe and quiet. Gas is all this. I also learned that gas has the hottest flame of all modern fuels. Naturally, I chose it for my home."

Mr. Cooper was our lucky 10,000th customer. And he won our 10,000th customer contest. Because of this we gave him a gas furnace, gas range, gas hot water heater, a gas dryer, a gas incinerator and a gas lantern.

Now Mr. Cooper can really enjoy all the benefits of natural gas.

BREAK UP MARCH

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Panamanian students have threatened further anti-U.S. demonstrations unless all 18 marchers arrested in a recent Saturday are released. The attempted anti-American march Saturday on Shaler Plaza in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone was broken up by Panamanian national guardsmen firing shots in the air and tossing tear-gas grenades. Informed sources said six of the 18 arrested were police. Education Minister Manuel Solis intervened on their behalf.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater's delegate lines held firm today while Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton's attempted blitz for the Republican presidential nomination showed no signs of catching fire.

With former ambassador Clare Boothe Luce scheduled for the spotlight in the opening platform hearings tonight, Goldwater strategists remained confident of the selection of the convention delegate they made no move to break apart the Ohio and Wisconsin "favorite son" delegations from which they might gain additional votes.

As masters stood, Goldwater had 710 publicly committed votes in the Associated Press survey, a comfortable margin over the 655 necessary for the nomination. Scranton had 146, plus the 105 in the name of New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and 76 committed to Henry Cabot Lodge, now the Pennsylvania governor's personal choice as adviser.

There remained 198 uncommitted delegates and 113 for favorite sons, a relatively limited field in which Scranton and Rockefeller seem to have a 200-plus, only a relatively small number were firmly bound by instructions from their states but the others showed no signs of deserting him.

Pennsylvania reports that Governor James A. Rhodes had released Ohio's 58 votes from their first-ballot commitment to Taft as a favorite son. These reports were followed by others that Wisconsin Governor Warren P. Knowles would turn loose the 30 - vote Wisconsin delegation, if these, too, would have been interpreted as a sign of panic by the Goldwater managers. Both were promptly denied.

The Arizona senator's camp ... claimed nothing in either state. But in each there are indications that he would get more than half of the votes if the delegates were freed of their favorite son commitments.

Ohio state Chairman Ray Bliss said in an interview that a delegation vote on July 13 when the convention opens and might decide on a first ballot, but then he thought nothing would be done before then.

Scranton, Pennsylvania Sen. Hugh Scott (Rep. Pa.), the governor's newly - named convention manager, made some claims about delegate gains but nothing tangible came out. Scott told a press conference he had been pleasantly surprised by reports of 'delegate hunters' who have been working for Scranton and he gave no specifics.

As Scranton and Lodge had done previously, Scott hinted that former president Eisenhower might give the Pennsylvania governor a lift at the convention. Eisenhower has signed up as a television commentator (ABC) and most politicians think this will make it difficult for him to take sides even if he chooses to do so.

SAYS IKE LIKES SCRANTON

Scott said it is his own judgment that Eisenhower's personal preference for the nominee is Scranton but "whether he says so is his own business."

Scranton, in a point press conference with Lodge in Harrisburg, Pa., said Eisenhower expressed surprise "that the people of America would question who he (Eisenhower) is for." In the Eisenhower letter, he said he had phoned the former president to report on the progress to date to drive for the delegates.

Lodge denied again that he is a candidate for a draft. He said he is going to defeat Goldwater for the nomination "because he has the best chance ... winning in November."

Lodge's statement has been unavailable to reporters recently, eluded them Sunday when he left his room for this airport, dressed in his air force reserve major - general's uniform. Lodge's plans for Las Vegas, Nev. He will not head for San Francisco until Thursday.

Mrs. Luce, former congresswoman and former ambassador to Italy, has declared her support of Goldwater for the nomination, promised to get the platform committee's hearings off to a start.

Scott announced that he would meet with others in the platform committee to canvass suggestions for civil rights and other planks. The Pennsylvania senator made it clear he and other Scranton supporters hope to force adoption of a strong civil rights plank which Goldwater, who voted against the bill just signed by President Johnson, might balk at accepting.

Violence

about 200 white persons were swimming. Sheriff Bill Dowd said words were exchanged after the Negroes went swimming.

Soon, both sides were throwing rocks, stones and cans. A 21-year-old white man, Leo Edward Johnson, was shot in the leg with a .22-calibre pistol and an unidentified white man fired a shotgun into the group of Negroes, wounding three.

About 200 Negroes went swimming on the other side of the lake without incident.

FIRE A SHOT

A shot fired in the darkness as a Negro mass meeting broke up in Selma, Ala., Sunday night set off a wave of fear which others used tear gas and nightsticks. Several officers were injured as the Negroes pelted them with rocks and bottles.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Pace said some 300 of the Negroes were involved. There were no arrests. Two white newspaper men reported they were struck by officers.

At St. Augustine, Fla., the Florida highway patrol said 10 to 15 white youths attacked five Negroes, including a woman and child, while they were fishing.

One man, Richard Eubanks, 20 was in good condition at a St. Augustine hospital. A Negro spokesman in the area said he was treated for cuts and released.

It was the first incident with racial overtones in the city since a two - week truce was worked out by Negro and white groups last week.

SERVE NEGROES

Elsewhere, a group of Negroes and white persons obtained service at five restaurants in Washington, D.C. Two Negroes ate at a Tuscaloosa, Ala., cafeteria while white persons stood in silent protest. A Negro leader said a poll in Montgomery, Ala., indicated only a few individuals had been refused service to the law.

Thirteen Negroes were arrested in a test of a privately owned pool in Albany, Ga. A group of Negroes trying to integrate a white theatre in Winter, Ga., were turned back by a crowd of white people. In Americus, Ga., about 10 Negroes successfully gained admittance to a downtown cafe but were sent out—along with white patrons—when the manager cleared the building under a bomb threat.

Income Tax Explained

Taxpayers are in many cases at a loss to know who claims the deduction for students' tuition fees. The confusion is in regards to who deducts them, the student or the parent.

First I will clarify what type of tuition fees are a deductible item. It is only the fees paid to a recognized university or college beyond the secondary or high school level, for a course leading up to a degree and such course must be taken at least 13 consecutive weeks duration. The amount claimed cannot cover a greater period than 36 months.

The only one entitled to this deduction on the income tax return is the student. A parent cannot deduct such fees on his return even if he is the one paying them. Most university and college students take employment in the summer holidays and if their income exceeds $950 the parent could not claim them. However, if student's income for taxation purposes is the amount he earned minus the deductions for tuition fees paid for that taxation year. As an example, if a student earned $1,000 in the holidays and paid $500 tuition fees his income for taxation purposes would only be $700. This being the case, the student is now taxable on $700 and become below the $950, the parent could claim him as an adult dependent and deduct the $550. If the student has no income in the vacation period, no one is allowed any deduction for tuition fees paid.

Although the student has no taxable income and has had tax deducted from his summer job, it will be necessary for him to file a return in order to get a refund of the amount withheld for taxes.

For personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed five cent stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered.

Question: I have two daughters living at home who usually do not work during the summer vacation. Can I deduct the tuition fees I pay for them?

Answer: No.

Question: The university year is from October to May, that is part of two calendar years. What tuition fees do I deduct?

Answer: You may deduct only the fees paid in the calendar year.

Thomasburg

Pilots Run Greater Risks In B. C. Than in Any Other Part of Canada Survey Shows

By TOM CARNEY

VANCOUVER (CP)—For 30 years, a twin-engined bomber has lain in a rain forest 300 miles north of here, silent monument to a missing crew.

HD 319 is a Mitchell medium bomber of the type used in the famed raid on Tokyo led by Jimmy Doolittle April 18, 1942.

Since 1944, HD 319 has been a testimonial to some of the worst flying conditions on the continent.

In the last 25 years, 226 airplanes have vanished over Canada's Pacific - coast provinces. Some, like HD 319, icy undiscovered for years and 73 have never been found.

Pilots run greater risks in British Columbia and in other parts of Canada, says Flt. Lt. Gordon Duffy, a controller at the RCAF's Air-Sea Search and Rescue Co - ordination Centre here.

Once a pilot gets into bad weather and poor visibility in the province's 366,255 square miles of mountainous terrain, "he's not going to go far without hitting something."

The same hazards compound the work of search and rescue.

"On the Prairies you can see a downed aircraft for 10 miles," says Flt. Lt. Duffy. "But airplanes that leave much of a mark in this country, not on stop—they burn a swath through the trees. But then the people are usually dead."

LOST IN FOREST

HD 319 is a case in point. The Mitchell and its Royal Air Force crew took off from Abbotsford air field near here July 14, 1944, on a navigation exercise. Soon after, the plane hit a hill, broke up and plunged into thick forest on north Vancouver Island.

On Sept. 20, 1960, prospector Magnus Bartman came across the wreckage and his find was reported to the authorities. Because of the dense forest and the length of time that elapsed between crash and discovery, positive identification of HD 319 took more than a year.

What became of its four-man crew likely will never be known. One or more may have survived the crash only to perish in a futile fight against the forest.

But post - mortem investigations of long-ago crashes without hope of finding survivors form part of the routine of the search and rescue centre established here in 1946 to co-ordinate efforts previously splintered among the navy, army and air force, the department of transport, other government bodies and civilian groups.

The Vancouver centre, one of four such in Canada, controls all search and rescue operations in British Columbia and in a coastal corridor of ocean stretching 200 miles offshore.

NOTIFY CENTRE

The centre is notified if a plane is half an hour overdue and the officer on duty runs a communications check. If he fails to raise the missing plane, he calls in a searcher, an RCAF officer with special training. The searchmaster, working with centre liaison officers if necessary, can set up field headquarters to direct the search operation anywhere in the province.

At the call of the officer on duty are military and civilian planes, virtually all military personnel in the area, volunteer mountain rescue teams, pleasure boats and even itinerant firefighters.

Two 95-foot cutters of the Canadian Coast Guard at Victoria bolster the centre's seaward arm, and since 1961 Capt. W. H. Dale-Johnson has been attached to the centre as coast guard representative.

Co-operation between volunteers and the centre is excellent, says Flt. Lt. Duffy. The centre supplies fuel to private pilots taking part in a search.

The centre can handle three searches simultaneously. Three chairs, each in front of separate communication facilities, are the focal point of the centre's headquarters here.

MAINTAIN RECORDS

Complete records of wrecks, searches and missing planes are on file. The walls are covered with maps, one of them studded with coloured pins showing the estimated location and approximate date of all known crashes.

Although the centre is responsible only for mishaps requiring search or rescue, it handled 843 reports during 1963 ranging from missing aircraft to Sunday sailors in distress.

Some of the seemingly clear-cut cases can develop into a baffling headache for the centre.

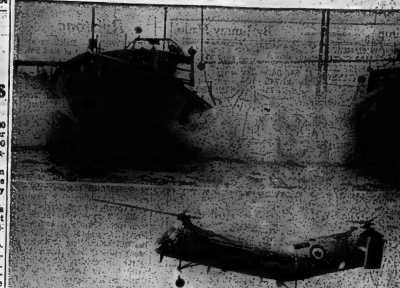
A TCA Lodestar, Flight 3 from Toronto with 15 aboard, circled Vancouver International Airport preparing to land April 27, 1947, and then vanished. It was never found, prompting Carleton C. Taylor Jr. of Kent, Wash., to offer the use of his divining rod.

A TCA North Star carrying 62 struck Mount Slesse just east of Vancouver Dec. 8, 1956. The wreckage was not located until the following May.

But seven out of 43 were saved Jan. 19, 1952, when a Northwest Airlines DC4 plunged into the sea off Sandspit airstrip on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

RUSH BARS RESCUE

Even when search and rescue locates a crash quickly, nature sometimes balks efforts to find survivors.



"It would be possible to walk within 10 feet of a wounded survivor if he were too weak to speak," reported a searcher for survivors of a United States Air Force B-36 which disappeared over the Queen Charlotte Islands Feb. 14, 1950. "The underbrush is unbelievably dense."

At least 12 of the 17 aboard the B-36 parachuted to safety. The rest may have jumped, but they were never found.

Long-lost planes also present problems in the centre's recordkeeping department. A wreckage report can often be ticked off by its location as a known and investigated crash. But if the location of a find does not match one of the colored pins in the wreckage map, the site must be investigated.

Sometimes the wreckage turns out to be a known crash in which the location was inaccurately plotted in the first place. The report is then amended. But at least once the wreck moved.

A fisherman reported finding an airplane wreck off an island in the Gulf of Georgia in August, 1955. Investigation showed it to be an RCAF Liberator which had crashed in 1945 and was already recorded. Shifting seas and tides had changed its position.

FLYING RISKS GREAT — Flt.-Lt. Gordon Duffy (right) of the RCAF and Capt. W. H. Dale-Johnson of the Coast Guard study maps of British Columbia in the RCAF Air-Sea Search and Rescue centre in Vancouver. Flt.-Lt. Duffy says pilots run greater risks in British Columbia than in other parts of Canada. When aircraft crash in the interior they don't leave much of a mark. Since 1930, 256 planes have vanished in the province, 73 of which have never been found. (CP Photo)

Eldorado

ELDORADO — The Eldorado and Madoc Standard Church Sunday School held their picnic at Glen Allan park on Saturday with a good crowd present.

Mr. Don Fox of Toronto spent a few days with his father, Mr. James Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson spent the weekend with friends.

Mr. Milford Stevenson is spending a few days at his home here.

Mrs. C. D. McCann spent the past week with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Mel Johnson spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Blackburn, Harley and Wayne were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McCann of Peterborough.

Miss Lamoine Post of Toronto is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Post.

Marmora

PUBLIC SCHOOLS' FIELD DAY

MARMORA — The annual field day at Marmora Central and Earl Prentice schools was held on Friday, June 26th, under the direction of members of the staff. Four plaques have been donated to the Central School by the Marmora Home and School Association and will be used each year for the top senior girl and boy and junior girl and boy in their field day competition. Ribbons were also provided by the Association.

Following are the first place winners at the Central school for the various races.

Grade 3 boys — Kenny Wells; Grade 3 girls — Rosie Wagar; Grade 4 boys — Brent Hegadoren; Grade 4 girls — Melody Kong; Grade 5 boys — Rick Nobes; Grade 5 girls — Betty Demorest; Grade 6 boys — Ernest Fluker; Grade 6 girls — Margaret Rose Carswell; Grade 7 boys — Eldon Danford; Grade 7 girls — Judy Nobes; Grade 8 boys — Glen Deline; Grade 8 girls — Janice Howden; junior boys' three-legged race — Rick Falls and Steven Potter; junior girls' three-legged race — Margaret Rose Carswell and Connie Bell.

Senior Girls' three - legged race, Joyce Herman and April Ellis; Junior Girls' shoe race, Judy Neal; Junior Boys' shoe race, Brent Hegadoren; Boys' Pick - a - back - race, Eldon Danford and Buddy Fluker; wheelbarrow race (Junior boy and girl), Monte Smith and Judy Eaton; wheelbarrow race (Senior boy and girl), Rick Deering and Janice Howden; Senior Boys' dodge ball contest, Darryl Wagar, Alex Yeoman, David Carswell; Sen. Girls' dodge ball contest, Fern Harris, Charlotte Casselman, Mary Jane Farkin; Junior Boys' dodge ball contest, Brenda Gray, Monte Smith, Richard Vilneff; Junior Girls' dodge ball contest Arlene Carswell, Lynn Deering, Debbie Paronuik.

At the Earl Prentice School the pupils were divided into teams for the various events and races and the captains of the winning teams were as follows: Boys' team, Paul Stetson, Roy Wheston, Ricky Mallie, Jim Gordanier, and Dayle Acorn.

The other captains were Judy Killian, Bart Bell, Brian McLeod, Joan Baxter, Kathie McFall, Ann Pollock, Glenn McCoy, David Nickle and Ruth Boster.

Chocolate milk and potato chips were given to the pupils of both schools at the noon hour by members of the Home and School Association.

A ball game between the two senior teams of which Eldon Danford and Alex Yeoman were captains was played in the afternoon. Eldon Danford's team were the winners and each boy on his team received a cost.

TRAIN RIDE

Pupils of Grades 3, 4, 5, 6 at the Marmora Central School were taken to Belleville by buses on Thursday June 25th and were passengers on the special excursion by a steam locomotive from Belleville to Anson. For many of the children this was their first train ride.

The four teachers Mrs. Spry, Mrs. Chard, Mrs. Mantle and Mrs. Empey and six mothers, Mrs. R. Hegadoren, Mrs. R. McGarvey, Mrs. C. Goodchild, Mrs. B. Warren, Mrs. B. Bell, and Mrs. S. Demorest accompanied the pupils on the trip.

Bethel Zion

BETHEL ZION — The 101st anniversary of Bethel Zion church was held on Sunday last at which time a beautiful Bible was dedicated in commemoration of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Homan were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson and attended church service.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chambers on the arrival of a baby boy.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mead attended the McCarthy-Pointer wedding in Belleville on Saturday.

Mrs. Roscoe Robson, Mrs. Roy Bills and Mrs. Percy Ray left on Saturday last to attend the Dominion Institute convention held in Nova Scotia.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harris accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. E. Sayers, Miss Mildred Jones and Mrs. J. McFarlane, Belleville attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. R. Wellman of Peterborough on Sunday.

Mrs. D. Mead and Jennie were last week's guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ketcheson accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Casey Ketcheson are enjoying a tour of the Eastern Provinces of Canada.

BAN SEPARATISTS

QUEBEC (CP) — Separatists may not be members of the Quebec Liberal Federation, Premier Lesage said Sunday. A special meeting of the federation approved a change in the constitution which now reads that a federation member may not be a member of "another party or provincial political group." Mr. Lesage said the phrase "provincial political group" is aimed at separatists.

Crofton

CROFTON — The Crofton W.A. was entertained by the W.A. of Big Island to a strawberry lawn social at the home of Mrs. Edwards. A number of other groups joined them and an enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood of Belleville have returned from their trip to Florida and were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gray and family on Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Munro and Keith attended the Couples' Club dinner at Stoco Lake Hotel on Friday evening.

Mrs. Graydon Calnan spent Sunday evening with Mrs. E. Crook.

WILL BE SECRETARY

OTTAWA (CP) — Christopher Eberd, 31, career diplomat with the department of external affairs, has been appointed to act as the Queen's Canadian secretary during her visit to Canada in October. A Government House announcement said that Mr. Eberts' appointment was made by the Queen.

Centenary

CENTENARY—The teachers of Centenary Public School took the school ball team on a picnic to the Outlet last Wednesday evening. The school children also went on a train trip on Thursday to Anson Jct. The teachers and several parents chaperoned.

Mrs. D. Holton spent a week with her sister, Mrs. Peters of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Edmondson of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Defoe of Belleville, Mr. and Mrs. R. McDonald of Point Anne and Rev. and Mrs. Fred Edmondson, Shirley and Marie of Peterborough visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Reg Edmondson.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sawyer and Heather of Ottawa were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hines.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mrs. R. Hart Sr. visited Mrs. Earl Jones of Frankford on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Arnold and Miss Ethel Horton of Belleville were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Edmondson.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bonisteel, Carol and Brenda and Mr. and Mrs. G. Pennycook of Mt. and Mrs. W. Matthews, at Cooper on Sunday evening.

Moira

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howes, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson of Garnet attended the wedding reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Wilson held at their parents' home Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scott on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ebarty, Belleville were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mahoney, while Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thompson were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scott the same evening.

On Sunday morning at Moira United Church, Mr. Dyson gave his farewell sermon. Mrs. Gordon Foster rendered a duet with Mrs. Doug Patrick at the same service.

Mrs. Will Shaw was a Saturday evening caller with her sister, Mrs. Blake Mosher, while Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw spent the evening with Mrs. Dyson before leaving for Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams, Stirling were Sunday evening callers on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson and Billie.

FAREWELL TO MINISTER

On Thursday evening, the congregations of Eggleton, West Huntingdon, Thompson Churches gathered at Moira United Church for a farewell party in the basement for Mr. George Dyson before leaving for Toronto with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roberts at Shilo, Manitoba. On Saturday, Farrell was master of ceremonies for the event with Mrs. Gordon Foster at the piano. Mrs. Dyson was presented with a purse of money from each congregation and they expressed his thanks for their kindness toward him while on this charge. A lunch was served by ladies in the church hall.

FIVE ACQUITTED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The trial of five admitted Ku Klux Klansmen charged with conspiracy in the dynamiting of a Negro's home ended in U.S district court Sunday. No one was convicted by the all-white jury of 12 men. The charges grew out of the dynamiting Feb. 2 of the home of Donald Godwin, 6, who integrated Lackawanna Elementary School under federal court order. The house was shattered but no one was hurt in the explosion.

Bethany School Centennial A Most Enjoyable Event

They went to school by the score in Thurlow township Saturday.

And everyone received top marks for turning in a study in celebrations.

The celebration was the centennial of one of the township's oldest schoolhouses — S.S. 7, Bethany.

The building which has probably put enough students through its courses to populate the township three times over, looked like it had attracted just as much attention for the event.

The reunion brought together not only students, but teachers spanning three generations of that unique human relationship that exists in country classrooms.

Evidence of that came immediately the celebration began when the generations — or their representatives — crowded into the one-room schoolhouse to open the centennial.

Up on the rostrum in the place of honor were Mrs. Roy Badgley of Melrose and Mrs. Ethel Merriam, of Toronto, Mrs. Merriam who taught Bethany students in 1905-07 qualified as the grande dame of the reunion. Mrs. Badgley ran a close second by virtue of her stewardship in 1913-14.

In sparkling good humor, both ladies shepherded the centennial of 1964 through its first phase.

Still, Mrs. Badgley was taking no chances. At one point she reached into her bag and produced an ominous strip of black leather.

"I've brought my strap boys and girls," she warned. "This is my original strap — it hasn't worn out."

"Although" — she added — "I suppose I'd be arrested today if I used it."

However some traditions still hold firm — particularly the one about an apple for the teacher.

That was presented to Mrs. Badgley by one of her pupils in the past — Marshall Reed.

Mr. Reed journeyed far for the presentation — from Los Angeles in fact.

"The centennial", he said, "fitted perfectly into his vacation plans while he was staying with a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Bannon in Belleville.

After a brief break for a noon lunch the centennial got rolling in high gear with a parade past the little schoolhouse. Everything from jalopies to a covered wagon to show horses went on display.

They even had a hearse — 1924 Ford vintage — loaded with a lively bunch of the school's present - day enrolment.

The day closed with a sports rally in the school grounds and the attendance gave an A-for-effort rating to the centennial's organizers.

BAND LEAVES

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The 74 - member Catholic Central High School Band left here by air Sunday for a five-week tour of Britain and Europe which will include an audience with Pope Paul. The 35 boys and 39 girls will play some 30 concerts and a radio recording session for the British Broadcasting Corporation.

APPLE FOR TEACHER is offered by Marshall Reed, Los Angeles, to Mrs. Roy Badgely, his schoolmarm in 1913-14 at Bethany. That's her original leather strap she's holding.

Toronto Printers Seek Approval For Strike Vote

TORONTO (CP) — Printers from Toronto's three daily newspapers voted overwhelmingly Sunday to ask their union's international executive for approval to take a strike vote.

A second part of the motion, if approved by the international executive, would give the local printers' union authority to declare that the newspapers have created a lockout situation.

The union action came at an emergency meeting of Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC) and followed a breakdown in contract negotiations last Thursday over the key issue of electronic computers.

Robert McCormack, president of Local 91, said a reply to the request for approval of a strike vote likely will be received from Colorado Springs, Colo., in a couple of days.

Local 91 represents about 700 printers at the three dailies, The Globe and Mail, a morning paper, and The Star and The Telegram, evening papers.

WOULD NEED VOTE

Asked to explain the strategic difference between a strike and a lockout, Mr. McCormack said a general membership meeting would have to vote in favor of strike action. But if Local 91 received permission to declare a lockout, "it would be in the hands of the local how to invoke that authority."

The union says a lockout situation would exist if the newspapers go ahead with plans to introduce improved working conditions agreed on during earlier negotiations. The ITU says contract changes cannot be accepted until they have been included in a signed contract approved by the union membership.

The newspapers say all terms so far accepted by both parties will go into effect next Thursday and that negotiations will proceed on the computer issue, the only point in dispute.

The union insists on having control of the computers while they perform composing room work. The newspapers reject this.

The papers, which have contracts in force with several other unions, plan to continue publishing if the ITU calls a strike.

A representative of Local 353 of the Printing Pressmen's Union said the pressmen's contract does not give members the right to refuse to cross picket lines.

UNIONS TO MEET

Two other unions, the Toronto Newspaper Guild (CLC) and Local 21 of the Stereotypers and Electrotypers Union (CLC) will meet this week to consider the problem. Spokesmen for both unions have said existing contracts will be respected.

The newspapers are also involved in a contract dispute with their photo-engravers, who number about 100 at the three dailies and The Star Weekly.

Stop Shipment Of Truck Chassis To Indonesia

LONDON (CP) — Vauxhall Motors will not ship 1,000 truck chassis to Indonesia, it was learned today.

The controversial deal was to have netted £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) for the British company but government opposition stopped it. There was fear the chassis, although not classified as war material, might have been used by Indonesia against the Federation of Malaysia, a Commonwealth member.

Mrs. Indira Ghandi Rises To New Prominence in Guiding India in Crisis

NEW DELHI (AP)—A star of the Nehru family is brightening the way for the collective leadership trying to guide India through its second dangerous government crisis in two months.

Mrs. Indira Gandhi, the late prime minister Nehru's daughter, has risen to new prominence with the illness of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, bedridden with a heart attack, and is being mentioned in this capital as a potential foreign minister or even head of the government.

She will be Shastri's top aide if he tries to regain firm control of the government; if he decides his health will not permit this, she will be a leading contender to succeed him.

Officially, Mrs. Gandhi, now 47, is only the third-ranking member of the cabinet Shastri formed to pull India out of political turmoil that followed her father's death May 27. But she will speak for India in London at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

WILL BE COURTED

It is Mrs. Gandhi, not her higher-ranking colleagues, who will be courted in coming weeks by foreign ambassadors trying to determine which way the diplomatic wind is blowing in New Delhi.

Above all, it will be Mrs. Gandhi who will be expected to guard the committee-like government from political attack. For there are forces working in the capital to see that collective leadership does not work and that a new prime minister will be chosen.

In trying to prevent another succession battle, Mrs. Gandhi will be cooperating with the No 2 man, Finance Minister T. T. Krishnamachari, Home Minister Gulzari Lal Nanda and two strong political figures — Congress Party President Kumaraswami Kamaraj and S. K. Patil, Bombay party boss and railway minister.

Mrs. Gandhi, a widow, has wielded considerable—if unofficial—influence in the Congress Party and the government for years. During Nehru's last years, she was at his side almost constantly and travelled with him to many international conference. Her primary interest in government always has been directed at foreign af-

Elks Present Main Gates To Zwick's Island Park

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in Belleville might append another adjective to their title — exemplary.

Exemplary in the community sense, that is.

One of the smaller (it's membership is 62) and least heard-from community groups it proved its worth Saturday by staging another of its Zwick's Island picnics.

It was a double-barrelled accomplishment — providing fun, games and all-round color for city youngsters, and making a material community contribution besides.

In the midst of the music and motley movement of a carnival atmosphere, the Elks paused a moment to mark a civic contribution.

It was the presentation of a plaque to William Hurst, chairman of the city Zwick's Island project committee, and sealed delivery by the lodge of two main gates to the bayshore park. The gates are now abuilding, although date of completion is not definite.

It was the second such contribution by local Elks to the park projects — and their most ambitious to date, a fact noted gratefully by Mr. Hurst.

Equally ambitious was the picnic program laid on for the day. From 1 p.m. up to nightfall and sometime thereafter, the Elks trotted out a schedule including: baton corps display; a beauty queen contest; a judo exhibition; sky-diving; a ball game between police and firemen; a giant fireworks display.

Between times there was little that was motionless.

Pony rides and races kept the tempo going while a clown band called the tune throughout the day.

The weather also stood the event in good stead. While it clouded over in the early afternoon, rain remained the only threat.

FAILS FIRST TRY

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's new $500,000 fireboat waited six weeks for its first call only to be beaten by a Toronto Island firemen's bucket brigade when a small blaze broke out Sunday at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club's wooden dock on Centre Island. Firemen had doused the blaze using pails of water scooped from the bay by the time the fireboat arrived.

Fireboat Needs More Ballast Says Givens

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Philip Givens said Sunday that tests showed that 10 tons of ballast will have to be added to Toronto's new $598,000 fireboat to make it seaworthy.

The additional weight will be needed to correct unsatisfactory performance by the boat, the William Lyon Mackenzie, in rough-water tests, he said in a radio address.

Controller William Archer said the situation was "absolutely outrageous."

He said in an interview he was unable to understand how the department of transport could have failed to detect the flaw in the boat during previous water tests at Owen Sound.

The fireboat received its first call Sunday but was beaten by a bucket-brigade. Toronto Harbor police and Centre Island firemen doused a fire on the wooden docks of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club on the Island by using pails to scoop water from the bay.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Can. H. Canter, Sports Editor

If there is any truth in the rumor that two gals were seen in the city Saturday wearing topless bikinis or dresses, the best place to look for them was the Rosemary, Memorial league.

If they were there they "made like an ostrich" burying their heads in the ground and letting the chilly breezes waft through whatever they were from the waist down.

Whatever the fanfare of the dimbell aide may be, it cannot be said they are shrinking violets as far as yelling the real money, the sensible-type routines, or other loose change on the heroes of their choice at race tracks.

The weather men? Phooey! That might apply to weight-lifting, heavyweight boxing bouts and the odd argument, but the gals are no back-benchers when the bangles are flung for the likes of Willie Shoemaker.

And don't ever believe that the gals, from teen-agers to grandmothers, back a horse because it has a pretty name, reminds them of something in their life, the driver is a Conservative or Liberal, or that the nag resembles their mother-in-law.

From observations I have made, the female of the species is just as good a "pitcher" as any of their male counterparts. And some of them come under the heading of "plungers."

A week ago a flat, matronly type who had her hair shattered in her ability to "pick 'em" put on a study cap that paid off.

She invested sixty dollars in four or five bangtails which had insisted on chasing the rest of the field around the track—and had one chance for financial recovery.

I don't know what feminine intuition she has, or had at the time she plunked down a bet on a pair of nags to win the quinella. And in the doing she made every male bettor on the race look like a novice.

Her chelsea romped home and she promoted the only winning ticket at the window. Flanked with victory she shoved them within a couple of enormous mitts lashed on as she counted $4468.50 and waddled it into her purse.

Being human she was delighted with the win but when those twenties and tens started rolling toward her from the window she became exalted.

In fact I'm told she not only pinched herself to make sure she was not dreaming, but insisted on opening her purse at periodical times to gaze at that beautiful roll.

Saturday night another middle-aged gal who must have used some sort of a racing divining rod—or is able to talk horse language went to the mutuels eight times. Seven times she stepped away with the winner's price in her pinkies.

No names, please. I know the old man and if she is keeping her fortune secret, it's okay by this corner. I know "Dad" dropped what is called a bundle, and he might go looking for his percentage.

I noticed two teen-age girls scratching bee-hive hair-do's with long pencils, wrinkling pretty brows and casting questioning eyes upwards as if pooking information.

These soulful glances paid off. Fifteen minutes later they were back rifling long green lettuce. I thought I heard one say, "Well, grandma's name is Millie."

But, do not go by that name stuff. It is purely accidental. I once bet a horse with "George" mixed up somewhere in its name, in an afternoon flat race. What I didn't know was they gave the jockey a lantern so he could find his way home after dark.

Also I have noted several man-and-wife betting combinations. Their modus operandi is simple. They go into a huddle with program and pencil. Sometimes there is considerable hoo-ha-ahing until final agreement is reached.

Then Mom will part with a dove or so and Pop leaves for the part-mutuels. But when do you think take off for the payoff if the mutual selection wins? You guessed it.

A window cashier told me that the women rate just as highly as their alleged assistant in making selections. They do not go off at half-cock but make choices carefully. A lot of the biggest winners are women, he said.

Giant-Killer Phils Take Over Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The rusty wind that shook San Francisco over the weekend wasn't one of Candlestick Park's customary breezes. It was created by Philadelphia Phillies when they put the Giants into first place in the National League.

The Phillies, who failed to place a man higher than third in the years for the Mt. All star team, looked like first stringers Sunday as they completed a three-game sweep of the Giants with a 3-1 victory.

There was Richie Allen, whose five hits had sparked the first two victories Friday and Saturday, stabbing two pockets on one play as some boos have rumbled down the back of a Giant rally in the seventh inning.

There was Jack Baldschun, completing his second save of the season, striking out Willie Mays with the tying run on base in the eighth. He also set the Giants down in order in the ninth, fanning four of the six batters he faced.

And there was tight pitching, strong defense and clutch hitting to cool off the Giants, who had won 11 of their previous 13.

The clutch play of Sunday's game came in the seventh with Dennis Bennett pitching a 2-1 Phillie lead after Jim Hart's landoff homer. Bennett struck out Orlando Cepeda but the slugger reached first when the third baseman got away. Tom Alen followed with a single, moving Cepeda to third.

TAG CEPEDA OUT

Then Jim Pendleton bounced to Allen, the rookie third baseman caught Cepeda in a rundown and completed the play to him out. Crandall dashed for second and Alou went to third while the Phillies' second baseman held the plate. The Giant rookie was caught in a rundown and eventually tagged out by Allen, completing a double play.

In other NL games, St. Louis Cardinals topped Cincinnati Reds 8-1, Milwaukee Braves whacked Chicago Cubs 7-1, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked New York Mets 2-0 and Pittsburgh Pirates smacked Houston Colts 7-1.

The Phils took 11 innings to take the Giants 5-3 Saturday while Chicago shaded Milwaukee 6-5, Houston downed the Pirates 3-1 and the Reds and Dodgers took 2-3 decisions over the Cards and Mets.

"I just made a mistake," Allen said of his dash which ended Sunday's Giant rally. "I don't know why I ran."

Manager Gene Mauch, delighted by the streak, had time to reflect on a remark he made following Saturday's victory which put the Phillies in first place on the pennant race.

"It's nice to be in first place on the Fourth of July," he said. "But I'd rather be there on the 4th."

Randy Koufax won his eighth straight and 12th of the season as the Dodgers moved into a fifth-place tie with St. Louis. Koufax, who has allowed only six earned runs in his current hot streak, got batting support from Willie Davis who drove in three runs with a homer and a double.

Seventh-inning singles by Bob Skinner and Tim McCarver broke a 1-1 tie and gave the Cardinals their victory as Roger Craig allowed 10 hits in going the distance for his fifth victory against four losses.

Wade Blasingame won his first major league game, hurling an eight-hitter against the Colts. Alvin Dark and Jim Gentile homered his first NL homer and Joe Torre clubbed a pair of doubles as the Braves routed all-star pitcher Dick Ellsworth.

Jerry Lynch clouted his 16th career pinch-hit homer as the Pirates' late surge and Manny Mota smashed a three-run shot and he Dick Farrell fired for the fifth time to win his 11th game.

Wimbledon Women's Final

Brazil's Bueno Beats Australian

By ROBERT JONES

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Maria Bueno of Brazil graceful and unpredictable as always, won back the Wimbledon women's tennis crown Saturday with 6-4, 7-5, 6-2 victory over defending champion Margaret Smith of Australia in a match that unwrapped the nerves of the crowd packed around centre court.

But Maria it was the happy ending of three years of grim struggle against ill health and what she has described as "personal problems." For Margaret it ended a hope of a grand slam of the world's major titles. She had won the Australian, Italian and French titles this year.

At Wimbledon in 1960 and 1960 Miss Bueno contracted hepatitis three years ago and not until this year was United Kingdom title champion Miss Smith, at Forest Hills, New York, last year did she look like the old Maria in the light.

The Brazilian girl prevented the Australian sweep of the Wimbledon titles. Aussie ace Roy Emerson won the men's singles title Friday, beating fellow-countryman Fred Stolle. Miss Smith and Lesley Turner took the women's doubles Saturday, beating the only U.S. finalists, Darlene Hard and Karen Hantze Susman, 7-5, 6-3.

WIN MEN'S DOUBLES

Emerson and Bob Hewitt took the men's doubles title with a 7-5, 11-9, 6-4 victory over Emerson and Ken Fletcher, and the mixed doubles final also was an all-Australian affair.

Margaret Smith and Turner teamed up to beat Ken Fletcher and Miss Smith, the defending title holders, 6-4, 6-3 in the event.

The Bueno-Smith match, one of the most exciting seen here in years, fell neatly into three parts. There was a dull first set, littered with dropped service games, netted volleys and wild drives out of the court. Then came a tingling second part. There was a fluffy third set, littered with dropped service games, netted volleys and garet serving up the feast of tennis everyone knew they could produce. Miss Bueno won because she was deadly accurate, served better and kept her head better in the tight spots.

Raceway Harness Meet

Cooling Breezes, Close Races

By GEO. N. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Larry Zebedee drove two winners and placed second and third in other heats in a chill-tempered Raceway harness meet here Saturday night.

Zebedee piloted Red Gus to a win and place in the second race heat and then drove Shady MacDuff to victory and show in the first race dash and mile.

Cool breezes that swept over the track and stands did not affect the betting activities of upwards of 600 race fans who paid a handle of $6,230 at the pari mutuels. Both figures were slightly down from last Saturday's meet.

Irwin Fisher driving Magic Millie to straight heat victories stole the expected thunder of a Memorial Way - Frosty Magic duel in the fourth race events.

Mountain Way who came up lame did not start and Frosty Magic was the victim of a second heat spill leaving the challenge to stable-mate Hal Fence who finished second and third.

Magic Charm was a distinct threat in both heats of the first race being beaten by a length by Moonlight Dolly in the dash and trailing by a thrilling stretch drive by Sandy MacDuff in the mile heat.

Red Gus left a bunched field to win the second race dash by two lengths but finished two lengths behind Lilo Bars in the mile turning back threats by Georgina and Gaytana.

Mentor Fleet and Little Joe Grattan's bookers $20.80, top price of the night, to win the third race dash in a photo finish. He finished third behind Cash Deny B and Irene Han in the seventh (quinella) mile. The quinella paid $88.00 to six ticket holders.

Magic Millie, the only two-heat winner of the night, shared the fastest time for the mile 2:14 with Lolo Rare winner of the sixth heat.

With Mountain Way scratched, the Bernard Hunt stable pair of Frosty Magic and Hal's Fence were choices in the fourth and eighth heats.

Frosty Magic and other ideas and nipped Frosty Magic in the dash paying $8.80. Hal's Fence was third.

In the mile heat as the bunched field rounded the first turn, the Hunt sulkies became entangled forcing Frosty Magic out of the race. Driver Murray Fleet was shaken up considerably but otherwise uninjured.

As was noted, Cash Deny B started. Time - 1.42

Magic Charm	$4.20	$2.80	$3.00
Moonlight Dolly		$2.40	$2.60
Sandy MacDuff			$2.20

Fifth Race (mile) — Sandy MacDuff, Moonlight Dolly, Magic Charm. $8.20, $5.60, Joetess, $3.75 Time - 2.14 Also started, Tony Rose, Zebedee also started. Time - 2.14.

Sixth Race (mile) — Red Gus, $17.00, $5.20, $3.00; Red Gus, $5.00, $3.00; Lilo Bars, $3.00. Time - 2.13.

Seventh Race (mile) — Cash Deny B, $14.40, $8.20, $4.10; Irene Han, $5.00, $3.00; Cash Deny B, $3.10. Time - 2.14. Ted Byrd, Atomic Bella also started.

Eighth Race (mile) — Magic Millie, $3.80, $2.60, $2.20; Hal's Fence, $3.20, $2.20; Joe Ny, $2.10. Time - 2.14. Frosty Boys, Joe Ny also started. Frosty Magic did not finish. Time - 2.13.

The daily double Moonlight Dolly, Red Gus in four straight heats paid $410.

The Pick Seven Man, Can't Deny It in the seventh race paid $99.30.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting — Harmon Killebrew, Twins, paced Minnesota attack with five hits, including three home runs, in Sunday's 9-3 victory over New York Yankees.

Pitching—Gary Peters, Juan Pizarro and Joel Horlen, White Sox, threw 27 innings of shutout ball at Cleveland Sunday defeated the Indians 4-0, 2-0 and 5-0 to take over second place in the American League.

Drysdale, Pascal All-Star Starters

Favor National

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League leads the American League 2-0 in rosted pitchers going into Tuesday's All-Star game.

Of the 13 handpicked pitchers for the All-Star classic, 11 saw action during the weekend, leaving the National League with a distinct advantage in the field to even the over-all series between the leagues at 17 victories each.

Walt Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers, manager of the National League team, had Don Drysdale of the Dodgers and Chris Short of Philadelphia Phillies sufficiently rested.

Al Lopez of Chicago White Sox, the American League skipper, is expected to tap right hander Camilo Pascual of Minnesota Twins, for the opening shot on the mound while Alston is expected to nominate Drysdale. Also a right hander, since both lineups are stacked with right-handed hitters.

SELL 40,000 TICKET

Some 40,000 ticket have been sold for the 35th All-Star game, to be held at the new, 53,000-seat Shea stadium. The game is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. EDT and will be televised by the CBC.

Two American League stars already have been declared out: Whoever the pitchers are, the other will be Yogi Berra, who was recuperating painfully that several of the outstanding pitchers in the major circuit spend the day in the bullpen.

Reserve outfielder Al Kaline of Detroit was ruled out when the Tigers notified the American League he had sustained a bruised left ankle in Billy Willoughs of the Cubs.

Saturday's game. Rocky Colavito of Kansas City Athletics will replace him. Earlier, Boston Red Sox shortstop Eddie Bressoud replaced Luis Aparicio of Baltimore Orioles, who is nursing a pulled groin muscle.

Five of Lopez's eight pitchers worked Sunday, Whitey Ford of New York Yankees, Al Downing of Chicago Dean Chance of Los Angeles Angels, Dick Radatz of Boston and Jack Kralick of Cleveland Indians. Pascal, Gary Peters of the White Sox and John Wyatt of Kansas City pitched Saturday.

Drysdale last pitched Friday and Short Thursday. Jim Bunning, the Phillies' perfect-game pitcher who had been expected to start for the National League, worked 10 rough innings Saturday.

REMAINDER PITCHED

The remainder of Alston's staff pitched Sunday — Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers, Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants, Dick Ellsworth of Chicago Cubs and Dick Farrell of Houston, Colts.

Drysdale — Pascal duel would match two pitchers with 0-1 All-Star records: Drysdale has been effective in All-Star action despite his record, allowing only one hit with a 2-0 win earned run average in four games. Pascal has allowed one run in six All-Star innings.

The American League lineup includes Brooks Robinson Killebrew, Bob Allison and Tony Oliva of the Twins and Billy Hunter of the Yankees. The National League models men will be led by Willie Mays of San Francisco and a sorely bruised left ankle in Billy Williams of the Cubs.

The National League, which leads 17-15-1, at Cleveland last year, is a slight favorite. The National League has won 12 of the 18 games.

Defeat Trenton 4-1

Juniors Share Top Rung

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

Sitting to stay out of last place, Bell-Sealtest League management most of the season, Ellis Juniors buckled and tied their selves sharing the top rung of the ladder today.

The Juniors pulled even with Trenton on Saturday night, downing a short-handed team 4-1 for their fifth consecutive victory. Tweed rests quiet two points back of Ellis' and the Centennial pitchers.

Each club has four scheduled games left to play, one of which with the Juniors against the Lombanks in Tweed tonight at 8.45.

"A strong pitching choice, but Bob Ekhier and a couple of solid home runs featured Saturday's 'postponed affair. Ekhier batted the Trenton pennant drive with a four-hitter, losing his shutout when Don Cole stepped to the plate for the first time in the eighth inning and bashed a towering homer to deep right.

Ekhier struck out, or even had doors pulled, a total of 11 batters.

Kaye Elliott, from the Trenton town league, pitched well in a losing cause. He gave up seven hits, fanned three and walked one. His mates bounced around for three runs, four of them costly.

Ellis' pitted single runs in the second and third and a pair in the sixth. A pair of errors sandwiched around Woods' second run-batted in single.

Both runs scored later the next inn, slamming his second homer of the season with none aboard.

Muirhead and Maddy rapped singles in the sixth, Spence hower followed with another base hit, chasing one home and all throwing error by Mallory all the way for a 4-0 score.

Bobby Mann paced the Juniors with his homer and two singles. Mike Chatland also had two hits, one a double, while Carl Boomhower, Ski Muirhead and Stu Malloy added singles.

Outside of Steve Cole's homer, the other Trenton hits were singles by Al Beangrand, Wilf Kennedy and Lee Souttphon.

The Juniors played second, heads-up ball with McKibbon robbing Don Cole of a three-run and cutting down Wanda Maday with a good throw to third in the last outfield.

TRENTON — Simmons ss, Mutz, H. D. Cole cf, Wampamak, cf, Th. Beangrand, 2b, Kennedy c, Elliott p, Bourgeau 2b, Blatt rf, H. Cole rf.

ELLIS JRS. — Gardiner ss, Moon c, Muirhead 1b, Chatland 2b, Malloy cf, Boomhower rf, Woods 2b, Ekhier p, McKibbon rf.

The Jaycees and Park Dale battled to a 12-12 deadlock in Bantam baseball fixture played at Park Dale Saturday afternoon.

In earlier games, DeMille Construction outlasted CNR Firemen 16-13 in Tyke joke while IBEW 115 clobbered a shorthanded Sine's Shell club 17-4 in a Peewee affair.

The Bantam contest featured a pitching duel between Park Dale's Johnny Noakes and Jaycees' Paul Goodfellow. Goodfellow gave up four hits but fanned one and walked two, Noakes allowed six hits, struck out three and passed three.

John Holgate paced the Jaycees hitting with a triple and single. Catcher Wayne Clifford, Scott, Leo Baker and E. Goodfellow also hit safely.

Kevin Allen, catcher Wayne McTaggart and Wayne Fudge collected the Park Dale singles.

DeMille and the CNR got eight six hits apiece despite the high score in the Tyke contest. Randy O'Neill and B. Guest pitched for DeMille, with S. Forester catching. D. Langille and P. Webb hurled for CNR, with Nolan and Lapensee sharing the catching.

Randy O'Neill led the winners with two hits, one exchanging to J. Vendill, J. Parks, J. Forester and Mc. Bell. Dandy Lapensee, T. Ray and Dainard bagged two hits apiece for the CNR.

D. Lapensee and S. Moore combined for a five-hitter, fanning eleven and walking four as the Peewee IBEW crew Venditti was their receiver. Wayne Farmer gave up eight hits, walked five and walked four for Sine's Shell. S. Coughlin was his batterymate.

The Sine's club was forced to use players from other teams to record a lineup for the game.

S. Moore belted a pair of doubles and a single for IBEW. Sankey got two hits; B. Harrison, Venutti, and C. Adams one each.

Ed Christopher had two Sine's safeties, W. Estrell, B. Fobert and S. Coughlin getting the others.

SIGNEY RETIRED

BOSTON (AP) — Los Angeles Angels' Bill Rigney has been fined $50 by the American League, the club revealed Saturday. The fine was handed out as a result of umpire Al Saverno's report of the ejection of Rigney from Friday night's Angels-Red Sox game. The two engaged in hot words and a shoving duel.

Manny Jimenes, the rambunctious revolutionary, still may have problems, but he won't get any sympathy from Baltimore Orioles.

Jimenez powered the lowly Kansas City Athletics to a 3-1 victory over the American League leaders Sunday less than 24 hours after he ripped Baltimore pitching for three homer runs in five innings.

The 25-year-old native of the Dominican Republic doubled home two runs and scored the third as the Athletics climbed out of the cellar for only the second day in more than a month.

In other American League games Sunday, Minnesota Twins bombed New York Yankees 8-2, Chicago White Sox shut out Cleveland Indians 2-0 and 5-0, Detroit Tigers swept Washington Senators 6-3 and 3-0 and Boston Red Sox dowped Los Angeles Angels 9-6.

The Yankees downed the Twins 7-5 and 2-1 Saturday while Detroit whipped Washington 5-3, Chicago blanked Cleveland 4-0 and Boston clobbered the Angels 13-5. The Kansas City-Baltimore game was halted by curfew with the score tied at five after nine innings.

Pitcher John O'Donoghue and George Williams singled in the third Sunday before Jimenez doubled. Rocky Colavito then singled in Jimenez. Bob Johnson homered in the third for Baltimore.

Harmon Killebrew clouted his 30th home run and added three singles as the Twins stopped Whitey Ford's 10-game winning streak, handing the ace southpaw his first defeat since opening day.

The Twins' ace increased their shutout mastery over the Indians to three straight games Juan Pizarro scattered seven hits in the opener as Mike Hershberger and Pete Ward slammed consecutive homers in the first inning. Jack Kralick allowed only two more hits the rest of the way.

Joel Horlen came back with four-hitter in the nightcap, permitting the Indians their two hits after the second inning.

Joe Sparma hurled a four-hitter for the Tigers in the second game. He also led the offensive punch against the Senators, driving in two runs with a triple in the fifth and scoring on Billy Bruton's double.

Errors by Don Blasingame and Jim King helped Detroit score three runs and break a 4-4 tie in the fifth inning of the opener.

Boston won a slugfest from the Angels on Tony Conigliaro's three-run homer in the eighth. Willie Smith's run-scoring single had given the Angels a 6-5 lead in the seventh, but Dick Stuart tied it minutes later with a home run.

Blanks Mark Commercial Ball Games

A pair of 4-0 shutouts were played in postponed Commercial Softball League games on Saturday.

Junior Day marked his return to the loop by hurling Belvedere Hotel to a 4-0 shutout over the first-place City Hotel squad.

George Young also pitched a 4-0 shutout to give Lightfoots the win over Black Diamond, boosting them into a tie with City Hotel.

Day hurled three-hit ball, struck out five and did not walk a batter for Belvedere. Moe Hawkins was tagged for 11 hits, fanning two and walking one in defeat. Two double plays were started by Doug Hull, helped keep the score down.

J. Clapp singled in the first and scored on Perry's base hit in the second when Belvedere went ahead 3-0. Clapp got the final run in the fifth with a homer.

M. Ryan, G. Perry and J. McFee also had two hits each for the victors. G. Young, D. Benn and J. Day shared the others.

F. Donovan, J. Rutherford and D. Moreau got the only City Hotel blows.

G. Young pitched four-hit ball for Lightfoots while his mates got him three runs on two hits and another in the fifth. Young struck out six and walked five. J. Day, Lightfoots' ace, won his whiffed none and walked four on six. Black Diamond hillstop.

Bill Dicker provided a solo home run for Lightfoots while Ken Byrnes and Rochester tripled in singles. Don Dolan doubled while other hits went to Rusty Garvin, John Hazard and Jack Caddick.

Bob Cruickshank singled twice in Lightfoots' eight-run fifth. Kellar once each for Black Diamond.

Joyces Play 2 Home Games During Week

A couple of changes involving the Joyces have been announced in the Eastern Ontario Senior Baseball schedule for this week-end.

On Friday, July 10, the Joyces at Canadians game has been cancelled and Oshawa will play a postponed game against Alex.

Cannifton and Belleville will use the open night to play a game, postponed from June 15, at the Belleville Fairgrounds at 8.30. This will be Belleville's home game, the Joyce club having beaten Cannifton 4-2 here for their only home game.

Belleville also has a home game on Wednesday at night when the Brockville Beavers will supply the opposition in an 8.30 tilt.

Blanks Mark Commercial Ball Games

A pair of 4-0 shutouts were played in postponed Commercial Softball League games on Saturday.

Junior Day marked his return to the loop by hurling Belvedere Hotel to a 4-0 shutout over the first-place City Hotel squad.

George Young also pitched a 4-0 shutout to give Lightfoots the win over Black Diamond, boosting them into a tie with City Hotel.

Day hurled three-hit ball, struck out five and did not walk a batter for Belvedere. Moe Hawkins was tagged for 11 hits, fanning two and walking one in defeat. Two double plays were started by Doug Hull, helped keep the score down.

J. Clapp singled in the first and scored on Perry's base hit in the second when Belvedere went ahead 3-0. Clapp got the final run in the fifth with a homer.

M. Ryan, G. Perry and J. McFee also had two hits each for the victors. G. Young, D. Benn and J. Day shared the others.

F. Donovan, J. Rutherford and D. Moreau got the only City Hotel blows.

G. Young pitched four-hit ball for Lightfoots while his mates got him three runs on two hits and another in the fifth. Young struck out six and walked five. J. Day, Lightfoots' ace, won his whiffed none and walked four on six. Black Diamond hillstop.

Bill Dicker provided a solo home run for Lightfoots while Ken Byrnes and Rochester tripled in singles. Don Dolan doubled while other hits went to Rusty Garvin, John Hazard and Jack Caddick.

Bob Cruickshank singled twice in Lightfoots' eight-run fifth. Kellar once each for Black Diamond.

Triple Play Features Plane Win

Plane's Concrete hammered out 17 assorted base hits and pulled off a three triple play while whipping Desercoto Sand in weekend South Hastings Baseball League action.

The triple play came in the bottom of the eighth inning. Desercoto got scored two runs and had men on first and second when Plane's playing coach, first baseman Ross Empey, speared a line drive, stepped on first for two out and fired to second, getting the man on there, to complete the "three-ender."

Butch Clapp pitched eight-hit ball for the winners, fanning three and walking six. Eric Bartlett and Cary Tinny tolled in defeat, whiffing eight and walking five. The winners had five-run explosions in the sixth and ninth innings.

Pat O'Connor slammed a home run, triple and double for Plane's Concrete. Ron Urch homered and batted in two. Harvey hit two doubles, Ross Empey three singles, Harry Cole and Butch Clapp two apiece. Don Forsythe, Hugh Petrie and Ken Forsythe had one singles.

E. Bartlett and W. Brant got two Desercoto hits each and E. Keller doubled. Others went to B. Howland, B. Detlor and G. Huffman.

Plane's	210 005 105—14 17 6
Desercoto	100 000 120— 4 8 1

Batteries: B. Clapp and L. Harvey; E. Bartlett, C. Tinny (6) and W. Brant.

FOOTY WINS

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A. J. Foyt, the Indianapolis 500 winner, swept by young Bobby Isaac on the final turn of the final lap and won the sixth annual Firecracker 400 stock car race by an eyelash Saturday. Foyt and Isaac swapped the lead nine times in the final 50 miles in as thrilling a race as the Daytona International Speedway has ever seen.

SETTER WORLD MARK

LOS ALTOS HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A team from the Santa Clara Swim Club bettered the pending world's record in the women's 400-metre medley relay Saturday with a mark of 4:38.1. Amateur Athletic Union officials who judged the competition said the mark will be submitted for record consideration. It bettered the pending record of 4:40.1, set by a Dutch team two weeks ago.

Sprinter Breaks 44-Year-Old Track Mark

HAMILTON (CP) — A 44-year-old Canadian track record was finally broken Saturday as 339 Ontario athletes competed in the Ontario track and field championships at Civic Stadium.

Cliff Nuttall, a 22 - year - old sprinter from Don Mills Track Club in suburban Toronto, turned in the record performance, running the 110-metre hurdles in 14.7 seconds. His time bettered the former record by one-tenth of a second.

Earl Thomson had established the record at Antwerp, Belgium in 1920, and although Larry O'Connor equalled the mark in Toronto in 1930, it had never been bettered.

The hurdles record was one of five set on the 33-event program.

Dave Ellis, the persistent Englishman who runs for the Toronto Olympic Club, ran the 880-metre dash in 1:52.1 to break Doug Kyle's record of 30:15.8, set at Vancouver in 1958.

SETS RECORD

Pat Wilson, a diminutive 15-year-old sprinter from the Don Mills Track Club, established one record and helped set another. She ran the special mile-girls' 400-metre dash in 12.2 to trim the existing best time of 12.4 set by Gwen Hills of Halifax in 1960.

When she joined with teammates Roberta Picco, Margaret Challand and G. Heilemann to clock 49.6 in the mile-girls' 400-metre relay, bettering the record of 50.9 also held by Don Mills.

Don Mills athletes also established another relay record when Cathy Chapman, Ann Verboom, Roberta Picco and Margie Snider ran the women's 400-metre event in 48.6.

The team was disqualified for using midget star Roberta Picco but was passed by Miss Walsh in the home stretch. The Toronto girl was clocked in 2:12.

After the race Abigail said she wasn't disappointed with the result.

"I've only been in competition for two weeks because of exams. Anyway, the first lap was too fast for me."

COACH DISAPPOINTED

Later, however, coach Paul Poce of Toronto said Abigail should have done much better.

"She wouldn't have won," he said. "But she should have come second. I think it was just a lapse in concentration."

Poce said he has arranged for Abigail to run next Saturday at Spartan Ladies Athletic Club of London. Jennifer Wingerson, 21, of Toronto, will also participate.

Miss Wingerson failed to qualify for the finals Saturday in the 220 yards and the 80-metre hurdles. She said she couldn't account for her loss of form.

Poce hopes Abigail will clock at least 2:08 for the 880 before leaving Britain next month. That would make her almost certain of an Olympic berth.

Abigail hopes to compete in the Welsh games in Cardiff July 25 and to run in the international meet between Britain and Hungary scheduled for Aug. 1 in London.

TAKE MATCHES

MONTREAL (CP) — Brian Flood, Redder Getz and Mike Carpenter won matches Saturday in the Canadian Davis Cup tennis trials. Flood, a London, Ont., player, beat Carpenter, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3 in completing a match interrupted by rain Friday. Flood was then beaten by Getz, of Vancouver, in afternoon play. Scores were 6-4, 9-3, 6-3. Carpenter, a Montrealer came back for 8-6, 12-10, 6-3 win over Val Hazit, also of Montreal.

Abigail Finishes In Third

LONDON (CP)—Canada's 17-year old Abigail Hoffman had to be content with third place in the 880-yard race at the British women's track and field championships Saturday.

Anne Smith of London was first in 2:08, followed by Anne Webb of the Midlands in 2:10.5.

Miss Smith held the lead all the way. Abigail, a young Toronto girl, challenged her on the back straight of the final lap but was passed by Miss Webb in the home stretch. The Toronto girl was clocked in 2:12.

After the race Abigail said she wasn't disappointed with the result.

"I've only been in competition for two weeks because of exams. Anyway, the first lap was too fast for me."

COACH DISAPPOINTED

Later, however, coach Paul Poce of Toronto said Abigail should have done much better.

Thompson Wins Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Pine Ridge golf course on Winnipeg's northeastern outskirts breeds success for Alvie Thompson, professional from Whitevale, Ont.

Thompson, Canadian professional match play champion, ground out a one-under-par 213 over Pine Ridge Thursday through Saturday to win the 54-hole Manitoba open golf championship.

It was his second Open victory in three years, both at Pine Ridge, a 6,439-yard par 37-34—71 layout. Last year, when the Open was held at Winnipeg's Southwood course, he lost in an extra-hole playoff with Dayton Olson of Hopkins, Minn.

Thompson's 213, only sub-par score in the tournament, earned him the Carling Cup and $1,200.

He finished four strokes ahead of Moe Norman of Toronto, 1963 Ontario Open champion, and Len Harvey of St. Boniface, Man.

SHOOTS 74

Norman had rounds of 72-70—74 and Harvey, Manitoba Open winner in 1953 and 1954, 77-68-71. The 68 was the best 18 by professionals and 39 amateurs who entered the tournament. Thompson had the second best round, a first-day 69 followed by 70-72. Norman and Harvey each won $200.

Wilf Homenuik, Winnipeg professional who won the Open in 1961, finished fourth with a 217—70-73-74, good for $500. He also earned a berth in the $200,000 World Golf Championship at Birmingham, Mich. Aug. 27-30.

Low amateur honors went to Nick Mickosh, former National Hockey League player.

Russians Win Challenge Cup

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP-AP) — Russia will take a lot of beating in the Olympic eight-oared crew.

This was the main lesson emerging from the four day Royal Henley Regatta which ended Saturday with a powerful Soviet crew capturing the top prize—the Grand Challenge Cup.

Can any Canadian or American crew bar the Soviet path at Tokyo when the Games begin next October?

Opinion was divided along the river bank at Henley. While the North Americans still must hold their Olympic trials, the Russians feel there won't be a sufficient revival in form by October for the North Americans to do well at Tokyo.

"It would take a miracle" to beat the Russians, Yevgeny Samsonov, leader of the Soviet Olympic rowing squad, told a reporter. "And miracles do not happen on this earth."

He gave no chance to the top U.S. crews — the University of California and the Harvard varsity eight which compete in the U.S. Olympic trials starting Wednesday.

PICKS GERMANS

The favorite for the Olympic titles, he said, must be the world champion Germans with the Soviet Union the closest contender.

Samsonov sent a spectacular Lithuanian eight — Club Zjalgiris Vilijnus — into action here. On three dashes over the one mile, 350 yard Henley course, they once equalled and twice bettered Cornell University's 1957 course record of 6½ minutes. The Russians were timed in 6:30, 6:25 and 6:23.

Two other Soviet crews are also in the running for Tokyo—the force eight from Moscow and a Kiev Naval crew. The Lithuanians probably have the edge.

Samsonov said they had covered the Olympic distance of 2,000 metres in 5:50. The best U.S. clocking by Harvard and Yale is 5:54.

AVOID WORD

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Lesage says he and his cabinet have been deliberately avoiding use of the word "province" when referring to Quebec in public speeches. The word province is only being used when it is necessary to distinguish between areas of jurisdiction, he told the special meeting of the Quebec Liberal Federation Sunday.

TV- Radio Column

Kitty Russell Never Will Be Kissed by Matt Dillon

Kitty Russell has been the proprietor of Gunsmoke's Long Branch Saloon for nine seasons. Amanda Blake, who has played kinless Kitty through the years, explains in the following column for vacationing Cynthia Lowry why Marshal Matt Dillon's romantic reserve can never be broken.

By AMANDA BLAKE

HOLLYWOOD (AP), — To someone who has a black eye, the obvious question can get pretty tiresome after it's been asked 40 or 100 times but to an actress, questions—however obvious—are always a good indication of how well she's doing.

So I am more encouraged than annoyed by the one question I have to answer more than any other: "Aren't you ever going to be kissed by Marshal Dillon?"

I suppose it is a little puzzling, after nine years, to see this kinless romance perpetuated between Kitty Russell — that's me—and Marshal Dillon—that's Jim Arness—on Gunsmoke.

There's an answer to the question: No. The answer is concerned with the nature of the characters involved, and with the nature of the show and its subject matter.

Gunsmoke tells the story of a frontier town, Dodge City and a man who tries, by strength and skill and courage, to fight back the lawlessness that could engulf it. The show offers fictional tales of a time and place and a situation that really existed.

ROMANCE SECONDARY

And romantic love, while not unknown to that time and place, was—had to be—secondary to the protagonist's struggle to stay alive and do his job. For the marshal to become overly involved in a romance could dilute the drama of his story.

So in order to avoid getting in the way of the story, we've eliminated the outward show of romance between the marshal and his girl, leaving the precise nature of the relationship between Matt Dillon and Kitty Russell to the individual interpretation of viewers — it has worked out pretty well.

Of course, it's traditional that western heroes like their horses better than they do girls. I can assure you that Marshal Dillon likes me—or Kitty Russell—better than he does his horse. I can also assure you that he won't ever be caught kissing his horse. Tradition or no Gunsmoke has always been based on the idea that the drama of the west could appeal to adults as well as to youngsters, and that there's enough drama in history that there's no need to use hokum.

The Trots

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Red Riddell, from the Rowsland farm of the Hon. Earl Rowe, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, captured the Superlest three-year-old trotting feature at Western Fair Raceway Saturday night.

With Mr. Rowe's son, Bill, in the sulky, Red Riddell finished second in the first heat of the two-heat event and then took first place in the second portion of the classic.

The colt proved best in the over-all summary, going the fastest of the two trips in the second heat in 2:09 3-5.

The other half of the Rowe entry, Flemington's Betsy, annexed the first heat. She was driven by Jack Reid and was clocked in 2:10.0. In the first dash, Flemington's Betty registered $3.50 to win, while Red Riddell paid $3.00 in the second heat.

Sports in Brief

TAKES CHAMPIONSHIP

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Jonathan Wyatt, 15, of Brockville, Sunday won the Canadian championship for international 14-foot dinghies, winning four of seven races in the two-day regatta held here as part of Brockville's first summer carnival. Second was Joseph Springer of the Trident Yacht Club Kingston.

WINS GRAND PRIX

FRANCORCHAMPS (CP-AP) Mike Duff of Toronto won the Canadian class in the motorcycle Grand Prix of Belgium Sunday, setting a lap record of 120.292 miles an hour over the 8.5-mile course. Duff, driving a Yamaha, completed the nine-lap, 76.85-mile event in the average speed of 118.410 miles an hour.

BREAKS OWN RECORD

MOSCOW (AP) — Tatyana Shchelkanova of Russia, a muscular television engineer from Leningrad, bettered her own world record in the women's broad jump Saturday with a mighty leap of 21 feet, 11 inches in a track and field meet. The 27-year-old Russian girl's old record was 21-8.

TOPS JAVELIN MARK

BERLIN (AP) — An East German girl threw the javelin 180 feet, 5½ inches Saturday, bettering the world record for junior women competitors, ADN, the official East German news agency, reported. ADN said Helgard Richeiger broke the record of 178-1 held by a Norwegian girl.

MAY LOSE SIGHT

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Glenn Morrow, 14, who survived two 27,000 - volt currents which passed through his body, may lose his eyesight. He has already lost 85 per cent of vision in his right eye after the current did damage to both eyes, burned more than 60 per cent his body and melted his rubber-soled shoes June 11. He had climbed a fenced-in transformer at a Windsor utilities commission substation and grabbed a live wire while searching for a ball.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 7

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Argument with associate or relative could prove beneficial. Don't hold back on honest opinion! Many may be observing. You can come through beautifully by frank expression.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): There are financial questions indicated. But they can be answered. Major key is being willing to finish project. Realize you were on right track. You don't have to back-pedal.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Cycle high. Day filled with action. Take care in performance of normal household duties. Tendency is to take routine matters for granted. This could lead to accidents. Stay awake!

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Your intuition provides reliable guide. One to be taught you in past due to make reappearance. Instead of being arrogant—keep mind open. There is much to be learned. Stress logical approach.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 23): Pleasure to be gained through social activity. Keep mind and heart open. The more you give . . . the more you will receive. You can put into force a fine, great feeling of gratitude. Do so!

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): If you do your "homework" all is well. Persons in authority are receptive. But additional facts are necessary. Format should be prepared by myself. Don't assume that others understand.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): If you present ideas in favorable manner you succeed. Remember: You catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, with sincere beliefs.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): member . . . you will succeed. If you heed advice of family Lend helping hand to mate or business partner. Money question can be settled in fair manner. Previous mystery due to be solved.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Expect opposition. Be prepared for skeptical questions. Don't become depressed. You can overcome most obstacles through display of patience, humor.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Persons you previously dismissed could benefit your cause. Take time to realize potential. There is opportunity for advancement. But you may need advice and assistance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): In question of business or pleasure . . . be logical! Answer is that simple. Day to promote creative efforts . . . and to promote your own personal welfare. Make loved one happy.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Show of determination can gain objective. Temptation is to "give in." But if you do . . . you lose emotionally and financially. Stick to principles. Insist on doing what must be done.

If today is your birthday . . . you are serious, inclined toward theology, able to perceive needs of those in trouble.

General Tendencies: Facts, documents, agreements come under fire.

DRIVER INJURED

REIMS, France (AP) — Peter Arundell of Britain was seriously injured Sunday in an accident in the formidable race which followed the 12 - hour Reims Grand Prix race for sports cars. Witnesses said Arundell, in a single seater Lotus - Cosworth, ran off the road immediately ahead of Richie Ginther of the United States. They said Ginther was so close behind that he could not avoid running into the side of Arundell's car.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved

7/4/64

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — E. James Langill of Montreal is one of the saddest horsemen in Canadian thoroughbred racing, even though his colt Langcrest won the $12,125 Achievement Handicap Saturday before 16,413 patrons at Woodbine Racetrack.

The source of Langill's despair is the fact that he came up with a colt of Langcrest's speed in a season when it happens that there's a Canadian-bred called Northern Dancer in the three-year-old ranks.

Langcrest was second to Northern Dancer in the Queen's Plate two weeks ago when the pot was worth $90,000 for the winner and $12,500 for second.

In Saturday's Achievement Handicap, Langcrest beat each top three-year-old contenders as Brockton Boy, Later Mail, winner of the Canadian Oaks, and Famous Road.

Langcrest covered the mile on turf in 1:37, paying $5.80, $3.80 and $3.10. Arctic Hills paid $13 and $6.20 and Brockton Boy $5.10.

Sodalite From Bancroft

The Whole Family Runs This Mine

SODALITE ROCK — is in demand as collectors' item and as settings for costume jewellery. Carl Bosiak, Bancroft mine operator, displays chunk of sodalite ore from Princess Mine. (Inset shows polished stone as used in earring setting).

From the unmined raw blue sodalite ore to the finished article as seen in the polished setting of a piece of fashion jewellery is the one-family enterprise of a Bancroft district mining man.

Three years ago Carl P. Bosiak, Stirling and Bancroft area prospector, acquired the old unworked Princess Sodalite Mine east of Bancroft.

Using modern mechanized equipment he quarries out the blue sodalite ore and sells it to collectors and rockhounds coming from many parts of Canada and the United States.

The ore is in demand by universities for furthering geological studies, for fashioning bookends and other ornamental uses, but a growing percentage is being cut and polished for the fashion jewellery trade.

Those deep cobalt blue stones seen in necklaces, bracelets, earrings and cufflinks, could very well be sodalite — and the raw material could have come from the Princess Sodalite Mine at Bancroft.

So besides quarrying out the raw material, Mr. Bosiak felt he may as well follow through the process of cutting and polishing the stones and setting them into fashion jewellery.

FAMILY

That is where his family comes in. Much of the finish work of polishing and setting the sodalite stones in the bracelets and earrings is done by his three young sons.

To complete the sequence of his "raw-ore-to-finished-article" project, the Bancroft mine operator has built a 24-by-40-foot display building from where he operates what is possibly the only retail outlet in Central Ontario dealing almost exclusively in rocks.

Mr. Bosiak sells sodalite ore both in the raw and finished state and in addition offers rock specimens of almost every description from all over Canada and the United States and many other parts of the world.

Rock collecting is a serious business for a growing number of rockhounds and rock collectors clubs have sprung up all over the country.

3 RARE SPECIMENS

To acquire new and rare rock specimens for their collection, the rockhounds go on annual safaris and many of them pass through the Bancroft district, long recognized as a rock collector's paradise.

In the Bancroft area there are outcroppings of a wide variety of mineral rocks ranging all the way from Apatite to Sodalite.

In his "rock" store Mr. Bosiak has samples of 20 or more rocks and minerals from the Bancroft area alone. It all works out as a convenience for the rockhound who at one stop can see a variety of specimens which otherwise could take hours or even days of travelling.

Sodalite in its raw state is quite ordinary in appearance, but rock collectors are attracted by the color richness brought out when it is cut and polished.

The history of Bancroft sodalite goes back prior to the turn of the century with the Princess mine being last worked extensively about 1905.

The story goes that the then Prince and Princess of Wales during a visit to Canada were presented with specimens of blue sodalite. The Princess admired the richness of the deep blue color and arrangements were made to ship a quantity to England.

In 1906 about 130 tons of the ore was shipped overseas and used in the decoration of the residence of Sir Ernest Cassell in his Park Lane residence in London.

Because of the interest of British Royalty in sodalite the Bancroft deposit came to be known as the Princess Quarry, recently named Princess Sodalite Mine.

Since re-opening the old mine three years ago, Mr. Bosiak has found considerable demand for the sodalite and with more of it being in the fashion jewellery trade an even bigger demand could be in sight.

ROCK DISPLAY — As well as offering rock specimens for sale, Princess Mine also has a rock display. Above is section of display rack showing rock specimens from many areas.

ROCK STORE — is 1964 venture for Princess Sodalite Mine owner at Bancroft. It's possibly the only store in the district which sells rocks.

ENTERS THEATRE

Ray Walston of TV's My Favorite Martian program broke into acting at a Texas playhouse with a farce that required him to speak one word: "Hello."

JEWELLERY MAKING — is A to Z project for Bosiak family. Rock is mined, tumbled and polished and set in costume jewellery. William Bosiak sets sodalite stone into bracelet.

Vanier Writing Own Ticket on Length of Stay

OTTAWA (CP) — Governor-General Vanier apparently is writing his own ticket on how long he continues as vice-regal representative.

His five-year term expires officially Sept. 15 but his schedule extends beyond that date, including duties in connection with the Queen's visit in October to Charlottetown and Quebec.

The health of the governor-general, 76 last April 23, will be the limiting factor and informants say he will be the judge on when to leave.

While he suffered a mild heart attack in the spring of 1963, he has fully recovered.

Speculation about a successor has died away and the last name mentioned was that of George Drew, former Conservative leader, when he retired as Canadian high commissioner in Britain.

Prime Minister Pearson has expressed the hope publicly and privately that Gen. Vanier can carry on.

He has been a firm advocate of national unity as Canada's first French-speaking governor-general. One of his last public engagements was as guest to a huge St. Jean Baptiste Society celebration in Montreal, where he was booed by a small group of separatists.

Aside from any other consideration, it is believed the government is happy to put off the difficult task of a successor until Gen. Vanier feels he wants to quit.

QUAKE ROCKS MEXICAN COAST STATE

24 Lives Are Lost In Racial Violence

British Guiana Govt. Clamps On Tight Control

Explosion on Riverboat Only One of Many Acts

GEORGETOWN (CP-Reuters) Security forces in the terror-ridden colony of British Guiana clamped a tight control including curfew along a stretch of the Demerara River where Canadian aluminum interests have a $200,000,000 development following an explosion of racial violence that cost more than 24 lives Monday night.

Four Indians were beaten to death and 14 other persons sent to hospitals in the towns of Wismar and MacKenzie. Earlier, a bomb exploded on the riverboat Sun Chapman, killing possibly 20 persons or more.

Police said that 50 persons aboard the boat when the bomb went off were mostly Negroes.

The five-month-old situation in the colony started with a strike in the sugar industry. Since then, seething hatred between Negroes and Indians has resulted in 69 deaths — exclusive of those killed Monday.

Governor Sir Richard Luyt issued an order today giving security forces sweeping powers and authorizing the supreme court to hand out floggings and life sentences to persons convicted of illegal possession of arms and explosives.

HOUSES BURNED

Three houses were afire in Wismar and Mackenzie Monday night when British troops moved in clearing the streets and ordering a curfew throughout the Demerara-Essiquibo district along the Demerara River.

Canada has extensive bauxite holdings in the area carved out of jungle. The Demerara Bauxite Company Limited is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Located 65 miles upriver from Georgetown, the company was first established in the jungle in 1916. Since then Alcan has invested $200,000,000, the latest large amount being $65,000,000 for a new plant opened in 1961.

The Sun Chapman was sailing from Georgetown to Mackenzie when the bomb exploded.

Acquit Chief Surgeon

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Burns Plewes, chief surgeon at Toronto East General Hospital, was acquitted Monday of failing to notify a coroner of the death of a woman who died in the hospital after a surgical clamp was left in her abdomen during an operation.

Magistrate James Butler dismissed the charge—the first of 40 against five doctors and the hospital's administrator—on a technicality. He found the Crown had failed to prove that the death of Patricia Morgan, 22, was not reported.

John Houlihan, special Crown counsel, said later Dr. Plewes will be arraigned today on another of the six charges against him, all in connection with the same death. The accused are being tried singly. The chief surgeon's first trial Monday opened the series.

Magistrate Butler's abrupt ruling, in a case that had raised a public furore seven months ago over allegations that medical men covered up the causes of some hospital deaths, came as a jolt to both prosecution and defence.

Defence Counsel D. E. Laidlaw had argued that Dr. Plewes had no responsibility to report the death of the woman to a coroner, but had not suggested there was no evidence that a report was not filed. Prosecutor Houlihan said there was a "clear contravention" of the Coroners Act by Dr. Plewes.

MADE CHARGE

During his request into Miss Morgan's death in February, Mr. Houlihan charged the case had been "swept under the rug" by the hospital, but hospital au-

Civil Rights Tests Meet Resistance

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Negroes ran into scattered pockets of resistance in testing the new Civil Rights Act Monday and integration leaders mapped plans for intensified campaigns especially in Alabama.

Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. announced in Birmingham that his staff members would go to Tuscaloosa and Selma, Ala., to begin assessing the situation in these cities. He said his Southern Christian Leadership Conference would concentrate its efforts in Alabama this summer.

Meeting with King's group to "re-evaluate summer plans in light of what has happened in response to the civil rights bill" were members of the Congress of Racial Equality and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

At Selma, 55 Negroes and six whites were jailed when civil rights forces launched a new voter registration drive.

Negroes integrated bulgesses and facilities in Fort Smith, Ark.; Charleston, Greenville and Myrtle Beach, S.C.; Memphis, Tenn.; Daytona Plant City and Dunnellon, Fla.; and Meridian, Miss.

Negroes were turned away from one eating establishment in Ozark, but integrated four others.

Martin Welcomes Russian Call For Permanent UN Peace Force

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russia's proposal for the creation of a permanent United Nations military force, a field in which Canada has been engaged for some time, has been called "an important and positive step" by Canada's Paul Martin.

In Washington, the proposal aroused deep interest and U.S. officials studied evidence—still inconclusive—that Russia may be shifting its policy toward the UN.

Martin, Canada's external affairs minister, told a reporter in Ottawa that one possible objection to the Soviet proposal would be exclusion of the five permanent members of the Security Council from the force.

Martin said all members of the UN must take part in one way or another in UN peace-keeping work and noted that Britain is a member of the UN force in Cyprus.

Prime Minister Pearson and Martin have proposed an international peace - keeping force which would be held in readiness for UN duty.

The Russian proposal was made in a note to the Japanese foreign office. It said Russia would be willing to "shoulder its due share of expenses" for an international peace force if it was under the sole control of the Security Council — where Russia has veto power.

The proposal also would exclude from the force all troops of the five permanent members of the UN Security Council—Russia, The United States, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

Observers in Tokyo saw this as an attempt to force U.S. troops out of South Korea where they are stationed as a UN force and under a UN command, although it is largely American.

The Russian proposal also called for the inclusion, as an "imperative necessity," of Communist troops along with those from Western and neutral countries in any UN military force, and Communist representation in any UN military command.

The state department, in Washington said it had not received any note on the subject.

In the U.S. view, the Soviet attitude toward UN peace-keeping operations has generally been uncooperative in the past.

The Soviet government has usually objected to the employ-

Tshombe Still Seeks Ministers

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Congolese Premier - Designate Moise Tshombe, who boasted Sunday he could select a cabinet within 24 hours, today was still picking his team to run the government he was asked to lead Monday.

The former Katanga secessionist leader said the task of choosing a cabinet would be neither easy nor quick.

He said he would form a cabinet of between 10 and 12 "young men."

President Joseph Kasavubu asked the 44-year-old Tshombe, who fought for more than two years to keep his mineral-rich Katanga province independent of the Congo, to draw up a cabinet list just 11 days after he returned from a self-imposed exile in Europe.

One of Tshombe's first acts was to seek aid from the West.

31 Reported Dead But Toll May Be Higher

Noted Tourist Resort, Acapulco, Not Damaged

Cp from AP-Reuters

MEXICO CITY — The earthquake that rocked Mexico's Pacific coastal state of Guerrero took 31 lives, the government says, but no damage or casualties were reported in the crowded resort of Acapulco.

Some newspaper reports said more than 40 persons were killed and hundreds were injured.

Officials feared the final death toll might be higher when the debris is cleared in dozens of stricken towns and villages.

The quake early Monday was felt both in Acapulco and in this capital city 175 miles to the northeast. In Mexico City, buildings were swayed and two persons were reported to have died from heart attacks brought on by the shocks.

Reports reaching the federal government from Guerrero state said most of the 31 victims were crushed under collapsing mud buildings in mountain villages.

Raimundo Abarca Calderon, the state governor, joined rescue teams that flew into the stricken zone by helicopter.

PLANES DROP SUPPLIES

Army planes dropped supplies to homeless villagers in the fields near the ruins. The region is linked with the outside world only by one gravel road.

Acapulco radio station XERH said it had confirmed 18 deaths in Coyuca de Catalan, 100 miles north of the resort, and reported the village had been destroyed.

Another report said four persons were killed in Ciudad Altamirano and that 80 per cent of the buildings there were destroyed.

Damage also was reported in the coastal resort villages of Zihuatanejo, north of Acapulco.

Other villages reported hit by the quake were Tierra Caliente Thlalehuala, Ajuchitlan, San Miguel de Totoapan, Totolapa, Leactepec, Cocula, Costiuyutla and Acoultahuaya.

Acapulco, packed with tourists, was shaken for about half a minute.

The tremor in Mexico City was the capital's sharpest since the 1957 earthquake that took 68 lives. Buildings swayed, walls cracked and frightened tourists rushed into the streets in their nightclothes.

Progress Slow In House

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — Progress was slow Monday as the Commons tackled the first of six legislative items the government hopes to have passed in the next 2½ weeks.

The government is trying to clear the six measures and get back to the flag debate by about July 23. A summer recess would follow a flag vote.

Prime Minister Pearson said last week he believed the bill setting up a single defence chief to replace the present three chiefs of staff could be approved within hours.

But the bill, which took up three days of Commons time earlier in the session and several meetings of the Commons defence committee, occupied the full 6½-hour Monday sitting.

It will be the lead-off item on the Commons agenda again today. Due next week is a bill to pay youth allowances to those aged 16 and 17 who remain at school or who are disabled.

The allowances will mean an added $12 million a month for these children.

The Commons did get through its clause-by-clause committee study of the defence bill Monday.

ASK MORE DETAILS

But Conservatives continued to hammer at Defence Minister Hellyer for more information on proposed integration of the armed forces, hoping a race debate on third and final reading be the measure. Third reading is usually a formality.

Led by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, the Conservatives warned that putting a single "military superman" in charge of the forces was a dangerous move and had been found unworkable in other countries.

They accused Mr. Hellyer of not answering all of their questions and of giving misleading

Lions' Invitation to Wallace Still Stands Says President

TORONTO (CP)—The executive of Alabama Governor George Wallace's scheduled speech to a Lions International convention here Thursday is unheated up further Monday when the service club's president said the invitation still stands.

The Toronto Lions Committee on Human Rights asked President Aubrey Green of York, Ala., Monday not to let the segregationist governor address the annual convention which gets under way here Wednesday.

A telegram from committee chairman Eamon Park said the invitation was extended only to Canadians because of the government's strong segregationist attitude.

Mr. Green replied: "No change is being given to the withdrawal of the invitation."

Earlier Monday the Lions' 91-member board of directors passed a resolution which noted that for many years it has been the custom of the president and president-elect to invite the chief executive of their native state, province or country to the annual conventions."

The resolution also expressed confidence Toronto will extend a warm welcome although efforts have been made to link "the association and this convention's purposes with subjects of a political nature that are unrelated to the club's objectives."

Farmers Mostly Cheerful About Their Crop Prospects

Farmers across Canada are mostly cheerful about crop prospects, although drought is causing alarm in north-central Saskatchewan and there are patches of trouble elsewhere.

Across the country in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley, Tom McLaughlin expects to do "much better than last year" from his 7,000 apple trees and his cherries and pears. "We need some sun to bring the

Republicans Gather for Convention
Scranton Wants GOP Platform to Condemn John Birch Society

SAN FRANCISCO (CP-AP)—Governor William Scranton wants the Republican party platform to condemn the John Birch Society and support the legality of the U.S. civil rights laws, both demands aimed at Senator Barry Goldwater.

But Scranton got the cold shoulder from Michigan's Governor George Romney, a key man in the stop - Goldwater movement.

Romney said on his arrival here Monday night that he thinks the Republican party should make it clear it opposes extremism but that he opposes any specific denunciation of the John Birch group.

Representative Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the platform committee, said in an interview he also is opposed to putting any such declaration in the platform.

Scranton had said in a letter to Laird:

"I feel the platform should contain an outright condemnation of extremist groups of both the left and the right and that it should name the John Birch Society as an organization of which the Republican party specifically disapproves."

Goldwater has criticized Robert Welch, the society's founder who once called President Eisenhower a Communist supporter, but has said he knows many good people among the Birchers.

The society, which has headquarters at Belmont, Mass., describes itself as an "educational army . . . dedicated to opposing the Communist conspiracy."

Scranton, governor of Pennsylvania, hopes to win the republican presidential nomination by holding enough delegates to keep the heavily-favored Goldwater from getting the required 655 votes on the first ballot.

There with probable switches on the second and other ballots —if they are needed—Scranton would hope to grab the nomination himself.

Scranton's backers also were expected in time for another setback in a ruling by Representative Katherine St. George of New York, the convention parliamentarian, that rules of the House of Representatives will govern convention actions. The platform committee adopted similar rules Monday night.

The parliamentarian's ruling would mean that Laird would control the time and designate the speakers on both sides for convention debate on any proposed amendments to his committee's platform recommendations.

Laird is opposed to any platform declaration about the constitutionality of the civil rights bill. Goldwater voted against the legislation in the senate on the grounds that the public accommodations and equal employment sections were unconstitutional.

In Washington, Goldwater's campaign manager, Denison Kitchel, said there will be a fight if efforts are made to put the constitutionality issue in the platform.

The issue assumed added proportions because Scranton and Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, one of his principal advisers, made it clear they expect to carry it to the convention floor to add to the emotional atmosphere there.

Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, former congresswoman and ambassador to Italy, recommended at the opening session of the platform committees Monday night that the party go on record in support of the new civil rights law. But she avoided any mention of the constitutional issue.

Among other council recommendations was one that the United States drop the 1970 deadline for lifting a man on the moon and cut expenditures to this field, which Mrs Luce said is not "primarily scientific in its objective."

She reported the council favors further tax cuts "if the budget is kept close to balance and federal spending is restrained." The council opposed "further concessions" in the Panama Canal dispute urged a new presidential statement of policy for the Far East and recommended taking the wraps off exiles in their efforts to raid Cuba.

Mrs. Luce read the report after Dr. Milton Eisenhower, head of the council, withdrew as a witness because he will place Scranton's name in nomination.

Scranton's selection of Milton Eisenhower to place his name in nomination left widespread feeling among the delegates that perhaps this wasn't the Eisenhower he needed.

Privately, governor Romney and his campaign strategists have hinted for days that former president Eisenhower should enlist publicly on their side. But the choice of the general's brother to make the showpiece presentation of Scranton's name to the convention indicated their hopes in this respect were dashed.

Carp Invade Moira Daily To Breakfast in Rivermouth

Tails perisooping a salute to early morning river-bankers, hope carp invade the lower stretches of the Moira these warm July mornings.

The mud-probing "suckers" dive for their breakfasts between six and nine a.m., some times later.

This morning some twenty five or more of the big-scaled scavengers were seen breaking the surface with flapping tails.

They enter the river from the bay and venture about half way to the lower city bridge.

Indicative of their size is the fact they flip some six inches of body and tail out of the water in depths of from three to four feet.

Disturbances of the water indicate the carp are individual food-seekers. There is no evidence they travel in schools, unless they enter the river at a piston and are dismissed to seek their early-morning fare.

They feed upon river-bottom vegetation, larvae and insects. In the winter they hibernate and require no food.

The carp has no teeth in its mouth and has sets of choppers in its throat. It is more adaptable to sluggish lakes and swamp ponds than free-flowing water.

The carp is edible but not many people in this district, at least, would select it for lunch.

Sometimes there is a good market for the fish. Tons of it have been shipped from the city to New York and other large American centres.

It's a highly-prized dish in some European countries, especially those through which the River Danube flows.

Not too many years ago the carp invaded the marshes of Prince Edward County in record numbers. Farmers captured them and used them for fertilizer.

But there is no truth in the rumor that one farmer after fertilizing his potato patch with the carp, harvested a good yield of fish and chips.

Escapees Have Six Months Added to Terms

Two youths who successfully escaped over the walls of Hastings county jail, yesterday were given six months each for the attempt.

William Lavern Smith, 19, and 16-year-old Donald Campell had the sentence added on by Judge T. C. Anderson to terms they already were serving for theft.

Both escaped June 11 but their bid for freedom was shortlived. .

Plainclothes constable Robert Bowerbank told the court he pair made the break by "shinnying" up a water pipe or hydro conduit. They were arrested on Alexander Street three minutes after police were warned of the escape.

In the interim Campoli had changed his clothes at the home of a relative on Victoria Avenue.

Both were sentenced last month by Magistrate F. V. Wills for a series of car thefts and burglary.

Smith was sentenced to Kingston penitentiary for two years and Campoli to a reformatory term of one year definite and six months indeterminate.

Rotarians Hear Report Of Convention

The Belleville Rotary Club met for its weekly meeting yesterday at noon in the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte.

After a tasty meal, the club was entertained and informed by the guest speaker for the meeting, the vice-president of the club, Ernie Burnham.

Mr. Burnham spoke on the 55th Rotarian International Convention that was held in Toronto June the 7th to the 11th. In his address he stressed the world wide nature of Rotary with its 553,000 members in 122 countries and geographical areas.

Mr. Burnham went on to give his fellow Rotarians a description of the convention and reported on the addresses by Prime Minister Pearson and Lord Thompson of Fleet, the global newspaper magnate.

He concluded his talk, bringing to the Belleville Rotarians the words of the new president of Rotary, Charles W. Pettit, guild of Greenwich, Conn. President Pettinglan urged all to live Rotary, and thus increase the prospects of world peace. A warm invitation was extended to all to attend next year's convention which will be held in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Vice-President Burnham was introduced and thanked by the new president, Stan Reston.

Obituary

MISS JENNIE KANE

Following a funeral service in North Bay on Sunday evening, the body of Miss Jennie Kane was forwarded to this city for interment.

Under the direction of the Thompson Funeral Chapel, the committal rites were conducted in Belleville Cemetery by Rev. E. P. Smith on Monday afternoon.

The bearers were James Alexander, Leonard Steele, T. C. Thompson and David Thompson.

3 City Lots Near Plaza Sold to Builder

City council yesterday voted to sell to a local builder three city-owned lots on Bridge Street, which it had previously declined to sell to the RCMP as a site for a police headquarters building.

The lots, sold to builder Chas Lambert are those opposite The Belleville Plaza and which were formerly designated as park lands.

The lots were sold for $4, 100, $4,450 and $4,200, while a $2,500 bid by Mr. Lambert for the corner lot was held in reserve pending application to the Minister of Municipal Affairs asking approval to sell for less than the established price of $3,250.

Council Gives Final Okay To Purchase of Y Building For Use as Police Station

By a 7-4 vote-Belleville city council yesterday at a special meeting gave third and final reading to the by-law to purchase the Downtown YMCA and renovate the building as a police headquarters.

Last week the Ontario Municipal Board gave approval for the purchase.

At the same time yesterday council authorized its architect to prepare and submit plans, specifications and estimates of costs for the "Y" renovation.

A special committee of Aldermen Deacon, Boyle and Williams was named to work with the city hall staff and the police commission on the "Y" building renovation.

Purchase cost of the "Y" property will be $53,000, with renovation costs limited to $100,000 at a total for the project of $158,000.

ALDERMEN OBJECT

But before the purchase by-law was given final reading at least three members of council expressed doubt that the renovation estimate could be accomplished for the $100,000 figure.

Alderman Don Whalen led off the objections.

"If I spend the completed for $100,000 what happens then?" he asked.

Aldermen William Jarvah expressed the same doubt but said his objection went even further.

"Personally I feel that it is the wrong location for a police station. Other sites should have been further ahead if the Ontario Municipal Board had authorized sufficient funds for a new building."

"Is this going run Belleville citizens will pay more for the old building," he warned.

Mayor Allin gave assurance that the "Y" renovation costs could not go above the $100,000 authorized by the municipal board.

"But the mayor knows as well as I that costs could go over that figure," returned Alderman Whalen.

"What is to stop starting off with $100,000 a year, then spending another $50,000 next year?" he asked.

ANSWERS OBJECTIONS

Alderman Jack Deacon took exception to Alderman Whalen's doubt that renovations could be accomplished for $100,000, claiming that Ald. Whalen and Ald. Jarvah were amateurs in the building renovation field.

"We have the assurance of our architect that the building is sound, that the proposal is sound, and that the building can be renovated for $100,00, he said.

Alderman George Brown admitted he was new to council but said, nevertheless, he had his own opinion of the advisability of renovating old buildings.

"I can see the city running into a problem which it has faced before," he said.

He said he knew something about buildings and could not see $100,000 sufficiently renovating the old "Y."

Neither did he think that the "Y" building was structurally sound.

At this point discussion arose as to whether the motion for purchase of the "Y" was properly on the meeting agenda. It seems the notice for the special meeting had gone out without the purchase agenda.

Mayor Ellis, however, declared the meeting was properly constituted and discussion continued.

Alderman Frank Murray said council could not delay the matter further.

"We are just beating around the bush on this. Police quarters are deplorable and are a disgrace to the city," he said.

When the vote was finally taken Aldermen Whalen, Jarvah, Brown and Harrison were opposed to the "Y" purchase. Casting approving votes were Mayor Ellis and Aldermen Allin, Boyle, Corke, Murray, David and Deacon.

Stratford Sunday Concerts Opened With Bach Program

By ROBERT TANNER

Without the box office attraction of Glenn Gould, the audience for the first Sunday afternoon concert at Stratford numbered only about 1,000, but what it lacked in numbers it fully made up in enthusiasm, discrimination and enthusiasm. It was a rare pleasure to be able to enjoy a concert marked by scarcely a single cough.

The afternoon was devoted entirely to the works of Bach. A pleasing mixture of familiar and unfamiliar, and all compositions of the period (1717 to 1723) during which he was Kapellmeister to the Prince of Anhalt-Cothen. It was at this time that the Brandenburg Concertos were composed, the first of which opened the program. The National Festival Orchestra, led by Victor Shumsky as violinist-conductor, gave it an exemplary performance. Of particular note were the trio sections of the finale, in which the wind instruments, oboes, bassoon and French horns, made light work of a very difficult assignment, for which they received a special round of applause.

For the next item in the program Mr. Shumsky was joined by David Nadien, a young American violinist who was chosen at a recent audition by Toscanini as a winner of the Leventritt award. Together, accompanied by the strings of the orchestra, they gave a dazzling performance of the Concerto in D Minor for two violins. The lovely work, with its fascinating three-way interplay between soloists and orchestra, was received with delighted acclamation from the audience.

CONTRAST PROVIDED

After this display of Bach as we normally know him, (the weaver of several melodic lines) the next item came as a complete contrast. Here Leon and Rose played the Suite No. 2 in D minor for unaccompanied cello. Another difficult work, it showed an unfamiliar facet of the composer as a pure melodist, with little or no harmony or counterpoint to assist in creating the overall effect. In Mr. Rose's capable hands, the difficulties of the piece were minimized and its lyrics came though in what was probably for most of the audience, a first hearing.

The concert ended on a rollicking note, as Mr. Shumsky, discarding his violin for a baton, led the orchestra in a lively performance of the Suite No. 3 in D. The delicate tenderness of the Second Air, the two stirring Gavottes, the Bourree and the rhythmic Gigue, sent the Suite and Aldermen. All summer afternoon with the feeling that Bach was not always the dry pedagogue which some of our early piano pieces suggest.

These Sunday afternoon concerts continue until August 16th with such world famous artists as Lois Marshall, Jacques Firkarnay, Walter Susskind, Israel Baker and Arthur Balsam. On Friday, August 14th, an extra concert features E. Power Biggs, playing an organ especially installed for the occasion in the Festival Theatre. With ticket prices ranging from $1.50 to $5. they all offer excellent value and the promise of a delightful and rewarding Sunday afternoon.

Beatles Get Bigger Cheer Than Royalty

LONDON (AP)—The Beatles got a bigger cheer than royalty Monday night at the opening of their first film, Scots 13,000 screaming teenagers packed Piccadilly Circus for a glimpse of their idols.

Ambulance men carried off about 20 fainting girls, including one who screamed from her stretcher: "Let me up! I want to see them!"

Eighty-five minor casualties had been recorded by 10 p.m., according to officers. Most were girls who fainted or were suffering from hysteria.

At the charity premiere were Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon. The ordinary Seatie fan had no chance to see the film—A third Day's Night — because tickets had been sold out for weeks at 14 guineas ($45) each.

Spilled Lime at Ball Park Gets in Eyes of Child, 2

Craig Old, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Old, 375 Mcdougall Avenue, received emergency treatment at the Belleville General Hospital last night after getting lime, spilled near a ball field, in his eyes.

Mr. Old said this morning that the boy was permitted to come home "and we are keeping our fingers crossed that there will be no permanent damage."

The child will be returning to the hospital to have the eyes checked shortly.

Old is a coach in the Belleville Minor Baseball Association and the incident brought forth a request for a little more care at ball parks where children play.

"I was luck enough to catch the child as soon as it happened," he said, "and rushed him to medical care immediately.

"The next child may not be so lucky and I would like to ask those using the ball diamonds to please be careful not to clean up any spilled or excessive lime."

Lime is used to line out the ball diamonds and Old said it looked as if a large amount had been spilled, likely when it was being removed from a car trunk at the Alemite Field last night.

The Alemite Field is used for Minor baseball and softball, as well as for Commercial Softball League games.

Pearson Arrives For Conference

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Lester Pearson arrived today for the 13th conference of Commonwealth prime ministers and said he has "one or two plans" for increased technical assistance within the family, group of nations.

And Pearson reacted with animation when he was asked by a reporter at London Airport whether the Commonwealth is losing real value.

"No indeed," he said emphatically. "I think it has a new value."

A QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF BOATS . . . lying in the harbor at Baker's Island off RCAF Station Trenton. Their owners, all members of the Canadian or American power squadrons, are taking part in the International Power Squadron Rendesvous this week.

Every Effort Being Made to Avert Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of the three Toronto daily newspapers and the International Typographical Union (CLC) met during the night in an effort to avert a strike. A spokesman for the publishers said "progress has been made and discussions will continue."

The meeting, which began at 9 p.m. Monday and lasted until 6:45 a.m. today, also included representatives of the international headquarters of the ITU.

The only issue separating the two groups involves jurisdiction over computers which can be used for typesetting as well as for other departments.

During a supper break, a union spokesman said:

"We've done more hard bargaining on the computer issue today than at any time in the past."

The union insists on controlling computers performing composing-room work. The newspapers object this.

ARGAINING STALLED

Bargaining for a new contract between the union and the three newspapers — The Globe and Mail, Star and Telegram—has been going on for 21 months.

The local is awaiting a reply from its international headquarters on a request to take a strike vote or to declare that the companies had created a lockout by announcing their intentions of instituting new work rules agreed on previously before the computer issue is settled.

The companies announced last week that all terms already agreed to by the union and the newspapers would go into effect Thursday.

In another development Monday, Orval McGuire, executive secretary of the Toronto Newspaper Guild (CLC), said the Guild will not take any action or make any statements until the situation reaches a crisis stage.

"He was speaking after the Guild executive met to discuss the position its members will take in case of a strike.

Chief Coroner Orders Inquest In Man's Death

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto, Monday ordered an inquest on Aug. 11 into the death of Donald Ferris, 47, who died Sunday several hours after being released from hospital where he had been treated for muriatic acid poisoning.

Ferris had been taken to the hospital Sunday after his wife found him unconscious on his verandа. Beside him was a note and a bottle of the acid.

He was released from hospital in the custody of his wife Sunday night after having his stomach pumped. But he became ill at home and was returned to the hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

An autopsy performed on the body Monday showed Ferris died of acute corrosive poisoning from muriatic acid, Dr. Shulman said.

The coroner also set Aug. 18 as the date for an inquest into the death of Mary Wakar, 70, who died at her home here last Thursday. Relatives of the woman claim she was refused admission to hospital a few hours before her death.

Council Decides Not to Pay Police Officers Overtime if 40-Hour Week Is Exceeded

TRENTON—If 17 Trenton police officers work more than the 40-hour regulation work week from now on . . . they won't be paid for the overtime.

At least, that's what the members of Trenton council say.

Following one hour of heated discussion last night, the members of council voted to stop all overtime payments to the police as of July 4, in an effort to force the police commission to institute a 40-hour work week in the local department, without the hiring of additional men.

Elmer Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West; Attorney General A. A. Wishart; Percy Milligan, chairman of the Ontario Police Commission; Constable Douglas Bradshaw, president of the Trenton Police Association and Judge J. C. Anderson and Magistrate W. R. Philp of the Trenton Police Association will all be notified of council's action by "confirmed" telegram today. Mayor James MacDonald is chairman of the local commission.

Judge Anderson and Magistrate Philp think that there are more men are needed on the local force if the 40-hour work week, granted to the police association in negotiations in 1963, is to be put into effect. The mayor and council feel that the 40 hours could be instituted without the addition of more men.

Council would also like to see Magistrate Philp replaced by a local resident, appointed by the Attorney General, as council claims Mayor MacDonald is constantly overworked by the two non-resident members.

Council said three months ago it would only pay more overtime pay, but since then, for one reason or another, has paid it.

Now, council has taken a "do-or-die" stand and decided to cut off the overtime pay . . . figuring the men won't work if they aren't going to be paid.

FEARS EXPRESSED

Grave fears were expressed by some members of council last night that council will really be "behind the eight ball," when a special investigating committee, appointed by the Ontario Police Commission and whose members include former Police Chief F. J. Taylor, gets around to investigating the local department.

"Is this how the Attorney General justified us . . . by appointing him (Chief Taylor) to this investigating committee?" queried Councillor Edward Todd.

Councillor Gerald Weaver claimed that council is being "ignored" by the Attorney General in regards to the issues between council and the Trenton Police Commission. He said that council had "laid the facts" before two attorney generals, (A. A Wishart and Frederick Cass) and both of them the Ontario Police Commission (Judge McDonald and Percy Milligan) and still was being "ignored."

"We've pointed out to them that we have the second highest police force in numbers per thousand in a comparison with 47 other departments," said the councillor, "and we're the seventh highest in per capita cost for police protection among the 47 departments. I don't think this council should be "ignored" even by the attorney general."

Councillor Ross Burtt said that Mr. Milligan had "softsoaped" council into paying overtime pay to the police for April and May by promising to take council's request for the replacement of Magistrate Philp before the attorney general.

Ask Railways To Clean-up Property Weeds

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald doesn't want to be accused of discrimination. When Councillor Joseph Gould asked council's approval at last night's council meeting to notify the Canadian National Railways to clean up weeds on its property in town, the mayor insisted the Canadian Pacific Railways be added to the formal request.

"We don't want to hurt the CNR's feelings," said the mayor.

WANT ANIMAL SHELTER

Pet control officer Hilda Jones has requested (and Councillor Gerald Weaver thinks it's "a good idea"), council to build an animal shelter in town, where unloved and unwanted dogs (and possibly cats), can be taken, kept a reasonable length of time, and if not claimed be given away, sent to animal heaven. This is to do away with animals running at large or literally "starving" on the streets. Councillor Weaver and his committee (protection to persons and property) will investigate the possibility.

NO MONEY LEFT

Trenton council has no money left in its tree-cutting budget—but it has to get ahold of $40 from somewhere, because there's a tree in front of the home of Mr. Jack Colasante at 178 Shuter St., that needs cutting down. The tree, a large Manitoba maple, was split asunder during a recent wind storm, and now is threatening Mr. Colasante's house, not to mention children playing in the area. Mr. Colasante has offered to pay half of the $78 cost of having the tree removed. Council decided last night to transfer the needed $40 for its share from some other department and have the tree cut down.

MAY ERECT FENCE

Trenton council's chairman of public works, Councillor Joseph Gould, says he may have to have his men erect a fence around the sanitary landfill area, south of the Community Gardens, to lock the area up. The reason? Unauthorized persons are dumping garbage willy-nilly all over the place at unauthorized hours. The councillor said at last night's council meeting that he had counted 22 cars entering the dump in one evening recently, and that he had directed the drivers as to where to put the refuse.

Council Will Retain Square Light Poles

TRENTON — Trenton council has decided to put up with a mixture of square poles and round poles on Dundas St. East, presumably since changing the square poles to round poles would run into money. When council instructed the Public Utilities Commission to install seven concrete poles at the east end entrance to the town, some-body got his signals mixed and the result was four square poles and three round ones. For a time, council thought of asking the PUC to take out the square poles and substitute round ones, but prices for the work quoted by the PUC may have had some bearing on council's decision at last night's meeting of council to retain the square poles.

Meanwhile, the PUC wants council to pay for the new poles and all the cost of "labor" involved in substituting concrete poles for the older, wooden poles. The PUC says it has no money in the 1964 budget for the work.

Council's policy has been to pay for new poles, and half the labor costs, and the PUC will be notified by letter that it doesn't intend to deviate from the rule.

While the poles are "new imglin," the old lighting fixtures will be retained until council gets an idea what the Department of Highways intends to do about lighting fixtures further down the highway where a four-lane road is being built in front of the air station.

Will Amend Official Plan For Building

TRENTON — The members of Trenton council told Dr. J. V. Byrne last night that they were in agreement with amending the official plan to permit the erection of a two-storey, tenantable building on a Dundas St. West site, now occupied by Firhurst Manor. Zoning in the area now is residential building, and Firhurst Manor has been operated as a tourist home under a "non-conforming" clause in the zoning by-law. Once the tourist home is removed, the use reverts to residential. The proposal to amend the official plan now goes before the Minister of Municipal Affairs for approval. Re-zoning the site to permit the commercial use might pose a problem, because then, area residents living within 200 feet of the proposed new building might register objections.

Dr. Byrne said that five Trenton doctors and one dentist were associated in the Trenton Professional Building Company, which he represented, and that they would occupy six offices of the ten, with the other four being rented. The building will measure 129 x 75 feet. Parking will be provided for 44 cars plus loading parking places for the occupants.

JOBLESS LIST UP

At the end of June, 330 jobless males were registered at the local employment office. This is up from May 31, when 245 males and 204 females were registered.

Employment manager J. K. White says the increase in jobless registered is owing to a large number of high school students registering for work.

However the picture is brighter this year for female applicants, when 366 were out of work at the end of June. In June, 1963, 527 males were registered as unemployed.

Labatt Trophy Captured by Syracuse Boat

TRENTON — Monday saw the running off of three international events in the International Power Squadron Rendesvous at Baker Island, off RCAF Station Trenton, in the Bay of Quinte.

Winner of the Labatt Cup, an event for Canadian and American power squadron members, was the "Tabby," piloted by a Syracuse man, A. Ahrns; runners up were "Shiloh," RCAF, Trenton, piloted by Bob Laidlay with "Skylark," Bay of Quinte, E. Edwards, and "Sidonia," Red Jacket Squadron, New York, E. Fisher, tied for third place.

Winner of the Ronald Kon Trophy for lady associate members, was Rene Reid of the Bay of Quinte squadron in "Al-don," second place, "Fairwind, IV," piloted by S. Weston of Syracuse; third, "Jacqueline II," piloted by D. McCulloch of the Bay of Quinte squadron.

The Niagara Memorial Trophy was taken by D. Hickson of the Bay of Quinte squadron in "Alden," second, E. Fisher, RCAF Station Trenton, in "Twi-do"; third, R. Francis of the Red Jackets, in "Entre-Nous."

All three events were carried out over a five to seven mile course.

Owing to a late start and weather factors, a kyak race and an air-sea rescue demonstration were postponed until today.

A number of visitors were taken on conducted tours of the Canadian coast guard cutter, "Spray," and a small number toured the OMC Boats plant.

In the evening, the visitors enjoyed a band concert on Bakers Island from No. 2Bn Repair Depot Volunteer Brass and Reed Band, under the baton of Sgt. Howard Kelly and a barbque is the open.

Chamber Buys Lot From Town for $1

TRENTON—Trenton council has agreed to sell a lot on Front Street, (riverside) to the Trenton Chamber of Commerce for $1 for the purpose of erecting a permanent chamber office. The lot lies in the near vicinity of the Wesse Motors used car lot, and almost across from the site of the new Federal building.

The building must be up and ready for use within one year of the signing of the agreement between the town and the chamber.

The members of the Trenton Builders' Association have promised to supply man power to erect the building free of charge for the chamber. The chamber will presumably take out a mortgage to cover the cost of materials. The cost will not exceed $5,000 and-possibly will be lower

Should the chamber not live up to the agreement to build the structure within a year of the signing of the agreements, the lot will revert to the town.

The "Mandarin Duck," an authentic Chinese junk, custom-built in Hong Kong, shipped across the Pacific on a Japanese freighter, and sent by rail to Toronto, yesterday was on her way up the Trent River. The junk, owned by Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, a professor at the University of Toronto, had aboard her owner, his wife and daughter Susan, and Dr. Wilson's brother, Peter Wilson. It is seen in the picture at Glen Ross. The junk still retains its Hong Kong registration and flies a Hong Kong "house flag" at the masthead.

Rehabilitating Thalidomide Victims Well Underway

MONTREAL (CP)—After two years, the thalidomide crisis has taken on a new perspective.

The tragedy of deformed children remains, but the resultant public outcry over the tranquilizing drug has stimulated scientists to unprecedented progress in rehabilitation work.

Dr. Gustave Gingras, executive director of the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal and chairman of the Canadian Medical Association committee on rehabilitation, says the concentrated effort of fighting the effects of thalidomide has helped avoid millions of babies since the first thalidomide victim was detected in the summer of 1962.

"Because of the public outcry over the thalidomide crisis we have made amazing advances in the field of rehabilitation," he said in an interview.

"We have made 10 years of progress in really little more than a year. It has been fantastic.

"We have had international meetings to exchange important ideas, finances have been made available and the public interest has been aroused."

CARES FOR VICTIMS

The Rehabilitation Institute, described as one of the most modern on the North American continent, has been given responsibility for caring for all the thalidomide babies born in Quebec and the Maritime provinces—a total of 32.

All were born without limbs or with deformed limbs because their mothers used the tranquilizer during pregnancy.

"We have improvised to a point where we can fit the youngest of these children with artificial limbs," Dr. Gingras said.

"A child can be taught to eat with its attachments at the age of four months."

The director said the work on thalidomide babies has benefited countless children with congenital deformities.

"There are about 200 children born every year in Canada with deformities," he said.

Dr. Gingras and his associates are now studying electronics as a possible aid to building more effective artificial limbs.

"We find our present equipment too bulky. I can visualize the day when we will bury tiny transmitters in existing muscles to control small motors in artificial limbs."

In pursuit of this program, Dr. Gingras and three other scientists plan to leave Saturday on a seven-day visit to Russia, where researchers are said to be making great advances in the electronic field.

No Magic Carpet

The Civil Rights Bill is now law in the United States.

In Kansas City the annual convention of the Congress of Racial Equality was told the bill "is no magic carpet that's going to take us to the Promised Land."

Instead, the delegates were told by their national director, James Farmer, they now have a responsibility "to test this bill in every phase of public accomodation, North and South."

It is ironic that the first test should have been an involuntary one and in a field where racial discrimination is commonplace in Canadian cities with large Negro populations. A delegate to the convention went into the barber-shop of the hotel where the meeting is being held and was refused service. A sit-down followed, until the hotel management agreed to seek "to have the barbers union get every barber who will cut everybody's hair down here tomorrow."

Although it may not be generally known, and as though such discrimination is now illegal in Ontario, it is not so long ago that Negroes had difficulty in getting a haircut in barbershops in several Ontario towns.

The difficulty, in many if not most cases, did not lie in the reluctance of barbers to perform their service, but in the barbers' belief, probably well founded, that many of their white customers would object to being trimmed with the same shears or shaved with the same razor as a Negro. One barber we know would never allow a Negro in his shop during regular hours, but he used to return to work after closing time to cut the hair of any Negro who had approached him and requested this service.

This, we suggest, indicates how intricate the problem of racial prejudice can be, even in a society where it is not deeply rooted. The director of C.O.R.E. was realistic and clear-sighted when he warned that the civil rights bill will not provide a magic formula for the immediate solution of all problems, but is only an instrument which can be used in the struggle for equality of treatment.

Much too Aloof

Dr. Stanley Haidasz, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, said in an interview that Canada has no military commitment with any power in Southeast Asia. Our country, he said, will not take a military role beyond its United Nations commitment should the United States and China go to war over South Viet Nam.

We wish we could share Dr. Haidasz's confidence.

What he is doing is no more than outlining an objective. It seems to us, and we suspect that it also seems to Mr. Martin, that if war breaks out between the United States and China no nation in the world would be able to say with certainty that it would be able to stand aloof.

Wars have a habit of spreading, and if this one spread Canada would be more likely to be involved early than late. We have a number of defence arrangements with the United States which any country at war with the U.S. could quite correctly designate as improper for a neutral. At the same time, the U.S. would most likely take kindly to any suggestion that this co-operation be lessened just at the time when it was engaged in a major war. If we were able to maintain our neutrality for any length of time, it could only be through the forbearance of the Chinese which would be forthcoming only as long as it was to their advantage.

That Dr. Haidasz is technically correct in his analysis of the situation we do not question. We do wish, though, that on matters of this kind, he would leave such pronouncements to his chief, who would probably choose slightly different words, making it quite plain that war between the U.S. and China is not an eventuality which Canadians can contemplate with equanimity.

"It seems to me that great writers light candles. They are more aware than most of us of the darkness, and so they are also more aware of the light, and we love them and read them because they make us love life and not despise it."—British actress Vanessa Redgrave.

The man who reads only for improvement is beyond the hope of much improvement before he begins.—Jonathan Daniels.

CBC May Have Gone Too Far In Handling THAT Picture

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Could be, finally, after years of casually brushing off Parliament with its incredibly clumsy handling of that picture, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has gone too far.

That picture, of course, is the hotly controversial political TV extravaganza, "Mr. Pearson," or a Day in the Life of the Prime Minister, on which the free-spending CBC lavished $35,000 then refused to show or even sell.

The CBC could have salvaged all but $5,000 if it had accepted the offer of a steel network.

But to paraphrase the immortal words of the late great C. D. "Trader" Howe: What's mere money?

To the CBC, which has just finished doubling, then doubling money obviously must be some trivial non-essential that only the taxpayers need worry about.

But apart altogether from its carefree attitude toward money — what the heck, the ever-patient public this year is pouring up $80,000,000 into the radio and television image-makers — the CBC seems to have set itself up as some kind of super-power over and above Parliament.

For years, it has paid what has amounted to little more than lip service to the principle that it must, as CBC President Alphonse Ouimet has so laughingly put it, "carry out at all times the will and intent of Parliament" — while airily telling Parliament to mind its own business when questions are been asked as to how these multi-millions have been spent.

WHAT'S PARLIAMENT?

This high and mighty attitude has pulled CBC through many a political crisis in the past and led a corporation director-banger that the broadcasterf are a law unto themselves.

But now, finally, the CBC has informed Parliament that it doesn't know its own mind.

Prime Minister Pearson has asked that the film be screened. So, too, have Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and Deputy New Democratic Leader Fisher. Combined, they represent all but he 262 MPs in the Commons.

Only Real Caouette's 13 Creditistes and Stanley Knowles's 1. Socreds haven't said anything — and who knows, they, too, might want to see the picture which is fast approaching the titillating status of a book banned in Boston or one of those naughty French movies.

But the CBC contends that Parliament doesn't know what it wants.

Who are Pearson, Diefenbaker and Fisher?

Nobody, the CBC makes it obvious, for it to worry about.

Now Parliament, with a Federal spending program of more than $7 billion to worry about, may not be too concerned about the $80 million it provides for the CBC. But the broadcasters seem to regard it as coming from some kind of good fairy rather than a group of MPs who seems to be tolerated by Parliament as just another peculiarity of those temperamentally creative minds at CBC.

Financially indulging these artistic types is one thing. Letting them think that they know better than Parliament what Parliament itself has said it wants, is another.

And in this reckless mis-reading of Parliament's mind, the CBC could be heading for a showdown.

THIS FAR, NO FURTHER

Other Crown Corporations and their Executive Suites, just as powerful, have challenged Parliament.

And Parliament, stubbornly jealous of its ultimate power, has cut them down to size.

The bank of Canada and its governor, Louis Rasminsky, is one, were the last to try it.

The Bank has a new Governor who is closer to Parliament's way.

Could be that the CBC which calls — and on occasion has — argued its case on the TV screen and over the radio sputter in your home, has some wild idea that it is in more intimate touch and understanding rapport with the public than is this crisis-starred Parliament.

If so, CBC is going to learn the hard way that the real power isn't measured by a Nielsen TV rating.

And having so indifferently brushed off the Prime Minister, the Opposition and the N.D.P. deputy, the CBC and its President will find themselves short of friends at court — the court of Parliamentary Committee, which they shortly must face.

Odd thing about the "Mr. Pearson" film — it's meant nothing but grief for everybody concerned right from the start.

The senior Deputy Minister, who has been accused in the Commons of making "rude and crude" remarks about Conservative Leader Diefenbaker on the since-blurred film sound track has been taking an ulcer-making ribbing. He swears, and so does the Prime Minister's office that there was nothing improper about his reference to Dief. It only looked and sounded suspiciously like it to so many people, a lot of them Conservatives, when truth to tell, he hadn't there was absolutely not the faintest trace of personal slight in it. The Prime Minister's office requested that it be scrubbed simply, it had been explained, because it might be "misconstrued."

Strictly Personal

Educators Unhappy With Study Abroad

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A recent article in the Wall Street Journal dealt with U.S. college students' study programs for study in foreign countries. In the last year, some 330 colleges have sent about 30,000 American students abroad, both as their own and as college sponsored programs.

Some educators, the story went on, are unhappy about this rapid growth of study abroad. Too many students, observed one of them, "think the most important thing is going from one cafe to another and learning what absinthe tastes like."

Speaking as the father of a junior at Harvard, who is going to Italy this fall on such a program, I don't look with dismay upon the going from one cafe to another and learning what absinthe tastes like I don't think Europe will change anyone's drinking habits, but it may civilize them.

The "grand tour" used to be part of the education of young people in all privileged families — and there is no reason why this sound studying a language and ongoing to museums and visiting cities and doing a bit of skiing I consider it a helpful thing that members of more modest standing are now able to share in much the same kind of program.

Some of the educators are concerned about formal credits and hours of study abroad — which is just academic hogwash. By the time a student reaches the third year of college he or she is either interested in getting an education or isn't. The ones who aren't won't, no matter how strictly they are shepherded.

Besides, "education" is a much broader concept than the average undergraduate mind seems to realize. As Edward H. Levi, president of the University of Chicago, remarked lately in a conference on liberal studies: "All of us have seen an emphasis formal instruction and the place of examinations. A proper university or college would have many lectures, concerts, plays, and discussion groups."

There is a ferment of ideas in Europe not customarily found in American society. To be a "student" is a serious occupation, and highly regarded by the people; it is much more likely that American students will return with a taste for learning than for absinthe.

But even the superficial aspects of a year abroad are good for the soul. Going from cafe to cafe in Europe is less dreary than going from bar to bar in America: the cafes, at least, have verve, color and individuality. Here they have juke boxes and pinball machines and green beer. I can't imagine a better stimulus to the reading of one's junior year of freedom to make foolish mistakes and wild discoveries.

Separatism in Ontario

By Frank Dren in the Toronto Telegram

Separatism to most English-Canadians is a peculiar devilation now in vogue for the bellass, beard, beatnik and bomb-thrower who comprise the montreal garrets to talk to themselves, proclaim revolutions and engage in the luxury of trying to avoid reality.

Never, never would anyone in Ontario regard Queen's Park, that very symbol of the Victorian stuffiness that still plagues Canadians, as perhaps the most unlikely promoter of separatism in Canada. But despite the obesance paid to heritage, history and those ties beyond the seas, Ontario is becoming much more of a threat to Confederation than all the professional culturists in Quebec combined.

Is there any other name for the policies of a Provincial Government that now conducts its own foreign policy, one sometimes distant from that of Canada? Or for the program of a Provincial Government that conducts its own species of economic nationalism regardless of its impact on the rest of the country?

Ontario now has its own foreign trade missions operating in the Ontario Trade Centre; its own immigration recruits culling Europe for the best of its newcomers and consigning the rejects to the rest of Canada. We now own have our own consulates abroad, the Ontario House.

The trade crusades and immigration policy mean that the European must choose between Ontario and Canada, over the sou solution for Quebec and Manitoba is to follow suit by becoming their own immigrant recruitions on trade, new industry and immigration. Such separatism is inevitable. The foundation for a united Canada.

Even the attitude of the city little man who followed Leslie Frost on such things as a national pension program has been contradictory. Apart from it is difficult to imagine New York or Alaska taking such the attitude toward the U.S. Social Security program, or to develop all their own special kind of trade.

No wonder the people of the Maritimes are often bewildered and embittered over the policies of what they refer to as Upper Canada. It is about all the hearts in Nova Scotia to know that Ontario is going into the pulp and paper business because its industries need cheap sulphite. Or, for that matter, it must puzzle the people of Ontario as to why the Provincial Government is absorbing around in Europe to the skilled workmen and technicians it claims industry needs and to which its own little-job training program got off the ground.

Queen's Park is concerned, too, since it hastily included in its announcements about the new immigration program that its revamped education system would be training the skilled workers of tomorrow. This must produce a special kind of vicarsal sensation in those who are now at work because they grew up in an education system that could produce lawyers and ministers but not tool - and - die men.

It would be more difficult, but isn't there an obligation on the Ontario Government to do something besides flirt with foreign affairs? It might require imagination and some ingenuity, but why not encourage by the program to interchange goods between Ontario and the other nine provinces instead of Ontario and the world?

And why not try to arrange programs where the economically dispossessed of Canada could be brought to Ontario and assimilated into the industries that Queen's Park claims is so short of manpower? Or even try to do something for the economically destitute parts of the province instead of hopping over to Japan to see the latest in consumer habits?

These just might be the kind of things that would assure us sure that there would be a Canada left to celebrate a Centennial Year just three years from now?

Treat Gall Stones Early, Avoid Pain, Complications

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a gall bladder condition and X-rays showed two small gallstones. My doctor suggested surgery to remove the gall bladder.

However, I do not seem to have too much distress, even though I have had a few attacks over a period of eight years. I am 46.

What happens if I do not have surgery? Also, what if I do not stick to a diet? He told me to avoid eating spicy foods, too much sausage, cabbage, etc., and fats. What kind of fats? — Mrs. F. R.

What kind of fats? Any kind. And the other foods you mention are known for their unpleasant knack of touching off gall bladder attacks. I would say that you've been lucky and evidently haven't had a real flip-snorter of an attack.

But under the known circumstances, I would, decidedly, respect your doctor's advice. You have had some stones, you have at least two stones, and they won't go away by themselves. Furthermore, with two stones showing on the X-ray plates, there is a strong probability that there are others, smaller ones which do not show.

Should one of these move into the bile duct and plug it, then you have an emergency: Jaundice and colic, and "colic" is a mild word for the painfulness it most causes.

More remote possibilities are empyema (pus formation in the gall bladder) and cancer, which sometimes develops when stones remain too long and create chronic irritation.

If you were in your 70's and comfortable, it might be sensible to adopt a wait-and-see attitude. But at 44 you are young enough to have such surgery without undue concern. You can choose a convenient time for it, rather than risking the necessity of emergency surgery when things might not be so convenient, and you would at the same time relieve yourself of many potential problems in the future.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do you think medication would help or hurt a very hyper-active brain-damaged child of 8? He has an I.Q. of 101. Do you know how he could be allowed to attend public school? — Mrs. R. S.

Yes, there has been very substantial success with medications to help hyper-active children quiet their nervous energy. In late useful school work, as to whether this child should be in a public school is a matter for school officials and child psychiatrists to decide, and would depend largely on how well his hyperactivity can be controlled. A youngster who never can stay still for more than a few minutes at a time is obviously going to interfere with the others. By all means, have the child treated.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible for a man to father children and at some later time become sterile? — C.

Yes, certainly.

Dear Dr. Molner: Does standing excessively contribute to varicose veins. If so, how can they be prevented if one has to stand all day? — J. C.

Yes, continued standing aggravates VV's. Elastic stockings may sometimes help a lot. Also helps if you can keep moving. Even if you have to stay in one place (standing at a machine, in a cashier's cage, etc.) you might keep moving a half step this way and that, now, wiggling your feet, rising up on your toes bending the knees a bit, flexing the leg muscles, any sort of movement.

When you do sit, whether at work or not, sit so the edge of the chair doesn't press sharply against the back of the thighs or knees, since that hampers circulation.

Use a footstool or in other ways elevate your feet as much as you can. For additional information, read my 10-page booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins." For a copy send 25 cents in coin or stamps to self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 158, Bundee, Ill.

Winnipeg Free Press

Clearly a study of automation must involve more than just how to keep a man fed, clothed and sheltered even though he is out of work. It also involves a study of how, in the face of growing automation in every phase of life, a man can live with himself and with his neighbors with a sense of dignity and a feeling of purpose. In view of the immensity of the challenge it must be hoped that we have not left it too late.

Big Damage Suit Filed Against Govt.

ATLANTA (CP) — An Atlanta motel has filed an $11,000,000 damage suit against the federal government in a court test of newly - enacted civil rights law.

The suit, filed for the Heart o Atlanta Motel Corp., by Moreton Rolleston, motel president and a lawyer, asked the U.S. District Court to enjoin Attorney - General Robert Kennedy from enforcing the public accommodations section of the law.

The Heart of Atlanta Motel has been the target of repeated demonstrations and all-ins by Negro and white civil rights workers.

The suit has been set for July 17.

'The Canadian' Derailed West Of Chalk River

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)— A 72-year-old Winnipeg man was detained in hospital and 13 others were treated for minor injuries when the CPR's transcontinental passenger train, The Canadian, was derailed Monday near this Ottawa Valley atomic energy town.

Detained in hospital with undetermined injuries was M. A. Anderson. Those treated and reported to the police were:

A dining-car, four sleeping cars and a dome-observation car went off the track but remained upright in the derailment. Cause of the accident is being investigated.

The train was heading for Montreal..Passengers in the derailed coaches were moved to the first-tour cars and the train proceeded after about three hours' delay. The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. EDT.

The train was carrying about 175 passengers, 70 of whom were in the first-class cars.

Some 300 feet of line was torn up.

TRAINS REROUTED

CPR trains were being rerouted over CNR lines between Pembroke and North Bay.

Of the 13 who were released from hospital after being treated for minor injuries the following 11 were identified:

Mrs. Ruth Trimmer, 63, and Mrs. Ann Taylor, 69, Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. Dorothy Borgen, 55, and her 19-year-old son, John, Vancouver.

Louise Walchuk, 11, Calgary, Mrs. Hilda Anderson, 39, Red Lake, Alta.

Harry Bagley, 56, Winnipeg. Orist Eidsvik, 72, Winnipeg, three - year - old daughter, Roxanne, Port Arthur.

Mrs. Jean Mae McCutcheon, 43, Pointe Claire, Que.

Mrs. Muriel McIntosh, 60, St. Hubert, Que.

George Bellehumeur, Chalk River station agent, said the train was travelling about 50 miles an hour. He is expected to issue a statement today.

The accident occurred two miles west of Chalk River station and five miles east of Deep River. Chalk River is 110 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Some steam went out of speculative issues on the Toronto exchange today, however, the trading pace remained on the brisk side.

Windfall, a $1.34 gainer Monday, eased four cents to $1.91 after earlier selling at a high of $2.16. The company has yet to confirm or deny rumors regarding its first drill hole on Wheeler's property in Prosser Township near Timmins.

PCE Explorations was ahead seven cents to 51, Geco was up nine in the list. Massey-Ferguson reached a new high of 31¼ before it eased to 30¾, unchanged in the list. Massey-Ferguson reached a new high of 31¼ before it eased to 30¾, unchanged in the list.

On Monday speculative mining issues regained some of the ground lost Friday when 12 feet moved along at its fastest clip in more than a month.

Trading volume of 4,483,000 shares was the heaviest since June 1 when 7,012,000 shares changed hands. Volume compared with 3,445,000 shares traded Friday.

Windfall Oil and Mines sparked the speculative issues as it racked on $1.39 to $1.95, as well as 100 at $2.02 at one point and traded in a whopping 1,555,960 shares. The activity came into the issue as rumors that the company had encountered massive sulphides in its first drill hole in Prosser Township near Timmins. Prosser, adjoins Kidd Township where Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. made its huge copper-silver-zinc discovery.

The enthusiasm for Windfall spilled into other issues with properties near Timmins. PCE Exploration climbed 14 cents to 40 cents, Glenn 13 cents to 30, Belleterre 9½ cents to 55, Goldfields four cents to 45, Bunker Hill 3½ cents to 30½ and Genex 4½ cents to 47½.

In the shadow of the speculatives, industrials moved to a new index high. Algoma Steel led the way with a gain of 2⅝ to 72½, a 1964 high. Inco, the world's largest nickel producer which is used by the stock exchange to compile its industrial index, added 1¼ to 88. Massey Ferguson moved ahead ¾ to 30¾ and CPR ¼ to 46¾.

Golds were the only group to show an index loss. Kerr-Addison gave up 10 cents to $7.60.

Senior base metals were quietly strong. Falconbridge gained ¼ to 73¼.

On index, industrials gained 40 to 158.32, base metals .14 to 64.66, western oils .33 to 100.79 and the exchange index .45 to 87.84. Golds were down .14 to 132.43.

Michener Given High Indian Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Roland Michener, prominent Conservative who was speaker of the House of Commons for two terms, has been named Governor-designate to India Monday by his personal friend, Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson made the announcement in Calgary, where he opened the Stampede just prior to flying to London for the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers.

The prime minister said Mr. Michener, 56-year-old Toronto lawyer, will leave for New Delhi shortly to take up his new duties, replacing Chester A. Ronning, who is retiring from the diplomatic corps.

Mr. Pearson said in a press statement issued here that he is delighted Mr. Michener is receiving the public recognition.

"Despite differences in our political views, I consider him an outstanding Canadian and it gives me great personal satisfaction that he has accepted appointment to our nation's diplomatic service," he said.

ASKED EARLIER

The Liberal government was reported to have asked Mr. Michener a year ago to be a member of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, but he declined the appointment because of the cause of a prior commitment to the Manitoba government.

He served as speaker and chairman of the Manitoba royal commission on provincial government and financing, which reported late last year.

It was the former government's second appointment of a prominent Conservative figure. Former trade minister George Hees was named a director of the 1967 World's Fair Corporation last year but resigned later after his appointment as president of the Montreal Stock Exchange.

Mr. Michener was Commons Speaker from 1957 to 1962 during the days of the Diefenbaker government, ruling debates with a light and impartial hand that brought him respect from all parties.

He was elected in the 1962 general election in his Toronto St. Paul's riding by Liberal Ian G. Wahn.

New Zealand Trade Envoy Visits District

Mr. Robert B. Gray, New Zealand Government Trade Commissioner for Eastern Canada, visited the Quinte area this morning and was in the conference at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Mr. Gray said his primary purpose in visiting Belleville was to become better acquainted with the area, its people and industry.

Another aim was to point out to the people the advantages of buying New Zealand products. Mr. Gray pointed out that he stated that his country can provide the best quality lamb at the lowest prices because of its temperate climate and natural facilities. New Zealand, he said, with a land area equal to the British Isles raises only 50,000,000 sheep annually. Canada by comparison, raises only 1.5 million.

It was also stated that New Zealand is stressing its lamb production to obtain more capital to turn back into the export market with countries like Canada. New Zealand at present is a heavy buyer of Canadian, and, especially Ontario, products. Mr. Gray said he was also interested in further visiting the district in discovering what industries could interest the New Zealand importers.

From Belleville, Mr. Gray will go to Peterborough where he will conduct similar meetings with local business and industrial interests.

Drunk Driving Brings Six Weeks

A Belleville man today was sentenced to six weeks for drunk driving after a Sunday afternoon accident.

Police said it was the second such offence for Blake Kellar, 289 Sidney Street.

He was charged after his car struck a parked automobile on Catherine Street.

Highways Department To Take Over Ferry

The Department of Highways, Ont., will take over this fall the operation of the ferry service between Kingston and Wolfe Island, and provide that as a free service, the announcement was made today in a joint statement by Highways Minister Charles S. MacNaughton and Syl Apps, MPP for the riding of Kingston, which includes Wolfe Island. The township of Wolfe Island pays for the ferry, the trip distance being approximately three miles.

"There are more than 25 miles of King's Highway, namely Nos. 95 and 96, on Wolfe Island and the decision to facilitate travel between Wolfe Island and the mainland is evidence of the Government's concern for the road requirements of the area as a whole," commented the Minister.

Car Write-Off After Being Hit by Train

A Belleville-district woman escaped injury last night as a train bore down on her stalled automobile, crumbling it into wreckage.

Mrs. Madeline King, R.R. 6, Belleville, was on her way to visit neighbors living near the CNR mainline on Thurlow Township's second concession. With her in the car were her two daughters, aged 10 and 11 years.

As she turned off the concession road onto the level-crossing, the wheels of her car dropped between the tracks.

With her daughters she went looking for assistance to retrieve the automobile.

They returned to the scene as a Peterborough-bound CNR car freight bore down on the automobile.

The car — a 1963 model — was a writeoff.

Recommendation Referred Back Till September

City Council yesterday referred to its first meeting in September a Belleville and Suburban Planning Board recommendation that council oppose amendments to portions of Bill 120 which would transfer "consent authority" from planning boards to committees of adjustment.

Mayor Jack Ellis said the local planning board felt that committees of adjustment and by committees of adjustment would in many cases considerably slow down the application.

But Alderman Ben Corke couldn't see the urgency of the matter and thought that the recommendation be referred. His motion was seconded by Ald. Enos Devitt, and he said he wanted to know more about the bill.

In moving the planning committee recommendation, Ald. Corke said he had been hearing a lot about the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board. "Often we come complaints which I have heard I'm beginning to wonder whether the local planning board knows much about planning," he said.

Mayor Ellis took exception to what he termed "unfounded rumours against the planning board."

He said the planning board had an excellent director in Mr. P. J. Beavis and one which the city was fortunate in getting.

Since Mr. Beavis' arrival in Belleville a considerable amount of work had been accomplished by the planning board, the mayor said.

GADGET INVENTED

A South African, Stanley W. Deane, has invented a gadget that automatically reduces car speeds in restricted zones.

City Police Will Crack Down On Speeding, Careless Driving

In an effort to halt a flare-up of motor vehicle accidents as occurred in the city during the month of June, Belleville city police will crack down on speeding and on careless driving.

This was the warning given yesterday by Mayor Jack Ellis, who said that for the summer months there would be increased staff for the radar car with its operators on duty until the evening hours on the city's main travelled streets.

In addition a loud hailer would be provided for the police safety car with which officers could warn motorists of traffic offences.

The safety of children During the holiday season had motivated the order by the city police commission, the mayor said.

For the first six months of the year speeding charges handed out by police totalled 315 compared with 223 for the same period last year.

At the same time careless driving charges had almost doubled, he said.

"If necessary police will put radar checks on every street in the city," the mayor warned.

Questions Asked Before Approval Is Given

Authorization for the city public works department to carry out extraordinary asphalt work on Lambert Drive at a cost of $5,500 was given by city council yesterday after a few before some pointed questions were asked.

Alderman Allin said the work was necessary because of an error three years ago by public works officials when they apparently tried to make water run uphill."

Alderman Enos David said there should be an investigation as to why the work was necessary. "I'd like to know who let said he wanted to know now."

City manager J. R. Reynolds said the reason was an error three years ago in taking street levels. The error was that of the public works department engineer at the time and was no fault of the contractor, therefore the city had to take the responsibility.

The result was that there are dips and hollows in the pavement causing water to collect after rains.

Mr. Reynolds said the error had taken place during the transition period before the present city engineer came to Belleville.

Seeks Trial By Judge, Jury

A 19-year-old Belleville youth, charged with burglary after police surprised a service station breakin early Sunday, today sought trial by judge and jury.

Robert Ernest Clapp also told Magistrate T. Y. Wills he would not seek legal aid. A preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

A second youth, Crown-ward Harold Gordon Thompson, was remanded to Friday without plea.

Aerial Maps Of Pinnacle St. Will Be Made

Spartan Air Services Ltd., will make aerial maps of Pinnacle Street at a scale of 40 feet to the inch, to speed the engineering work necessary for the re-paving of this artery.

Cost of the survey will be $1,240.

Council was told that the aerial mapping would be much speedier and cheaper than ground field work which otherwise would be necessary for the work.

Cost of the survey will be eligible for provincial subsidy owing to Pinnacle Street being part of a highway connecting link.

Angler Injured, Boat Rammed By Water Skier

MARMORA (Special) — An elderly village resident is in hospital at Peterborough after his boat was rammed by a craft towing a water-skier and piloted by a Toronto man.

Mr. Reeve was gashed by the propeller of the second boat.

Taken ashore he was treated by Dr. Neil McMillen of Frankford, spending the weekend at his cottage.

Mr. Reeve was then transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital at Peterborough.

Provincial police from Madoc are investigating.

New Addition To Warehouse Will Be Opened

The Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board Friday afternoon will officially open their new 12,000 square foot warehouse addition on Wills Street.

Present for the ceremonies will be E. Barry, federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture; D. B. Goodwilly, Director, Dairy Products Division, Ottawa; K. E. Lintz, Assistant Deputy Minister for Agriculture for Ontario, and J. L. Baker, Ontario Dairy Commissioner.

The new one storage cheese warehouse addition will provide one third more refrigerated warehouse space for the Ontario Cheese Producers' in their Belleville headquarters. The original warehouse was opened in 1951.

It was the day the high schoolers were to hear if they were recommended. It was the day Eleanor had her head bent over her baking board making cookies for this column. It was the day David drove the '31 Model A to school at the request of his science teacher.

Just when Eleanor needed peace and quiet to be sure all ingredients were in the dough, David's friends burst into the kitchen shouting! "We were recommended!" (Where was David?) Roddy came in: "Are any of the cookies baked yet?" (Still no David with the precious Model A).

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Beef Stew with Vegetables and Dumplings; Cabbage Salad with Radishes and Cress; Vanilla Ice Cream; Chocolate Nut Diamonds; Tea.

Meanwhile she had enough determination to check the cookie ingredients and discovered she'd left out the soda and salt! So just as she was sprinkling them over the dough and trying to work them in David chugged into the driveway, Model A unscratched, shouting "I was recommended!"

All was well.

From then on all she had to cope with were four boys standing around waiting for these cookies to come from the oven. They were worth all of the confusion. I had one bite but was enough for I know a good thing when I taste it.

CRACKLE - TOP PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

¾ cup butter or margarine,
¾ cup granulated sugar,
¾ cup brown sugar, packed,
1 egg, slightly beaten,
¾ cup smooth or crunchy peanut butter,
1 teaspoon vanilla,
1¾ cups unsifted all-purpose flour,
½ teaspoon baking soda,
½ teaspoon salt,
granulated sugar.

Into baster bowl measure the butter or margarine, both sugars, the egg, peanut butter and vanilla and beat until very light. Sift the baking soda and salt with the unsifted measured flour and add and mix well. (Forget about trying Eleanor's trick of adding the soda and salt last!)

Spoon up heaped teaspoonfuls of dough and roll them into a ball between your palms. Have some granulated sugar in a small soup bowl and roll balls of dough into it.

Place on unbuttered cookie sheets 2" apart. Do not press or flatten. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 13 minutes. These do not have to be brown. Remove from cookie sheet with spatula.

These amounts make from 4 to 5 dozen cookies, number depending on the size you make your balls of dough.

Hold Graduation Dinner for Grade 8 Students

WELLINGTON—Last Thursday evening the annual graduation dinner for Grade 8 students of Wellington Public School was held in St. Andrew's Parish Hall, sponsored by the Home and School Association.

About 150 parents and children sat down to a splendid dinner at which time Mr. J. Sprigings acted as chairman. Grace was said by the Rev. J. J. Rogers, followed by a toast to the Queen by the Rev. J. Shannon.

The chairman introduced the guests at the head table and they included: Mrs. Sprigings, Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Rogers, Rev. and Mrs. J. Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goodmurphy, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. L. Snider, Mr. and Mrs. J. Callow, Mr. B. Johnson, Mr. Art Duncan and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wight and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Wilson.

He also called on Mr. Charles Goodmurphy, president of the Royal Canadian Legion who presented two Legion awards for public speaking to Elaine Bishop and Calvin Struthers. Mrs. Bruce Wilson, president of the Wellington Women's Institute, presented the Institute awards for highest percentage for the year to Brian Parks and Linda Sharpe.

Mr. C. M. L. Snider, principal of the school presented each pupil with a diploma and Mrs. J. Callow, president of Home and School Association, presented them with their graduation pins.

Students graduating were: Linda Sharpe, Brian Parks, Elaine Bishop, Brenda Campbell, James Campbell, Nancy Channell, Michael Coghlan, Christine De Bruyn, John De Vries, Lynda Fritz, Patrick Goodmurphy, Patsy Greenfield, Betty Herrington, George Hobson, Brenda Jeffrey, Eric Lavender, Percy Lunn, Colin McQuaid, Allan McQuaid, Gail Monro, Bill Monro, Dorothy Ann John Pettingell, Robert Quick, Alec Reilly, Grace Reilly, Roger Rutter, Ron Springer, Paul Thompson, Bonnie Vader, Ken Vader, Donald Vansickler, Nancy Wight, Melvin Williams, Jill Young and Raymond Young.

Mr. Snider spoke a few words of encouragement and wished them success in their future studies. Mr. Fawcett, teacher of Grade 8, who is leaving Wellington this year was presented with a gift by Robert Quick.

Mr. Bev. Gibson, past president of the Home and School Association, introduced the speaker, Mr. Art Duncan, public relations officer of the Bata Shoe Company who spoke on the subject "The Future Goal in Life", which was most interesting to all.

Mrs. Lewis Wight, member of the school board voiced appreciation to Mr. Duncan.

Two past presidents of the Home and School Association were presented with past presidents' pins. Mrs. J. Callow presented Mr. Bev. Gibson with his pin and Mrs. J. J. Rogers presented Mrs. Callow with her pin.

Scrapbook Prescription Can Be Filled Without Cost

DEAR DORIS — This gem is from my scrap book: "Who can find a virtuous woman, for her price is far above rubies?" Proverbs 31:10.

An elderly Quaker woman with a beautiful complexion was asked what cosmetics she used. In reply she is said to have given this splendid answer:

"For my lips, truth; for my hands, charity; for my eyes, pity; for my figure, uprightness; for my heart, love."

This prescription can be filled without cost and its value increases with continued use."

The original appeared in The Presbyterian Record in the World in May, 1956. —MRS. A.G.H.

DEAR MRS. A.G.H. — For make-up magic it can't be beaten.

DEAR DORIS — I have a real problem perhaps you can help me solve — fingernail biting. Most of the time I am unaware of my nibbling which makes my habit so difficult to break.

I have tried several bitter tasting finger dips, but with my hands in an out of water so often these remedies proved unsuccessful. I also tried taping my fingers but this was not only awkward but dreadfully hard on the appearance. Rubber gloves gave me about the same trouble as did the tape.

I do hope you have a solution Doris, but meanwhile I'll go on drinking gelatine and crossing my nylon snaggers. — TOUGH CHEWING.

DEAR TOUGH CHEWING — Taking a stab at the cause, I'd suspect some pretty powerful frustrations. What is causing the tensions you are taking out on the ends of your fingers?

Being married with a family does not insure a perfect love of homemaking; and if you have other talents not being expressed, these could make you chew nails.

A hobby, a part time job, or music lessons, or regular bowling or bingo — what is it that helps you let down? When you get launched on a happy spare time career your nylons will be safe.

And until you're launched, use the rubber gloves when immersing your coated finger-tips in water — to keep the bitter taste intact.

DEAR DORIS — This boy and I had a fight and broke up. He then started going with another girl. We made up but he never told her we did. Should I share him with her?

I love him and he loves me but why won't he tell her about our dating — HAVE A PROBLEM.

DEAR HAVE A — Because he wants two. Your real problem is that you are using the word love too loosely. Share him with her by all means. Then start casting a little live bait around for other handsome male fish to nibble on.

• • •

(If you are having teen-age troubles, write to Doris — but not without including your right name and address. Doris will keep it a secret.)

Women's Institutes

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The Plainfield W.I. met in the community hall at Gilead on Wednesday evening with an attendance of 34.

Mrs. R. Sullivan presided. Mrs. G. Denyes read the minutes and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Minutes and dealt with correspondence and thank-you notes.

The president spoke of the efficient instructions which are being given to the 30 pupils of Plainfield district, sponsored by the W.I. who are receiving swimming lessons at the Kinsmen pool in Belleville. The Institute will cater to the Cheese Producers' Picnic luncheon at Belleville on July 10.

It was decided to hold a picnic at Crookston Park on August 9th. Mrs. G. Hall gave a report from the directors' meeting which she had attended.

Motto: "The world is full of willing people; some willing to work, others willing to let them," was given by Mrs. Gladys Rollins.

A demonstration, "Variety in Sleeping Garments" was given by Plainfield Homemakers' Club, Janet Sills, Kathy Sullivan, Donna Hall and Jane Huffman, assisted by their leaders Mrs. Hodgin and Mrs. Marshall.

Mrs. Harrison, the curator discussed the Tweedsmuir book and asked ladies to contribute some interesting information of the district as an article or picture, in this way the book would create more interest.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Swan and her committees.

Sunday School Picnic

THE ALLIANCE CHURCH

A most enjoyable day was spent recently at Twelve Pines when over 200 children, parents and friends of the Alliance Church gathered for the annual church picnic. The first part of the afternoon featured races for all classes of the Sunday School. These were arranged by Mr. C. Ackerman and he was assisted by Mr. A. Rogers, Mr. L. Kerr, Mr. W. Rodberg and Mr. D. Bowers.

After the races were completed, ice cream was served to all and this was followed by a period of swimming.

A delicious supper of salads, sandwiches, cold meats, pickles, cookies, ice cream, cake, tea and orangeade was served by the ladies of the church. A lively sing-song was then led by Mr. Ernie Varrly and this was followed by a short devotional message by the pastor, Rev. Sackville Palmer.

After an hour of baseball, the children boarded the bus for home — tired but happy and all agreeing that they had had a wonderful day.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My parents gave me a bawling out for not introducing my date to everyone in our living room when he came to pick me up last Saturday. They had company and, when my date arrived at the door, I simply called I was leaving and we left without going into the living room. My parents know him well, so it wasn't necessary to drag him in to speak with them and I didn't want to put him to any embarrassment by being ogled by their company. But they were angry about this, and thought I was ill-mannered of me to scoot him out the way I did. What do you think? — K. T., Mount Vernon, N.Y.

Answer: On the contrary, I think your date must have felt embarrassed by being rushed out, as if you didn't want the visitors to meet him. Correctly, you should have taken him into the living room, so your parents could have greeted him and introduced him, in turn, to their guests. Failing to do so was slighting to your date, to your parents and to their guests. It also was rather rude to duck out without saying good-by to your parents' guests in a proper manner. It would have taken only a few minutes more to do the correct thing, and by not serving the proper cordialities, you would have created a most poised and personable impression both for yourself and for your parents.

Question: I'm sure you're going to think I'm being picayune, but here goes anyway. My husband and I have accepted an invitation to a party, but I've since learned that a woman I've had words with in the past has also been invited. We're not on speaking terms and I would love whenever possible. Now that I know she's going to be at the party, I'm not sure that I'm not I hate to call up and say we won't attend after I've already accepted. My husband says we should go anyway, and that I can always ignore the woman in question. What do you think I should do about this? — Mrs. B., Newark, N.J.

Answer: If you go to the party then be prepared to be pleasant to the woman you dislike. Despite differences, a well-bred person manages to put them aside in a social situation and to hide her feelings to help make the party a success. It's very discourteous to the hosts and to others present to put a damper on the evening by snubbing another guest or making it obvious in any way that you could do without her company. If YOU find you can't without straining, then it would be more thoughtful to decline the invitation.

Ann Landers

Wise Mother Taught Son Wise Philosophy

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am writing about the woman who was fearful that her popularity was based on a rare talent for passing on gossip. She signed her letter "Blabbermouth" and closed by saying, "I don't like myself very much today." May I add something which may be of value?

ANN LANDERS

When I was a child I overheard a friend of my mother's confiding an intimate family problem. Mother saw me standing behind the door, listening. She said nothing.

After the woman left, mother called me to the sewing room to have a little talk. She started by saying, "Son, if a friend left a pocketbook or a wallet in our house you wouldn't give away her money, would you?" I replied, "Of course not."

Mother continued, "Well, today a friend left something in our home which is far more precious than money. It is her secret. If we give it away it would hurt her terribly. We would be hurting ourselves too, because we always end up sad when we do things that make other people unhappy."

I never told a soul what I heard that day. My mother's words made such an impression on me that to this day I have never passed on one bit of gossip. Keeping my mouth shut has become a way of life.

I have profited from this lesson which I learned early in life. Perhaps it will help others. I have maintained so many lasting and cherished friendships. — OLD LOCKJAW.

DEAR O.L.J. — What a wise and wonderful mother you had! Not only was her philosophy sound, but she had a most effective way of teaching you personal integrity. Thank you for sharing her wisdom with us.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband was sent to a large city 300 miles away to set up a new office for his firm. His assistant is with him and they share an apartment. I've never met his assistant but I've heard he is extremely handsome and a wild man with the women.

I wrote to my husband recently and asked if his assistant was married. He replied, "I don't stick my nose in other people's business. I wouldn't ask the guy if he is married and he wouldn't ask me such a personal question, either."

This got me to thinking. My husband hasn't been home in six weeks. (He promised to get home every other weekend.) Since when are a wife and five children considered "too personal to talk about?"

I have a hunch these two are living it up — like bachelors. Maybe I've been alone too much and I'm getting a little nutty. Please set me straight. — CURTAIN OF DOUBT.

• • •

DEAR CURTAIN — I agree you've been alone too much — but you are far from nutty to wonder what's going on.

If your husband doesn't come home next weekend, make arrangements to have someone stay with the children so you can go visit him and have a nice little talk. . .

DEAR ANN — We live in an apartment which has no garage or parking facilities. We must park our car on the street, sometimes three or four blocks from our building.

Two homeowners live in our block. They have driveways and garages. Last night I parked my car in front of one of these homes. The owner came out and said, "You'll have to move. This space is reserved for our friends." I moved.

Does she have the right to reserve the parking in front of her home? She says she does because she is a homeowner. Right? — VAL.

DEAR VAL — Wrong. The woman may own the home, but she doesn't own the street. You have as much right to park in front of her house as she does. If she doesn't believe you, she can ask the chief of police.

Many Attend Afternoon Tea In the Park

WELLINGTON — Throngs of ladies from Wellington and the surrounding area attended the annual afternoon tea and bazaar held at the park under the auspices of the United Church Women, on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Clarence Hicks received the guests and the tea tables under the supervision of Mrs. S. Yourt were filled to capacity. These tables encircling a bed of lovely red geraniums provided a delightful setting.

Mrs. Head was tea hostess assisted by Mrs. B. Cronk and Mrs. K. Conley.

The bountiful supplies of goodies on the bake table attracted many buyers, with Mrs. Mac Greer, Mrs. P. Elliott, Mrs. E. Ross and Mrs. E. Stewart in charge.

Mrs. W. Jackson, Mrs. W. Adams and Mrs. N. Allison displayed and sold aprons of many styles and patterns. Quilts were also for sale. At the fancy work table were Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Ira Burd, and Mrs. R. Pyne who served the many customers.

Mrs. R. Pierson attended the varied assortment of home made candy with Mrs. H. Pierson assisting.

Mrs. G. Parks was the treasurer for the event with proceeds to go into the general fund.

Sincere thanks was expressed to all who helped make this a success.

This cute little tot is 13 month old Janet, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Mulrhead of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur Babcock are pictured signing the register in College Hill United Church following their marriage on Saturday June 27. The bride is the former Betty Marlene O'Hara, daughter of Mrs. Mary O'Hara, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Babcock, also of Belleville.

BABCOCK — O'HARA

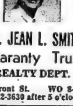
Orange blossoms and summer blooms adorned the altar in College Hill United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 27, when Betty Marlene O'Hara, daughter of Mrs. Mary O'Hara, Belleville was united in marriage to James Arthur Babcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Babcock, Belleville. The Rev. Roy Vessey, minister of the church officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Traditional wedding music was played by Miss Caroline Belcour throughout the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert O'Hara was dressed in a white strapless bridal gown highlighted with a lace jacket. A short tulle veil fell from a crown of sequins. She carried a bouquet of deep red roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Jo Anne Rutan, sister of the bridegroom from Napanee who wore a pink nylon dress enhanced with lace top and pink accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink tinted 'mums with stephanotis.

The groomsman was Mr. Donald Rutan, Napanee, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, while Mr. Reginald Asselstine of Belleville was the usher.



The reception was held at the home of the bride, 23 Burrell Street, where the bride's table was most attractive with white linen cloth and centred with a two-tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and bridegroom. Vases of mixed flowers and the bridal bouquets added color to the nuptial setting. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress with yellow and aqua flower design on white background, while and beige accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a green dress with white floral pattern, white accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums.

For the wedding trip to the United States and points east, the bride chose a three-piece powder blue linen suit, white accessories and a corsage of white 'mums.

Guests were present from Napanee, Plainfield, Belleville, Demoresville and Rednersville.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Verna Rawn, with co-hostess Joyce Park, also at a presentation by the W.T. Hawkins Company when she was presented with an electric tea kettle.

Mr. and Mrs. Babcock are residing at 246 North Park Street, Belleville.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The meeting of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Gladys Ritch presiding. Before the meeting a banquet was served to the co-workers and the members of the Loyal Order of the Moose and their wives, by some of the co-workers.

The meeting opened with the ritual and Governor Frank Masterick, chairman George Seama, chaplain Clayton Gibbons, guide Albert King and pianist Cecil Lloyd were escorted to the altar and given the sign of welcome from the chapter.

The guides escorted the installing officers to the senior regent's station and the installation service was started.

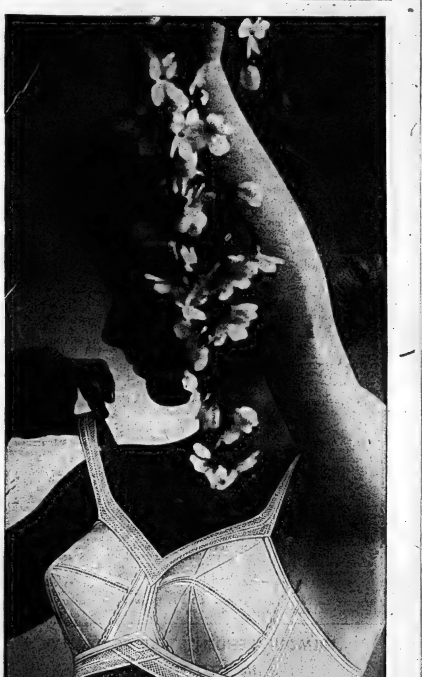
Each co-worker was instructed in her duty by installing Governor Frank Mastervik and invested with the emblems of her office and escorted to their chairs.

The retiring Senior Regent, G. Ritch, thanked all the co-workers and her officers for the help they had given her in the past year.

The new senior regent-elect, Nellie Shandraw, introduced all her new officers for the coming year, as follows:

Sr. Regent, Nellie Shandraw; Jr. Regent, Joan King; chaplain, Olive Vannorman; treasurer, Ruby Stapley; recorder, Nellie Scrymgeour; Jr. Grd. Regent, Gladys. Ritch; Argus, Hilda Whittaker; sentinel, Daisy Johnson; guide, Isobel Philips; assistant guide, Nellie Burke; pianist, Betty Reid.

The chairmen are as follows: publicity, Joyce McCammon; Mooseheart, Audrey Donnelly; membership, Jacqueline McFee; Mooseheaven, Vivian Keller; child care, Jacqueline Auldhouse; social service, Eleanor Hume; hospital, Mary Morris; library, Lillian Campbell; homemaking, Olive Housen; academy friendship, Ida Lake; College of Regents, Edna McLuskie.



A vote of thanks was given to LOOM, No. 1004, for the fine job they did in installing the officers.

After the meeting closed gifts were given to the officers, escorts, chairmen and bingo workers, also the installing officers.

answers to some.

Mr. Diefenbaker demanded that Mr. Hellyer supply more information on the announced $100,000,000 savings to be derived in the next 10 years from integration of the forces.

Gordon Churchill (PC — Winnipeg South Centre) said the minister talked of a streamlined, unified force but didn't say how it would be accomplished.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) said Mr. Hellyer nailed the Commons when he said integration would eliminate 7,000 servicemen. It now was known that up to 80 per cent of these would have retired or left the service without integration.

SAYS MORALE LOWER

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, charged Mr. Hellyer with lowering the morale of the forces. The defence department itself didn't know what was happening. And Mr. Hellyer himself seemed unaware that many highly - qualified officers were leaving the services.

Mr. Hellyer said all questions posed by the Conservatives have already been answered, both in the defence committee and in the Commons.

History would prove that the single force was the answer to the defence problems posed by the latter half of the 20th century.

Morale was good, especially among Canadian troops serving abroad.

He said there was some uncertainty at defence headquarters in Ottawa where the axe would fall first. The quickest way to dispel these doubts would be to pass the bill and allow the government to get on with its plans.

Harold Winch (NDP — Vancouver East) found it "extraordinary" that the Conservatives had so many questions to fire at Mr. Hellyer.

The NDP defence critic said the official opposition was asking the same questions, advancing the same old arguments as it had earlier.

"Something amazing is happening here," Mr. Winch said.

Three Years For Passing Bogus Bills

TORONTO (CP) — Steve Ted Marion, 27, of Toronto, one of five Toronto area men arrested on counterfeiting charges here during the weekend, Monday was sentenced to three years imprisonment after pleading guilty to six charges of uttering counterfeit money and one of possession.

Also charged with possession and trying to pass counterfeit money is Harry B. Winkler, 28 of suburban North York. His 32-year-old son Allen, also of North York, was charged with possession after police recovered $2,000 in phoney $20 bills from a Toronto motel.

The elder Winkler was arrested Saturday while trying to buy $10 shore tickets at Woodbine Racetrack.

Two other Toronto men charged with possession are John Castrichinni, 26, a service station operator, and Salvatore Palmisi, 32, an unemployed laborer.

RCMP Inspector Ken Fraser said a shipment of $30,000 in bogus $20 bills—the same kind which Montreal was plagued with last week—may have arrived in Ontario.

COULD BE MORE

However, although the five men have been arrested, police said there could be a great many more of the phoney bills still in circulation. Only $5,500 has been recovered. Other counterfeit bills have been found in Toronto, Hamilton, Montreal and London, Ont.

RCMP said the bills are good reproductions, but added that the backs are lighter in color than genuine bills and ink on the serial numbers smears easily.

Police said they believe the source of the money was Montreal, where two persons have been arrested on charges of possessing and uttering counterfeit money.

Police in London said seven counterfeit bills were passed there Friday and Saturday but Detective-Sergeant Fred Hart said his department is sure the bills were not passed by the same gang which has been working in Toronto. He said the serial numbers were not the same.

Outlet Park Is Crowded To Capacity

PICTON (Staff) — Outlet Provincial Park is reported crowded to capacity this week. An overflow of campers are being directed to the adjacent provincial park at the Sandbanks. Sunday saw the famous sand beach covered with over 8,000 bathers and picnickers enjoying summer weather. The park features 285 campsites with plans for more.

Picton detachment of the OPP reports no serious accidents despite the traffic increase during the holiday weekend.

LEGION RAISING FUNDS

Saturday evening Branch 160 of the Royal Canadian Legion, Wellington, held the first of their proposed annual barbeque suppers. President of the Branch, Charles Goodmurphy stated that an attempt is being made to raise money to provide heating equipment for the Legion hall.

Take-out baskets of chicken were prepared by the Legion ladies for home delivery by Legion members. Following the barbeque guests danced to the music of Norris Cuningham's orchestra from Belleville.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. on Sunday the Glenora ferries, "The Quinte" and "The Loyalist" carried over 2,000 vehicles.

Capt. James Haylock stated this to be the heaviest amount of traffic carried by the ferries since the Department of Highways undertook their operation in 1939.

Child Swerves Into Path of Passing Car

PICTON (Staff) — Pamela Gorsline, age 9, was struck in the village of Demorestville on Monday afternoon at approximately 2.30 p.m. by a car driven by Louis Ray Lucchetti of New Kensington, Penn.

Pamela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gorsline was bicycling with Lorraine Carter, age 6, when she swerved into the path of the oncoming car. In attempting to miss the child Mr. Lucchetti wheeled his car into the ditch. He was accompanied by his wife and three other passengers at the time of the accident.

The Gorsline child sustained two severe fractures to her left leg while her companion, Lorraine Carter was unharmed. Dr. R. Hart attended the accident which was investigated by Constable Harry Sisty. No charges are to be laid. The car received only minor damage.

thorities denied this.

The cause of Miss Morgan's death last Nov. 4 became public knowledge only in January after members of her family pursued reports that it had been caused by a clamp and brought the matter to the attention of the coroner's office here.

Following the inquest, six charges under various sections of the Coroner's Act were lodged against four hospital doctors, Hospital Administrator Eric Willcocks and Dr. Kenneth Brown, the woman's personal physician who headed the operating team on Oct. 18. Dr. Brown also faces four charges of falsifying the death certificate.

Much of Monday's evidence was a repeat of testimony at last February's inquest. A new witness was Dr. H. B. Coman, chief supervising coroner for Ontario, who expressed the view that, under the Coroner's Act, every person who has reason to believe that reportable circumstances exist, has an obligation to report a death.

John Wagner, secretary at the Metropolitan Toronto coroner's office, said he had received no prior notice of the Morgan death until he received a letter Jan. 30 from Mrs. Ruth Neate, the woman's sister. She testified that after she had heard an autopsy showed the surgical instrument responsible and asked for an inquest.

EVIDENCE RECALLED

Contradictory evidence given at the inquest by two of the doctors who operated on Miss Morgan was repeated at Monday's trial.

Dr. A. T. Varga, senior resident, testified that after the operation Dr. Brown stitched up the peritoneal cavity (where the clamp was later found) two-thirds of the way before turning the task over to Dr. Varga.

Dr. Brown said this was "not true" and that Dr. Varga had closed the incision after the resident — disagreeing with Dr. Brown's procedures—had called the chief surgeon.

Dr. Pierce ordered the operation—an exploratory one for a stomach exit blockage—halted after the patient lost much blood.

Dr. Brown said he became "a spectator" after Dr. Varga took over.

MESSAGE IS HOAX

LONDON (CP) — Shipping circles have written off as a hoax a radio message monitored Monday saying the freighter Baltic Star had struck an iceberg off Greenland and was sinking fast. After it had been established definitely that the 1,375-ton ship was safely in harbor in Kemi, Finland, marine radio stations instructed ships in the North Atlantic to give up a search that had been started.

Peterborough Liftlock Now 60 Years Old

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) The world's largest hydraulic liftlock, a gigantic structure that lifts and lowers boats 65 feet, is 60 years old this year.

Opened July 9, 1904, the liftlock, built to overcome a 65-foot difference in water levels on the Trent Canal, remains Peterborough's major tourist attraction.

The lock plays an essential part in a series of navigable rivers and lakes connected by short canals and forming a continuous system of navigation for 204 miles from Lake Ontario to Washago at the northern end of Lake Couchiching. Smaller locks may even proceed down the Severn River to Georgian Bay and into Lake Huron.

The plans for the liftlock were prepared just before the turn of the century by R. B. Rogers, a native of Peterborough who was superintendent engineer of the canal. He had seen similar locks in England, Belgium and France.

Excavation work at Peterborough Liftlock was completed in 1890. The substructure contains 26,000 yards of concrete. The breast wall is 40 feet thick, 90 feet high and 128 feet long at the base. The towers are about 100 feet from top to bottom.

THREE-MINUTE TRIP

The two lock chambers are each 139 feet long and 33 feet wide. Each chamber contains about 1,300 tons of water 8½ feet deep.

The liftlock is like two huge elevators, one counterbalancing the other in ascent and descent. Each elevator platform carries a large watertight box which is the lock proper. A boat moves into the box, the ends are closed and the other box is flooded with 100 tons of water, causing the boxes to change their relative positions.

It takes about three minutes to clear a boat through the locks. Boats from many parts of Canada and the United States pass through each year. The passengers remain in their craft. If proceeding northward they are raised 65 feet and if going south they are lowered the same distance.

There is a roadway at the the liftlock and motorists can park on either side of the canal, watching the operations from the ground or climbing the steps to the top of the lock to watch proceedings from there.

cherries on now," he says.

Weekend rains came just in time to save parched crops in the Ottawa Valley, along the north shore of the St. Lawrence and in the Eastern Townships of Quebec.

"You've heard farmers talk about a million - dollar rain. Well, this was it!" says Nicholas D. Young, manager of a 600-acre market garden near Naplerville, 20 miles south of Montreal. "It's a real lifesaver."

DROUGHT THREATENS

But in Saskatchewan, persistent drought is spelling northern crops and causing concern in central areas. Weekend rain helped some regions but in some other places the storm brought hail that destroyed grain.

Federal Agriculture Minister Hays scheduled a meeting today with the Saskatchewan cabinet to discuss the drought and plans to aid farmers should the situation deteriorate further. Provincial Agriculture Minister A. R. McDonald said after a weekend tour of northern and central farms that the drought situation is the most serious in years.

In a reversal of past patterns, in which most of southern Saskatchewan has been afflicted by drought, crop prospects there this year look good. But in central areas, rain is needed and in the north hay and pastures are critically short and grain in some places is all but written off.

Things are better in neighboring Alberta and Manitoba, except in districts bordering the Saskatchewan drought area.

CROP LOOKS GOOD

Hartley Wilson, who farms 640 acres near Oakville, Man. about 40 miles west of Winnipeg, says his grain is looking as well and could develop into "the best crop in quite a number of years."

In Ontario, soil moisture generally is rated "all right" by the soil and crop branch of the agriculture department, although there are parched patches.

Dry weather has hit some spots in the tobacco districts of Ontario and in the tobacco belt west of Toronto, but in the Niagara area orchard, vine and fruit belts farmers are happy.

A late spring in the Ottawa Valley brought a bad start and recent drought compounded the problem.

"But it looks good now, says Garnet Ralph, who farms 550 acres at Richmond, south of Ottawa. "Moisture and plenty of fertilizer suffered less."

"It looks like a good year," says Ernest McConville, who farms 90 acres of mixed crops in Essex County.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If the late Will Rogers were alive today—and happened to be an Argonaut football fan—he would be just another mixed-up comedian.

Mr. Rogers' slogan was "I see by the papers . . .", and he based a lot of his homespun comedy on what the public prints produced.

The publicity drums of the Argonauts are thumping loud and long, but the beats, man, don't jibe.

Which should be good news for the striped Cats of the Hamilton Jungle; the Larks of Montreal already on the wing and the Rough Riders of the Ottawa corral, not to mention the pigskinners of the far west, who probably peruse the Toronto newspapers in their bunkhouse off-moments.

A couple of years ago the Argo drums thundered and the echo reverberated in the downtown canyons of Toronto and reached to the faraway pastures and fish pools of the hinterlands.

"The greatest combination of offence and defence ever presented by a Canadian football club," the blurb said. You know what happened.

To quote Mr. Rogers, "I see by the papers" that the Argonauts had their first formal scrimmage in their happy training ground in Aurora. All are agreed on that.

But I wish the observers and experts would either see eye to eye or go into a huddle and decide on a one-course publicity meal for the Argonaut hungry instead of dishing up sour and sweet lunches.

Quoth one expert:—"Amazing part of the scrimmage is that things actually went well with very few botched assignments, lots of good running, blocking, tackling and passing by enough different people to indicate Coach Wirkowski will have some problems cutting his squad to the eventual 33 players he can carry during the season."

Coach Wirkowski:—"Our passing wasn't sharp. On the whole I was happy with the practice at the beginning. I got more unhappy as things went along." (One expert claims this is just putting on the act.)

Observer Number Two:—"Their offence is again dubious. It still swivels around their quarterbacks and at the scrimmage there wasn't a pro thrower in the quartet."

Expert Number One:—"Most encouraging aspect of all was that we saw flashes of the old Jackie Parker running with the ball and throwing with authority and accuracy. That alone could get them into the playoffs."

Observer Number Two:—"Parker's running was impressive but his passing was scatter-armed. It is early and Parker was further hampered by a jammed right thumb."

Add Observer Number Two:—"Sandy Stephens revealed all of his characteristics which have made him a coach's despair the past two seasons. He got off a few good long shots, also fluttered two interceptions and coughed up the ball carelessly when rushed."

Expelt Number One:—"While it was apparent Argos still use win every game, there was enough to indicate they won't stumble around like they did at times last year. They'll be just as tough on defence and will be a lot better offensively."

Observer Number Two:—"Sherman Lewis lost a few off-tackle backs on his long downfield rambles but none of the passers could consistently deliver the ball."

So there's the Argonaut publicity salad as served by two typewriter chefs. Sugar or vinegar—take your choice.

Lightfoots Beaten By Daubers 8-5

The top-placed clubs in the Commercial Softball League are wondering today just how smart they were to permit the bottom squads pitching help for the stretch drive.

Don Holoway made it a two-for-two record for the pennycorners last night, pitching Ter-Hear Daubers to an 8-5 win over Lightfoot Construction. On Sunday Junior Day blanked City Hotel 4-0 — and City and Lightfoots are tied for first place.

In another game last night, Point Anne Cementmen downed Black Diamond Cheese 3-1.

Lightfoots jumped on Holoway for a 4-0 lead in the first two frames last night but he settled away to pitch a five-hitter, striking out five and walking six. His mates scored two runs in the third and four in the fourth to get the round for good.

Harry Powers was the loser, touched for five hits before George Young finished up with 1⅔ innings of hitless relief, fanning one. Powers struck out four and walked two.

Bucky Ethier cracked a double for Ter-Hare, Hubert Point, Don Moore, Don Duggan and Don Holoway getting singles.

Don Smith tripled for Lightfoots, Rusty Garvin, Jim Sheridan, Doug Rose and Jack Caldick adding singles.

Nearly 60 Seniors Seek Title

MONTREAL (CP) — Nearly three score golfers, their ages ranging from 50 to 86, start out Wednesday in the third annual tournament for the senior golf championship of the Canadian sports governed by the Royal Canadian Golf Association.

The tournament, for amateur oldsters, is a three-day affair, with 18 holes each day over the Summerlea course. The field Monday night stood at 54.

Ontario has the with number of entries at 28. Quebec has 22 and New Brunswick and Manitoba one each.

Oldest entrant is Wallace R. Hodd of Moncton, who is 68. Only five years younger is Dr. D. B. MacDonald of St Boniface, Man.

The two previous winners are entered. They are George Hevenor of Toronto, winner in 1962, and Bill Allen of Brantford, winner last year.

The Ontario representation also includes Tom Somerville of London, who walked off with the United States amateur championship 32 years ago.

Among the Quebec delegation, mostly from the Montreal area, is Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, who will be 9th the second day of the tournament.

NEW YORK (AP) — The rival All-Star managers, I hard pressed to select a record starting pitcher for today's mid-summer classic between the National and American Leagues, advocated a wider range of pitchers to choose from for future All-Star games.

American League manager Walter Alston's choice was cut and dried. He named Don Drysdale of his own Los Angeles Dodger team, partly because Don was the only right hander of the no All-Star staff who had not pitched over the weekend. Four of the seven NL pitchers worked Sunday.

Both managers said they preferred right handers because of the short distances in right handed hitters in the two starting line-ups.

Harry Powers was the loser, touched for five hits before George Young finished up with 1⅔ innings of hitless relief, fanning one. Powers struck out four and walked two.

Expect 30,000 Record Crowd For British Open

By TOM REEDY

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—They crowned a new king today for the 1964 British Open golf championship at the birthplace of the game.

He's a character known as the spectator.

Off the printing presses rolled enough tickets to accommodate 30,000 people to watch the 104th open title play which starts Wednesday and endures for 72 holes over the most impolite 6128 yards of trouble in existence.

In 1872 Tom Kidd won the championship here from 25 competitors and a libulous gallery of 50.

As late as 1949, Reg Whitcombe beat Harry Bradshaw of Ireland at Sandwich in a playoff which attracted exactly 20 spectators.

As the challengers, among them Jack Nicklaus and Tony Lema of the United States and Gary Player of South Africa arrived, the spectator fever hit the Old Course. Golf fans by the hundreds wandered around, sporting their spectator tickets. "Golf fans by the king nowadays," said George Simms, press officer for the Open.

Simms, a golf writer in Britain for years, is by his very existence a sign of the times. The Royal and Ancient Club once frowned on the idea of tickets to the tradesmen's entrance to see something posted on the wall.

Now the R and A golf spectator is being given new paths to walk alongside the nine holes of the Old Course, which distinguish the Old Course.

Parking lots have been created. A road was built to the turn so it is now possible to drive to the seventh green. Mounds were bulldozed at the second green, the third and fourth tees, the fifth and 12th greens and at the 14th and 17th greens. Stands have been erected at the first and third greens and at the 12th 13th and 14th. A mobile score board was built.

Closed-circuit television delivers the latest news.

They are charging spectators $4.20 for the entire week of golf until the last shot is fired Friday.

By North American standards it's cheap. Any time you can play the Old Course, without introduction since it is public property, by the town. Or $1.40. And adjoining courses such as the "New," the "Eden" and the "Jubilee" are comparpondingly cheaper to the point where a child is charged only ten cents a round.

The prize is only $4,200 but top golfers have lifted the Open title except twice since British Open. He almost captured it last year, but went over par on each of the last two holes.

Lema is 7-to-1 second choice, Charles is 9-to-1 and Player 10-to-1.

Wings Nip Leafs 1-0, Bisons Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vern Handrahan, 24-year-old Cheltenham right hander, made his first International League start Monday night and spun a four-hitter over seven innings to help Rochester Red Wings to a 1-0 decision over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Handrahan, who lost one game in relief earlier, fanned five and gave up four walks before being relieved by Bob Scott after facing one batter in the eighth inning. He started the season with Kansas City of the American League.

In other action Syracuse Chiefs edged Buffalo Bisons 10-9, Richmond Virginians defeated Atlanta 5-2 on a decision over Columbus Jets and the cellar-dwelling Atlanta Crackers upset the league-leading Jacksonville Suns 3-1.

Steve Demeter hit a single off the right-field wall to send Curt Blefary home in the first inning for the Red Wings after Blefary doubled with two out.

Howie Koplitz, the first of three pitchers Rochester used, handed the defeat. his fourth in five decisions.

The loss for the Bisons was their first in six games. A two-run pinch single in the seventh by Jim Pisoni started their downfall. Julio Navarro was the winning pitcher and Ed Bauta got the save.

Bob Schmidt drove in the winning run for Richmond on a fielder's choice after the Virginians had fashioned a 7-1 lead and John Powers clouted two three-run homers to tie the score.

Mel Nelson scattered five hits to lead Atlanta to its victory over Jacksonville. Sandy Valdespino made the big batsman, throwing in two runs with a double.

Galt Shades Stratford 10-9

STRATFORD (CP)—Galt Terriers battered three Stratford Chiefs pitchers for 17 hits, all singles, last night to defeat the Chiefs 10-9 in Senior Inter-County Baseball action.

Larry Thomas started on the mound for Stratford. He gave up four runs and was relieved by Larry Brown in the first inning with one out. Thomas lasted until the fourth inning. Murray Dobrot took over. Krasnan was charged with the defeat.

Jim Simpson, Terriers' starting pitcher, took the win even though he lasted only three innings. Art Lomax completed the game for Galt.

Ken Lawrence kept up his batting average for Stratford by contributing a home-run and a triple to the 11 hits the Chiefs collected.

Three Share Top Spot In Lombanks Shade Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

TWEED — Leading 6-0 after five innings and trailing 7-6 going into the bottom of the eighth, Tweed Lombanks pulled out a three-swinging 9-7 B. and D. softball league win over Elzie Juniors here last night.

The victory boosted Lombanks into a first-place tie with Trenton and the Juniors. It was Ellis' first defeat in six games.

Trenton meets Trudeau Motors in a 6.45 tilt at the CNRA Park tonight, followed by a league meeting at 8.15.

Tweed had taken advantage of fielding lapses for the early 6-0 lead last night but the Juniors struck back for four in the fifth and added another pair with a trio in the top of the eighth.

In the bottom of the inning, Cotion singled with one out and Morton lined a hard single to right. The ball bounced through McKibbon with both runners going all the way. Infield hits by R. LeSage and Meraw and another error added the final marker.

R .LeSage, D. LeSage and Gorr hit safely for Tweed's first run when Gorr was hit by walk, singles by Sinclair and White and Meraw's two-run homer made it 3-0 in the fourth. White tripled home another after a walk in the fifth.

In the Juniors' tenth, Elzie homer-attempt was pulled down for the second out at the fence. A walk, Challand's hit to center, Boomhower's single and McKibbon's two-run single made it a 6-4 game.

A walk ignited the eighth-inning rally and Healey followed with a throwing error. Challand drove both in with a long triple and scored himself on a wild pitch. Another infield hit and a walk chased Blaine Healey in favor of Rob Morton, who got the win and also the hit that led to the deciding run.

Morton did not allow a hit after taking over from Healey, fanning one and passing two. Healey had struck out six and passed three, giving up seven Junior hits.

Bob Boyle was the loser, racked for 11 of Tweed's 13 hits with Sinclair and Gary Bob Bihler. He fanned four, walked two but errors, proved costly.

In Larry Gore's other game, one a double, Paul Merraw a homer and single, Tom White a triple and single and R. LeSage two singles for Tweed. Rich Morton, Don LeSage, Dave Sinclair and Don Cotton led the others.

Mike Challand tripled and singled and Dave Carl Boomhower had two hits, Stu Malloy and John McKibbon the others.

Wayne Woods, in the fifth, and Bob Boyle, in the ninth, were tossed out of the game by the officials — and several others came close.

Fountain Park exploded for four runs in the fourth inning to grab a 4-3 Peewee baseball league win over the Bad Boys in a tight game at Park Dale last night.

Bad Boys held a 2-0 lead at the time and came back with one more but were unable to get the equalizer.

Jim Wood came through with a beautiful three-bit pitching performance over the Bad Boys in Park. He blazed third strikes past 10 and did not walk a batter. Ed Christopher was his battery mate.

Wayne Farrell took the loss, allowing five hits. He whiffed half a dozen and walked one. Ron Jury did the catching.

Ed Christopher, Bert Loveless and Jim Wood batted two singles apiece for the winners. Rene Lepore, S. Wright and D. Wylie got the others.

Jim Blatchford, Paul Muldoon and Peter Middleton split the Bad Boy safeties.

The Peewee All-Star Merchants will meet Frankford in an exhibition game Wednesday night at 6.15. The game will precede the Belleville-Brockville senior game at the Fairgrounds.

Will Up Pension Of Umpires

NEW YORK (AP)—The National League's Executive Council, meeting with representatives of the league's umpires association, has reached a verbal agreement on an increase in the umpires' pension fund.

The agreement, which came after three hours of closed door meeting Monday, must be approved by the league at the summer meeting, tentatively scheduled for Chicago.

John Reynolds, attorney for the umpires' group, said he would present the agreement to the association and NL President Warren Giles would present it to the league.

The umpires, who on May 26 threatened a strike unless the pension plan was improved, currently receive $200 a year for each year of service upon retirement at age 55. They rejected a league offer increasing the figure to $250 in May, and demanded $300.

Details of Monday's agreement were not announced.

Toronto Soccer Three Draw Life Suspensions

TORONTO (CP) — Two-team officials and a player were suspended for life connected with soccer by the Toronto and District Soccer Association Monday night.

The suspensions were the result of a near-riot which halted a Second Division game between Queen's Park and Varese in Toronto June 28.

The player, Pasquale Magnone, was found guilty of kicking George Cootie of Queen's Park. The disciplinary board found Cesare Diano and Benito Diano, president and secretary of the Varese club, guilty of aiding and abetting the fracas.

Both Cootie and Cesare Diano were taken to hospital as a result of injuries received in the fracas.

Each club was fined $300 and ordered to post $300 bonds against the good behavior of their players. They have been suspended until the fines and bonds have been received by the association secretary.

Ian McConvey, the Queen's Park goalkeeper, was suspended for one year, effective immediately. Miroslav Boucek, the referee who ordered the game stopped after 20 minutes into the second half, was removed from the official list of referees for incompetence.

McConvey was accused of leaving his goal to aid his team mates.

Bill Simpson, Toronto and District Soccer Association president said this was the most serious soccer uprising in Toronto in three years.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Puss N Boots, the once temperamental colt who barely knows himself what his next stunt will be, Monday won the Yarmouth Purse over 1 1-16 miles at Woodbine Race Track.

Getting to the lead shortly after the start, Puss N Boots raced to the front and Avelino Gomez had a soft ride to victory, providing a $4.80, $3.10 and $2.40 return to most of his backers among the crowd of 7,569.

Puss N Boots, a double stakes winner last season, made worldwide headlines when he leaped the barge three years ago at Fort Erie and plunged into the infield lake.

Nicklaus Tops Golf Loot List

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The lanky young shaker Jack Nicklaus is the leading money winner in professional golf. PGA headquarters reported Monday he has $81,718 to his credit at mid-stage of the season.

He has played in 16 tournaments, won three and been among the first five finishers in 10.

Arnold Palmer is in second place with winnings of $71,693, next is Tony Lema with $64,478.

Others in the top 10 are Bill Casper Jr., $56,706; Gary Player, $48,719; Mike Souchak, $35,270; Juan Rodriguez, $34,713; Mason Rudolph, $33,837; Tommy Jacobs, $33,816, and Dave Marr, $31,789.

Many Teen-Agers Card Good Scores

—Ont. Junior Golf—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Teen-aged golfers throughout Ontario took to the links Monday, seeking berths in the Ontario junior golf championships and several carded scores that professionals would be happy to shoot.

Mike Cote of Sarnia had the best round with a two-under-par 70 to lead a field of 35 qualifiers into the junior division for golfers in the 16-18 age bracket.

Jo his heels were Ward Foss of Smiths Falls with 72, Phil Gross of Chatham with 73, and Richard Paton of Renfrew with 74.

Don Gordon of Islington led the 37 juniors who qualified with a 73, one stroke less than Brian McIntyre of Harriston.

But perhaps the most surprising scores were posted in the bantam section for boys 13 and under where 21 qualified, five with scores under 90.

TWO OUTSHINE FIELD

Sandy Thomson of Brantford and Tim McCutcheon of Peterborough were in a class by themselves with the 11 strokes less than their nearest rival, Carl Yates of Sarnia. Two Windsor youngsters, Alan Barbesin and John Riggs, were next in line at 83.

The boys were competing in regional qualifying rounds at Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, Belleville, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Fonthill and Sarnia.

The junior and juvenile divisions will complete in a 36-hole final at Toronto July 17. The four lowest scores there will represent Ontario in the Canadian junior championships at Charlottetown Sept. 1-4. And the two lowest scorers in each of the 14, 15, 16, and 17 age groups will make the Ontario team for the Ontario - Quebec junior matches in Toronto Aug. 11.

Those who qualified in the bantam class will meet in an 18-hole final at Toronto July 17 for the provincial bantam title.

Among those who qualified Monday:

Junior—Allan Billyard, Lookout Point, 76; Larry Kelly, Brantford, 76; Harry Hulser, Niagara-on-the-Lake, 76; Norm Sean, Peterborough, 76; Jerry Hiles, Strathroy, 76; Pete Smith, Southampton, 76; Peter Knechtel, Hanover, 77; Joe Donato, Trenton, 77; Randy Dunk, St. Catharines, 77; Gary Schelers, Sarnia, 78; Bob McKay, Sarnia, 78; Gary Carpenter, Port Colborne, 78; Ernie Down, Welland, 78; Bill Tape, Welland, 78; Al Bannister, Lookout Point, 78; Tom Cottringer, Lookout Point, 78; Terry Chittick, Peterborough, 79; Ab James, Woodstock, 79; Bruce Rutherford, Owen Sound, 80.

Juvenile — Ian Thomas, London, 75; Fin Melville, St. Thomas, 76; Peter Lago, Guelph, 77; Bruce Wilson, Brantford, 77; Ron King, Peterborough, 78; Jim Watson, Woodstock, 78; Brian White, Niagara Falls, 81; Paul Gross, Chatham, 82; Bill Hunter, Windsor, 82; Bill Bouton, Windsor, 82; Grant McDonald, Brantford, 84; John Reid, Sarnia, 85; Wayne Barnes, Sarnia, 86; Ron Powell, Sarnia, 86; John Grange, Napanee, 87.

Bantam — Scott Bell, Petrolia, 90; Tim Crow, Niagara Falls, 90; Bruce Burger, Port Hope, 90; John Thomas, Petrolia, 92; Mac Wilson, Ingersoll, 92; Bob Barrett, Chippawa, 97; Earl Hunter, Delaware, 94; Greg Thompson, St. Mary's, 94; Rick Haynes, Chatham, 96; Glen Patterson, Hamilton, 96.

Ontario Junior Championships

Three Area Golfers Qualify

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Three youthful district golfers qualified for the Ontario Junior Golf Championships at the Bay of Quinte Country Club yesterday.

Joe Donato of Trenton headed the junior division (16-18) with the best score of the day a six-over-par 77.

Topping the juvenile section (14-15) was John Grange of Napanee who carded an 87.

Bruce Burger of Port Hope was the best of the bantam division (13 and under) who turned in a score of 90.

In comparison with teen-age golfers of other districts of the province, the Quinte area youngsters made a fine showing.

Donato's 77 was just two strokes behind the lowest junior score. Grange's juvenile 87 was well down but Burger's bantam 90 was tied for tops with two other 15-year-olds.

The field was a disappointing one, entries being the lowest in years. Thirty-one youngsters from six centres turned up for the competition.

Trenton topped the entry field with nine players; Napanee sent seven; Port Hope and Trenton RCAF clubs each sent five; Bay of Quinte three and Cobourg two.

A competition official expressed his disappointment at the small turnout of Bay of Quinte youngsters.

"Only three showed up for play out of a list of well over 100 minor golfers," he said. "And not a few of them could beat the most of the better scores turned in today."

Donato and Grange will take part in the junior and juvenile finals scheduled for the Maple Downs Country Club at Downsview on July 17th.

Bruce Burger will play in the bantam finals being scheduled for the Glen Shields Golf Club on the same day.

The four lowest scores there will represent Ontario in the Canadian championships at Charlottetown, September 1-4.

Qualification selections were made on a basis of one of every fifteen players. This is a change from one in ten of a year ago.

Breakdown of the entry list revealed thirteen junior players, eleven juveniles and seven bantams.

Some of the youngsters showed surprising ability under clear July skies and over a near-perfect course.

Larry Paradis, Trenton RCAF junior player, had the best hole score of the day. He sank a 16-foot putt on the par three 235-yards 16th hole for a birdie two.

Diminutive David Henderson of the Bay of Quinte, who isn't much larger than his golf clubs, birdied the par four 280-yard first hole. The Quinte bantam was only four feet from the pin with his second shot. His 91 was only one stroke behind the qualifying player.

Other Bay of Quinte youngsters' scores were Phil Denyes 97 and Cal Wilson 98, both in the juvenile division. There was not a Bay of Quinte entry in the junior section.

The qualifications were under the supervision of OGA director T. A. Carruthers. Associate Jim Little had the field well on its way by ten a.m.

In a brief outdoor post-competition ceremony, Carruthers presented miniature trophies to the qualifying players, and golf balls to the first five in each division.

Shannonville Wins Squeaker From Foxboro

The league-leading Shannonville club rode an early lead into an 8-7 South Hastings Baseball League victory over Foxboro on the losers' home diamond.

Shannonville led 3-1 and 8-4 in the game's first half and held on to grab the decision.

Bill Barberstock pitched the victory, scattering 10 hits and firing thirt strikes past 15. He walked two.

Gord "Soup" Campbell allowed 11 hits in a losing effort, fanning seven and passing four.

Maracle, Gerry Hill, Dafoe and Bill Barberstock had two hits apiece for Shannonville, Brant, Lewis and Bud Hill one.

Pete Young poled four Foxboro singles and Gary Little hit a double and two singles. Reynolds, Dickey and Beecher got the others.

Cup Team For 1964 Completed

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's four-man Davis Cup team for 1964 was completed Monday night when the selection committee named Reider Getz of Vancouver and Val Haritt of Montreal to join the squad.

Getz, a 20-year-old Vancouver parks department employee, and Haritt, 36-year-old holder of the Montreal Cup, registered two victories and one defeat each in four-man round-robin trials that ended Monday.

They join Keith Carpenter of Montreal and Francois Godbout of Waterloo, Que., on this year's Davis Cup squad which will meet Australia here July 17-19.

Losers in the round robin trials were Mike Carpenter of Montreal and Brian Flood of London, Ont., each with a record of one victory and two defeats.

In Monday's final matches, Haritt downed Flood 6-2, 9-7, 6-3 while Getz edged Carpenter 6-4, 3-6, 8-6.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—Brown Wolf ended a two-year winless streak that covered 55 races, in winning the first race at Greenwood Raceway Monday night.

The seven-year old trotter raced up in the final yards to win the seven-furlong test by a nose over a 9-to-1 choice, Miss Fly Ball, driven by owner Stan Love of Milton, Ont.

Owned by Joe Grondnis of Brampton, Ont. Brown Wolf had gone to the post in 15 races this year, earning but one second and two thirds, which matched his performance for 40 races in 1963.

The 25-to-1 pick returned his backers a win mutuel of $56.90 and $19.20 for place.

When 4-10-5 choice, Fleet Time, won the second race for the Maplewood Stable of Montreal, a daily double of $167.60 came up.

Direct Bud from the Lachine Stable of Lachine, Que., hit the winner's circle for the first time in 13 starts this year and teamed with Sugar Hill Monk, driven by owner Clarence Lockhart of Collingwood, Ont. for a quinella of $66.70.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Jerry Johnston of Dresden showed why he's the leading driver at the Western Fair Raceway here Monday night when he piloted three winners in four tries.

He started his winning string in the third race with Red Stonewease, a three-year-old gelding racing the mile in 2:11 2-5 to pay $13.20.

In the fourth he registered with Chief Johnston which paced the in 2:08 2-5. Johnston favorite, the five-year-old gelding paid $3.

His third win came in the fourth as he steered Darwin G to victory in 2:09 and a return of $11.60.

Emerson Wants Back In Fold

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Wimbledon champion Roy Emerson has taken the first step toward seeking reinstatement in the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia for himself and other top players.

In a letter to LTAA president Norman W. Strange, Emerson said he is seeking reinstatement because the present situation "is hurting Australia as well as Australian tennis."

Emerson and Fred Stolle, the beaten Wimbledon finalist, and several other male tennis players were dropped from the Davis Cup team and suspended from the association early this year when they refused to heed an association ban on playing in tournaments abroad before the Australian championships.

Emerson's letter to Strange was discussed by the association's four-man executive committee Monday.

The committee was expected to call a full LTAA meeting later in the week to consider lifting the suspensions.

North, Electric Holds Softball Tournament

The London entry whipped Ottawa 11-1 to capture the fourteam Northern Electric Inter-Divisional softball tournament played here on Sunday.

Other teams participating were Belleville and Bramalea, place representatives.

In the tournament's first round Ottawa topped Belleville 9-5 and London knocked off Bramalea 5-3. In the consolation round Bramalea nipped Belleville 7-6.

London scored nine runs in the first inning against Ottawa in the finalist battle.

Doug Skinkle, president of the Belleville N. E. Club, presented the new A. Shukster trophy, named after its donator, to Bill Goddard, coach of the London team.

Following the tournament, played at the CNRA Park, approximately 60 persons enjoyed a banquet, served by the CNRA Ladies' auxiliary.

Arrangements for the day were handled by Harry Green, athletic chairman for the Belleville N. E. Club.

Mawhinney Suspension Is Lifted

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto golf pro Bill Mawhinney had his suspension lifted by the Ontario Professional Golfers Association Monday, but was fined $100 for violation of the ethics of the organization.

In addition to the fine, Mawhinney received a reprimand from the PGA and was banned from playing in association tournaments for the rest of 1964.

Mawhinney was suspended by the OPGA last month after appearing in a downtown department store wedding paid $3.

His third win came in the match as he steered Darwin G to victory in 2:09 and a return of $11.60.

YACHT ARRIVES

NEW YORK (AP) — The 12-metre yacht Sovereign, contender for selection of official British challenger in the America's Cup series, has safely arrived in the liner Andania Monday and was hoisted into the Hudson River by cranes. Sovereign will resume her series with Kurrewa V in Newport, R.I., Saturday. The one the two will be selected to try for the America's Cup at Newport in September.

Mickey Running Hot-Willie Cooling Off

Mantle-Mays Debate Shows Wear Signs

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball's Great Debate may be in for a long, hot summer run if New York's magnificent cripple slays as healthy as his current batting average.

The Mickey Mantle - Willie Mays squabble, a pick-em talk-fest for more than 10 years, shows signs of wear—as have Mantle's tender legs—in the past few seasons.

But Mickey, virtually counted out after missing 97 games in 1963, is again convincing people that he's not only the finest switch-hitting performer baseball has ever known but perhaps the greatest all-around player in the game today.

Harmon Killebrew of the Twins appears a shoo-in for the Most Valuable Player award. He hit three homers last week for a total of 30 in 76 games, just eight behind Mantle's record pace of 1961. The Killer has driven in 64 runs, three more than Dick Stuart of the Boston Red Sox, the majors' top production mark.

Mantle vaulted into the thick of the batting race last week with an eight-game clip of .600. The Yankee star had 12 hits in 32 official at-bats, lifting his season mark to .332, four points behind Minnesota's Bob Allison, whose league lead dipped from 10 points to one over rookie teammate Tony Oliva. Third place Mantle was fifth, at .319, last week.

Mays held the runner-up position in the National League race while Billy Williams of Chicago, last week's leader, and Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, third a week ago, swapped places. Mays' average, however, fell eight points to .339 as the San Francisco slugger went 3-for-21 in seven games.

CLEMENTE DROPS

Clemente dropped from .348 to .336 while Williams tumbled 16 points, to .330, after a 3-for-32 week.

The Mantle-Mays figures are not far apart in home runs and runs batted in. Mays has 23 homers and 55 RBI, both league-leading totals, in 77 games. Mantle has 17 homers and 54 RBI in 70 fewer contests.

Each hit .314 a year ago, but willie piled 36 home runs to 15 for Mantle, who suffered a series of injuries, including a broken foot, and played in only 65 games.

Won't Coach Simcoe Team Says McIntyre

GUELPH (CP)—Jack McIntyre, former forward for Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, has denied reports that he will be playing coach of Simcoe Gunners of the intermediate A division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Bud Kemp, president of Guelph Regals of the OHA Senior Series, for whom McIntyre was player-coach last season, said Monday McIntyre is still Guelph property and intends to return here next season.

McIntyre joined Guelph midway through last season after starting the year with Cincinnati of the Central Professional League. He led Regals to a playoff spot and after they were eliminated in the semi-finals, McIntyre joined Woodstock Athletics as a replacement and went with them to the Allan Cup finals.

The Fugitive Will Be Kept 'On the Run' Next Season

When ABC's The Fugitive made its debut last fall, the two big questions raised were how cool the writers keep a man on the run from authorities indefinitely, and how could a hero who was an escaped convict be squared with television's "crime doesn't pay" code. Star David Janssen, writing for Cynthia Lowry who is on vacation, supplies the answers.

Written for
The Associated Press
By DAVID JANSSEN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Soon after The Fugitive had its premiere last fall, those of us connected with the show learned to expect calls on Wednesday mornings from friends "in the trade."

After the usual comments on the previous night's episode, the callers would get around to the usual questions: What's going to happen next week? How can you retain interest with a man-on-the-run premise?

The general idea seemed to be that we had no chance than a "one-joke" situation going for us, one that couldn't be sustained for more than 13 weeks at best.

Well, 30 weeks later, our Wednesday mornings are much quieter. We seldom are asked about sustaining interest in Richard Kimble's dilemma.

Actually we have many things going for us on The Fugitive. Lieut. Gerard's pursuit of Dr. Kimble is only one of them.

HAS FINE BACKGROUND

Before I stepped in front of the camera to film the pilot, I had made sure that Dr. Kimble was more than a one-dimensional character obsessed with finding the one-armed man who committed the crime he's been convicted of. He's a man with a fine background, a scientific education, and decent instincts.

He understands the viewpoint of Lieut. Gerard thoroughly, not as a man with deep respect for law and law enforcement, is even sympathetic toward it. Although he is the unfortunate victim of a miscarriage of justice, he does not feel that keeping on the run he is compromising his basic beliefs.

And because of his basic decency, his instinctive reaction to situations which could expose him to capture, we have considerably more than a one-joke situation in our series.

What, for instance, would Kimble do if a decent woman fell in love with him? How would he react if he saw small-town bigotry about to destroy the character of an innocent person, and realized that by stepping in he would be exposing himself to capture? If circumstances should arise where he could with his medical knowledge, save the life of Lieut. Gerard, would he do so? Or would he let his nemesis die, knowing he would never be connected with the death?

These are ju t a few of the situations we presented last season.

The possibilities are unlimited, and writers are eager to write within our framework.

With our professional and public acceptance, I feel we have grabbed two gold rings on the television merry-go-round. The new ride starts Sept. 15

AT THE PARKE — Britain's famed Peter Sellers fixes the music — and much more — in Pan Arts' DeLuxe Color-Panavision comedy "The World of Henry Orient." Unified Artists release produced by Jerome Hellman and directed by George Roy Hill, opening Thursday at the Park Theatre for its Belleville showing.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — The great Arnold Palmer takes a golf lesson from Bob Hope in the latter's new comic spoof "Call Me Bwana" co-starring Anita Ekberg, showing Thursday at the time limit tonight at the Belleville Drive-in theatre. 2nd feature attraction, also in color is "Sword of the Conqueror and stars Jack Palance.

People of the Little World Have Tough Road to Follow

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — This is the Hollywood of the 60's.

His legs dangled over the edge of the bus-stop bench. His face, shaded by a blue fedora, resembled a dried quince. A natty suit covered his beautiful figure. His voice sounded as if it came from an old gramophone.

Billy Barnes is by his own definition a Lilliputian.

"I realize the word is hard on the ears," he explained, "but they call us midgets," he remarked. "Well, that's all right. You can call us midgets if they like. We people of the little world have a tough road to follow. But what can you do? You can just grin and bear it."

Little Billy, as his billing reads — the ring on his tiny finger spells L. B. in diamonds — was resting on the bench at Las Palmas Avenue during one of his daily promenades down the boulevard. Sitting in the midday sun, he reflected on his 69 years in the little world.

"I was born in Lynn Mass.," he said. "My parents were both normal size. When my father took a look at me and saw how small I was, he said goodbye to my mother and she never saw him again.

SOLD NEWSPAPERS

"I grew up in awful no erly, simply awful. Mattress on the floor, that sort of thing. I helped out my mother by selling newspapers—I was so small I could only hold three at a time. One day I wandered up an alley which happened to be a stage entrance. Out came a guy in a beaver-collared overcoat with curly-tipped cane and Scottish bowler.

"He not only bought all three of my papers, he gave me a ticket to the show."

Little Billy went to the theatre and fell in love with show business. When the producer-star offered to take him on the road, Billy's mother wouldn't allow it. But the boy ran off, hunger strike until she relented.

He joined the repertory company and later was hired by the manager, Jerry Grady. Billy played all the child roles. Then he moved on to vaudeville and Broadway, appearing with Marilyn Miller in Peter Pan and in George M. Cohan's Review of 1916.

In 1928 he was brought to Hollywood for his first movie, Side Show, with Marie Prevost. He still works in movies and television.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For July 8

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Protect your possessions. Stand up for beliefs. Fine for dealing with real estate, insurance. Be versatile. Take steps to insure future security. Investigate alternative methods.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Highlight ideas, self-expression. Day to break away from restrictions. Your bliinds must be articulated. No more delay or excess timidity. Speak up! Highlight bold approach.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): What appears obvious may be deceptive. Look behind the scenes. Find out the reasons why. The more impulsive you are . . . the better. Weigh all relevant facts then trust own judgment.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Cycle high. Key is being courageous. Means do what must be done. Those who appear to oppose you are merely waiting. You attract allies through forthright action. Move ahead!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Time to dig in! Key is accomplishment your own way. Don't be afraid of failure. Enter creative area. No need for apprehension. Try — and your effort will now bring greater reward.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): Try to communicate desires. Others cannot always perceive your needs. The more frank you are . . . the better. Day features changes. Evening calls for relaxation, meditation.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Good to co-operate in community projects. Lend your efforts to worthwhile endeavors. One in your family needs encouragement. Be sympathetic. Stress reliability.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Good lunar aspect stresses journeys, expression of honest ideals. Don't permit "sleepies" to disillusion you. Those who are envious may try to tear down your efforts. Resist!

Sagittarius (Nov 22 to Dec. 21): Mate or business partner expresses enthusiasm. Try to understand — and offer encouragement. What may appear far away . . . is closer than you think. Key is optimism.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Complete projects. Don't take unnecessary chances. Tendency is to dispute those close to you. Try to see all sides of question. The more lenient you are . . . the more others respect you.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Maintain schedule! New contacts would prove beneficial. But don't try to accomplish everything at one sitting. Key is steady effort. Impatience now could spell setback.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Need for love, understanding is emphasized. Avoid those who want to bicker. Realize that harmony is necessary. Stress creative efforts. Welcome those who come forth with new ideas.

If today is your birthday . . . you have knack for making the most of assets. You have the ability to go to the top. But you require loved one who has faith in your abilities.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Cancer, Leo, Virgo. Special word to Capricorn: No day to force issues. Wait and observe.

CANAL REOPENED

Johnson Charges Judge of Being A Bigot

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Daniel Johnson Monday accused Mr. Justice Elie Salvas, who headed a royal commission inquiry into the former Union Nationale administration, of being a bigot and a liberal party sympathizer.

He made the charge in the legislature during study of the resources department's estimates.

Mr. Johnson had risen to inquire into the progress of copalcrites for oil and natural gas in the province.

Louis-Philippe Lacroix, (L—Magdalen Islands) asked:

"Do you want to buy some more shares?"

Mr. Johnson apparently referring to a report of the Salvas royal commission in 1962, which found Mr. Johnson and 73 other prominent figures had "realized a personal profit on the sale of a public asset," said they had bought shares in the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation immediately before it acquired Montreal's gas distribution network from publicly - owned Hydro-Quebec.

WILL BUT

"I will buy more shares on the market," Mr. Johnson retorted, "when I have the means to play the stock market and the time to do so.

"I am certain there are more bigots like Mr. Justice Salvas who will protect the racial instinct about it.

He did not judge in reference to the law. He judged in reference to morality, and his competence in that field is far from being established."

Transport Minister Gerard Cournoyer said the appointment of Mr. Justice Salvas is higher than that of any legislature member, "especially the opposition leader."

"The justice is a native of Quebec in the minister's riding of Richelieu.

"One of his electors," Mr. Johnson retorted. "He (Mr. Cournoyer) knows how well (Liberal) this man is. . . "

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids . . . and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain relief was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a number of chronic hemorrhoid cases. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured skin and mucous membrane of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

BELFAST HAS VITALITY — Busy Regent Street reflects the bustling activity of Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, a city of fashionable shops, fine restaurants and good hotels. Although there is little of the quaintness generally associated with Ireland, residents say they prefer it this way and are proud of what they describe as "a modern, efficient city." (CP Photo from British Information Services)

IT'S MODERN INSIDE — Although this building is more than 300 years old provides up-to-date accommodations for tourists visiting Northern Ireland, a land dotted with dozens of modernized hotels. The brochure for this building says: "Welcome to Bali ygally Castle . . . ancient fortress, modern luxury hotel." (CP Photo from British Information Services)

Algae Can Be Unpleasant But as a Rule Is Harmless

by R. E. WHITFIELD
Tweed Forestry District

During the past few weeks cottagers on some of the shallow, highly productive district lakes have been plagued with algae drifting in on their beaches from the open lake. For most everyone living on or near the water this is a familiar occurrence.

Many ask if algae is harmful to swimmers, will it kill fish, where does it come from and how can it be gotten rid of?

There are many different species of algae growing in the waters of our lakes, some consisting of a few single cells, while others form long filaments with the cells growing end to end. The latter is probably the most troublesome when it drifts ashore and begins to decay. The threadlike green filamentous algae commonly seen in local lakes is a free living plant that has no roots, and drifts freely in the water and often is carried passively by wind and current until it floats to the surface forming masses of green slime often drifting shoreward.

Algae lives on nutrients taken from the water. The nutrients are absorbed through the thin cell walls of the plant as it floats about freely in the water.

Some algaes grow in fresh, clear water, while others are more common in stagnant ponds and polluted water. Pollution in some instances emanates from the algae itself when it becomes super abundant and the process of decay sets in.

CAN BE KILLED

Algae can be treated and killed by the careful use of chemicals in small, local areas, such as bays and in swimming beaches along lake shores. However, one must keep in mind that algae killed by chemical application is little different than algae that dies naturally—It all tends to create a disagreeable situation, which necessitates raking it out of the water, off the beaches, and disposal. Chemical or any means of killing algae in small areas along open lake fronts is of little help as this form of aquatic life probably did not develop in the area where the problem exists. Instead it is highly likely that it was carried there by prevailing winds or current.

Cottagers may get some relief by raking the algae out of the water and removing it from the beach before it decays, even then insistent winds are likely to bring more of it in from the open lake.

Algae as a rule is not harmful to humans or fish life, but presents a disagreeable odour when rotting and most swimmers like to avoid it because of its slimy nature.

In some instances fish get entangled in the fibrous filaments, especially the smaller ones, but generally it does not present a problem in this respect.

Rotting algae at certain times has a fairly high oxygen demand, but here agin fish as a rule can move outside the oxygen depleted zones along shorelines to the open water where there is plenty of oxygen to support them.

Sunlight is essential to the growth of algae. Prolonged sunny periods with calm weather contribute to its undisturbed growth.

Certain years when snow cover on lakes is slight, sunlight can penetrate through and trigger early growth and contributes to its early summer development, which in turn appearance in the waters of our local lakes.

How fortunate or unfortunate cottagers can be depends upon which way the wind blows.

'Shure, a Little Bit of Britain Fell From Out of the Sky One Day'

By ROD CURRIE

BELFAST (CP)—The trouble with Ireland is that there are two of them.

And the trouble with Northern Ireland in particular is that it is overshadowed geographically and romantically by the bigger but poorer Republic of Ireland on the island they share.

"Most foreigners just can't comprehend a setup in which there are two Irelands," said an official of the tourist board, one of the men charged with the frustrating task of trying to bring a national identity of Ulster. "the result is that nine times out of 10, when they refer to Ireland, they are talking of the republic. We feel sort of left out."

"The problem is simply this," said an official of the government information service. "How do you project an image of a nation?"

This indeed seems to sum up the matter as seen by most Ulstermen. How does a small nation, an enclave in the island of Ireland but with it sentimental, commercial and political ties across the Irish sea to Britain, establish its individual personality?

'BETWEEN TWO STOOLS'

Overlooked in its Irish context, it sometimes also is the forgotten part of the "United Kingdom of Great Britain" and people using that official title tend to drop the ending—"and Northern Ireland."

"Sometimes it seems that we have fallen between two stools," said the tourist board man.

But although the people of the six counties of Northern Ireland rather resent the attention focused on the 26 counties of Eire, they have no longing for the "picturesque poverty" of the south: no hankering after the Celtic brogue, the bands of meandering tinkers or any of the thatched - roof - and - horse-cart quaintness that colors the countryside and lures tourists by the legion.

Instead, Northern Ireland sees itself as a modern young nation dedicated to the goal of economic prosperity through industrialization. Although it still suffers high unemployment, it is pressing ahead with schemes it pioneered in Britain to attract and finance new industries and it has had remarkable success that promises much for the future.

But it is this passion for stability through industrialization and modernization, purchased at the cost of the old and the picturesque, that perhaps has earned the Northern Irish the slur that they are "less Irish than the Irish," an ofcbeard remark that irks the Ulsterman.

THEY ARE DIFFERENT

Still it is largely true that their Scottish-English and Protestant background, along with their preoccupation with sophistication and development, does set them apart from the republicans, Roman Catholic descendants of the early Celtic settlers.

Their attitude is typified in Belfast itself, a bustling city of smart shops, elegant restaurants and fine hotels that seems determined to purge itself of anything smacking of "Ould Ireland."

Gone are most of the old cobble-stoned streets, the horse-drawn vans, the old, damp, cobwebby pubs.

There is hardly a shamrock or a shillelagh in sight and in this Ulster is unlike Scotland, England, Wales and Eire which dote on the past, are dedicated to preservation of the old and never tire of the plaid, the heather or the harp in the decor of restaurant and pub. In Belfast, one of the major hotels has its dining room and cocktail lounge done up in a Spanish motif. Within blocks there are a dozen bars, any one of which could have been transported brick by brick from Manhattan.

But the residents make no apology for all this—it's a "modern, efficient city," they say proudly, and that's the way they like it.

But possibly if is thi- drive for the up-to-date that has made the task of the tourist board such a difficult one. In Ulster the industry is worth about £12,000,000 a year, compared with £28,600,000 a year in the republic.

The board's main selling point is the beauty of the Irish countryside, with its beaches, its fish streams, its historic old castles, some of the best highways in Britain, and the quaint country inns—a haven for the sportsman and for families vacationing on a budget.

The Ulsterman's flair for modernizing everything in sight, however, is a boon also to the well-healed tourist who likes the gracious life of cocktails, hot showers and ankle-deep carpets with his vacation—features not found in many parts of Britain.

This bent of his, demonstrated in dozens of glamorously refurbished hostelries throughout the country, is best illustrated in the brochure issued by one established in a building erected in 1625:

"Welcome to Ballygally Castle—Ancient fortress, modern luxury hotel."

Racial Issues Claim Spotlight As PMs Assemble

Africans Will Insist On Rhodesia Showdown

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — Racial issues clamored for priority at the 18 - country conference of Commonwealth prime ministers opened at Marlborough House today.

Ghana's Kwame Nkrumah led the African faction urging British stronger action in the case of Southern Rhodesia, where 220,000 whites rule 3,000,000 blacks.

The dangers of British Guiana were expected to be emphasized by Trinidad's Dr. Eric Williams after new violence killed 10 persons in the sugar colony torn by racial strife.

But prime ministers and presidents tended to be concerned chiefly with problems in their own particular region. Malaysia's struggle against Indonesia caused mounting concern among Far Eastern and Asian members.

F-VORS MORE AID

Britain's Sir Alec Douglas-Home has come out in favor of a greatly expanded program of co-operative aid and Canada's Lester Pearson also indicated he will put forward ideas in this direction.

A group of placard-carrying Nigerians demonstrated outside Marlborough House just before the Commonwealth leaders began to arrive.

Their placards were inscribed "Nigeria — puppet. But OAU (Organization for African Unity) first.

Anti - apartheid demonstrators displayed placards calling for support for any United Nations sanctions against South Africa.

Early today Marlborough was daubed with "Stand by white Rhodesians" slogans.

Members of the rightist League of Empire Loyalists were believed to be responsible.

Prime Minister Douglas-Home called the 13th post-war series in hopes of uniting the Commonwealth in a sweeping program of economic co-operation to get foreign financial aid for the poorer members.

Australia, Canada and New Zealand are supporting Britain's stand that the conference should give less emphasis to the divisive questions and concentrate on those on which the members can agree.

WANT PRIORITY

But the threatened six African member-states made it clear they would insist that the issue of Rhodesia be given top priority over Douglas-Home's economic plan.

The Africans want a Commonwealth declaration calling for freedom of "our brothers still in bondage," as Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya expressed it. With the support of the Asian and Caribbean members, Jamaica and Trinidad/Tobago, they have the votes to put through such a declaration.

The African members insist that Britain has a constitutional duty to force Southern Rhodesia's white minority to reinstate political power to the blacks.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: — Cloud accompanied by showers and a few thunderstorms moved into southwestern Ontario ahead of a disturbance moving eastward south of the Great Lakes. This unsettled weather should continue its eastward progress today and is expected to have moved out of the province by tonight. More unsettled weather will begin to spread into the southwest corner of the province late Thursday. Sunny, warm weather should persist in Northern Ontario through Thursday.

Heat Put On Greece By Martin

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin indicated Tuesday that he has put the heat on Greece to halt its involvements" in Cyprus.

He told the Commons he called in Greek Ambassador John D. Kalergis Monday and "made it clear . . . that it is not in the interests of the purpose for which the United Nations force was established that there be these involvements that add to the task of the force."

He said Greek Cypriot police prevented the UN force from observing the landing of Greek troops at Limassol on the south coast of Cyprus. The Danish UN contingent covers this sector.

Outside the Commons, Mr. Martin added it wasn't the first time the UN force had been restrained in this manner

He said in the Commons he called in the Greek ambassador concerning press reports that Athens had protested his statement Friday that Greek troops and arms had been landed in Cyprus.

DEMANDS DEBATE

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker demanded a debate today on the Cyprus problem and asked whether the 1,122 Canadians in the UN force are in jeopardy.

"We don't want another Hong Kong," said Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford), a reference to the "Overrunning of two Canadian battalions in the British colony by the Japanese in December, 1941.

T. D. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader, said the Cyprus government "is playing with UN for a stake."

Mr. Martin, who has had to deal with the touchy Cyprus issue in the Commons nearly every day for months, said there is very strong reason for believing that the UN continues to serve a very important purpose in Cyprus.

The problem was "one of the most serious that has faced us in many years, perhaps since the end of the Second World War."

To demands by the Opposition for more information, Mr. Martin said: "It is one thing to conjecture without responsibility . . . If I do not appear to give all the details it is not because one cannot but because one is these circumstances cannot discharge one's obligation if one deals in anything but the most general language."

Defence Minister Hellyer said in reply to Mr. Nesbitt's question concerning possible evacu-

Living Costs at Record

OTTAWA (CP)—After holding steady for two months, Canada's cost of living spurted ahead in June to another record high. Increased food prices triggered the jump.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the consumer price index rose to 125.3 in June from 135 in May. It had been at the 135 level since April. In June of last year it was 132.8.

Food, housing and clothing costs went higher in June, more than offsetting lower prices for transportation and recreation. Price trends were unchanged for health and personal care and tobacco and alcohol.

The consumer price index is based on 1949 equalling 100.

While living costs moved ahead, industrial wages and salaries were also on the increase. The index of average industrial wages and salaries at May 1—latest date available—is 200.8, compared with 196.5 a month earlier and 194.4 a year earlier.

That wage index is also based on 1949 equalling 100. It is computed on the total wages paid by firms employing more than 20 persons in a wide range of industries.

IS UP 1.9 PER CENT

In the price index, the June figure is 1.9 per cent above the level in June, 1963.

Here is how the various components in the consumer price index changed from May to June:

Food—Ahead to 132.5 from 131.2, due to higher prices for fresh and canned fruit, fresh vegetables and poultry. Prices were lower for eggs, ranges, sugar, strawberries and tomatoes.

Housing—Ahead to 138.4 from 138.3 on the strength, of increased costs of home-ownership costs. In household operation, higher prices for floor coverings and textiles were offset by lower costs of fuel and furniture.

Clothing—Ahead to 119 from 118.7 due to increased prices in boys' and children's wear, shoes, piece goods and clothing services.

Transportation—Down to 142 from 142.4 because of scattered lower prices for new cars, gasoline and lubrication. Also the travel component, lower rail and bus fares in Ontario and Quebec more than offset by

Health and personal care—Unchanged at 167.3.

Recreation and reading—Down to 151.4 from 151.5 on the basis of price decreases in recreation.

Tobacco and alcohol — Unchanged at 120.2.

COST RISES

OTTAWA (CP) — Estimated cost of the long-delayed CBC buildings in Montreal and Toronto has gone up more than $30,000,000 since planning started in 1958, the Commons public accounts committee was told Tuesday night. CBC President Alphonse Ouimet said the Montreal headquarters now is estimated to cost $60,000,000 as compared with $38,500,000 seven years ago. The Toronto estimate had climbed in the same period to $45,000,000 from $25,000,000.

Goldwater Admits No GOP Man Can Beat LBJ as of Now

SAN FRANCISCO (CP-AP)—Governor William Scranton's backers today jumped on an admission by Senator Barry Goldwater that no Republican "as of now" can beat President Johnson in the November general election as a sign of defeatism and tried to pin the can't-win label on the Arizona conservative in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination day at the Republican convention day here a week away. Scranton himself accused Goldwater and his campaign managers of "steamroller tactics" including smears and extreme pressures to keep the Pennsylvania governor from the nomination.

Goldwater's declaration in an interview published in Der Spiegel, a German news magazine, about President Johnson's political invincibility was described by Senator Hugh Scott (Rep., Pa.) as an admission that the former senator is resigned to losing in November if he becomes the party's presidential nominee.

Scott, campaign director for the Pennsylvania governor, told a news conference in Harrisburg "Governor Scranton believes that he can best President Johnson. He is running against odds and he'll win again."

Goldwater said in the interview that, as of today, no other Republican had a chance of defeating Johnson in the South. He made it clear in this respect that he was speaking not only on the South but the country at large.

Scranton, scheduled to arrive here for a mid-afternoon airport rally and press conference, said before he left Chicago that Goldwater's people are using "every conceivable kind of steamroller technique" to keep the nomination away from him.

Scranton contended that "every move I make" shows he is preferred by Republicans as the nominee over the Arizona senator. He said the Goldwater forces are circulating a pamphlet "that questions my patriotism."

The general belief among the publicly uncommitted leaders putting the finishing touches on the convention program was that Scranton is likely to get only one ballot, with Goldwater as the winner.

The Associated Press poll showed that Goldwater gained a delegate and Scranton picked up two others in the latest count for the nomination, this left the reading:

Goldwater 711, Scranton 151, New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller 102, Henry C. Lodge 76, former vice president Richard M. Nixon three, favorite son votes and uncommitted 176—a total of 1,308.

Canadian-Made F-104 Jets Delivered to Greece, Turkey

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States has delivered to Greece and Turkey Canadian - made F-104 Starfighter bombers during the Cyprus crisis, informed sources here say.

Canada, though sharing in the costs of this program, has refused to make F-104 deliveries to the two NATO antagonists involved in the Cyprus issue.

Moreover, the RCAF said Tuesday its logistics liaison office in Athens was closed June 30 after Greece refused to extend the Greek air force in maintenance of Canadian-made Sabre jet fighters. This meant that the RCAF won't participate in maintenance of Royal Hellenic Air Force F-104s produced in Canada.

The Canadian government has informed Greece and Turkey that if it does deliver F-104s to them, they can look elsewhere to strengthen the capacity of NATO to deter or resist aggression.

In 1961, Canada and the U.S. agreed to produce 140 F-104s at Canadair Limited, Montreal, for the NATO program and programs for NATO partners in Europe. The U.S. put up $150,000,000 for this program, Canada $30,000,000.

The program became somewhat of an embarrassment to Canada when the Cyprus crisis arose and 1,100 Canadian troops were sent to the island as part of a United Nations force.

As a result, it was agreed that all the jets delivered to F-104s should belong solely to the U.S. mutual aid program and be later delivered to a joint Canada - U.S. program. Production is scheduled to continue until October, 1965.

Informants said Tuesday no F-104s under the Canada-U.S. program will be delivered to countries that the RCAF won't service.

The implication was that neither Greece nor Turkey will get the jets until the Cyprus situation is resolved, likely later this week.

Tshombe Lines up Cabinet With Every Man a Rookie

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Premier-designate Moise Tshombe says he has lined up a new government that "will be made up of 12 men who have never held cabinet posts before. It will be known whether President Joseph Kasavubu would accept Tshombe's lineup.

The former president of Katanga, who led his province in a breakaway attempt that failed in January 1963, is needed, announced Tuesday night he would four key posts in the cabinet.

Tshombe was named premier-designate by Kasavubu Monday, 10 days after returning from a year of voluntary exile in Spain. In addition to premier, Tshombe said he would be foreign minister, interior minister and minister of planning and co-ordination.

Former premier Cyrille Adoula and his cabinet, who resigned on the Congo's fourth Independence Day June 30, continue in a caretaker status until a new government takes over.

Tshombe said his government will concentrate on pacification, the big central African nation torn by tribal rivalries and revolts. He was aided by Communist China.

House Passes Two Bills

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons passed two important pieces of government legislation Tuesday after bogging down for weeks in wrangles about the maple leaf flag and the vanishing summer recess.

Key MPs stopped fighting long enough to put a quick stamp of approval on a $10-a-month "student loan" plan and endorse the first step in the integration of the three armed forces into a single service. Today, the House turns to the final stages of a bill to integrate Canada's territorial and fishing limits.

Most of Tuesday's debate was devoted to a bill providing $10 monthly payments to parents of 16- and 17-year-olds who stay in school or are disabled.

Government sources said the payments, designed to discourage teen-agers from dropping out of school too soon, will go to the parents of about 50,000 youths and cost $61,500,000 annually.

Finance Minister Gordon announced that parents who receive the student allowance will be entitled to claim $300 for each 16- or 17-year-old dependent for income tax purposes.

The bill was complicated by Quebec's desire to stay out of the federal student allowances program since a similar provincial plan has existed for several years. The Quebec government balks that welfare and education are provincial fields.

To get around this, the federal government proposes under a separate measure to give Quebec an extra three-per-cent share of personal income taxes or 50 cents per province, some $17,000,000 annually.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said the allowances will be paid on behalf of about 5,000 disabled youths aged 16 and 17 who cannot attend school. They would not be made to service-men stationed outside Canada.

She said applications forms for the allowances will be mailed out to eligible parents as soon as the legislation becomes law. Retroactive application would be permitted until August, 1965.

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said the special arrangement for Quebec was devised so that he will have more criticism of new fiscal agreements with Quebec when legislation is debated, likely later this week.

At the opening of the sitting, the House gave third reading without debate to a bill which replaces the present joint committee with a single chief of the defence staff.

Two conservatives, who have objected that the measure places too much power in the hands of the minister, voted "On division" to register their opposition.

Both the student allowances and defence bills now go to the Senate, where speedy passage is expected when the senators return from a two-week recess July 20.

Just before adjournment Tuesday night, Mr. Gordon opened debate on the measure enacting the fiscal arrangements with the provinces announced at two federal-provincial conferences last winter. The debate is scheduled to resume after fishing-limit bill has been passed.

Major Negotiation on UN Role Likely

UNITED NATIONS (CP-AP) — Russia and the United States appear to be moving into a major new negotiation on the future role of peace-keeping operations and financing of United Nations military forces used to keep the peace.

Canada and the U.S. differ on the extent of control that should be exercised by the Security Council, where the veto exists, rather than the General Assembly, where there is no veto, and on some other issues.

But U.S. state department authorities said today in Washington that they are encouraged by Russia's latest move and believe that the Soviet government may be ready to begin serious negotiations on these questions and to co-operate with the United Nations in a way not known in the past.

The matter long has plumped for an international army under UN auspices to deal with world-wide disputes and crises and for overcoming objections in the UN to a permanent standby force.

Prime Minister Pearson of Canada has called a peace-keeping conference in Ottawa this fall involving countries that took part in the UN peace-keeping operations.

Disclosure of the Soviet move came Monday with the release in Tokyo of a Soviet note to to Japan calling for formation of the UN military force under the jurisdiction of the Security Council. The force would be supplied by the smaller UN members, including Communist countries.

The five permanent members of the Security Council with veto power would provide funds but no troops. The five are Russia, the United States, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said in the Commons that it could turn out to be an "important and positive step" but he noted that peace-keeping in the world is everybody's problem, and all should share in it.

Chief UN delegate Nikolai T. Fedorenko of Russia invited U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and State Ambassador Sir Patrick Dean to the Soviet mission to receive a copy of the proposal Tuesday night.

The new Soviet move is regarded in Washington as a response to U.S. initiative in proposing consideration of UN proceedures which was started last January by State Secretary Dean Rusk.

Subsequently the United States opened diplomatic talks with a number of allied and major neutral nations. Finally it invited talks four months ago with the Soviet Union. Mr.

Non-op Workers Will Get Boost Board Suggested

Pearson Offers Formula For Solving Impasse

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—The government appears to have averted a possible transcontinental railway strike by promising a new temporary subsidy to the railways to help meet the extra cost of a $37,000,000 wage settlement affecting 100,000 rail workers.

Neither the settlement nor the subsidy are in the bag yet, but government sources say the best is off in what was shaping up as another bisexual railway crisis with a threatened tieup of trains across Canada.

Prime Minister Pearson paved the way for a settlement at meetings here last week with the railway presidents by agreeing that the railways are caught in a special situation. He offered them a new formula for calculating government financial help in return for labor peace.

On their side, the railways agreed to resume talks with the 15 non-op unions in Montreal July 16 for the purpose of negotiating an agreement on the basis of the conciliation board's recommendations."

This was regarded by Ottawa sources as a virtual acceptance by the railroads of a 19.1-cent-hourly pay increase for the 100,000 non-operating railway workers in freight sheds, shops and offices across the country.

OFFER REVIEW

The government offered to review the railway wage situation in six months—by December—and decide what subsidy would be justified on the basis of an impartial study of the actual costs of the 19.1-cent wage settlement.

The new subsidy is appar-ently in addition to some $2,000,000 already paid or promised to the railways annually under previous agreements. Transport Minister Leader Diefenbaker said the special arrangement for October was devised so that he will have more criticism of new fiscal agreements with Quebec when legislation is debated, likely later this week.

At the opening of the sitting, the House gave third reading without debate to a bill which replaces the present joint committee with a single chief of the defence staff.

Two conservatives, who have objected that the measure places too much power in the hands of the minister, voted "On division" to register their opposition.

Both the student allowances and defence bills now go to the Senate, where speedy passage is expected when the senators return from a two-week recess July 20.

Just before adjournment Tuesday night, Mr. Gordon opened debate on the measure enacting the fiscal arrangements with the provinces announced at two federal-provincial conferences last winter. The debate is scheduled to resume after fishing-limit bill has been passed.

One Doctor Fined $100 Over Death

TORONTO (CP) — Five charges against one doctor were dropped, another doctor was convicted and a third doctor's case was reserved Tuesday on charges of failing to report a death to the coroner under the Coroner's Act.

Five doctors at Toronto East General Hospital and the hospital's administrator have been charged with failure to report the death of 22-year-old Patricia Morgan after Thanksgiving.

Miss Morgan died in hospital a few weeks after a surgical clamp was left in her body during an abdominal operation.

Dr. Alan Nobla became the first doctor in Ontario ever convicted of the charge and was fined $100 and costs, with an alternative of 15 days in jail. Five other charges against him were dropped and he was given a month to pay his fine.

Earlier in the day, five remaining charges against Dr. Burns Flewes, the hospital's chief surgeon, were dropped after Dr. Noble, Mr. Leidlaw, successfully argued that the charges so closely resembled the charge on which Dr. Flewes was acquitted Monday that he would be placed in double jeopardy. Dr. Flewes was acquitted Monday on a charge of failing to notify the coroner of a death on the technicality that the Crown had failed to introduce evidence that one of the coroner's office had been searched for any sign of notification.

TRIED SEPARATELY

The trials of all involved are being held separately and things began warming up when Dr. Kenneth A. Brown went on the witness stand for the prosecution.

Harry Pepper, counsel for Dr. Brown, attacked the integrity of an undated hospital report ascribing Miss Morgan's death to the surgical clamp. He suggested the final report of the case by Dr. Brown's colleagues only after the hospital learned that the coroner's office had been told of the death and planned to call an inquest.

"That's not true," said Dr. A. J. Kernohan, head of pathology at the hospital, who prepared the report for the signature of Dr. Brown and Dr. S. F. Penny.

Dr. Kennedy testified he had written a report, mentioning the clamp, was made on the day of the surgery and had been available. The final report was written in December after completion of the case laid after a February inquest.

FACES OTHER CHARGES

Dr. Brown went on trial on the single charge of failing to notify the coroner of a death requiring investigation. Like the others, he faces five other charges worded in different ways but dealing with the same subject. Maximum penalty is a $500 fine or six months in jail.

Mr. Pepper told the court Tuesday that one of his defence will be the contention that, at the time of the autopsy, Dr. Brown was in a state of doubt as to what had caused the death.

Under defence questioning, Dr. Kennedy said Dr. Brown was in attendance when Miss Morgan died, agreed that Dr. Brown seemed mystified.

Doctor Kennedy repeated previous autopsy testimony that the clamp resulted from a length of the small intestine becoming entwined in one of the ring handles of the clamp.

Kingston Paper Offers to Match City Council

KINGSTON (CP)—A fund to refurbish the Grand Theatre here for use as civic auditorium jumped to $11,000 Tuesday.

The Kingston Arts Council, $165,000 to "provide a 922-seat theatre."

Michael L. Davies, general manager of the Kingston Whig-Standard, announced the paper has offered to contribute $20,000 on condition that the contribution be matched dollar-for-dollar by city council.

The paper previously contributed $2,500 to the drive.

Main Runway at Trenton Air Station Being Repaved, Yukons Moved to Ottawa

It's going to be relatively quiet around Trenton Air Station for the next month with no big Yukon transports flying in and out.

Re-paving operations are underway at the station's main 8,000 foot runway and until the job is completed the big turbo prop transports will be based at Uplands at Ottawa.

Aircrew will be shuttled back and forth between Trenton and Ottawa by smaller aircraft, while a group of Trenton based maintenance men will go to Ottawa to keep the big birds in trim.

Repaving of the 8,000 foot runway at Trenton was commenced about two weeks ago by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company which set up a special asphalt plant at the station.

CRASH PROGRAM

Gravel for the asphalt mix is being trucked in from Frost pit in Sidney Township, with an estimated 40,000 tons of asphalt expected to be required for the paving job.

The 8,000-foot runway ranges from 200 to 212 feet wide and is the only one at Trenton, although can be used by the huge Yukon transports.

"It's a crash program," stated a McFarland official today.

"We've been working on parts of the runway for about two weeks, but the entire runway is now being turned over to be and the base has to be finished by August 3rd."

In the meantime the big Yukon turbo-props will fly out of Ottawa, and only smaller type aircraft using other shorter runways will be operated at Trenton.

Widen Road Past Trenton Air Station

The "go slow" order is in effect for motorists using No. 2 highway past the Trenton Air Station these days as work is underway for the widening of the roadbed to four lanes.

The north lane of the former pavement roadbed has been ripped up and grading is underway to correct roadbed levels.

In the meantime traffic is being forced to use the south lane and part of the road shoulder.

Grading operations are being operated by the contractor with work crews working well into the evening.

Asks Kiwanians To Assist in Water Safety

Local Kiwanians met yesterday at noon under the gavel of President Bob Freestone.

Don Hickson introduced the main speaker, Len Michaels of Rochester, New York, District Sir Commander of the U. S. Power Squadron. Michaels is in the district for the power squadron rendezvous in Trenton.

In his address, Michaels emphasized the co-operation between Canadian and United States Power Squadrons in the effort to educate boating enthusiasts in water safety. With over 40,000,000 afloat in North America, Michaels admitted that this was quite a problem and asked local Kiwanians to assist Lou Ray of Quinte Squadron in its water safety program.

Michaels was presented with a souvenir of his visit and thanked by Kiwanian Phil Alcorn.

At next week's meeting a report will be given on the 49th Kiwanis International. At this Los Angeles convention, Edward B. Moylan, Jr., a Miami businessman, was elected 1964 president.

Three OSD Teachers Take Summer Course

Teachers from this area enrolled for special training at the third annual Summer Institute program for teachers of the deaf, sponsored by the Clarke School for the Deaf, Northampton, Massachusetts, are: Mr. Roger K. Rawlings, Mr. Gordon A. Brown and Mrs. Gloria L. Gilham, all from the OSD.

The Summer Institute, which began on June 29 and will run through August 7, is financed by a grant from Lilly Endowment, Incorporated of Indianapolis.

Month of June Million Dollar Building Time

The month of June was a "million dollar building month" for the city of Belleville — the second such month in recent years and possibly the second in the city's history.

Value of building permits for the month totalled $1,728,350, topped by the start in construction of the new Ontario Intelligencer - Radio building at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Streets.

There were 55 permits during the month, including 18 for new residences.

Commercial construction totalled $741,902; industrial $71,000, and institutional (the new South Building Bowall Public School) $243,467.

The only other million dollar building month for the city was in May 1961 with construction of The Belleville Plaza at a cost of $1,500,000.

The six month building total in the city ending June 30th was $3,187,000 for the period there were 218 permits issued of which 151 were for dwelling units valued at $1,345,870.

Boy Bitten On Leg by Dog

A ten-year-old Trenton boy, Pierre Martel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Martel of Mobile Village in the east end of town, was bitten on the right leg by a dog around dinner o'clock on Tuesday evening.

He was taken by Rushnell Ambulance to Trenton Memorial Hospital where it was found the bite was superficial.

Following treatment the boy was released from hospital.

The dog will be kept under observation for two weeks to check against possible rabies.

Stirling

Milton James Hagarman of R.R. 3, Stirling, died suddenly Tuesday in his 78th year.

Born in Sidney township, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hagerman. He lived on his life long farming area, and worked as a farmer.

Mr. Hagerman was a member and steward of Carmel United Church. He was active in Wellman's Lake No. 1072, and R.B.P., No. 747.

He is survived by his wife, the former Georgina Evelyn Haggerty. One daughter and four sons are also surviving: Mrs. Charles (Lela) Smith of R.R. 5, Belleville; Kenneth of R.R. 3, Campbellford; Ray of R.R. 3, Stirling; Albert of Eldorado and Roy of Toronto.

He is also survived by two sisters: Mrs. Hugh Farnsworth of Shannonville and Mrs. James Lake of R.R. 1, Stirling, and one brother, Harry of R.R. 3, Stirling.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Dafoe Dafoe Funeral Home in Stirling.

MRS. CHRISTINA MOORE

The funeral of Mrs. Christina Moore was held on Friday from R. Bush Funeral Home on Bridge Street, Consecon. Rev. Richard Boehme conducted the service in the chapel and the committal was at Hillcrest Cemetery.

The bearers were Leon and Thomas Tracey, Gilbert and Clyde Van Allen, James and Jack McCullough.

Former NATO Official Given Life in Prison

PARIS (Reuters) — Frenchman Georges Pacaud, 50-year-old former NATO official, Tuesday was sentenced to life imprisonment on treason charges by the state security court.

The sentence came after a two-day trial in which Pacaud admitted handing documents to Soviet secret service officials in Paris over a period of several years.

Pacaud was deputy press officer at NATO headquarters here when arrested last August.

In a statement to the court Pacaud said he had acted in "a sacred mission . . . to save mankind from war."

Prosecutor Jean Caron told the court Pacaud supplied Russian embassy officials with vital information concerning the defence of France and the Western alliance. The spy Pacaud supplied information to the Russians on bases in North Africa, then in France after the liberation up to the time of his arrest last summer.

CONCERNED BERLIN

He said Pacaud gave the Russians documents including statements made by psychological warfare during the Berlin crisis of 1961 after the Soviet Union built the Berlin wall.

Defence counsel Charles Verny said Pacaud was largely instrumental in bringing about the defection in the Berlin crisis of August, 1961, when he gave the Russians a document showing the Western determination to use force against Soviet initiative, including blocking the autobahn.

Verny said Paquet's Soviet contacts told him a few weeks before that the document was one of the elements which had led Soviet Premier Khrushchev to show moderation after earlier threats.

Prosecutor Caron said Paquet, "an instrument in the hands of the Soviet Union and a full-fledged Soviet agent," also supplied the Russians with NATO defence plans in the Middle East and political reports on the NATO assessment of Khrushchev and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Manufacturing in Nova Scotia is the largest single industry, accounting for 45 per cent of net value of all production.

Parking Meter Receipts Set Record for First 6 Months

Parking meter receipts for the first six months of the year were the highest ever for the city, it was revealed today by the city treasury department.

Meter receipts (for both street meters and municipal parking lots) to the end of June totalled $25,586.85, as compared with $23,238.50 for the same period a year ago.

The previous high for parking meter receipts was in 1962 when returns for the first six months of the year were $25,-

"Receipts for the first six months of this year were right in line with the budget annual estimates of $52,000," stated city treasurer C. J. Bender.

Commonwealth Not Bloc Within the United Nations

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

What is it?

Once again the Commonwealth defies definition as prime ministers meet in London. But it's easy to get precise explanations of what the Commonwealth is not.

Practically everybody says it isn't what it used to be, and that's wrong. Of the common-wealth's 750,000,000 people, 53,-000,000 live in British and 32,-000,000 in Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

The other 640,000,000 people live in countries that have become independent since the Second World War.

Officials are at pains to explain to correspondents that the Commonwealth is not a bloc within the United Nations. It isn't a defence alliance like NATO or a free trade association like the European Economic Community.

Good Commonwealth men bristle at suggestions that it's a farce. One of them, who had been many prime ministers' confidential aide, said:

"Those who say it's a farce and tragedy are those who hold in their minds some idea of what the Commonwealth ought to be, and it's not that, never was. Then on that basis they decide it's no good."

UNIQUE GATHERING

The essence of the Commonwealth, in the positive view, is explained as the coming together on equal terms of sovereign countries but countries with widely differing political views, histories, economies and outlooks.

In this thinking the prime ministers' conference is anything but a formal way—unlike the United Nations—of getting from behind-the-scenes arch-Tory to the ultra-left.

British spokesmen employ the language of understatement in talking about the conference, believed likely to be called it a meeting or a revlew. But it is obvious they hope for tangible results, particularly in technical aid and trade.

The Commonwealth's most visible institution in the past has been the preferences established at the Ottawa conference of 1932.

Today all Commonwealth countries excepting Ghana, Nigeria, Uganda, Tanganyika and Sierra Leone give and receive preferences in varying degrees.

DECLINED IN IMPORTANCE

But the preferences themselves have declined in importance since the war partly because there has been a world-wide reduction in the general level of tariffs.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British premier, feels the time is ripe for a vast co-operative venture of mutual self-help, yet to be clearly outlined.

More than half of all aid to Commonwealth countries now comes from the United States. There is room for more multilateral Commonwealth co operation in any field.

These are seen as among the reasons why Douglas-Home laid great stress on the technical-aid field in making plans for the conference, and seems determined the premiers should not be diverted by more controversial items, such as Southern Rhodesia and its white-supremacy government.

PAIR PLEAD GUILTY

PARRY SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Graham Hill, 26, of Brantford and Darwin Francis Bernard, 26, of Ottawa pleaded guilty Tuesday to two charges of breaking and entering and one of auto theft and were sentenced to one year in jail. The pair will run concurrently to a two-year term in Kingston penitentiary recently imposed for escaping custody from Burwash industrial farm. They were arrested in Buffalo April 15.

'High Cost Of Dying' Being Probed

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — A congressional group today opened hearings into the "high cost of dying" and heard witnesses from the U.S. funeral industry tell of abuses in prices and selling, and spread a proposal for correcting them.

Wilbur M. Krieger, managing director of National Selected Morticians, Evanston, Ill., told the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee that his trade association had suggested 37 rules to the Federal Trade Commission "for the elimination of abuses in the funeral field."

He said some of the criticisms and charges against the funeral industry are justified.

"But," he added in his statement, "there are many criticisms which are based only on isolated instances of abuses and misrepresentations of fact."

He said it is a fringe minority "which preys on the elderly and bereaved" and damages the reputations of other funeral operators.

The rules that the trade association has proposed, he said, would strike at such sales pitches as these:

"Stating that the law requires a decreased is embalmed when such is not the fact.

"Stating that the law requires the use of a burial vault when such is not the fact.

He said the rules would also cover such sales as:

Paying secret kickbacks to hospital and coroner employees for steering a prospective customer" to an undertaker.

Saying that a complete funeral costs $750, for instance, when there are additional charges, or services not included.

"Price-fixing agreements, or other conditions or conspiracies which restrict competition."

The hearings by the subcommittee, under chairman Philip A. Hart, Michigan Democrat, are aimed at uncovering any possible restraint of trade and anti-trust aspects in the burial industry.

IN MEMORIAM

ROSS — In memory of a dear husband and father, William Ross, who passed away July 8, 1954.
The silent hours of memory
Since you were called away
Are many things to share with you,
Had you been left to stay.
Recalled are some sad words,
Many silent tears are shed.
When others are asleep
Memories are counted by me.

Four Seminaries Carry Christianity to Russians

By PRESTON GROVER

ODESSA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — There is a little outpost of Christianity here that gives a small picture of what the life of the church has become in the Soviet Union.

It is one of the four seminaries permitted in the Soviet Union for training priests for the Orthodox Church. In Czarist times there were 57.

These four are supposed to train all the priests needed for a church following which Orthodox officials claim exceeds 50,000,000. The Communist party claims it is much less. There is no possibility of a correct census. There are about 225,000,000 people in the Soviet Union and atheism is the state doctrine.

A small group of Western and Communist correspondents were given permission to visit the seminary here recently, but most of the Communist correspondents stayed away.

In the 1964 seminary, about 50 students study under 13 priests in conditions that appear almost ideal. There is a fine garden, and the study rooms are quiet and well furnished. But the view from the front gate must be something formidable for a priest to face on graduation: He goes out into the world officially hostile to the very idea of religion.

MUSIC LARRY

From the seminary he is assigned to a village. Young priests going into the village are required to marry. That is an old tradition of the church. If they are selected to continue their studies they can become monks, with all the higher posts in the church available to them.

We were greeted at the seminary by Archmandrite Antoni, a tall, bearded man of about 40. It was a difficult press conference for him to conduct: a Communist party member was sitting in on the talks.

The first question was, "Do the Komsomols bother you?" These are the young Communists who are supposed to be the most active in combatting religious beliefs in the Soviet Union.

Archmandrite Antoni replied that the Komsomols gave no trouble. Nor, he said with a smile, do they apply to study at the seminary.

The Archmandrite was asked whether a special course was given to prepare young priests to meet the onslaught of Communist doctrines.

"Not specifically, but the gospel gives a student a full answer to any Communist doctrine."

To other questions, he replied that the people attending churches in the little seminary —there are two side by side— are all age groups, and hadn't changed much in recent years. That contradicts the claims of Soviet leaders—and the observations of many westerners—that the crowds at church services are becoming older.

SEWER STUDENTS

Two years ago the seminary had 200 students. A year ago the exemption of students of religion from military duty was abolished. For this and other reasons enrollment in the seminary shrank to 80.

Seminaries were shut down tight by the 1917 revolution, but a few were permitted to open after the Second World War because the church had demonstrated its wartime usefulness in building up national fervor.

But the chopping off continues apace. Three years ago there were eight seminaries. The four left are at Odessa, Leningrad, Moscow and Lvitsk.

The Odessa seminary was given a temporary burst of publicity early this year when the executive council of the World Council of Churches met there. But it didn't change the hard lot of the 50 students, 19 are graduating this year. The new class entering contains only 10.

The number of monasteries also is dropping. Five years ago there were 69. Now there are 29.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Taylor are presented with a silver tray by Staff Sgt. Youmans of the Trenton Police Force. Mr. Taylor resigned as chief of police at Trenton to accept a position with the Trenton Police Commission.

Winnipeg Man Named Youth's Best Friend

WINNIPEG (CP)—His wife likes him to stay home Wednesday nights—the remainder of his leisure time is spent with young people. And for his service he has been named Youth's Best Friend for his work with young people.

Sponsored by a local television station and a Jewish women's service organization, Mr. Lamarche was selected by the young people he has served from a list of nominations came from youngsters throughout the Greater Winnipeg area, each accompanied by a 150-word essay describing the merits of the nominee.

Mr. Lamarche, a pipefitter with Canadian Nationals Railways, is executive director of his neighborhood community club at nearby St. Boniface 13 years ago. Since then he has devoted many evenings to the club's hockey program, swimming and baseball.

Every year since 1956 he has helped select a Winnipeg all-star league to compete in the annual peewee hockey tournament at Goderich, Ont.

His wife, Terry Lamarche, knows how much time her husband spends with Winnipeg's youth.

"It would be easier to say how much time he spends at home—Wednesday is our night. Otherwise we don't see much of him."

Negotiations Will Resume

TORONTO (CP)—Negotiations between the three Toronto newspapers and local 91 of the International Typographical Union (CLC) will resume today after breaking off on the issue of contracting out work to outside firms.

Ross Dowson, president of the Toronto Typographical Union, said he expects to meet with Harold Crabtree, vice-president of the Toronto Star, Ralph Peeree, E. B. Richards, vice-president of The Globe and Mail, said Tuesday night.

Mr. Richards said no time had been set for the meeting to start.

The parties will pick up where they left off at 8:45 a.m. Tuesday, nearly 17 hours after the bargaining session began. At that time, they said in a joint release, progress was being made.

The negotiating teams are reported to have discussed the wording of a contract clause restricting jurisdiction over computers that can be used for typesetting functions as well as operations for other departments.

Proposed wording of the clause is believed to have been sent to ITU headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo., but neither party would comment.

A general membership meeting of the local voted Sunday to ask union headquarters for permission to conduct a strike vote should the lockout.

The companies announced last week that all terms already agreed to by union and the newspapers would go into effect Thursday regardless of the state of computer negotiations.

Capital Works Program Given OMB Approval

TRENTON—A capital works expenditure of $650,000 for public utilities, public works and education, has been authorized for the town of Trenton for 1964 by the Ontario Municipal Board.

The above expenditures are part of the town's five-year capital works program, for which approval has now been granted by the OMB.

After this year and for the next four years, the OMB has approved of more than $800,000 in capital works for Trenton, if this to include one new public school, a second high school, and additions to existing schools. Nothing however, has been provided for the next four years for capital works projects by the public works department.

Approval of Trenton's capital works project will now allow the town to go ahead with certain projects which had been held over awaiting word from the OMB.

Some of East Side Merchants Want Action

TRENTON—Some of the east side merchants in the block between Ontario St. and Bay St. would like to find out loud about this past week's inactivity on Gilmour Hill.

The east siders, always conscious of the fact that most of the town's business seems to gravitate to the west side of the river, feel that this year's tying up of the streets for reconstruction has really placed them behind the eight ball.

One merchant contacted said "potential customers, having fought through the various and many detours on either side of the river, are maybe stopped for the swinging of the bridge, sure aren't going to get out of a traffic line to patronize us."

The merchant said, however, that he hadn't felt so badly about the situation when the bulldozers were bulldozing and the hill was a beehive of industry. It's the sudden silence that disturbs him, he said. A sort of uneasy feeling that he doesn't know just what's coming next.

(An official at the town hall didn't have an explanation either . . . but said he thought most of the equipment used on the hill had been moved over to Sidney Street.)

Police Chief, F. J. Taylor, Bid Farewell by Friends And Presented With Gifts

TRENTON—At a special dinner meeting in the Gilbert Hotel Chief Taylor Police Chief Frederick John Taylor said "farewell" officially, to the men with whom he has been associated in work for many years in some cases, close to 30 years.

Crown Attorney John A. Pringle of Belleville, rising to give a "personal tribute," said, Chief Taylor is the personification of the finest type of police officer. He is a man of dignity and ability."

In presenting the chief with a medal for "long and meritorious service," Magistrate F. Y. Wills, also of Belleville, said the chief had lived up to the traditions of the police commission, 100 per cent." The medal, authorized by the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police, is numbered, "1704," and is a sought-after award.

"It's a great honor and credit to the town of Trenton that Chief Taylor has been chosen for an appointment to the Ontario Police Commission," said the magistrate.

The farewell banquet was sponsored by the Trenton Police Association, and the chairman for the evening, Constable David Camp, conveyed every good wish for success in his new appointment to the chief, from the men who have worked under him.

"If the chief were to re-write the story of his past 29 years on this force, I imagine he wouldn't want to change too many lines of the book." said Constable Camp.

MEN HAND-PICKED

Chief Taylor told the assembly that all men on the force have been "hand-picked" for their jobs and need take a back seat to none.

"I know you men will continue to give your best to the community," said the chief, "I trust the citizens will give you their full support."

As one of his last official duties, Chief Taylor presented long-service bars to the following: Staff Sergeant Douglas Youmans, 20 year award; Sgt. Gordon Steenburg, Sgt. Bruce Westfall and Constable Douglas Yeomshaw, 15-year bar; Constables J. A. Graham, Roy Miller and Frederick Sprague, 10-year bars; Constables Gary Davis and Carman Schwarz, five-year bars.

Chief Taylor took the opportunity offered last night to publicly commend Constable Nodess for his action in saving the life of a man, recently.

Staff Sgt. Youmans presented the chief and Mrs. Taylor with an engraved silver tray from the members and staff of the Trenton Police Department.

The chief was given personal gifts from the police association by Constable D. Camp; Mrs. J. C. Anderson presented Mrs. Taylor with a large bouquet of flowers; the chief and his wife were given a large bouquet of flowers from Eben James, the former owner and publisher of the Trentonian, in recognition of the years of goodwill between the department and the newspaper.

Staff Sgt. Youmans was presented with his 20-year medal by Mayor James MacDonald. Mrs. MacDonald made the presentation of a sheaf of red roses to Mrs. Youmans and Sgt. Steenburg presented Sgt. Youmans with an engraved silver mug, on behalf of the police association.

While the Trenton police officers and their wives were attending the banquet, OPP officers Corporal McKendry and Constables Stinson, Guy, Bolger and Pare from the Brighton detachment "minded shop" at the Trenton police station, and ate a banquet of their own at the Gilbert Hotel, afterwards.

Hamilton Youth Is Thrown From Auto

TRENTON — A 17-year-old Hamilton youth, injured early Tuesday in an accident on a township sideroad, north of Murray Canal, was said to be satisfactory today by Trenton hospital officials.

Frederick R. Chard suffered concussion and other undetermined injuries when thrown from a car driven by Maurice Lidster of R.R. 4, Trenton.

The youth will be kept under special observation and is to be checked today to determine the extent of his injuries.

Mr. Lidster was not injured in the accident.

Five Workers Burned in Blast, Fire

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Five construction workers were burned, one seriously, Tuesday when an explosion and fire hit a tunnel in which they were working.

Walter Hicks, 20, of nearby Hampton was taken by ambulance to Toronto, 25 miles west of here, where he was reported to be in critical condition with burns to 90 per cent of his body.

Patrick Celestini, 35, and Ivos Ennogono, 43, both of Oshawa, were reported in satisfactory condition in Oshawa General Hospital with burns.

Albert Aloe, 35, and Robert Lormour, 36, of Toronto were treated for minor burns at the scene.

Lone Workman Starts Tearing Down Shed

TRENTON — A lone workman started yesterday tearing down a galvanized iron storage shed set on the road allowance of Wharf Street, an almost forgotten town thoroughfare, running parallel to the Bay of Quinte from the vicinity of the Legion Hall to Wragge Street. This year, council decided to build up the street. There has been some talk in the past of rerouting Highway 33 at Wragge Street and leading it along the beside the waterfront past the Dundas Street West at the foot of Farley's Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. William McLean of 40 MacLellan Ave., have heard from their son, Allistair, that he was not injured in a disastrous tornado which swept through the exclusive children's camp at Varner, Ontario, last Friday killing a Newmarket youth, 11-year-old James Ray Fyfe. One other boy was injured. Allistair is serving as a counsellor at the camp.

Rescue Unit Fails to Spot Missing Plane

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—The RCAF will continue the search today for three Americans missing with their single - engined Beech Musketeer since Saturday in the Laurentide park area southwest of Bagotville, Que.

The RCAF rescue co-ordinating centre here said Tuesday 24-16 aircraft will be aircraft from Trenton and two Beech aircraft from the RCAF station at Bagotville had failed to spot a sign of the trio.

The three are Floyd Struble, 55, of West Milford, N.J., a county clerk, Dr. Charles Taylor 47, of Butler, N.J., a school superintendent and pilot of the plane, and Hollis Card, 55, also of Butler, a banking contractor.

They flew from Caldwell N.J., to Canada June 27 and Dorval Rotervas, Que., to Bagotville Caldwell Saturday. They were to land in Montreal for a customs check but never showed up.

Far More People in Russia Go to Movies Than Church

Life is getting better for the average Russia, Preston Grover, for five years AP chief of bureau in Moscow, reports on aspects of life in Russia in the first of four articles.

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — In Russia, far more people go to the movies than to church. You buy your food in stores, meat from the butcher, bread from the baker and shoes, cloth, waste baskets and aluminum pots from the department store.

Sunday you can go to the races in Moscow, and Monday read another letter from an angry housewife demanding that the race betting machines be closed because "they are the ruination of Communist youth."

The boys and girls in college take to one another a little too freely, in the view of the elders, but when an order was issued at Moscow University prohibiting girls from visiting boys with young men in the dormitories, there was a loud outcry from the students' parents whose per article they accused their elders of hypocrisy and insisted they didn't need to be coddled.

Divorce courts function—simply. The court tries to effect a reconciliation. The percentage is low. The baby? Grandmother will look after it.

BIG REGULATIONS

Some of the bolder comedians in the theatres poke fun at persistent over-regulation. One of these, Arkady Raikin, does a skit in the local variety show. One of the actors, planted out in the audience, rises to protest that he wanted to read the books he wanted, to buy the things he wanted, but mainly to be let alone. Raikin waved an admonishing finger at him and said:

"See here. You read Pravda more seriously and the Communist party tries to do something about it. The colorful church holiday ceremonies have almost disappeared from Soviet life and there has been an effort to find something to replace them, for there is a slight drift back to the church.

"We invite you to create new holidays and make them gay and festive. Let's have a new newspaper, Trud, this spring. Let there be new and beautiful rituals in connection with it and so on. Let's have a commission, the paper said. It urged planting a tree by the father of a new born.

CLOTHES LOOK BETTER

In the five years I have been here, clothes have grown notice ably better. For the most part they still are shoddy as to material, and even far more alread as to design. Yet a style show just held displayed men's and women's things much better made. They haven't reached the health plan.

stores yet. Prices of shoes and clothing are atrociously high, a suit often the price of two months' salary.

There is a growing resistance to the constant nagging of the party and government. Some time ago one of the perennial "do-goders" assigned to help police the streets tried to take a group of entertaining young men to the police station for singing too loudly in the streets at night. In the fracas the youths beat the man to death. One was sentenced to be shot and another to 15 years. But less violent resistance shows up often. The great Anglo-Saxon desire to be let alone is showing up here although it is contrary to all Communist party principles.

Bacon Packaging To Be Reviewed Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP)— Bacon packaging will be carefully reviewed Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Monday in a written Commons reply.

David Orlikow (NDP — Winnipeg North) had asked whether consideration has been given to a Consumers' Association of Canada request for regulations that will "eliminate deceptive packaging of bacon . . . (to) allow buyers to see at least one full slice at the time of purchase."

Miss LaMarsh also said discussions have been held with the association and industry on standards for fruit drinks and nectars and the printing of percentages of fruit juice content on labels.

Mr. Orlikow also had asked Agriculture Minister Hays about a Consumers' Association request for a review of regulations governing measurements and labelling on canned juices.

Mr. Hays' reply said government officials were working with industry on a program to have the labels list the weight in fluid ounces.

Conference On Health Plan To Be Held

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Robarts said today arrangements are under way to hold a federal-provincial conference in August to discuss the recommendations of the federal royal commission on health services for a national medical care program.

The premier also indicated at a press conference that Ontario's own proposed health insurance program is being reconsidered in the light of the federal commission's recommendations for a more extensive, government-run, pre-paid health plan.

A Fateful Decision

Another conference of Commonwealth Prime Ministers is in session in London.

Any who had hoped it might be a leisurely meeting of like minds, providing comforting support for long-held opinions, are doomed to disappointment.

The ministers are going to be forced to make another "agonizing re-appraisal" of the Commonwealth's position in Africa.

This time it is Southern Rhodesia's future which will have to be decided. Once Southern Rhodesia was neatly parcelled up with Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland in the Central African Federation, which was supposed to evolve into a self-governing dominion. The Federation came apart at the seams. Nyasaland, its poorest component, became independent on Sunday. Northern Rhodesia, its people mainly black, appears headed for the same destination. Only in Southern Rhodesia, which is self-ruling but not independent, does a question-mark hang over the future. The present constitution gives power to the 220,000 whites. They want it to remain that way. Britain wants the rights of the 4,000,000 blacks recognized before it steps out of the picture. The independent Commonwealth members, the Commonwealth, the easy way out for Britain would appear to be to give Southern Rhodesia her independence and let her governing white minority determine, by the policies their government followed, what treatment the country would be accorded by the other Commonwealth members in the future.

However, aside altogether from the fact this would enrage such Commonwealth countries as Nigeria, Ghana, Kenya, Tanganyika and Nyasaland, (now Malawi), such a policy could be storing up trouble for the future.

A "white supremacy" regime in Southern Rhodesia would almost certainly build close ties with South Africa. Eventually the day will come when the South Africans make demands regarding three enclaves ruled by Britain, Basutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland.

It is virtually unthinkable that Britain would ever consent to abandon the blacks of these crown colonies to the tender mercies of apartheid. To do so would be an appalling betrayal of trust. Yet if South Africa continues with her announced policy of setting up "Bantustans," separate areas where the blacks enjoy a limited measure of self-government, the presence of these British colonies will provide a core around which the blacks could unite in a demand for real independence.

South Africa could not permit that, for her economy would founder it if were ever deprived of a plentiful supply of cheap native labor. The areas which South Africa is setting aside for the natives are so poor in resources, and will be so crowded, that the people within their borders will always be available to her farms and industries. But the continued existence of the crown colonies, poor though they are, could change all that.

What is at stake, therefore, is not merely the future of Southern Rhodesia but, in large measure, of all the black and colored people who live under the Southern Cross. The decision regarding Southern Rhodesia will set a precedent.

That cocktail of emotions which we call love always contains some aggressive or possessive and even possessing ingredients—and that goes for all its varieties, sexual or Platonic, maternal or narcissistic. Even hunger can give rise to mixed emotions. On the one hand, biting, snapping, devouring are the very prototypes of aggression; but on the other hand, most forms of ritual cannibalism are based on the magic of transubstantiation; the physical prowess of animals, the courage of the enemy, the body and blood of the slain god, are acquired and shared by ingesting them . . . Anthropologists tell us that among savage tribes to be eaten is considered as a great compliment; self-transcendence can assume some very odd forms.—Arthur Koestler in a BBC talk based on his latest book "The Act of Creation."

Compares U.S. and USSR

BBC London Letter

When the distinguished traveller and writer Colonel Laurens van der Post was the guest of the BBC's 'Asian Club' discussion program recently he was questioned closely on the differences and the resemblances between the American and the Russian people which he had observed during his extensive tour of the Soviet Union in 1962 (the subject of his widely discussed book 'Journey into Russia') and his visit to the United States last year.

One of the main differences that struck him, said Colonel van der Post, was illustrated by the question he was often asked when travelling through Russia: "What is your colleague in America would be very much higher. "Even what the American considers a poor man would be a fairly well-to-do man in Russia, but in Russia the extremes are not so great and no one way or another what there is is more evenly distributed." Differences in the point of aiming inside Russia were, however, considerable, and this worried the 'old guard' very much.

Questioned about the general attitude in America to Russia, Colonel van der Post said that although officially the Communist Party of America is militantly atheistic, the Russians were by nature a believing people searching for an ideal and with an avenged everyday existence. In country districts many religious practices were kept up, despite the decay of many historic churches; and in Leningrad he had attended a midnight mass in a church packed with people. When he had called the attention of the Russian Orthodox Church to the long queue of people waiting to enter the babies baptised, she had suggested that they came only because "their parents made them do it."

Commenting disparagingly on a too eager man that he looked like a 'teddy boy' and on "that awful thing" that could be expected of him'.

In the Moslem part of Russia, too, Colonel van der Post found mosques that were still crowded. "One of the most moving moments I have had was a very lovely evening when I was coming back from Bokhara. We were going to stay the night in the city; all the great walls have been practically destroyed but there was still enough to give it against the sunset a tremendous kind of mythological and magical quality.

Suddenly, in the distance we heard the call to prayer and an old man with a donkey and some goats behind us took a mat, put it down and knelt to pray." On another occasion Colonel van der Post's party had been embarrassed by this act of devotion when a guide said it was impossible to get to the 'top of the tree' without being a member of the Communist Party and therefore a declared atheist. So that there was an economic pressure against religion.

In Colonel van der Post's view, the West could learn much from the Russians' respect for education and learning, their capacity for disciplined work, and their sense of community. The last was carried too far in the sense that there is a sense of belonging to one country, to mankind, was an important contribution to world values. If Russia, in turn, could learn something from the West about the value of the individual a pretty good balance might be struck.

One of the profoundest differences between Russia and America was in the power and control of the press, Colonel van der Post thought. One of the things that impressed most in America was the independence of the regional press. Despite syndicated columnists, most of these deeply entrenched regional newspapers had an individual and local point of view of their own — "All of them different, and all of them disagreeing with one another. In Russia the press is a state monopoly. One of the things that Lenin laid down and which has never changed was that the press, propaganda and education must remain under the sole control of the State. Local things are reported in the local press in some parts, but overall policy is entirely laid down by the State." He believed that this State monopoly made the power of the press very much greater in Russia than in America, great as it was there.

Colonel van der Post was convinced that the Russians regarded as fully as the Americans that a nuclear war would be fatal and in neither country was there a 'war psychology', though a great feeling that they must be prepared. Personally he was concerned in furthering understanding and goodwill between Russia and America, and breaking down the grotesque division of the world into East and West. Time was the most important factor — time, culture and spiritual forces between the two countries, and disarmament as speedily as possible. All countries must work for this.

Pioneers In Leisure

Christian Science Monitor

Looking out the window, wondering how to spend our two weeks — or "three in three years" — we can't help being interested in that first pioneer of steelworkers getting 13 weeks off with pay.

The Extended Vacation Plan, it is called, and it went into effect in the steel industry Jan. 1. Some of the first vacationers aren't there yet.

They are described by the American Iron and Steel Institute as "pioneers in the historical event that the industrial world is watching." We can't help watching, too.

The vacationers are chosen from the senior group of workers. Any aspirants for the plan are met by company contributions of 13 cents an hour worked by employees covered by the plan. The institute gives only a paragraph to the human story," considering "the tremendous dislocations at the plants when the vacationers go away and when they return to their jobs."

That other story bothers us a bit, knowing how jittery we are when even a nonsenior nonsteelworker goes away. But when the pioneers are back, being shared we have a feeling people will work things out.

Of course we can't think this institute that whether EVP is a true benefit "depends very largely on the way the men themselves make of it." There is varying encouragement in the examples we've seen of how EVP-rians are making of their free time. We turn away from the window and share ourselves out of the idea of 13-weeks-with-nothing-to-do!

With productivity rising, with automation increasing, these vacationers can look forward to a pattern that will before long involve more of us.

Will there still be those for whom even two weeks would be a luxury, or those for whom no vacation at all — with plenty of food — would be living high? One has to leave the world behind from time to time, but perhaps only for so long.

Today in History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 8,1964 . . .

British troops under General James Abercromby suffered a disastrous defeat at the hands of a French force under General Montcalm 200 years ago today—in 1758. The battle took place at Ticonderoga, at the south end of Lake Champlain, a guarded approach to Canada by way of the Richelieu Valley. Montcalm's men repeatedly repelled the British in rubout assaults and inflicted almost 2,000 casualties. The fort was taken the following year by General Jeffery Amherst.

1852—A great fire swept Montreal, killing more than 100 persons and destroying almost three - quarters of the city.

1952—The newly commissioned American liner, United States, set an Atlantic crossing record of three days, 10 hours, 40 minutes.

Military Mess

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

Chung Hee Park, the army general who is now South Korea's president, promised free elections and a return to civilian government by 1963. But like all promises made by cliques who stage coups, this one also went unfulfilled. Nearly while the country's economy goes in wrack and ruin, costing the U.S. taxpayer an ever larger share every year. The lesson, still unlearned by American political men, seems to be that while military men can win wars, they certainly make a mess of peace.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

July 8th, 1934

Canadian Red Cross today is composed of a larger number of branches and many more members than ever before in its history. There are 648 branches with a senior membership of 1,853,000; an estimated total of 700,000 younger workers. Junior Red Cross brings total of Red Cross in Canada to 31,622 branches, membership to 2,676,396.

During 1933, 414,492 pounds of jam, jelly and honey were collected in connection with the Red Cross—W. I. jam project.

The weight of parcels of war food parcels shipped by I.R.C., reported chairman Mr. Harry Bruce, amounted to 26,075 tons and required 970 fully loaded railway cars to carry them to the ports. Also 1,173,800 parcels were shipped. Also shipped were 1,236 cases containing clothing, shoes, books, vitamins and games to the value of $110,985. Goods were shipped to most of the Allied and belligerent nations. Valuable drugs were sent to China; through these, treatment was given last year to 20,000 patients, and some 2,000 young Canadians have been under expert supervision of Red Cross Nurses.

30 YEARS AGO

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Stocks made a cautious advance in moderate trading on the stock market today.

In speculative trading Windfall fell 30 cents to $1.15 on more than 340,000 shares. The company announced Tuesday that mineralization had been encountered in its first drill hole in Prosser Township near Timmins. However, no assay results have yet been announced.

Other speculative mining stocks were also easier. Goldfields lost six cents to 47 cents, Glenn three cents to 25 cents and Genex one cent to 46 cents.

Among industrials, gains of ½ were frequent. Dominion Stores gained ¼ to a 1964 high of 21¼ while Algoma Steel tacked on the same amount to 72.

Senior base metals were quiet and firm with Noranda up ¼ at 47¾.

Speculative trading highlighted activity on the market Tuesday but some earlier zip was missing.

Volume for the day was 5,471,000 shares compared with 6,483,000 shares traded Monday.

Windfall, a $1.30 winner Monday, fell to profit takers and closed at $1.45, off 50 cents on turnover of 847,278 shares. George A. MacMillan, president of Windfall, said the company had encountered mineralization in its first drill hole in Prosser Township near Timmins.

Other Timmins - area stocks were mixed. PCE Explorations eased six cents to 43 cents, Glenn five cents to 25 cents, Belleterre two cent to 53 cents and Genex ½ cent to 47 cents. Midrim tacked on six cents to 40 cents, Goldfields 10 cents to 53 cents and Teck Corp. 15 cents to $5.30.

Meanwhile industrials put on a strong show. Shop and Save which recently announced a sharp increase in earnings gained-1 to 13½ and Fraser ¼ to 33¼. Massey Ferguson traded actively in tacking on ¾ at 31¼ after selling at a new high of 31½ at one point. Distillers Seagram was up ¾ to 60 and Dominion Stores ¾ to 21¼.

On the losing side, Algoma dipped 1 to 71¾.

Senior base metals were quiet and firm. Falconbridge gained ¼ to 73½.

Among golds, Cochenour Willans dipped 10 cents to $3.25, a 1966 low.

On index, industrials were up .21 to 156.53, base metals .11 to 64.77 and the exchange index .14 to 147.96. Golds were down .09 to 131.63 and western oils 1.23 to 90.58.

Ouimet Disagrees With Some CBC Criticism by Board

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President Alphonse Ouimet says he does not agree with a number of criticisms of the publicly-owned corporation by the Glassco royal commission on government organization.

He made this view known Tuesday before the Commons public accounts committee which is investigating CBC policy as it affects the corporation's financial operations in the 1961-62 and 1962-63 fiscal years.

Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) asked Mr. Ouimet to comment on a statement by the Glassco commission that more than 10 per cent of CBC employees are stationed at headquarters in Ottawa.

The commission also said the most striking feature of the headquarters organization is that fewer than 30 people are directly concerned with programming while over 800 are engaged in ancillary operations."

Mr. Harkness said this showed there was room for the CBC to cut its administrative costs. He asked whether the corporation done anything about reducing "excessive" staff at headquarters.

EXCLUSIVE ENGINEERS

Mr. Ouimet said the 800 persons referred to by the commission include 275 architects and engineers engaged in engineering and construction work. They had nothing to do with administration.

It was not correct to state that 10 per cent of the CBC's total staff was at headquarters. The percentage of total staff in the headquarters group was did per cent "and I don't think that is out of line for any organization."

Net operating requirement for the CBC for the 1962-63 fiscal year was $72,654,736, up from $70,252,273 a year earlier. Mr. Ouimet said he expects this will increase to between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000 for 1963-64.

Wages represented the corporation's biggest annual expenditure but the proportion of its budget earmarked for salaries was no greater than in private industry.

Douglas Fisher (NDP—Port Arthur) said he is dissatisfied over the amount of financial information the CBC provides in its annual reports. The reports did not give a clear picture of CBC financial operations.

Mr. Ouimet agreed to provide Parliament with a more detailed statement.

Marcotte Gets Reprieve Until September 28

OTTAWA (CP) — Georges Marcotte, three times scheduled for execution as the Santa Claus bank bandit who machine-gunned two Montreal policemen Dec. 11, 1962, has been given another reprieve to allow a court review of his conviction.

Marcotte's lawyer, who claims his client was framed, was due in Ottawa today to give the justice department a brief on the case.

The 34-year-old carpenter was to be hanged early Friday in Montreal. Instead, the execution has been postponed to Sept. 25.

Justice Minister Favreau announced the new reprieve Tuesday night, along with a decision to refer Marcotte's case to the Quebec Court of Appeal. The justice minister is empowered under the Criminal Code to order an appeal court hearing in any case where he feels there might be some doubt. Marcotte's own avenues of appeal to the courts have been exhausted.

Yves Mayrand, Marcotte's 28-year-old lawyer, said in Montreal Tuesday night he will prepare an entirely new brief for the appeal court. He said: "We have one eye-witness who did not appear at the trial and we will call others who have been unsworn but did not testify on certain points. We will be able to vindicate Marcotte."

RAPS IMMODESTY

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope Paul VI has criticized films which draw their attraction from "uninhibited and exciting display of immodest scenes." Many films, he said, actors, critics and spectators "boast of ridding themselves of the habitual rules of moral order," he said Tuesday, speaking to Italian Roman Catholic projectionists at a special audience.

Family History Outlined at Dunk Reunion

CAMPBELLFORD — The second Dunk reunion was held at Presqu'ile Point park on Sunday, July 5th, when about 200 were present. The first organized family reunion and picnic was held at this same park in July 1963.

The Dunks were among the original settlers in Seymour township in 1831. The history of the family has been compiled by W. J. Harold Dunk, a former Campbellford resident, teaching for many years and principal of Mahood School, Elmira, now retired and living in Campbellford.

The first history, dating back to 1831, was presented some years ago, the second, consisting of 250 printed pages and ten pages of Dunk pictures was presented in 1963 and additional pages were ready to be added at the 1964 picnic on Sunday last.

In compiling the history Mr. Dunk corresponded with many people in England, Scotland, Australia, United States and Canada. He has written hundreds of letters and travelled many miles.

Sarah Jane Dunk, later the wife of John Spencer, was the first white child born in Seymour township, on September 27, 1834.

Present at the Sunday picnic were descendants of early pioneers from points all over Ontario.

Mr. Harold Dunk in compiling this historical volume, has traced his own family tree back great-great-great-great grandfather, William Dunk, born 1686.

In presenting this extensive genealogy Harold Dunk states "This humble piece of Dunk history has been gathered together from many sources with the help of several Dunk descendants and other interested people. Harold Spencer assisted in the original draft of the history. It was prepared in honor of our great forefathers who were men of rank and education. They were the settlers who came in this wilderness and hewed homes for themselves out of this primeval forest. These pioneers laid the foundation of society in righteousness and in the fear of God and so we honor their grand and glorious name."

Seen at the Dunk Reunion at Campbellford are W. Harold Dunk, left, and his wife, right, with three of their grandchildren. Vance, son of Kenneth Dunk, Andrea, daughter of Ronald Dunk, and Wendy, daughter of Ted Dunk.

AREA INCREASES

Facilities at Earl Rowe Provincial Park in Ontario are to be expanded to 742 acres from 712.

TO EXCLUDE SOLDIERS

OTTAWA (CP) — The $10 monthly allowance for 16- and 17 - year - olds attending school will be paid to parents resident in Canada only, Welfare Minister Judy LaMarsh announced in the Commons Tuesday night. This will exclude parents who are serving with Canadian armed forces in Europe. In Canada, parents will be allowed to apply retroactively for the allowances until August, 1965.

British Writer Praises Homes In Canada

LONDON (CP) — Canadian "instant" homes may take five days to build, but a British writer just back from Montreal says they far outclass two-hour models here.

"Are we really doomed to live in cubes that look exactly like a box of bricks?" Alice Hope asks British readers of The Daily Telegraph.

And she praises a Montreal area housing development.

"Each house was totally different, in size, appearance, price and planning. They were traditional, they were not like a box of bricks and they each stood in a landscaped garden."

Miss Hope fell in love with Canadian kitchens too. She says British kitchens are hopelessly small but with Canadian-style planning, eating kitchens here could be improved.

"How many (British) housewives in cupboards on the wall—right up to the ceiling? And how many have refrigerators hanging there too?"

She also notes most Canadian homes sport a monstrous deep-freeze unit in the basement, although she was assured that some families struggle along with a freezer right in the refrigerator — which is rare here.

"As no refrigerator I saw seemed to be less than colossal, I am prepared to believe this," Miss Hope says wistfully.

Bride-to-Be Honored by Co-Workers

Recently a group of 45 girls from the Northern Electric Co. of Belleville met at the New Tops Motel for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Edna Brushey.

The evening began with Miss Brushey opening her shower gifts for which she thanked her friends.

A singsong was enjoyed with Mrs. Dolores Nelson accompanying at the piano. The group enjoyed a square dance which was called off by Mrs. Helen Van Alstyne.

A delightful buffet lunch was served by the staff of the Tops Motor Motel.

The evening was a huge success, enjoyed by all who attended, and ended by all wishing the bride-to-be a long and happy life in her forthcoming marriage.

Honor Family On Departure

IVANHOE—Prior to taking up residence in Brighton, Mrs. Estella Reid and family were presented with a purse of money.

At the time of her husband's death Mrs. Reid was left with five small children. The children were popular with their school mates and took part in all community, school and church activities.

Anna, an honor grade 12 student and Diane an honor grade 10 student, who have been attending Madoc High School will continue their studies in September. Grant will enter Brighton High School and Stanley grade 8 public school.

Doug, who is employed by the Beulah Cheese and Butter Company will remain in Ivanhoe. Mrs. Reid was a generous neighbor, always willing to lend a helping hand.

The best wishes of this community go with the Reid family to their new home.

Adoption Plan To Be Extended BY CWL

VINELAND, Ont. (CP)—Extension of the Catholic Women's League adoption program, with emphasis on the handicapped child, was announced Tuesday by Mrs. Ward Markle, Ontario president, at the league's annual meeting in this St. Catharines area community.

She said enormous interest has resulted from the 435 meetings in various parts of the province last year and many misconceptions about adoptions had been dispelled.

Local children's Aid Societies, she explained, report they have prospective parents for the baby without handicaps. "But what of the children coming into care at an older age, what about the children of mixed racial background and those who may have physical handicaps?"

She estimated there were 2,500 children of all denominations in Ontario that fit into these three categories.

Ontario's adoption program is under study by the CWL in four other provinces in conjunction with three provincial governments, she said.

Mrs. Markle said the economic and social aspects of Ontario's Indian and Eskimo problem are other challenges for the league.

Annual reports showed membership of 23,467, up 866 from last year, in 891 parish councils. The league spent $26,063 on education, mostly on scholarships, and $78,428 on welfare work.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

— BY pegg rogers

FROM THE MAIL BOX

Dear Pegg Rogers: I am coming to Montreal in July and I plan to stay until December. What clothes will I need? I am a student and I will be taking a specialized course of studies at McGill. Although I will be working quite hard, I would like to see something of Montreal — the Place des Arts, for instance. I have a friend there, who has promised to take me to some football games and a few of the university parties. —Signed — M.-N., P.E.I.

Dear M.-N.: As you will be in Montreal during the warmest part of the summer, bring cool, washable dresses as well as blouses and skirts. A cord suit with a comfortable pleated skirt would be ideal. By the middle of September, you can safely send these clothes home. The climate in Montreal during the summer can be very humid and hot indeed. In spite of the heat, you must wear stockings to classes although you can wear sandals.

By the time the university comes to life in late September, the temperature should be down to sweater and skirt weather. A pleated skirt, some tailored blouses and a "V" neck sweater in the same tones as the skirt would be suitable. A matching jacket would also be useful.

In October, the social whirl around the university gets under way, and the new season of theatre and concerts begins. For small evening parties, a simple sleeveless dress with a pretty neckline will take you to dinner, theatres and concerts. For more formal parties, you might consider having a short, full-length evening gown made. Choose a taffeta or chiffon-ed brocade. If you cannot find the latter in the dress goods department, look at some of the drapery or upholstery fabrics. They are quite lovely and being very wide, they are not as expensive as you might think.

For winter, bring a heavy coat. Some of the new "pre-tend" furs look even better this year than they did last year. The shadings and quality of the fabric continues to improve. A fur stole will be cozy although they might be uncomfortable to wear to classes unless you can assign a locker.

For Sundays and evening movie dates, a wool dress and/or wrap suit is the best bet. Keep all the styles simple so that you can vary each outfit with different accessories. You will not necessarily need more or dressier clothes than you need in Prince Edward Island, but everything you bring for winter should be warm.

Special Emphasis On Lingerie

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The visiting fashion press gathered in the lobby of Lincoln Center's New York State Theatre bleary day for a look at Burlington Mills' fall stock which covered any what-to-wear situation.

The showing was part of the New York Couture Group's week of fall previews.

There was a special emphasis on lingerie in prettier not to be seen more and at-home clothes too glamorous not to be envied much.

Caught sleeping, the fashionable miss in her nightie of flowered draped crepe would make quite a pretty picture. Indeed, some of the flimsy nightgowns and peignoir combinations —an ice blue one with narrow rhinestone studded neckband, for example—were as regally elegant and at the same time softly feminine as a number of formal ballgowns.

ing fabrics born in test tubes included fake tigers, pony, plush blue and white zebra and fleecy lamb coats over stretch pants or short skirts.

The farmer's daughter look starred, despite all the black and white city clothing in denim jumpsuit with bandana neck and fedora; or in a quilted calico, a floor-length at-home costume that widens in a line like grandmother's tea cosy.

The big glory of this week's fall fashion previews as far as the millinery institute is concerned is the continuing comeback being made by hats.

The old war with the bobbie hairdo of last year has been deflated. Indeed, except for a few straggly bangs the hat has conquered all hair. With the upcoming movie of My Fair Lady as a theme, and costume designer Cecil Beaton's influence, brimmed ostrich feather-adorning gussied from the Ascot races as inspiration, pretty manikins paraded in modern black and white versions.

India Faced With Swim Suit Problem

By RUKMINI DEVI

Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — India is faced with a serious swim suit problem. But it is not the men of the topless suits faced in the West.

The problem here is how to get the wives, sisters and girl friends of the fun-loving minority of males to don even the modest one-piece swim suits common in Western countries some 20 years ago.

The shimmering, white beaches around Bombay are ideal for year-round swimming but few Indian women like to swim because it means exposing their bodies. Traditionally, Indian women wear long ankle-length clothing.

Of some 300 swimmers on a recent Sunday on the famed Juhu beach, hardly a dozen were women. But there were a handful of women standing knee-deep in the water dressed fully in their flowing saris.

There are public swimming pools in Bombay report a total membership of fewer than 150 women. One pool has a separate section for "ladies." There, even the instructors are women.

Police officials say that they are not in the least bothered about the appearance of the topless swim suit.

"We are a modest, sane people," said one official. "At best it can be only be a show window curiosity."

Even the bikini swi msuit is still a novelty in India. The trustees of a swimming pool in Calcutta recently objected to women wearing the bikini.

But, paradoxically enough, rural women in some parts of India will consider even the topless swim suit in order. They have been bathing bare-bosomed for 3,000 years.

Only 50 miles beyond New Delhi sturdy Punjabi women can be seen swimming in the flowing Ganges River clad only in their pyjamas. And nobody gives them a thought.

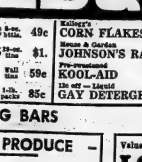
SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

TRY TO LEAVE PARTY QUIETLY

There's always a bit of noise when people arrive for a party, and it's generally unavoidable with guests saying hello as they walk in the door. Unfortunately, there's often as much, if not more, when it comes time to leave.

In the earlier part of the evening, the noise isn't as glaring to people in neighboring houses and apartments. The usual household activities — children playing and/or the TV going — makes one almost totally unaware of outside sounds. But it's pretty jarring when a there's a burst of loud, and often prolonged, noise around one in the morning, when the children are asleep and the TV set doesn't offer some sort of baffle.



Often, it's difficult for the host to guard against disturbing the neighbors, since much of the racket is made after he bids his guests good-night inside his own front door. Guests often continue a discussion outside, while inhibited into a hilarious, and many times are not needed to keep their voices to a discreet level.

There's often a big banging of front doors and shouted good-nights guaranteed to make any grumpy wakefulness. In an apartment building, thoughtless departees often hold the elevator door open for a prolonged period while waiting for their guests still saying adieu to the host and hostess. A tenant waiting to use the lift is left with his finger on the buzzer until the departing revelers finally let him have a go at it.

Although the noise is not technically the fault of the host and hostess, the next day they are often the recipients of angry notes and glares from sleepy-eyed neighbors who didn't take too kindly to being jostled out of a sound sleep by inconsiderate leave-takers.

PLAIN THOUGHTLESSNESS

Actually, all the failure is really the result, in much of it, of basic bad manners, but of plain thoughtlessness. When one leaves a part, or dance, whether it's at a private home or a club, goodnights should be said indoors and not blared out on the evening air.

Blue cellophane tape is held beneath pieces of clear or glass together until cement dries.

In an apartment house, the host or one of the guests might ring for the elevator while the rest say goodnight to the hostess inside the door. When the elevator arrives, guests should get in immediately and continue any discussions inside as it descends.

Loud shooting and honking of horns naturally should be guarded against in a more suburban atmosphere. Sounds travel far and more clearly in a lightly-trafficked area so, again, good-nights should be cleared up inside, instead of on the sidewalk while departing guests pile into cars.

Being considerate of the neighbors is a mark of respect for your hosts. You may depart in a loud flurry of goodbyes and speed off to your own bailiwick, but the hosts have to cope with the chilly hellos from their neighbors the following day.

DINING CUSTOM

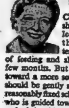
During the Renaissance, the society diner always carried his own set of cutlery in an ornamental case.

Woman Doing Study on Rainfall

MONTREAL (CP) — Montrealer Marianne Weiss doesn't mind how much it rains.

She's doing a study on Montreal's rainfall for a thesis towards the Master of Science degree she hopes to receive at McGill University's fall convocation.

Her work, which began last September, will eventually go on a graph which shows the pattern of the city's rainfall since 1865 when the McGill Observatory began keeping records.



One of the bits of information she collected is that the highest rainfall occurred June 6, 1963, when rain fell at the rate of 2.6 inches per hour.

"Fortunately it lasted just half a minute. The world record is twice that."

Miss Weiss says her chosen field of meteorology is a good one for women.

"There are few women in Canada in the field and there will be a need for more and more."

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY REV. DAN GEISER, MOTHER OF 8

Certainly babies should have some leeway in setting their own pattern of sleeping and eating, but some limits in the matter of feeding and sleeping the first few months. But as baby grows toward a more settled routine, he should be gently steered toward a reasonably fixed schedule. The baby who is guided toward good habits early, is also apt to revel at more exacting regulations later.

High on the happy list of favourites for the little fellow on a full schedule is Heinz Strained and Junior Fruits. And for good reason. PREST — CHAMBERS

Bridge Street United Church was the setting on June 20th for the double-ring ceremony uniting Marion Anna Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Chambers, Belleville, and Harold Reginald Prest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Prest, Halloway. Rev. Harry M. Davis was the officiating clergyman.

Baskets of white mums and peonies decorated the altar and white satin bows the guest pews.

Wedding music was rendered by Mr. A. Gordon, the organist who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Manley in two appropriate selections.

The bride given in marriage by her father looked lovely in her floor-length gown. The full white skirt over taffeta had a chantilly lace top, with long filly point sleeves, the scalloped neckline was studded with seed pearls and crystal jets. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle fell from a tiara headpiece. She carried a cascade of sensation pink and American beauty roses with white net, ivy and fern.

The maid of honor, Miss Marie Chambers, twin sister of the bride was gowned in pale blue nylon over taffeta, with chantilly lace top and long lily point sleeves. She wore a pillbox headdress with matching veil, blue shoes and carried a cascade of ice blue and white poms with white net and fern.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Barbara Phillips and Miss Eileen Chambers, sisters of the bride were identically attired in pale pink nylon over taffeta with chantilly lace cap and long lily point sleeves. They wore matching headpieces, pink shoes and carried cascades of pink glow and white poms with white net and fern.

The groomsman was Mr. Dwayerd Masters of Trenton while Mr. Elmer Prest, brother of the groom and Mr. Ronald Chambers, brother of the bride were the ushers.

The reception was held at Club Canara, where the bride's table was most attractive and centred a three tier wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom and flanked with white candles. The colorful bridal bouquets added to the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pleated blue dress with jacket of rayon crepe with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Amid showers of confetti and good wishes the happy couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points.

The bride donned a pink and white ensemble, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from Stirling, Napanee, Campbellford, Halloway, Crookston, Trenton, Frankford, Morrisburg, Ottawa, Foxboro, Amelisburg and Belleville.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Looks with Mrs. Looks as hostess and Mrs. Patricia Lantz as co-hostess. She was also the recipient of an electric fry pan from her co-workers at the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Prest will reside at 312 Exmouth St., Sarnia, Ontario.

JAMIESON — MOORE

Rev. Robert Reid was the officiating clergyman at the recent wedding in Foxboro United Church, of Nancy Jane Moore, Belleville, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grant Way to Wilmet John Jamieson of Foxboro, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Jamieson.

Pink and white peonies were used to decorate the church, and wedding music was provided by the organist.

The bride who was given in marriage by her uncle, Walter Way, was becomingly gowned in lace over satin, floor length with lace top and sleeves. Her headdress was a white rose crown with net, and she carried a bouquet of carnations.

The bride's attendants were Miss Janice Parks of Plainfield, Miss Carol Hagerman of Foxboro, and Miss Jean Wager of Belleville. They were dressed alike in Nile green, short length, with white hats, shoes and gloves, and carried pink mums.

The bridegroom was assisted by Carl Hagerman of Foxboro, and the ushers were Keith Thompson and Keith Cole.

A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bridegroom where the bride's aunt, Mrs. Walter Way received wearing a pink and white suit with a corsage of white mums. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a flowered dress and corsage of white mums.

For a wedding trip to Brockville, Kingston, Fort Henry, Fort Hope and Cobourg the bride wore a pale blue dress and coat with corsage of pink mums.

Guests were present from Foxboro, Toronto, Corbyville, Campbellford, and Carrying Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson will reside at RR 1, Foxboro.

Hazel Euler and Janice Park were hostesses at a personal shower before the marriage, and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger and Miss Marie Hollinger were co-hostesses at a general shower.

Courses Will Be Brought Up to Date

TORONTO (CP)—High school home economics courses will be brought up to date in Ontario next fall.

Students will learn to use modern appliances and quick-cooking foods. They will be taught how to cook the sort of family meals a working wife has time to prepare.

They will make a dress or suit from a synthetic fabric and learn the characteristics of textile fibres, how they are made and their advantages and disadvantages.

MITCHELL — BEEBY

White gladioli, snapdragons and gypsophylia formed the setting for the wedding on Saturday afternoon, July 4th of Sherril Joyce Beeby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Beeby, Belleville, to David Thompson Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mitchell, R.R. 7, Belleville.

The marriage took place in Christ Church, Anglican, Belleville, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. R. G. Fleming assisted by Rev. J. Smith. Mr. John C. Withers, church organist played the wedding music and an all-male choir sang two choral selections.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor-length gown fashioned in a simple A-line design of frosted Italian peau-de-soie, with chapel train and French lace jacket with three-quarter sleeves. Her bouffant veil of tulle illusion was shoulder-length and was caught by a white rose cluster. She carried a semi-spray bouquet of white mums, yellow roses and ivy.

Mrs. Graham L. Beeby, Belleville, sister-in-law of the bride was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Joanne Whaites, Belleville and Miss Marilyn Murphy, Lindsay, Ont.

The attendants were gowned alike in ice-aqua peau-de-soie with French lace jackets fashioned street length in a design similar to the bride's. They wore wedding ring headdresses with tiny veils, and white accessories and carried nosegays of white carnations.

Mr. Paul Peden, Belleville, was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Peter Mitchell, Belleville, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. John O'Reilly of Lindsay, Ontario.

A reception was held at Christ Church Parish Hall with the ladies of the Parish Guild as hostesses. The hall was beautifully decorated with garden flowers. Centred on the bride's table was a four - tiered wedding cake, decorated with a cascade of roses, with tulle and yellow blossoms around the base. Yellow and white candles and the bridal bouquets completed the nuptial table arrangement. An honored guest was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. R. M. Beeby, who received the bride's bouquet.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing azure blue crepe with beaded trim, beige and blue turban, beige, accessories, and corsage of pink rosebuds. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom who received the guests in lavender - pink shade, matching picture hat and white accessories, with a baby orchid corsage of lavender pink.

For a wedding trip to Ottawa, Quebec City, New Hampshire and Lake Placid, the bride selected a travelling costume of yellow linen suit with printed blouse, flowered daisy hat, white accessories and corsage of white shasta daisies.

Out - of - town guests attended the wedding from Montreal, Lindsay, Brampton, Smiths Falls, Brantford, Picton, Tweed, Trenton, Frankford, Summerside, P.E.I., and Flint, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell will reside at 220 West Moira Street.

Showers honoring the bride were given at the home of Mrs. Benjamin Safe, when the bride was presented with crystal and china; at the home of Mrs. Marston Fox, Picton where a large family gathering attended a miscellaneous shower; and at Christ Church where the bridal attendants were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower.

A presentation was made to the bride by the staff of Quinte Secondary school and to the bridegroom by the staff of the Tweed News. A trousseau tea was given at the home of the bride's parents.

SMALLPIECE — TIBBEL

Al lwhite decorations were chosen for the June wedding of Sharon Sandra Tibbel of Ullwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tibbel to Robert Martin Smallpiece of Picton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smallpiece, Sr. when white chrysanthemums and candles graced the altar of Christ Anglican Church, Windermere.

Rev. R. G. Charles of Rosseau was the officiating minister and the wedding music was played on the organ by Mrs. Edwin Kingshott.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and entered the church in a floor-length gown of peau de soie with bouffant skirt, bodice with jewel neckline and wrist-length sleeves. Her headdress was pearl-encrusted orange blossoms and stephanotis with shoulder-length veil of nylon tulle and she carried a white Bible covered with a spray of red roses from which hung streamers of red sweetheart roses.

Miss Holly Tibbel of Ullwater, sister of the bride was maid of honor and Miss Sharon Smallpiece of Picton, sister of the bridegroom was bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in pale blue chiffon over taffets, with white accessories and carried nosegays of white and yellow mums.

Mr. James Smallpiece of Picton was groomsman for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Edwin Kingshott of Gravenhurst and Mr. Marshall Tubbs of Picton.

A reception was held in the hall of Windermere United Church where the bride's table was decorated with the wedding cake, candles, bridal bouquets and garden flowers.

The bride's mother received wearing a dress of blue linen and lace, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore an ensemble of navy blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The young couple left on a tour of Northern Ontario with the bride wearing a travelling costume of pink lace chanel suit with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Pembroke, Palmer Rapids, Belleville, Billerlie, Napanee, Picton, Toronto, Kitchener, Parry Sound, Rosseau and Muskoka district.

Mr. and Mrs. Smallpiece will reside in Belleville.

Before her marriage the bride was presented with beautiful gifts from her co-workers at Northern Electric.

A shower was given by Mrs. Laverne Bailey of Belleville, and a community shower was given at the home of her parents by the Ullwater Women's Institute.

YUGOSLAV PROVERB

A well - known Yugoslavian proverb says: "Were it not for the wind, spiders would mesh over the heavens."

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

COIFFURE

A woman's hair is probably the greatest accessory she has with her appearance.

It was about the second decade of this century that women became emancipated enough to cut their hair, and began to invade the barbershops. Up until that time barbershops were strictly masculine territory and no self-respecting woman would have been seen in one any more than in a poolroom or a saloon.

Hairdressers worked privately and attended royalty or the very wealthy or sometimes actresses on the stage, but most women cared for their own hair, and it was a major operation to wash and dry those long tresses.

It used to fascinate me to watch my mother do her hair. Sometimes as a very young child I would go into my mother's bedroom in the morning to get help with back buttons that small hands could not reach. My mother would be seated before her looking glass brushing her hair. She would part it in the middle and brush down, counting the strokes. Then from a dresser drawer she would get a pad called a "rat" which circled her head. Her own hair was combed up over this contraption into a high pompadour and rolled into a knot on top. It was all fastened with a myriad assortment of hairpins, some of them wavy tortoiseshell ones.

A coal oil lamp burning on the dresser permeated the room with the smell of hot metal. Into the chimney of the lamp was thrust a pair of curling tongs. When my mother's elaborate hairdo was in place she still had the finishing touches to put on. She tested the heat of the curling iron with a moistened finger. If it sizzled she waved it in the air to cool it. The tongs were used to curl under a fringe or bangs which made a frame for her face, and if you have ever seen a picture of Queen Alexandra you will get the finished effect.

My mother would have been horrified to see the uncombed or pin curled hair that graces our disgraced many times daily breakfast tables nowadays. One just was not casual about appearances then, even at breakfast.

My grandmother's hair problem was that it was thin, but she disdained the aid of switches, and my memory of her is of hair combed straight up to an uncompromising bun on the top of her head and a perfectly dolly sort of thing perched on top with a velvet bow of purple or black ribbon pinned to it.

I would venture to guess that nowadays more women go to the hairdressers than do their own hair. And at the hairdressers one may see hair being stripped, streaked, tipped, tinted, treated, feathered, rolled and pin curled, as well as being shampooed with beer, egg, oil, color rinse, and even occasionally soap.

Rejecting Diagnosis May Mean Emotional Problem

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: — After spending several hundred dollars to come to this world-famous medical centre the doctor had the nerve to tell me there is nothing wrong with me.

The final consultation took one hour. The doctor reviewed the X-rays, and previous history going back 10 years. He ended the consultation by telling me that I am in good physical condition and that I should go home and find something to keep me busy.

What he was saying was I am healthy as a horse but I am nuts — that I imagine the headaches, backaches and stomach pains.

When doctors can't get to the root of the trouble why do they always tell the patient his troubles are imaginary?

I must close this letter now as I feel a dizzy spell coming on and I'm due for another eye-piercing headache. — ILL, BUT UNDIAGNOSED.

DEAR ILL — I know your type. You will now go from doctor to doctor shopping around until somebody sells you an operation. But that won't be the end of it. You will then complain about your adhesions.

What you don't understand is that aches and pains from imaginary illnesses are real. The pain is there, but it is caused by anxiety, tension, and unresolved problems. Only when you get your emotional machinery in good running condition will you feel better.

I'm sure your doctor tried to tell you this but some people reject any diagnosis that suggests they have an emotional problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband went into a new business. He is having serious financial difficulty and the bills are mounting. Bob is bright and hard-working and I feel confident that if he stays with this business he will eventually do well.

The question is, should I go to work to help him out? I have a profession and could make excellent money. We have two children and my mother lives with us. She could take care of the house and watch the children. Mother is urging me to stay home and let Bob work things out somehow. Her battle cry is, "Once he gets used to your pay cheque he'll never stand on his own."

Please tell me what to do. I feel dreadful knowing I could help my husband over this hurdle — and I'm not doing it. — GUILTY CONSCIENCE.

DEAR G.C. — This problem is essentially yours and your husband's. It should be decided by the two of you — and not by your mother.

Since you feel your husband needs your help, I hope you will offer it to him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My fiance has an important birthday coming up. I asked him what he would like and he replied, "For years I have secretly wanted a diamond ring in a gold mounting." Frankly, I was shocked.

I always had the idea that only gamblers, gangsters or kept men wore diamond rings. I don't know where I picked up this notion, but it is firmly fixed in my mind. If I am wrong will you please tell me. — IDA.

DEAR IDA — You ARE wrong, and I am telling you. All kinds of men wear diamond rings — for all kinds of reasons. It is not the trademark of undesirable characters. It is a matter of personal taste.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO EXECUTIVE SUITE — Obviously the last guy in his office sells him. Your best hope is to be the last guy to get his ear before the important decisions are made.

• • •

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Salmon Mousse Chef Style

by Mary Moore

This salmon mousse moulded in a fish mould is the stuff that parties and cooking reputations are made of.

This dish calls for a chef's touch: one tablespoon Angostura bitters. It not only enriches the flavor but gives the color a little lift.

I hope my friends try this salmon mousse for it can be trusted to do a good job for you when you must get a nourishing attractive meal ready in advance.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Sherried Chicken Giblets on Toast Points; Zucchini Rings; Broiled Crumbed Tomatoes; Melon Ball and Blueberry Fruit Cup; Crackle-Top Peanut Butter Cookies (see Tuesday); Coffee.

SALMON MOUSSE (serves 6 generously; serves 8 adequately)

2 tablespoon (1 package) plain gelatine,
¼ cup cold water,
½ cup boiling water,
one 1-lb. can red (or pink) salmon,
1½ cups finely chopped celery,
¼ cup chopped broken salad olives (or ¼ cup sweet green relish),
2 tablespoons green onion flakes (or ¼ cup finely chopped chives),
¾ cup mayonnaise (but salad dressing will do),
1 tablespoon Angostura bitters (gives rich flavor and color),
1 tablespoon lemon juice,
½ teaspoon salt.

In a large bowl soak the gelatine in the cold water for 5 minutes. Stir in the boiling water until gelatine is dissolved. Drain and flake the salmon, removing any skin and bones. Add it to the gelatine liquid along with the celery, olives, onion flakes or chives. Mix well then add mayonnaise, Angostura bitters, lemon juice and salt.

Lightly rub a 4-cup fish mould (which it will fill to the brim) or any 4-cup mould, with a little salad oil. Turn in salmon mixture and chill until firm. (Note: My fish mould does not stand level. I had to shove a jar lid underneath the tail end to level it while it congealed).

When serving time comes have ready an oval platter longer than the mould. Slip pointed knife around edge to loosen mould, then dip it in hot water for about 5 seconds. Invert platter over mould, then carefully turn both over, keeping a tight grip.

Be sure to garnish this mould attractively. I piped some mayonnaise around and dotted it with capers. I used sliced stuffed olives for "eyes" and garnished the sides liberally with tomato and hard-cooked egg slices which were embedded on Bibb lettuce leaves, but crisp watercress would be attractive too.

School Pupils Presented With Many Awards

Recently the annual awards were presented to the pupils of the Glen Miller and Johnstown schools. The presentations were held outside on the school grounds with many parents in attendance.

Principal Mr. E. Retasnes and members of the Home and School gave out the awards as follows:

Grade 1 — highest standing, Susan Goodings; printing, Linda McFadyen; most improved, Brenda Roberts.

Grade 2 — highest standing, Janet Orr; printing, Lynn Fowler; most improved, Donald Colbert.

Grade 3 — highest standing, Curtis McLean; printing, Sheryl Landoll; most improved, Brian Ferguson.

Grade 4 — highest standing, Jeanne Orr; writing, William Orr; most improved, Tom Holt.

Grade 5 — highest standing, Sharon MacDonald; writing, Gordon Davis; most improved, Leslie Layne.

Grade 6 — highest standing, Tim Holt; writing, John Blakely; most improved, Leslie McGeachy.

Grade 7 — highest standing, Veronica Wickens; writing, Joyce Woodward; most improved, Diane Simpson.

Grade 8 — highest standing entering the 5-year course, Evelyn Lohnes; runner-up, Diana Anderson, also entering the 5-year course; highest standing for the 4-year course was Glen Rupert. Miss Lohnes also received the award offered by Garnet Dickens for highest standing.

Following the awards the teachers provided ice cream for all the children.

The Glen Miller School boys' softball team is also to be congratulated on the winning of the Sidney Township Trustees Association trophy. Roger Woodward was captain of the team other members were Bob Davis, Glen Rupert, Alan Munroe, Sietse Ridder, Ricky Petterson, Ray Moore, John Blakely, Michael Poitner, Kevin Wait.

The Home and School has had an active year with many worthwhile projects carried out.

Mother's Helper

YOUR toddler will like a basket with a handle, for a toy tote. He can fill it with his own choice of portable playthings. Loading and unloading it will add another diversion to his busy day. And remember that after the war, there's a sugar-coated lesson in picking up those small under-foot items.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

by pegg rogers

MOST OF THE SAME?

According to a large fall fashion showing, which contained one hundred garments from the Canadian market, the Canadian woman can take her choice of any silhouette or style and still be up-to-date. Throughout the whole showing, gathered from Canadian dress, suit, sportswear and coat houses, no one new theme dominates.

There is no strong fashion story to be appreciated and no one fashion color family to enlivens the scene.

Canadian women, like women the world over, appreciate fashion guidance, fashion advice and help in assembling or adding to an already fashionable wardrobe. According to this show, which represents the combined efforts of the best of Canada's creative design talents, there is no specific message this season.

This bland diet of fashion can be disturbing. Suddenly, from Paris or the United States, there could come a new exciting line, color or idea and many of us would already have our fall winter wardrobes assembled. This happened when Dior launched his New Look — revolutionary in its nipped-in waistline, padded hipline and skirt, elongated by at least six inches.

Certainly, this dullness has not permeated every area of Canadian fashion. There is news in shoes with a new miracle leather slated for launching in September. Coats are to be in slim, double-breasted styles with narrow sleeves. There are new accessories, such as fake-quilted leather bags with chain handles. Differences in lingerie and foundation garments are the big news. We hope there will be news in dresses and suits, such as by using some of the new knitted fabrics and dramatic colors.

Canadian Art On View This Summer

Visitors to the Art Gallery of Toronto will have an opportunity this summer to see an important selection of the Gallery's collection of Canadian paintings. The display arranged chronologically, shows the development of painting in Canada from the early 19th century with the work of the French Canadian artist, Antoine Plamondon (1804-1900), to the present day with Harold Town, William Ronald and Kazuo Nakamura.

The 17th century French Canadian sculpture, Madonna and Child, by Jacques Latour, 1670-1715, may be seen with paintings from the Gallery's collection by Paul Kane, Cornelius Krieghoff, William Cresswell and Daniel Fowler.

Many of the Art Gallery's well-known paintings by members of the Group of Seven are on view and include J.E.H. MacDonald's Mist Fantasy, Lawren Harris' Above Lake Superior and Beaver Swamp Algoma and A. Y. Jackson's Early Spring, Quebec. Shown with the exhibition of 25 paintings by the Group, is Tom Thomson's The West Wind. Also on view are Emily Carr's paintings of the British Columbia forest and 5 paintings by David Milne.

Eskimo carvings have been loaned to the Gallery for the summer from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Band. These 20 Eskimo carvings from Cape Dorset, Pangnirtung and Frobisher Bay include a family of seals, a snow owl and seal hunter.

In addition, a selection of European and American paintings and sculpture are also on view. The summer exhibition of Canadian paintings will be on view until September.

Here's why
Heinz Baby Foods in Steri-Seal Tins are better for baby and easier for you

HEINZ STERI-SEAL TINS PROTECT VITAMINS FROM LIGHT RAYS

Light rays destroy the important riboflavin vitamin in baby foods. Heinz Steri-Seal tins protect riboflavin, and Vitamin C, better than other types of containers. Tins protect their appetizing Heinz flavour too.

HEINZ STERI-SEAL TINS ARE TAMPER-PROOF

Tampering fingers can't break the hermetic seal of a Heinz Steri-Seal tin, even by accident. When you open a tin in your kitchen, you're absolutely sure it's never been opened before. Contents are sterile, ready to eat straight from the tin.

HEINZ STERI-SEAL TINS ARE UNBREAKABLE

Drop a Heinz Steri-Seal tin. It stays in one piece. Contents are not affected. The hermetic seal stays tightly closed. There's no separate cap to become bent or loosened to let in bacteria.

HEINZ BABY FOODS IN STERI-SEAL TINS COST LESS

You naturally want the best for your baby and Heinz Baby Foods in Steri-Seal Tins not only bring you the best in baby foods, but they cost less ...actually save you money.

HEINZ STERI-SEAL TINS ARE SAFE—EASY TO OPEN

Heinz Steri-Seal tins can be placed right in hot water for fast warming . . . . without danger of breakage.

Contents are safe inside 'til you're ready to use them. Opening is clean and easy. No prying or fussing with stuck lids.

HEINZ STERI-SEAL TINS ARE SAFE FOR STORING LEFT-OVERS

After using part of a tin of Heinz Baby Food, just cover and keep the remainder in the refrigerator right in the tin. This insures maximum freshness, because the Heinz Steri-Seal tins as well as the foods are completely sterilized during processing. See below for special free offer on Heinz tin tops.

Helpful Hints to Give Mom Surprise Birthday Party

DEAR DORIS — I love my mother very much and I want to make her happy. I am 15 years old. I am planning a surprise party for her birthday. I would like to know what food to serve and what amount to give.

She is about 38 years and people who come will also be about that age. Do you think my idea is a good one? I enclose my envelope and 5c for stamp — HAMILTON HARRY.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR HARRY — A dandy idea! Getting the guest of honor to co-operate is sometimes the rub. Would your Dad or an aunt be your partner in crime and help you plot this part?

Don't be too ambitious. As we get a little older our celebrations don't depend on large crowds for success. Two tables of bridge can be uproarious, with good friends. Or a dancing session with only four or five couples. Or some parlor games.

Food can also be simple — a bread and cheese party, or hot dogs and apple cider. I'm sending you a sheet of Party Games and Refreshments which gives you some choices. (Also available to other readers sending ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

• • • •

DEAR DORIS —

1. At an afternoon wedding where the groom and best man wear tails and grey trousers, is it all right for the maid of honor and bridesmaids to wear slim street length dresses?

2. Is it proper for the two fathers to wear ordinary suits and the mothers ordinary street length dresses?

3. Is it proper to have flower girls at such a wedding?

4. I had also thought of two little boys, one for Bible boy. We will have no ring bearer, so what could I have the other boy do?

5. What type of dress is best for the bride at such a wedding? — GREENHORN.

DEAR GREENHORN —

1. The cart's before the horse. What the men wear depends on what the bride wears. Morning clothes go with the formal wedding attire.

2. No. All should wear same type dress wear.

3. Yes.

4. Either they both do something, or neither has a specialty, and they both dress as page boys.

5. Long white dress with sleeves, and white veil.

Muster Forces To Picket Talk By Gov. Wallace

TORONTO (CP) — Anti-segregationist groups continued to muster forces today for their planned picketing of Alabama Governor George Wallace's address Thursday to the 47th annual Lions International convention here.

Mrs. Jean Daniels, chairman of the Canadian Anti-Apartheid Committee, the group which called about 20 other groups together last week to protest the visit, said: "We are prepared for at least 1,000 to turn out."

In preparation for the proposed demonstration, 250 anti-Wallace signs were being hand-painted at a University of Toronto residence. Another 60 signs were being printed for the use of the Toronto Labor Committee on Human Rights.

Hunter Williams, the governor's administrative assistant, said Mr. Wallace will arrive some time tonight by air.

Pickets are scheduled to meet outside Maple Leaf Gardens when the Lions begin their opening meeting at 8 p.m. and will regroup again Thursday night when Mr. Wallace speaks.

SEEK FUNDS

During the governor's two-day visit, representatives of the Martin Luther King Fund will try to raise $15,000 from Lions delegates. Boxes and baskets will be passed around the Royal York Hotel and Maple Leaf Gardens to collect the money.

A newspaper advertisement explained the fund's stand on civil rights and asked that Torontonians and delegates contribute to the fund with proceeds going to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Freedom House Wrecked by Three Explosions

MCCOMB, Miss. (AP)—Three small explosions early today shook a civil rights organization's "freedom house," where 10 persons were sleeping.

A police officer said there was no fire, although fire department trucks were standing by.

The explosions occurred about 4 a.m. at the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee house in the southwestern Mississippi town.

A spokesman for SNCC's national headquarters at Greenwood, Miss., said Curtis Hays, 21 a McComb Negro SNCC staff worker, was cut about the face and body by debris from the explosions. The spokesman, Ed Rudd, said Hays was not seriously hurt.

Rudd also said he had been notified that Dennis Sweeney, 21, a white summer volunteer from Portland, Ore., had been fatally cut.

Rudd said most of the 10 people in the freedom house at the time were staff workers, but one was a representative of the National Council of Churches, Rev. Don McCord, a white minister from Stafford, Kan.

ation of Canadian troops that his department "has considered any possible eventuality that may occur there."

He indicated that any evacuation would be by air.

Mr. Martin said there is no doubt that the operations of the UN force have been rendered difficult by factors mentioned by Mr. Douglas.

These were: landing of Greek troops and arms in Cyprus; restraints placed on the UN by the Greek-Cypriote police; and speeches by Gen. George Grivas, leader of the 1955-59 terrorist campaign against the British who returned recently to Cyprus from Athens.

Mr. Douglas suggested that Canada tell the UN that violations of the March 4 Security Council resolutions will leave the UN no choice but to discipline the violators or withdraw from Cyprus.

BAR PHOTOGRAPHERS

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip came home from the Malawi Independence celebration Wednesday and paused at the airport for the usual photographs. Nine photographers were on hand, but not one raised a camera. The ministry of aviation had put them behind a security barrier 20 yards from the prince.

Doctor Will Appeal Life Suspension

TORONTO (CP)—One of two physicians reported facing a possible life suspension by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons said Tuesday night he would appeal "to make sure justice is done."

Reed Hunter, counsel for the college, announced the disciplinary committee of the college has recommended to the college council that the names of Dr. Robert K. Graham of Palmerston and Dr. George V. Roy of Toronto be struck permanently from the college register.

Before the ban could become effective, the full 15-man council would have to confirm it at its July 22 meeting. The doctors would then have 30 days to appeal and, if the appeals were rejected, would have another 30 days to appeal to the Ontario Appeal Court.

Dr. Roy said he is definitely going to appeal and Dr. Graham said he is waiting for advice from his lawyer.

Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner for Metro Toronto, recommended last fall that a charge of medical misconduct be laid against Dr. Roy after receiving a signed statement from Margaret Fower, March 16, 1962, nearly two months before her death from cancer. She said she had received treatment from Dr. Roy consisting of health food, injections of serum and treatment with some kind of electrical machine.

Dr. Graham was a key figure in an inquest last May into the death of a patient on whom he had conducted a gallstone operation.

The coroner's jury ruled that the death had resulted from two errors made by the surgeon, but that there was "no significant evidence of negligence in these serious and unfortunate errors."

The committee was also reported to have recommended three-month suspension for Dr. S. Z. Strulovici of Toronto for allegedly charging an insurance company for treatment to a jury holders which was not carried out.

Dr. Strulovici said he was technically guilty of a misdemeanor arising from a confusion of patients' names and would not appeal the suspension.

Members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment are among the select group of officers, warrant officers and senior non-commissioned officers from four militia groups taking specialized courses at Camp Niagara from July 5 to 11. Lt.-Col. W. D. H. Willcock, commanding officer of the regiment, discusses the day's training with members of his regiment. Left to right are WO 2 J. A Merrill, Communications, Port Hope; WO 2 R. K. TUESDAY, July 7, 1964

Transport Minister Pickersgill announced, in effect, that the railways have accepted a conciliation board wage deal for 100,000 workers.

External Affairs Minister Martin said Greek - Cypriot police restrained UN troops from observing landings of Greek troops.

Citizenship Minister Tremblay announced a $3,500,000 project to help Indian communities raise their living standards.

Opposition spokesmen applauded the proposal to pay $10 monthly allowances for youths 16 and 17 who remain at school or are disabled.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker protested, however, against the plan to let Quebec continue its own direct payments.

Creditiste Leader Caouette accused Mr. Diefenbaker of stirring up disunity and being against Quebec.

Cuban Officials Not Talking About Sugar

HAVANA (AP)—Sugar is a secret in Cuba. Officials are not talking, but there are unofficial estimates that the 1964 crop will be doing well if it equals last year's reported output of 3,800,000 tons.

Sugar is the basis of the Cuban economy. Like some of the rest of the island's agricultural production, it still is having trouble.

Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, boss of Communist-Cuba's agriculture, says it will be almost two years before he can overcome fundamental farm problems.

The secret stamp went on sugar production May 1 when Premier Fidel Castro declared:

"The imperialists are not going to know how much sugar we produce next year."

GIVES FIGURE

In his May Day speech Castro said Cuba had sold 3,900,000 tons of sugar this year. The Soviet Union is scheduled to get 1,600,000. To this requirement must be added local consumption needs estimated at around 400,000 tons.

In Bayamo, in the heart of the rich cattle region of Oriente province, an official at the former Nestle Milk Products plant said production of canned dried milk was down to 65,000 kilograms daily. The capacity of the nationalized plant is 190,000 tons daily.

Canadian butter and Chinese powdered milk were being mixed in the milk products packed in cans made of tinplate from the Soviet Union.

The official blamed low production mainly on the disastrous effects of Hurricane Flora which killed thousands of cattle in the province last year.

TORONTO (CP) — Funeral service for John Hales Mitchell, 62, a partner of the Toronto Stock Exchange firm of W. G. Mitchell and Company, will be held today. He died July 4 at his summer residence at Notiswassga Beach. Born and educated here, he joined the firm of his father, Lt.-Col. W. G. Mitchell, in 1924.

Hasty-Pees Represented At Niagara-on-Lake Camp

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE — Officers of forty-six militia units in the Eastern Ontario Command, representing four militia groups, are attending courses here in the largest attended militia camp in Canada. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is one of the units represented.

The 650 militiamen attending summer camp this year are a select group of officers, warrant officers and non-commissioned officers taking specialized courses in military skills.

Each unit is restricted to a representative group of approximately nine officers and twelve non-commissioned officers who will form a nucleus for the intensified training program expected to be carried out without the militia during the next year.

The Militia Commission report had been submitted and is expected to be made known shortly; it is known that the new militia role will re-emphasize basic military skills and the units' conventional role.

The aim of the camp will be to build a base of instructors among the various units for the re-organization that is scheduled to go into effect this fall. It has been emphasized that militia camps for all ranks will be held again next year.

The camp itself is being run by the Regular Army which is providing 170 instructors. Militia cooks in the kitchens are supervised by regular army cooks.

The courses are designed to review the knowledge that these militiamen have previously acquired and to bring them up to date on the latest information available to raise the general standard of training.

Senior officers are receiving a review on the principles of training and administration; junior officers and senior non-commissioned officers are attending courses on communication and methods of instruction; warrant officers and sergeants are taking a refresher course on drill and duties.

More than a ton of paper, 250,000 pieces of printed training information and latest instructions available will be handed out to the candidates, precluding the needor extensive notes.

After somewhat lartan living conditions, at prious militia camps, all the comforts of home—or nearly—are been provided this year. Two men share a bell tent with cones equipped with floobeards, electric lights, springjeds, sheets and pillow cases.

The tented city, discreet to the shores of the lagara River and Lake Ontio, offers many recreational fcilties for the militiamen on their free time.

Cancer: Is the Cure at Hand? New Optimism Among Specialists

A cure for cancer? Many scientists now no longer think the disease is "hopeless" and feel guardedly optimistic that a bright new day in cancer research is at hand. The following article, the first of three, describes the latest theories on what causes cancer and what is being done in U.S. laboratories to find a cure.

CANCER — The Wayward Gene (Part I)

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The keys to the control of cancer appear close to hand.

There's a new stir of optimism among cancer specialists. Even men speak hopefully of vaccines and pills to prevent or cure human cancers.

Present drugs sometimes cure a few types of cancers. Better surgical and radiation treatments are achieving cures or adding extra years of life against major forms of the disease. Cancer doctors are insisting, must no longer be considered inevitably hopeless.

All this is far from enough.

The new swell of hope results largely from hard-won scientific facts and insights.

A WAYWARD GENE

It is becoming clearer now that cancer really is a wayward gene, a basic control mechanism somehow gone awry—"like a really good boy who just refuses to study," in the words of Dr. Charles Huggins of the University of Chicago.

A better picture is emerging of what gene controls are, and how nature uses a directing code to govern the complex life of cells. In this search into the tiny, basic molecules of life lies the explanation of why and how some cells give up their usual ways to become free-growing cancer cells.

This path provides one unifying thread toward understanding the cruel heartbreak and grotesque of human cancer. The keys seem tantalizingly close, but there is long and hard and inspired work to be done before the ultimate victory.

And there's a human reason for optimism — the anger and determination of an army of scientists and physicians enlisted against cancer. Some lost members of their own families to cancer. Some work from the commitment of trained intelligence against the challenge of mystery.

"There is a great sense of urgency," says Dr. James T. Grace, Jr., assistant director of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y. "We must apply research knowledge as quickly as possible to human benefit."

A SON DIED

One of his sons died of leukemia.

Sitting at his desk one morning, dressed still in green surgical scrub clothes, Dr. Grace pointed to a motto on his wall:

"If wonder stops, versus unreasoned orthodoxy—scientific challenge."

It is his reminder, he explains, of the need for bold, imaginative thinking, for willingness to gamble on promising new concepts, to break away from entrenched viewpoints.

Not long ago it was heresy to think viruses cause some, or perhaps all, cancers. But no more.

VIRUS IS THE CAUSE?

A dozen or more research- ers, including Dr. Grace, have turned up powerful circumstantial evidence that a virus or viruses cause human leukemia, or blood cancer.

Apparent virus particles from the blood and bone marrow of leukemia patients have been photographed under the electron microscope, for example, some 30 viruses are known to cause a great variety of cancers in animals, and it just seems reasonable to suppose that viruses would behave the same way in man, too.

Conclusive proof that virtses actually cause human cancer is difficult to pin down.

But present knowledge about virus behavior fits neatly with the concept of cancer as a wayward gene. In simplest terms, this is the story:

Genes determine all inherited characteristics, such as eye color and shape of ears. They also tell living cells what to do, how to behave, whether to be skin or liver or stomach cells. They either control or are part of the machinery that also tells cells when to stop growing.

COMPOSED OF AN ACID

It is known that genes are composed of deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA for short, formed into long strands or strings. Many little sections along the strand are the separate genes. A human cell has at least 10,000 such genes.

Nature employs a code, of basically wonderful simplicity to inscribe all the information that each gene carries. This code uses essentially only four letters or chemical bases.

Somewhat as the Morse code can spell out any message just with dots and dashes so the arrangement and repetition of the four chemical letters can form specific words or instructions for life relayed by each gene.

Cancer is being viewed as essentially a change in the instructions encoded in one or more genes, or in the sequence in which they pass along their usual instructions. Some quality has been added or subtracted, or altered. Cancer thus represents a wayward gene.

Cells so affected just keep growing and dividing, doing little or none of their once normal duty.

CELLS INVADED

Where do viruses come in? Viruses are essentially just packets of genes. Invading a cell, some viruses commandeer its machinery, killing the cell, forcing manufacture of more viruses.

And some viruses can apparently sabotage cells in ingenious fashion, giving cells some of their vital genetic information, leaving a little interprint, so to speak, with the cell then continuing to live and reproduce inheritor ... carrying on, however, a mutant, destined to selling lemonade, a third sorts out potatoes in the vegetable section point. They are deserters. They have abandoned one of the most important causes—the fight for communism—agriculture."

NOT ENOUGH PEOPLE

Every year the same complaint goes up, that there are not enough people on the farms to operate them. Yet every big farm I have seen is monstrously overmanned.

Nearly 40 per cent of the population is engaged in agriculture, compared with seven or eight per cent in the United States.

The flight of the brighter young people from the farms tends to make improving farm techniques more difficult.

Khrushchev repeatedly has complained that as he travels around the country he sees great piles of chemical fertilizer lying railroad siding, while nobody bothers to put it on the land. Soviet peasant farmers rarely know how to use it, while trained agricultural technologists try to get white collar jobs in the cities.

Numbers of Western observers insist that the Soviet farm problem never will be solved under communism. First of all, the farmer doesn't own the land or the machinery he uses. And they are producing an astonishingly disproportionate share of the Soviet food supply.

REVENUE FROM PLOT

If the big collective farm where a family works happens to have a bad manager or a bad year, the only revenue the farm worker gets, may be what he can squeeze out of his tiny little plot.

He farms that with loving care, tending the one cow he is allowed, fattening his limited little herd of pigs and his pens of chickens.

Farm managers come screaming to the party meetings that if the farmers would devote half as much enthusiasm to the big collective farms as they do to their own little tracts, the big farms would succeed better. They don't.

Land in Russia Is Hungry For Care of Good Farmers, Machines and Fertilizers

In the second of a four-part series of articles, Preston Grover reports on Soviet agriculture as seen during five years as AP bureau chief in Moscow.

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—There is no much of real beauty in the Russian countryside that it baffles foreigners why it produces crops so badly—until they see how the farming is done.

The land is there for the care of good farmers, for the best machines, and the enriching chemicals used everywhere in the West.

Western farm experts believe that the Soviet planners, after years of an unexplained switching from one system to another, may have hit on the best program that their political system will allow.

That is the present plan which calls for intensive mass farming of the best lands, with full use of machinery, irrigation where possible, and scientific fertilization.

All that was decided upon last winter and spring. Implemented with apparent vigor, at least at the top. At the bottom, the level of the dirt farmer, lies the weakness.

MORE PLANTS

The new plan calls for building more fertilizer plants than the country has ever dreamed of until now—enough to increase production by 70,000,000-tons a year to 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 tons, and in the next seven years. These are big and complicated, however, and don't always come on time.

Part of the problem, one of the major factors, i. that there is a "brain drain" from the farms into the cities where life is better.

Here is a sample of what is happening, as reported in the Soviet official magazine for young people, Molodoi Kommunist:

In a letter, Marfeva Ivanovna Gorshkova of 3000souls region writes with bitterness that her daughter Svdokya did not want to remain in the village. On the collective farm there are not enough hands—we are up to our necks in work, and she is selling ice cream. She says this work is easier and more profitable. To think that her grandfather helped to establish the collective!"

"Unfortunately," the magazine continues, "we still have many people who are fond of an easy life, who are looking for jobs which are not dirty but honorable . . . because a manicurist, another is selling lemonade, a third sorts out potatoes in the vegetable section point. They are deserters. They have abandoned one of the most important causes—the fight for communism—agriculture."

NOT ENOUGH PEOPLE

Every year the same complaint goes up, that there are not enough people on the farms to operate them. Yet every big farm I have seen is monstrously overmanned.

Nearly 40 per cent of the population is engaged in agriculture, compared with seven or eight per cent in the United States.

The flight of the brighter young people from the farms tends to make improving farm techniques more difficult.

Khrushchev repeatedly has complained that as he travels around the country he sees great piles of chemical fertilizer lying railroad siding, while nobody bothers to put it on the land. Soviet peasant farmers rarely know how to use it, while trained agricultural technologists try to get white collar jobs in the cities.

Numbers of Western observers insist that the Soviet farm problem never will be solved under communism. First of all, the farmer doesn't own the land or the machinery he uses. And they are producing an astonishingly disproportionate share of the Soviet food supply.

Army Cadets Look Forward To Long Trip

PICTON (Staff) — The forty-two Royal Canadian Army Cadets assembled at Camp Picton prior to leaving for Jamaica and Barbados are receiving a well rounded refresher course. They have received medicals, suitable kit, and are receiving plenty of drill in the sunshine to prepare them for the warm climate activities they expect on arrival in the islands. They also are undergoing map reading and compass instruction, long route marches and practice on the assault course. Following these activities they will have practice with 22 and .303 rifles on the army ranges at Barriefield. The cadets to date look robust and hardy and are eager to arrive at their destination. In the islands they will instruct cadets there in Canadian methods and techniques. In their program they will travel for 10 days by vehicle and foot through what is called "cockpit country," this a mountainous jungle. Here they will set up camps and carry out their instruction techniques.

On this exchange program 30 cadets from Jamaica will be coming to Camps Picton and Upperwash and 30 cadets from Barbados will be taken to Camp Farnham, Que.

In order to qualify for the exchange visits the cadets from Canada must have obtained 67.5 per cent in the master cadet written examinations and 70 per cent or over in academic exams. Most important though the cadet must have been recommended by his high school principal as a well rounded youth both mentally and physically.

The cadets will leave July 9 from Uplands airport aboard a Yukon RCAF transport.

Capt. H. W. A. R. Soucie of Manse, Que., a member of the Van Doos Regiment, will accompany the cadets going to Barbados, while Capt. J. W. Martin, CD, of London, Ont., and St. John's, Newfoundland, will take charge of the cadets slated for Jamaica.

Above are two Army Cadets now training at Camp Picton preparatory to going to Jamaica on a cadet exchange program. Sighting compass is Ronald G. Robb, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Robb of Sudbury, while holding map is Graham S. Goode, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goode of Tweed.

Town's Mayor Has Busy Time

PICTON (Staff) — Picton's mayor, Harvey J. McFarland, has a busy itinerary these days. During the period from June 22 to July 1, the mayor represented town and county at more than half a dozen functions. On June 22 and 23 the mayor, his Reeve and Deputy Reeve attended the convention of mayors and reeves at Sudbury. On Thursday he was guest of the mayor of Hamilton. Friday and Saturday were spent in Ottawa at the regular meetings of the National Fitness Council of which Mr. McFarland is a member. The mayor was back in Picton as host for the official opening of the Prince Edward Yacht Club.

He and his wife left on Monday to be present at the official presentation by the city of Montreal of Sainte Helene and Notre Dame Islands to the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 World Exhibition.

On Wednesday evening the mayor attended the Legion's Dominion Day celebrations. Mileage covered during the week June 21 to 27 was estimated at 1,873 road miles and approximately one thousand air miles.

Council Rescinds Motion Passed On October 7

PICTON (Staff) — Monday evening at its July meeting Town Council rescinded its motion of October 7th prohibiting the extension of water mains outside the town. Deputy-Reeve Don Thompson in proposing the motion stated that the county has been granted an extension to its new barn on Lake Street. What applies in one instance must also apply in others.

Councillor Clapp expressed his opinion that rescinding the motion permits residents outside Picton to enjoy town facilities without paying the town taxes. He felt it was not good business until such time as the properties were incorporated into the town.

Deputy-Reeve Thompson said extensions still have to be approved and that such approvals make for annexation support.

A recorded vote showed an outcome of three to one in favor of rescinding the motion.

TWO RESIGNATIONS

Two resignations from the Central Prince Edward Planning Board were heard by Town Council Monday night. One was from the village of Bloomfield; the other was from the board chairman, Carl Reid, who is also the town's representative on the board. The vacationing chairman, Mr. Reid, wrote that it had been a great pleasure to serve the town through the planning board over the past several years but that continuance as chairman would only be an exercise in futility. He continued to say that it had become quite apparent that Planning Board objectives and even planning itself had limited support in the region.

Each council member expressed personal regret at Mr. Reid's decision and council deferred acceptance of it until after a committee meeting with Hallowell later this month. Bloomfield specified no reason for his withdrawal from the board.

Deputy-Reeve Thompson said the annexation plan though opposed by some is espoused by the town and felt Mr. Reid would be treasurer. It is known that four Hallowell residents within the last week have expressed the hope that this annexation will take place.

Cement Floor In Curling Rink To Cost $5,900

PICTON (Staff) — A tender of $5,900 by the McFarland Construction Co. for the laying of a polished top cement floor in Picton's new curling rink has been accepted. The project is to be mainly financed by the Agricultural Society with the assistance of government grants. The society in turn will have use of the curling club for the county fair. Used primarily for display space it will also be made available for large banquets and convention events, when the Ontario Homes for the Aged convention is held here in the first week of September. Prince Edward Agricultural Society and the curling club are working in close co-operation with the convention committee and the county council in laying the plans for a successful convention.

Lake Ontario Portland Cement has awarded the general contract for an estimated $6,000,000 expansion at the Picton plant to A. E. Rule Ltd. of Toronto. The expansion is scheduled for completion in mid 1965. A second expansion program worth an estimated $1,300,000 is expected to be initiated in 1967.

Speaker Won't Recognize the Opposition

Opposition Won't Even Recognize the Parliament!

By ROD CURRIE

BELFAST (CP)—"The Canadians can understand our setup, and so can the Australians," says Prime Minister Capt. Terence O'Neill. "In fact, it's only the English who are bewildered."

The 49-year-old premier was discussing the system of government in Northern Ireland, unique in the United Kingdom but basically the same as the federal - provincial relationship that exists in Canada.

But his faith in Canadian capacity for understanding may be a bit optimistic.

For instance, picture a situation in which the leader of the opposition isn't the leader of the opposition. In fact, he doesn't even recognize the authority of the House of Parliament. And the Speaker, in turn, doesn't recognize him.

And then there are four "university" MPs, for whom only university graduates vote.

This form of government, like many of the institutions in Ulster, grew out of the troubled history of the island that culminated in the violent clashes of the early 1900s between Roman Catholics of Celtic heritage who demanded independence from Britain and the mainly Protestant descendants of English and Scottish settlers who clung to the ties with the motherland.

PERSECUTED CATHOLICS

The impasse that developed between them was brewed in a history of bloodshed and famine, persecution of the Catholics, rebellion and finally the Easter uprising of 1916 in Dublin for which 15 leaders were executed by the British.

By the time London offered limited home rule, the chasm between the unionists and the home rulers ran so deep they could not be reconciled and compromise was impossible.

The proposal, eventually rejected by the south, was for separate parliaments in both Irelands on the lines of a provincial legislature in Canada, with defence, foreign affairs and some other matters still controlled from the British Parliament, to which both areas still would elect members.

Nevertheless, the six and the 26 counties were separated and the Northern Ireland parliament along these lines came into being in 1921. In the south, the friction between the moderate home rulers and those set on a complete breakaway for the whole of Ireland continued.

A year later Northern Ireland was defending itself against an armed intervention by extremists, supported by some people in the north, in which 232 were killed, including a member of the new parliament, nearly 1,000 were wounded and more than £3,000,000 worth of property was destroyed.

OFFERED CITIZENSHIP

In the south, although the moderates eventually prevailed, the campaign continued through the civil war, the granting of Dominion status in 1922, withdrawal from the Commonwealth in 1949 and the activities of the clandestine Irish Republican Army, an extremist group dedicated to compelling Ulster to unite with the south.

Although the IRA now has been outlawed and the fighting is over, the issues and sentiments remain dominant in Irish political life, fanned by a 1936 act of the Eire government relating to citizenship and including the whole of Ireland—a stand firmly repudiated by the Ulstermen.

Any political discussion today eventually throws up the national cliche: "Our problems are not political, they are religious." Two-thirds of the population of close to 1,500,000 is Protestant and in general they support the Unionist government while the Catholics support the Nationalist party still hoping for the unification of an independent Ireland.

The home of Northern Ireland's parliament is Stormont Castle, a beautiful Georgian building situated on a green hill outside Belfast and approached by a sweeping, mile-long driveway. There assembled are the 52-member Commons and 26-member Senate, both dominated by the Unionists who have 34 MPs and 20 senators. All 12 Ulster members at Westminster also are Unionists.

REJECTS AUTHORITY

Edward McAteer, newly elected leader of the opposition party and head of the nine-man group in the House, in the tradition of his predecessors, does not recognize the authority of the House and thus refused to act as official leader of the opposition.

Speaker Capt. Sir Norman Stronge, nephew of the Hon. Hewitt Bostock of British Columbia, one-time Speaker of the Canadian Senate, seems to enjoy his job despite all the headaches.

"I have to recognize someone," he says, "so what do I do?"

What he does is recognize Tom Boyd, leader of the four-man Labor group, even though Boyd sits on a back bench and is not accepted by the government. And no one collects the salary allowed for the opposition leader.

Another unique feature of the House is the four university members—MPs with no constituency in the usual sense who are elected by university graduates, an elite band who thus get two votes in a general election.

"The whole arrangement is terribly Irish," says J. S. F. Cooke, an English-educated barrister and clerk of Parliament. "Where else would you find a party that doesn't recognize that Parliament exists, but yet sits in it."

Tomorrow: Seven per cent are unemployed in North.

STRANGE PARLIAMENT — Capt. Terence O'Neill, prime minister of Northern Ireland, says Canadians, unlike the English, can understand his country's system of government. But the 49-year-old head of the strong Unionist party may be optimistic, as Northern Ireland's parliament has some typically-Irish oddities. For instance, the leader of the Opposition isn't the leader of the Opposition and doesn't recognize the authority of the house. In turn, the speaker doesn't recognize the leader of the opposition. RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"Well," said my American League video buddy as the junior circuit All-Star squad trotted out on the diamond for the last half of the ninth inning yesterday, "that, as the man said when he sewed his mother-in-law in her shroud, just about wraps it up."

He reached his feet, took the last fag in my pack of cigarets, borrowed taxi-fare home, patted my shoulder in gesture of sympathy and departed.

What he didn't know and what everyone watching didn't know at the time that the Nationals had a Giant in their washing machine who would set the stage for one of the most dramatic ninth-inning explosions ever witnessed in an all-star classic.

With the "Monster" Dick Radatz, of the Red Sox doing a superb fireman's job on the mound (he whiffed four of the first six Nations to face him), the American Leaguers ran confidently to their positions, satisfied their 4-3 lead would hold up.

The batting dynamite of the Nationals was coming to the plate. So what? Hadn't Willie Mays and the rest been subdued by the fine American League hurling and here was Radatz mowing 'em down with monotonous regularity?

Willie strode from the wings to front and centre, faced the Red Sox ace reliefer who promptly walked him and loosed the first sequence of the one-act drama that jolted the beer-cans from the clutches of the watching faithful.

The "Say-Hey" kid from L.A. put the fifty thousand Shea's stadium pewsters on seat edge when he streaked for second and slid in safely under catcher Elston Howard's bullet toss.

Then, whether in a moment of unwitting generosity, or an Alphonse-Gaston gesture, three American League pitchers let Cepeda's Texas leaguer plunk to the ground between them.

Willie tagged up and lit out for third. He rounded the hot corner as the throw whipped to the plate. It careened off Howard's glove, Mays galloped across the plate with the tying run, Cepeda reached second and browsy sales rocketed as the TV peekers raced for the kitchen frig.

Six pitches had changed the entire picture. The master strategists of the American League team went into action. Manager Sener Al Lopez huddled with Freddie Hutchinson and that old maestro of cunning, the wily Casey Stengel. The winning run was on second base.

"This is nothing new for Shea Stadium," I imagine Casey told the brain trust. "It happens almost every day with my Mets."

With powerful Hank Aaron second in line, it looked as though the trio was manufacturing a dangerous situation when they ordered Radatz to purposely walk Johnnie Edwards. But the strategy was apparent. They wanted the force at third.

But canny Walter Alston masterminding the senior circuit met them brain-for-brain.

He shuffled his pinch-hitting deck, passed up the aces, kings and selected a deuce which he hoped would run wild.

From the bottom of the pile he selected one Johnny Callison and the selection brought back memories that were not too pleasant for the L. A. Dodgers' mentor.

Hadn't this upstart from the Phillies beaten his Ebbet's Field transplants on two or three occasions by cracking out pinch-hit homers?

"This guy," mused Walter, "owes me something—and this is a helluva good time to start collecting. This could be it."

It was. The "Monster" flicked a side-arm waist high pitch to Callison. Johnny swung and with the crack of the bat, the boys in the back room started to pay off the National League backers.

100,000 tonalls came up for air. Twenty-five National League players swarmed out of the dugout for a collective bearhug of the galloping, grinning Callison, who had chased Cepeda and Edwards across the plate for the 7-4 victory.

Boxing Needs Commissioner

Rocky 'Hits' Cassius Clay

EDMONTON (CP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay has hurt boxing as much with his publicity-seeking antics as Sonny Liston has with his acknowledged criminal background, Rocky Marciano says.

Marciano, retired undefeated heavyweight champion, said in an interview Monday a commissioner with strong legislative support could control both fighters and prevent further stains on boxing's record.

The former champion, who registered 49 victories in his professional career, was in Edmonton to referee a wrestling match.

Marciano said he believed a commissioner appointed in the United States would receive world-wide support if he proved himself a strong leader.

"I'd take the job if it was offered to me," he said. "The game needs to be cleaned up."

Marciano said he is still interested in managing Canadian heavyweight champion George Chuvalo. A Toronto syndicate recently took over Chuvalo's ring career and Marciano said he is negotiating for membership in the group.

SPIKES RUMOR

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'll quit only if they fire me or if the team upstairs tells me," Cincinnati's manager Fred Hutchinson said Tuesday. "And my health is all right." The tall, stoop-shouldered pilot, battling cancer, used this statement to spike a rumor originating in Cincinnati that he would use the All-Star baseball game as a stage for announcing his resignation.

Nationals Snatch 7-4 Win In Ninth

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It took the National League 31 years to draw even with the American in All-Star warfare Tuesday and in the end it was an ex-American Leaguer who did it.

Wondrous Willie Mays, as usual, starred in the field and on the bases. Billy Williams and Ken Boyer smashed home runs. Jim Bunning and Juan Marichal pitched superbly. But the hero of the National's 7-4 triumph was Johnny Callison, who was not even voted to the team.

Callison, a personal pick by manager Walter Alston, came up in the bottom of the ninth inning with two out, two on and the score tied at 4-4. He walloped Dick Radatz's first pitch into the second deck over the right-field bullpen to square the all-star series at 17 victories apiece. The National has won 13, lost 5 and tied one of the last 19.

The 25-year-old Philadelphia Phillies outfielder, selected by Alston as the 28th man because of the National League's need for left-handed pinch hitting strength, had entered the game in the fifth inning, batting for Bunning.

"He beat us enough," said Alston, managing his sixth winning All-Star squad in nine attempts. "I figured he owed us something."

HIT 3 AGAINST BUMS

In a recent series at Los Angeles, Callison hit two home runs in two games against Alston's Dodgers.

Next to Radatz, the most dangerous man on the American League staff was Baltimore Al Lopez, who has yet to be on a winning All-Star squad. He lost four times as manager, twice as a player and three times as a coach.

"And to think that before the game I shook hands with Johnny and wished him luck," said Lopez.

It was Lopez, who traded Callison, then a 20-year-old Chicago White Sox hopeful, to the Phillies in the winter of 1959 for third-baseman Gene Freese.

"No, I don't regret it at all," said Al. "I was aware that Callison had great potential, but he was just a green kid then with a beautiful swing."

Callison said he hit a belt-high fast ball for the home run.

"This was the first time I had ever seen Radatz," he said.

"I was looking for the fast ball and he happened to throw it."

RADATZ EFFECTIVE

Radatz, Boston's brilliant relief pitcher, was invincible in the seventh and eighth innings when he struck out four of the six batters he faced.

The giant right-hander, who has been dubbed "The Monster" by opposing hitters, was nursing a 4-3 lead when Willie Mays opened the ninth by drawing a walk.

Willie promptly stole second. Orlando Cepeda singled to short right. Mays, holding up because he feared the ball might be caught, could go only as far as third.

Joe Pepitone, after retrieving the ball, fired to the plate. The ball skidded past the catcher to the screen and Willie slid scampering with the tying run. Cepeda took second.

Radatz disposed of Boyer on a pop-up, walked John Roseboro intentionally and fanned pinch-hitter Henry Aaron. Then came the fateful pitch to Callison.

Until the final pitch Radatz, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore Orioles and Rocky Colavito of Kansas City Athletics had been the heroes. Robinson, who also contributed a fine fielding play at third base, had put the American Leaguers back in the game in the sixth inning. With Chris Short of Philadelphia on the mound, Robinson tripled to drive in two runs and tie the score at 3-3.

Colavito, a last-hour replacement for the injured Al Kaline, doubled as a pinch hitter in the seventh, moving Elston Howard to third. Howard scored the lead run on Jim Fregosi's sacrifice fly.

The victory went to Marichal, fifth National pitcher, who hurled a scoreless ninth. Dan Drysdale, starting an All-Star game for the fourth time, allowed one run in three innings. Bunning, only pitcher ever to hurl for both Nagues in All-Star competition, turned in two runless innings. Short yielded two runs in one inning's work and Dick Farrell of Houston Colts yielded one run in two innings.

The Americans used four pitchers. Dean Chance, the starter, turned in the best performance, permitting only two hits and no runs in three innings. John Wyatt was rapped for the home runs by Williams and Boyer in the fourth and Camilo Pascual gave up a run in two innings before Radatz took over.

South Hastings Little League

The Carmel team wound up its part of the South Hastings "Little League" schedule with a 17-3 triumph over the Jets last night, compiling a perfect schedule record of ten wins in as many games.

Dave Holcroft was the winning moundsman while McMaster toed the rubber in a losing cause.

Rich Sheffield, with three, and Murray Whitmore, were the pick of the Carmel hitters.

Bob Jarrell and Twenty collected two hits apiece for the Jets.

'Was Just Lucky' Willie Got Jump And 'Just Went'

NEW YORK (AP)—He didn't get a hit. He missed diving bids for two drives in centre field. Yet there he was, the centre of attention in the victorious National League dressing room after Tuesday's All-Star game.

He was wondrous Willie Mays, here is everybody except Willie Mays.

"I'm no hero," said the phenomenal centre fielder of San Francisco Giants, embarrassed and uncomfortable under the glare of the spotlight.

It was Willie, alert, piratebold, rabbit-quick, who electrified 50,850 spectators at Shea Stadium. First man up in the ninth, he worked tough Dick Radatz of the Red Sox for a walk, stole second and then scampered home with the tying run when Orlando Cepeda dropped a fly into short right field.

"I tell you, I was just lucky," insisted Willie. "I got a good jump and I went. No, I didn't get a signal from Alston (manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers). He told me if I got on base, run."

Mays's sixth stolen base and his 16th run set All-Star records and his seventh putout tied one, but acknowledged that he was disappointed at not breaking another.

"If I'd got a hit, I'd have made that record 500," he said with a boyish petulance. He knew that he was tied with Stan Musial for the most hits, 30.

Bay Of Quinte Ladies Golf
"Operation Thursday"

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Upwards of forty city telephones are silent every Thursday from 9 a.m. until noon.

And almost that number of husbands know specifically what their spouses are doing during these hours.

The "almost" is because one or two or more of the ladies have no marital attachments.

Thursday mornings at least, is ladies' day at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

Inaugurated a year ago, the weekly gatherings of the feminine course clan, have mushroomed into unexpected success.

From a 1963 field of between 21 and 26 entries, the "pack" has burgeoned into approximately forty-golfers.

This, the "Two Bettys" Mesdames Walmsley and Weymark, in charge of "Operation Thursday" say, is due to increased interest of veteran and new members.

It is a "getting-to-know-you" golfing gesture, as 1963 ladies' division president Ena Corke put it.

Current president Mrs. Vera Fairman agrees.

While there is a definite social atmosphere about the Thursday morning golf get-together, the game takes precedence.

It is not giggle-and-gab golf. The ladies take their game seriously and regard the weekly passions as conditioners for tournament play.

They stick closely to the rules. Stamp at nine a.m. every Thursday the first threesome is ready to tee off.

Interest in "Operation Thursday" is such that the coming Thursday field is signed on the Sunday previous, according to the two "B.W.'s".

If not, the delinquent entries take advantage of the "Post Entries accepted" regulation.

Last week saw the first interruption in two years when the regular Thursday play was rained out.

Awards are given monthly with winners judged on a point basis.

The first winners of the 1963 season were announced yesterday.

Recipients of the June awards are: Betty Weymark 133 points; Joy Bowerman, 132; Betty Taylor, 128; Ena Corke, 118; Phil Dybie, 105; Barbara Graham, 100; Betty Walmsley, 100; Clare Haywood-Jones, 91.

Thursday's draw which follows is lighter than usual date. It is said, to last week's rainout. However the "Two Bettys" are confident that post-entries will make up the usual weekly quota.

Winner Paid Debt He Owed Alston

With One Swing

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "He's beat us enough. I figured he owed me something."

Walt Alston was laughing. His National Leaguers had just whipped the American League 7-4 in Tuesday's All-Star game, tying the lengthy series at 17 victories apiece with one tie.

The player he was talking about was Philadelphia's Johnny Callison, one of Alston's supplementary selections

Callison, who hit two homers in two games against Alston's Los Angeles Dodgers recently, capped the National League's decisive four-run rally in the last of the ninth with a three-run homer.

"Callison's a great all around player; that's one of the reasons I picked him," said Alston. "When, too, I wanted some more left-handed hitting. Besides, the way he's hit against us, he owned me one."

PAYS DEBT

Callison paid the debt with one swing on his first against Boston's Dick Radatz in the ninth.

"I was glad nobody said anything when I went up there," said Callison. "It might have scared me. Radatz is loaded fast, so I was just looking for the first pitch to come over."

The first pitch came over, and went over the right field fence.

"It was the first time I've ever seen Radatz," said the one-time American Leaguer. "The pitch I hit was inside—belt high."

Before Callison came up before the crowd of 50,850, Radatz had struck out five in 2 2-3 innings for a total of 15 in 4 2-3 innings in two consecutive All-Star games.

THREW LOW

"I threw him a low fast ball in the seventh inning," explained Radatz. "He hit the only ball in the outfield off me, and I thought I'd try him up high."

Callison's homer also beat his former boss, Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox who handled the American League team.

For Lopez, it was something special. He has been in seven All-Star games and in the losing dressing room afterward each time.

WASN'T PICKED

Callison was neither first nor second in the balloting for positions on the All-Star team. He and Smoky Burgess of Pittsburgh were the last two named on the squad. One swing and Callison was No. 1.

"I was very fortunate to be picked," he said, "and I didn't think I was going to do anything but pinch hit. I figured Alston would use Aaron."

Did he think he could hit a homer.

"I wasn't looking for one—just that first pitch over," he said. "But I hit a homer off Sandy Koufax—and I figure I can hit 'em off anybody."

So does Alston, who also knows Koufax.

Defeat Hotel Squads

Landscapers, Daubers Win

Barriage Landscapers took two extra innings to defeat Bet vedere Hotel 7-6 and Ter-Haar Daubers won their second game in as many nights over first-place opposition, downing City Hotel 9-3 in Commercial Softball last night.

Ter-Haar's five-run explosion in the bottom of the fifth provided the victory margin over City, establishing a 9-5 lead at that point. Six walks and a hit got the runs home.

Ron Pointer, and Don Holoway combined to pitch the win, scattering nine hits fanning one and walking five. Young, with relief help from Feaney, gave up eight hits for the losers, whiffing three and walking eight Bucky Ebbier rapped three singles and Hubert Pointer two to pace the Daubers. Doug Lucas clouted a third-inning homer while Westfall and Rutan also hit safely.

Doug Moreau had a big night in defeat, driving in four runs on a home run, double and two singles. F. Donovan had two singles. Doug Hall a double, Smith and Mullins one hit apiece.

Barriage blew a 5-0 lead before getting the win over Belvedere. A triple by Bill Cooney was followed by Tim Cook's long game-deciding hit, scored as a homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, with two away.

Joe Harvey was the winning pitcher, taking over from Gerry Genereaux in the third. They gave up five hits, struck out five and walked two. Junior Day followed nine hits in defeat, fanning one, and passing a pair.

Tim Cook grabbed Barriage hitting honors with his homer and a single. Don Wood doubled twice, Bill Cooney tripled, Rod Turner, Gord Duff, Joe Harvey and Garry Wood adding singles.

Jack Lucas hammered a double and single for Belvedere, Mike Ryan, J. Clapp and C. Perry notching the other hits.

Brockville Meet Joyces Here Tonight

Victory number eight, and perhaps a more comfortable position at the head of the league standings, will be Belleville Joyce Realty's targets for tonight when the Brockville Beavers come to town.

yet to play its best baseball, While the Joyce squad has especially in the fielding department, the club owns a record of seven wins and two defeats. While no official Eastern Ontario Senior League standing has been released, Joyces are thought to be either in or near first place. Ajax should be near the team in points.

Bill Lailord is expected to start the Belleville pitching tonight. The Beavers, leaders of the United States loop in which they also play, will be out to avenge two earlier defeats in Belleville and are expected to field their strongest lineup tonight.

Joyces have a second home game this week, against Carnifton, on Friday night.

Bob passmore are slated for the Fairgrounds, with 8.30 starting times, and the club is looking for good fan support at both encounters.

A preview exhibition game, between Belleville Merchants and Frankford, will precede tonight's game at the Fairgrounds. Game time is 6.15 p.m.

Snap 6-Game Loss String

Tradeaus Defeat Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Four-run bursts in the third and fifth innings enabled Trudeau Motors to snap their six-game losing streak last night, with a 9-5 decision over Trenton Commercial Printers at the CNRA Park.

The loss was Trenton's third in a row and left the club deadlocked for the B. and D. softball loop's top spot, with Ellis Juniors and Wood.

Trudeaus visit Trenton at Bay Shore Park tonight, at 8:15, in a return tilt.

It was a good night for the batters as Trenton took a 2-0 lead, in the third as they moved ahead once again 5-4 before the final Trudeau explosion. There were 21 hits, a number of the scratch variety, arguments, ejections and even some good ball.

Lou istead, Trenton coach, was put out of the park during a fifth-inning argument, and Don Cole also got the heave-ho in the sixth.

Winning pitcher doubled Cole home in the Trenton first while an error and Drake's hit made it 2-0 in the second. Faulkner made a tremendous running catch off Kennedy's low drive in the second.

In the bottom of the third, Green's scratch hit started the Trudeau rally. Two errors, back-to-back doubles by Faulkner and Plane and Zakos' single chased in four runs.

The Printers struck back on a walk, Maracle's hit, Simmons' sqeeze bunt, an error and Don Cole's fourth homer of the year for a trio in the fourth.

Base knocks by Locke, Wright and Plane, plus an error and a walk, got two across in the Trudeau fifth and McGuire singled home two more. A final run came on hits by Plane and Zakos in the seventh.

Bob Green pitched the victory, allowing 10 hits, whiffing three and walking six. Pat Maracle was the loser, tagged for 11 hits, fanning four and passing one.

Paul Zakos drove in three of the Trudeau runs with three singles and a bases-loaded walk. Ralph Plane rapped a double and two singles while other safeties went to Bert Faulkner, Dick Locke, Bill McGuire, Ab Wright and Green.

Al Beaugrand and Roger Drake collected two Trenton hits each and Don Cole belted his two-run homer. Gord Simmons and Leroy Wannamaker doubled, Will Kennedy, Maracle and Lee Boudreau singled.

Trenton: Simmons ss, D. Cole cf, Drake 1b, Wannamaker rf, Beaugrand 3b, Kennedy c, McAlpine lf, Maracle p, Boudreau 2b, Mitts ef.

Trudeau: Locke lf, Wright 3b, Faulkner cf, Plane ss, Zakos cf, Murray 4, McGuire 2b, Dugan 1b, Green p.

Bunning, Callison Help

Phils' Flag Stock Gets Boost

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the mid-summer break over, major league baseball resumes the serious business of pennant races today with two important questions to be answered.

Can Philadelphia Phillies go all the way in the National League, and is this one of those rare years that New York Yankees lose the pennant in the American?

Phillie pennant stock got a big boost in Tuesday's All-Star game with the three-run homer by Johnny Callison. It broke up the game and two almost innings by Jim (Perfect Game) Bunning for the NL stars.

That loyal legion of knock-the-Yankee fans also got a lift when New York's Joe Pepitone made a key error in the four-run NL ninth inning.

Gene Mauch's Phillies get back into action tonight at home against St. Louis Cardinals. Second-place San Francisco is at Chicago for a day doubleheader and Cincinnati plays at Pittsburgh at night. There are no games scheduled in the American League.

LEAD BY THREE

The Orioles, leading by three games over Chicago and New York in the AL, have got power hitting from Boog Powell and outstanding pitching from rookie Wally Bunker.

Bunker has pitched two one-hitters and Powell has 21 home runs, including a string of seven in a stretch of five days last month.

The White Sox have an outstanding record of 46 wins and 20 losses against eight other AL clubs but are 0-10 against New York. Yet Al Lopez's club has managed to bounce back every time it dropped a series to the Yankees and is three percentage points in front of the perennial champions.

Fourth-place Minnesota has displayed awesome power with Harmon Killebrew's 30 homers leading the show but is thin on pitching. The Twins are seven games off Baltimore's pace.

San Francisco, just 1½ games behind the Phillies in the NL, has Willie Mays and that alone makes up for any deficiencies Alvin Dark's club may show in other departments. The Say Hey Kid leads the league with 23 homers and is batting .339.

Wings Nip Leafs In Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Demeter proved Toronto Maple Leafs' downfall as Rochester Red Wings scored an 11th - inning come-from-behind 3-2 decision in International League action Tuesday night.

Demeter came to the plate with the Leafs leading 2-1 in the bottom of the ninth and clouted a solo homer off losing pitcher Marshall Bridges. Demeter followed his seventh homer of the season with a single in the 11th. A walk which preceded he single cashed the winning run on Jim Liggett's blooper.

In other league action, Syracuse Chiefs defeated Buffalo Bisons 5-3 and Jacksonville Suns edged Atlanta Crackers 1-0. A game between Columbus Jets and Richmond Virginians was rained out.

Dave Vineyard went the distance for the Wings, picking up his ninth win in 14 decisions with a five-hitter.

Five Chiefs doubled off Buffalo's pitching and only one of the two-baggers failed to figure in the scoring.

'The Lip' Faces Law Suit

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP)—A jury of six men and six women was selected Tuesday as trial began in a $150,000 alienation-of-affections suit against Los Angeles Dodgers' baseball coach Leo Durocher.

Rene A. Morin, 51, a bricklayer, charges in the suit that Durocher, 58, stole the love of his wife, Anna, 51.

Mrs. Morin and her daughter, Carolyn, 26, a brunette actress, sat together in the Addison County courtroom, filled with spectators.

Mrs. Morin and her four daughters, including Carolyn, have issued a formal denial of the allegations in the suit.

Durocher has said he knew the Morin family only through dating Carolyn.

British Open

Nicklaus 7-2 Favorite

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) Golden Boy Jack Nicklaus, who has won a million playing golf, set out today to prove something no one ever has done—beat the St. Andrews Old Course without knowing much about it.

The American went into the 1964 British Open Championship a 7-to-2 favorite after having played the 6,936-yard par 72 layout only once.

He shot a 71 Tuesday in wind and rain after doing seven holes the day before.

In the betting, the field of 120 was stretched out behind him, including the defending British Open king, Bob Charles of New Zealand.

Single rounds today and Thursday will reduce the field to the low 45 and ties for the 36-hole windup Friday.

The American challenge led by Nicklaus and Tony Lema spreadeagled the thinking in most quarters. British bookies, who will take almost any bet, were exceedingly wary about home-grown talent.

WOMAN FINED

TORONTO (CP) — Alice Knox, 30, of Toronto, told by Magistrate P. J. Boleby that bookmaking operations won't flourish hidden behind skirts, was fined $1,400 Monday. He reprimanded her for covering up for the profit makers—"the bosses . . . the rats." Mrs. Knox had admitted to police that she had been taking bets for six months and was earning $100 weekly.

Linebacker Quits Tiger Cats

HAMILTON (CP) — Another player has quit the training camp of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 1963 Grey Cup champions.

The latest to pull out is promising linebacker Allan Whittier, considered an almost sure bet to make the Eastern Football Conference club.

Coach Ralph Sazio said Tuesday the 225-pound import left because of an illness in his family.

Whittier became the third player to depart in the last four days. Halfback Jim Face, who came to Tiger-Cats last year from the National Football League New York Giants, decided to return home to California for a knee operation. Gene Faber, the former University of Maryland defensive linebacker, quit Sunday when he decided to return home to continue his education.

WEBSTER SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Alex Webster, the New York Giants 220-pound fullback who was out of action more than half of last season with a back injury, signed his contract Tuesday and will report Friday to the Giants' early training camp at Fairfield, Conn.

Earns Berth In Net Finals

HAMILTON (CP)—Ken Cheesman of Toronto, a veteran Australian and German player who started as Ontario Pro tennis championship unranked, Tuesday night earned a berth in the finals.

He defeated George Curuska of Toronto 6-2, 6-2 in semi-final action and Cheesman subdued Thomas Moore to take a doubles quarter-final.

Cheesman's finals opponent will be decided today in a game between top seeded Dick Rink of Hamilton and Roman Chrzanowski of Toronto.

Cheesman and Moore defeated Bryan Thomas and Julia Karo of Hamilton 6-0, 0-6, 12-10.

104 Tee Off Tomorrow

TORONTO (CP)—A field of 104 golfers will tee off Thursday in the first round of the 36-hole Ontario pro championship tournament featuring $4,000 in prize money and deciding eight low scorers for the Ontario-Quebec championship next month.

Moe Norman, last year's winner, Al Balding, Alvie Thompson and George Knudson all of Toronto, are expected to set the pace over the par-72 Bayview Country Club layout.

Norman carded a 138 here last year to edge Knudson by one stroke.

This year's interprovincial tournament is slated for Aug. 22, with the eight-member Quebec team to be decided in a separate tournament at Laval sur le Lac July 23-24. A total of $3,400 is at stake in the Ontario-Quebec event.

Balding, who missed one of the eight spots on the Ontario team last year, is expected to provide top competition in this week's tournament, which concludes Friday with the final 18 holes.

Norman and Knudson will play in Thursday's opening draw along with Frank Whibley of Kitchener. Whibley finished in a two-way tie for fifth last season.

Will Build Football Hall of Fame

HAMILTON (CP)—Construction of "sada's new Football Hall of Fame will start next spring on a six-acre site in Hamilton's east end, Mayor Vic Copps announced Tuesday.

He told a press conference the Royal Botanical Gardens board had agreed to lease the site on a 10-year renewable basis to the Hall of Fame committee.

The present building will be available to us until the end of the year. We hope to raise another $30,000 to go with the $75,-00o already collected by that time," the mayor said.

Present plans call for construction of a two-storey central tower with two surrounding wings.

ANNOUNCE TRANSFERS

SUDBURY (CP)—Jack Wice, a district engineer with the Ontario department of highways, has been transferred to Chatham after five years in the Sudbury area, effective July 15. Robert E. Dawson from Fort William will replace Mr. Wice.

TV Radio Column

Former Broadcaster Says Television Part of Her Life

After 30 years as a broadcaster, Mary Margaret McBride retired to her New Jersey home eight years ago. It has been a busy retirement: She has written two books, articles and for several years has conducted a radio show from her flying room. In the following column for vacationing Cyrukka Lowry she tells how TV has become an important part of her life.

Written for AP
By MARY M. McBRIDE

WEST SHOKAN, N.Y. (AP)—I like television. In fact, it's more than liking. Television has me hooked.

My allbi is that I live alone in the Catskills and, while live guests come and go, it would often be lonely without old friends and new who drop in on me from the air.

A while back, a magazine polled a few intellectuals and, for some reason, me. How many hours a week do you spend looking at television, the questionnaire asked. I conscientiously totalled up a typical seven days and answered truthfully: 40 hours.

The intellectuals mostly said they rarely turn on their sets, leaving them to the children and servants. Some boasted that they didn't even own television. This put me properly in my place among the lowest of lowbrows, and since I am always hoping to better myself, I earnestly tried to give up my vice.

By the end of the second week, I was back in my armchair playing a favorite game—supplying dialogue several jumps ahead of the authors for my sucker victims.

Nothing had changed and I was glad. For night after night, alone on my mountain top, I sit in on some fine entertainment. By way of my color set, I travel far places of earth and space in technicolor.

In the opening dash it was Bush Pilot, owned and driven by Orwell Morrissey of Charlottetown, at $16.00 and in the second it was Lieut. Dares at $5.20.

A healthy exacta of $103.80 was posted in the fourth race when Miss Atom won at $10.20 and Oral High came home second. A second exacta, in the seventh, paid $28.50 on a win for Coronation Derby at $7.50 and at second place Lyndey Anne.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Superior Richard raced up on the rail to win the featured eighth race before 8,588 fans Tuesday night at Greenwood Raceway.

The fast-stepping gelding rallied in the stretch to win by a head over Frisco Lee J., owned by Jacob Geisel of Walkerton, Ont.

Carman Hie was in the sulky behind Superior Richard, owned by his father, Clifford, of Cobourg, Ont.

Governor G., owned by D. Hackwell and J. Mellwain of Stratford, Ont., made it seven wins in 18 starts in the sixth race.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The daily double at the Western Fair Raceway was $46.20 Tuesday night when a pair of seven registered in the first and second races.

In the opening dash it was Bush Pilot, owned and driven by Orwell Morrissey of Charlottetown, at $16.00 and in the second it was Lieut. Dares at $5.20.

A healthy exacta of $103.80 was posted in the fourth race when Miss Atom won at $10.20 and Oral High came home second. A second exacta, in the seventh, paid $28.50 on a win for Coronation Derby at $7.50 and at second place Lyndey Anne.

Minor Baseball Results

Jaycees, down 4-0 at one time, scored six runs in the sixth and five in the seventh to defeat Sinex Shell 12-6 in a Peewee baseball game last night.

Darryl Demers was the winning pitcher, allowing ten hits. He fired third strikes past the side and walked six. Paul Wolfe was the loser, with Al Genereaux giving the last two-thirds of an inning. They gave up 10 hits, whiffed five and passed 11.

Dick Fobert poked a double and two singles to spearhead the Jaycee attack. R. Heard had one of each, Carl Yates and Paul Hall two singles apiece and Don Blankey one.

Brian Coughlin and Paul Wolfe got three hits each and Al Genereaux a pair for Sinex Shell. Gary McGillivary and George Salmon got the others.

In a Tyke tilt, DeMille Construction downed the Jaycee Pee Wee 8-3 on the strong pitching of D. Lang. Lang hurled a fine one-hitter. He struck out 7.

Robert Baker gave up four hits on the Jaycee mound, fanning six.

Dave Olaveson punched a pair of DeMille hits with R. Venuti and J. Forester getting the others.

Welch spoiled Lang's bid for a no-hitter with the lone Jaycee hit.

In a Bantam exhibition game, Belleville Ellis Printers downed Frankford 6-2 behind the one-hit hurling of Terry McTaggart.

Barry Burnette paced the Printers with a pair of hits.

May Place Age Limit On Golf Bantams

TORONTO (CP)—The 87-pearance of six-year-old Larry Longo in the qualifying round of the bantam section of the 42nd Ontario junior golf championship at nearby Port Credit Monday may result in an age limit for competitors.

Margaret Wilson, secretary of the Ontario Golf Association, said Tuesday:

"We had to do it in the parent and child tournament because we were afraid some parents would bring a child to play who was still in diapers.

Longo, the youngest ever to participate in the qualifying round, was barely out of diapers when he hit his first introduction to golf. At age 3, the youngster, who stands three feet 11 inches and weighs 80 pounds, was playing with plastic clubs.

His mother says he talks golf from breakfast to supper.

He failed to qualify in Monday's round, firing 148 in the first test on a long layout. His father acted as caddy and scorer.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — For the second time in less than a week, Kris Kris, the 3-year-old riding sensation at Woodbine, won four of the eight races on the program Tuesday.

Walah, from North Sydney, N.S., scored his third such feat of this season and the fourth of his career. His four victories Tuesday gave him a meet-leading total of 11, 3 more than runner-up Nick Shuk.

All four of Walsh's winners were speakers and it took a photo to decide the verdict in all cases.

Walsh came pounding through the stretch in the late stages of the 1-16-mile first race to nip King City with Jockey O'Glin. He won the second race with Fighting Fiona.

Queen's Birthday provided Walsh with a winning partner in the fifth, Roman Tuscan and Walsh won the final race.

AT THE PARK — Paula Prentiss, famed comedienne, plays Henry Orient's girl friend in Pan Arts' Deluxe Color-Panavision comedy "The World of Henry Orient," starring Britain's King of the Zanies, Peter Sellers. The United Artists release, produced by Jerome Hellman and directed by George Roy Hill, opens Wednesday at the air conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program "Boy Who Caught A Crook". Both features are first Belleville showings. A short subject in color featuring "The Beatles" will also be shown.

AT THE BELLE — Tomorrow — "Wild Bill" Hichock, "Calamity Jane" Canary and "Buffalo Bill" Cody are portrayed in Universal's color outdoor adventure, "The Raiders", by Robert Culp, Judi Meredith and James McMullan, just one of Two Features coming to the Belle on Thursday. The 2nd Feature is Walt Disney's "A Tiger Walks", a penetrating motion picture adventure in Technicolor.

Sport Snapshots

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mountaineers say the most exciting way to climb a mountain is to break your own trail. Simon Fraser University, climbing Burnaby Mountain, is now making new trails all over the place.

Chancellor Gordon Shrum, shrugging off a traditional attitude that downgrades athletics at Canadian universities, plans to give sport high priority when the new school opens next year on its suburban mountain site.

He wants the university to offer scholarships to outstanding athletes, assist them with extra tutoring if necessary and coach them under the best possible coaches in a first-class athletic department.

Dr. Shrum says this kind of program is essential if Canada is to keep promising athletes instead of losing them to well-coached, well - subsidized U.S. schools.

The chancellor, co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority and former dean of graduate studies at University of British Columbia, has a reputation for once having said:

"I have no confidence in 'outside help' for athletic scholarships."

TWO JOBS

Simon Fraser's athletic department will have two missions, one scientific and one applied.

The director of physical education will head a team responsible for what Dr. Shrum calls "the science of physical conditioning," for continuing research into the dynamics of sport and fitness programs.

The director of athletics will boss the university's coaches and put into practice programs developed by the researchers. He and his experts will enter the classroom only to teach the art of coaching.

They will spend most of their time on the playing fields, where it will be considered extremely important to win.

Dr. Shrum says he didn't even bother to read a debate on the subject of athletic scholarships which appeared recently in UBC's alumni magazine.

David Helliwell, a 1957 arts graduate and star of the rowing team, wrote that athletic scholarships produce athletic departments "whose members' jobs and careers depend on their department's financial solvency and its win-loss record."

REJECTS ARGUMENT

Dr. Shrum said he would reject the thesis about finances because university teams no longer make money for any sport. As for win-loss records, he thinks they are a good gauge of efficiency.

"Any coach is expected to establish standards to measure him by his results and by the attitude of his students. Students aren't going to turn out for athletics that aren't well coached."

Since Americans if good Canadian coaches aren't in sight, says Dr. Shrum. Offer athletes special academic help on the ground that university sport taxes them with special demands.

This will mean "a tutorial in the real sense of the term"—a classroom space at set hours daily in each subject staffed by a professor or a senior student to answer questions.

"The president and others agree with me that we must place more emphasis on tutorial classes."

The Handguns

Frank Allin scored a 268 to register top score at the Quinte Marksmen's regular shoot at the Rednerville outdoor range last night.

Other scores were: Louis Kuiscar 263, J. McCallum 261, Harry Hodgekinson 222, J. R. Reid 172 and Stu Hill 172.

The Quinte Marksmen will travel to Trenton this evening to compete against the Trenton team in a Dominion Marksmen shoot.

WILL OPEN MEETING

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson will give the opening address at the assembly of the Atlantic Treaty Association meeting in Ottawa Sept. 13-20, it was announced Tuesday. The prime minister is a former chairman of the association, a voluntary organization formed in 1953 to study and develop public understanding of NATO. The program will include speeches by experts in world affairs and a trip to North Bay.

Played 67 Tennis Sets

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP)—Lee Armstrong of Tulsa slept late today. There's a good reason—he played 67 sets of competitive tennis Tuesday.

Armstrong lost the first set of his match against Chris Doyles of Tulsa in the Indian Capitol open tennis tournament here.

He came back to win the match after a marathon 16-14 second game and a 6-3 finale.

But that exertion in 100-degree heat took its toll and Jack Hughes of Muskogee ousted Armstrong 6-2, 6-1 in the quarter-finals.

British Olympics Hope

Drinks Beer, Runs Barefoot

By GEOFFREY MILLER

LONDON (AP)—A beer-drinking scientist who runs in his bare feet is out to win the 5,000 metre gold medal at Tokyo, one of the toughest Olympic events of all.

Bruce Tulloh, reigning European 5,000-metre champion, is Britain's brightest long-distance hope for the Olympics.

At the Rome Olympics in 1960, British fans pinned their faith on Gordon Pirie. He ran the 5,000 and 10,000 metres, and failed in both.

Tulloh, 25, thinks his chances at Tokyo are better.

"It will be far cooler in Tokyo than it was in Rome four years ago," he said. "The climate will be more like the British climate we are used to.

"I didn't even qualify for the 5,000 metres in Rome. This time I intend to win it."

HE'S HAPPIER

"I run in my bare feet because I'm happier that way," he said.

But he trains in heavy army boots, slogging around the country lanes near Henley-on-Thames, where he lives.

Tulloh, an agricultural research scientist, drinks beer despite the criticism of track and field experts.

At the European games in Belgrade in September, 1962, Tulloh came from behind and won the 5,000 metres in 14:05.6, streaking ahead of Kazimir Zimny of Poland and Fyodr Bobinikov of Russia.

The barefoot Briton will probably get a rubber match with Canadian ace Bruce Kidd, with whom he has broken even in two meetings over the slightly shorter three-mile distance.

Tulloh beat Kidd by four yards in London in July, 1962, winning his race in 26:18.4 to the Toronto youngster's 13:17.

Murray Halberg of New Zealand beat them both in the British Empire Games three miles at Perth in November of the same year, winning in the much slower time of 13:34.2. Kidd, who had won a six-mile race the day before, was third in 13:36.4, just ahead of Tulloh who was timed in 13:37.4.

PAYS FINE

TORONTO (CP)—Minutes before the deadline Mrs. Dora Bilezir, 37, of Hamilton paid a $500 fine for cheating at bingo. Last Thursday Magistrate F. J. Bobby, who convicted her of cheating, gave Mrs. Bilezir until Monday to pay the fine or serve a four-month jail term.

Yank Lion To Become Canadian

COURTENAY, B.C. (CP)— Can you put a price on Canadian citizenship?

Yes, says Dick Fouts, today he can.

Fouts is an all-star defensive end for British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference.

A native of Salt Lake City who attended the University of Missouri, he will become eligible for Canadian citizenship July 15.

If the Lions will make it worth his while he intends to take advantage of that eligibility. By becoming a Canadian Fouts would give Lions a chance for another import.

In an interview at the Lions training camp here he said the advantages of his becoming a Canadian now are all for the club. He could still play in the team as an import.

"This is a game of commodities and I have something to sell—my ability to play football. If my value increases in my adopted country as a result of becoming a Canadian citizen, there is no politics attached to it at all. I've lived in Canada for eight years and the way I quit football I would think it the natural thing to do to become a citizen."

RELEASE FIGURES

SAIGON (Reuters) — Two-and-a-half years of fighting in South Viet Nam has cost the United States 152 men killed and 971 wounded, official figures issued Tuesday said. The figures showed another 96 Americans killed through means other than action against Viet Cong guerillas.

New Program for Indians Will Marshal Skills and Resources House Is Told

OTTAWA (CP)—A comprehensive self-help program of community development for Canada's 200,000 registered Indians was announced in the Commons Monday by Citizenship Minister Rene Tremblay. All four opposition parties welcomed it.

The first allocation is $3,351,000 for three years, Mr. Tremblay said. The program will marshal skills and resources of the Indians themselves, akin to the aid that Canada extends for underdeveloped nations.

Indian participation is essential, the minister said. So was provincial co-operation.

"Community development . . . implies acceptance of reserves as Indian communities," Mr. Tremblay told the Commons. "A community development effort will need to be sustained at least until the reserves which have the necessary potential are brought to approximate social and economic parity with neighboring non-Indian communities.

CAN BE RESETTLED

"Where no economic basis for the existence of a reserve can be found, the community development process can be employed equally effectively in resettling people in other areas."

Later he told a press conference that a recruiting campaign will start soon for about 60 skilled community development officers who will work through Indian aides.

It was too soon to say whether Canada could supply these specially - skilled people. Special courses were being set up by the Indian affairs branch to train personnel.

The minister said he hopes universities will establish courses to help meet the need.

Half the initial $3,351,000 allocation will go toward providing these officers, he added.

SETS TARGET

The target was to promote Indian initiative and self-sufficiency, reducing federal management of Indian affairs. The provinces had a key role to play and the benefits should include a lowered need for Indian welfare assistance. He said he sensed a new desire for more independence and self-reliance among younger Indians.

Canadian Indians, among the fastest-growing groups in the population, are expected to number 250,000 in 5 years. Of the present 200,000 registered as Indians, about 146,000 live on reservations, 30,000 on Crown land and 30,810 elsewhere.

The expectation was that the new concept of Indian community development would affect 130,000 directly and many others indirectly.

Three or four development projects would be inaugurated including one in the north of Sioux Lookout, Ont., and in the Kenora, Ont., area.

Mr. Tremblay said a federal-provincial conference on Indian affairs, shifted from an original May date to October, will discuss the scheme. But it was concerned mainly with the provinces providing as much health, welfare, education and other services as Indian bands as possible in return for federal compensation.
